Haiti Invasion Is Halted On Florida Keys Beach

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—One hundred Latin American and American commandos were arrested Monday night at a remote Florida Keys beach. One of the Latins said today the arrests stopped a vest-pocket invasion of Haiti.

However, one boatload of commandos got away before U.S. customs agents moved in, said Rolando Masferrer, a former Cuban senator.

"It's in international waters," he said, "It's free and clear. Nothing can be done about it."

He said he heavily armed men were aboard the ship. They were to have rendezvoused with two other boatloads of invaders in Haiti some time this week, he said.

With help from malcontents inside Haiti, Masferrer said he hoped to topple Haitian dictator Francois Duvalier within a week.

Thirty days later, he said, he would have an army capable of invading Cuba.

Masferrer organized an invasion of Haiti last month. It was reported to have fallen apart when Cuban exile military chiefs backed out.

He did not say what the boat that got away might do. He did not say when it left Florida for Haiti, but indicated it had not been long.

Customs agents broke into an oceanfront home at Cocoa Plum Beach, a remote section of Key Baca north of Marathon in the middle of the Florida Keys.

Masferrer said 15 men were about to board a 55-foot shrimp boat to head for Haiti.

The commando group dressed in a motley combination of U.S. Army fatigues, camouflage uniforms and hunting outfits—got belligerent when the agents put them under arrest. Some threatened to march into Marathon.

The show of force subdued the exiles. No shots were fired.

"When I got there about 11 o'clock," said one deputy, "they were lined up along the road waiting for the charter buses to take them to Miami and Key West."

Masferrer said he had an arsenal stashed away in the concrete block home. He said it included 100 M-1 rifles, 50 carbines, 10 automatic rifles, 15 30-calibre-guns, 10 50-calibre machine-guns, six 60-millimetre mortars, three 81 - millimetre mortars and 50 Belgian rifles.

"We were going to Haiti first, then to Cuba to liberate our country," said a Cuban in the group.

Members of the expedition said Americans as well as Cubans and Haitians from New York and Miami were included in their group.

Twenty-one were hauled to Key West. They milled around the Monroe County jail while customs officials processed them.

Masferrer said the United States was protecting Fidel Castro.

He said he had been planning the invasion for years, and a great deal of money was invested in men and arms.

Seven MiGs Downed

Phantoms Victorious Over Best Red Planes

SAIGON (AP)—"We outflew, outshot and outfought them," a U.S. Air Force wing commander said today after he and his men brought down seven Communist MiGs in the biggest air battle of the Vietnamese war.

The supersonic dogfights Sunday over the Red River delta northwest of Hanoi pitted U.S. F-4e Phantoms against the best planes in the Communist air force. The air force said not one of its planes was lost.

The wing commander is Col Robin Olds, 44, of Washington, D.C., a Second World War ace with 24½ kills, the husband of former movie star Ella Raines and the father of two daughters. It was his first aerial combat in Vietnam and he scored one of the day's first kills.

Olds flight accounted for three MiGs, and a flight led by Capt. John Stone, 29, of Coffeeville, Miss., knocked down three more. The seventh Communist jet was shot down by a third flight in Olds' wing.

Lt.-Gen. William Momyer, commander of the 7th Air Force, said the spectacular showing by his airmen was "the first pure fighter sweep of the war."

In the sweep that ranged over northern North Vietnam were 14 flights of Phantoms, with three to five planes per flight, and six flights of F-105 Thunderchiefs. They went in to suppress enemy ground fire and surface-to-air missiles.

Olds said three or four Phantom flights took on the MiGs. Both he and Stone declined to estimate how many MiGs the Communists sent up but both reported multiple sightings.

The battle severely denied North Vietnam's air power. Momyer said the pilots' reports indicated all seven of the enemy jets downed were MiG-17s, and he "believed they had 15" of this advanced type plane before the fight began. The older slower MiG-15s make up the bulk of North Vietnam's jet fighter force, which is estimated to number from 75 to 100 jets.

The dogfights "lasted no more than 12 to 14 minutes," Olds said, "but covered at least 30 miles of that sky."

The seven MiG kills brought to 24 the number of North Vietnamese jets shot down by U.S. pilots since June 17, 1965.

The U.S. has lost 451 planes over North Vietnam since Aug. 5, 1964—10 to Communist fighter pilots and the others to missiles or groundfire.

Arab Kingdoms Fight Terrorists

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Armed troops stood guard outside government buildings in Jordan today following 10 new bomb incidents in the capital of Amman, and reports reaching Beirut said a terrorist ring had been arrested in Saudi Arabia.

Bomb explosions in the two countries signalled increased terrorist activity against the regimes of Jordan's King Hussein and Saudi Arabia's King Faisal, the two moderate monarchs of the Arab world.

Reliable reports said a bomb rocked the government radio station in Amman last Friday, damaging a studio and cutting off transmissions for about five minutes.

Two other explosions damaged the radio station Wednesday, and demolition experts discovered seven more bombs planted inside the building on the outskirts of the capital, the reports said.

There were no casualties from any of the explosives, the reports added.

Jordanian soldiers were posted on government buildings following the blasts. Witnesses said everyone entering them was searched so thoroughly that even women's handbags were combed out for explosives.

There was no confirmation of reports from the Israeli side of Jerusalem that two explosions went off in the Jordanian sector of the city Sunday night.

Earlier reports from Jordan said the bomb blasts last Tuesday damaged the wall of the Soviet embassy in Amman and West Germany's Goethe Cultural Institute, and another bomb went off near the ministry of information.

In Saudi Arabia, unconfirmed reports said 33 members of a Yemeni terrorist ring were arrested following three bomb explosions in Riyadh, the capital. The ring presumably was working against Saudi support for the royalist forces in Yemen's suspended civil war, in which Egyptian troops support the republican regime.

The socialist regime in Syria and the Palestine liberation organization based in Cairo have called for the overthrow of King Hussein. They charge his regime has not fulfilled its commitments to a unified Arab military defence plan against Israel, and the organization demands that its troops be stationed in Jordan.

Hussein, with two-thirds of his population Palestinian, has refused to admit the organization for fear Palestinian feelings against Israel will get out of control.

Bells, Guns, Flames Greet Centennial

By GERARD McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A special year for Canada has been ushered in smoothly with pealing bells, thundering cannons, symbolic fires and exhortations to look to the future.

The immediate future does look fascinating as a year of celebrations marking the Centennial of Confederation gathers momentum.

Rilling westward to Victoria is the history-laden Confederation Train, dedicated Sunday in Ottawa by Mme. Georges P. Vanier, wife of the Governor-General.

The purple diesels and colorful display cars of the train begin a national tour Jan. 9 in the British Columbia capital.

Appropriately enough, it was the promise of a transcontinental railway that united B.C. with Canada in 1871.

The first of a dozen top companies begins a Centennial tour Thursday night when the Les Ballets Jolets take the stage in Fort William, Ont.

The spectacular Montreal folk troupe will perform in 65 cities in all provinces in its first national tour.

Like the symphonies, theatre companies and variety shows that follow, its travelling expenses are being paid by Ottawa.

This will allow extensive tours at low box office prices.

At least 15 new plays are being written and produced with the financial help of the federal centennial commission.

Perhaps the most intriguing is The Centennial Play, the work of top Canadian authors. It opens in Ottawa Jan. 11, the anniversary of the birth of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister.

Things really get going in the spring with the opening of Expo 67, the Canadian world's fair at Montreal that has attracted money than 70 exhibiting countries.

Ruby Dies of Cancer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, the slayer of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, died of cancer today at 10:30 a.m. CST (11:30 a.m. EST), hospital officials said.

Ruby died less than a month after he had been removed under guard from the Dallas County jail for what jail doctors had diagnosed as a severe cold. That was Dec. 9.

Later, it was announced that he was suffering from pneumonia, and then that he was a victim of widespread cancer that had eaten into his lymph glands, pancreas and lungs.

Harsh Facts Conflict With New Year Hopes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A tense world stepped with uncertainty into 1967 Sunday, its mood tempered by pleas for peace and the harsh realism of continuing conflict and despair in an age of plenty.

Global leaders spoke of peace and war.

More than 100 truce violations were reported during a 48-hour New Year's ceasefire in Vietnam, and U.S. Marines launched an attack in the middle of the truce to keep a 1,000-man enemy force from infiltrating American positions near Hue.

In Peking, the Chinese were promised unremitting pursuit of the cultural revolution which brought turmoil to the country in 1966.

Russia said that, while the U.S. and China had suffered defeats in 1966, the Soviet Union's peace - loving policy had changed conditions in Europe.

United Nations Secretary-General U Thant called on all parties in the Vietnam war to extend the New Year ceasefire, which ended at 6 p.m. EST Sunday. He also urged an unconditional halt in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam as a necessary prelude to peace talks.

The Berlin Wall stayed closed this year as it was, in a sense, a "stay-at-home" New Year's for many Berliners.

At London's Trafalgar Square, about 5,000 persons saw the New Year in with traditional revelry. Some youths, following custom, jumped into the ice-cold fountains.

Havana's vast Revolution Square saw 100,000 persons sit down to a New Year banquet of pork or chicken and in Tokyo about 600,000 of the city's 11,000,000 inhabitants made their traditional pilgrimage to the Meiji Shrine.

North Vietnam Rejects Talks

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam today rejected a British proposal for peace talks with the United States and South Vietnam, declaring the British purpose was to force the Vietnamese people to "accept the insolent terms put by the U.S. imperialists."

Both the United States and South Vietnam gave a favorable response to British Foreign Secretary George Brown's proposal last week that they join North Vietnam in peace talks on British soil. But North Vietnam's official newspaper Nhan Dan reiterated Communist terms for peace today and rapped Britain for suggesting a conference.

"Such a foul act on the part of the British government completely runs counter to the responsibility of Britain as a co-chairman of the Geneva conference on Vietnam," it said.

It Was A Gala Birthday Party

Highlighting the social activities of the New Year's Eve celebrations was the mass ball of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

About 80 people attended the ball at the Belleville Club on Pinnacle St., dancing to the music of Charlie Kammer and his orchestra and dining on the festive gourmet buffet prepared by Chef Herb Mueller.

All the area night spots reported capacity crowds at their holiday dances as did all armed service messes in the area.

The Quinte Twirlers square danced into the new year at Tobe's County Gardens in Rossmore, and they too enjoyed a buffet dinner.

A cruise around the city showed a large number of well - attended house parties and all lodge halls in the city were crowded with party goers.

At the armouries, it was a colorful scene. The blue and gold of regimental dress uniforms contrasted the elegance of milady's evening attire.

High-ranking military dignitaries were on hand with Mayor Jack Ellis combining with Lt.-Col. W. R. K. Willcocks to get the function under way.

On Monday morning Col. Willcocks held his annual levee in the officers' mess, greeting many military guests from Kingston, Picton and Trenton. With him was the second-in-command Major Alex Cunningham.

The regimental sergeants entertained out - of - town guests at their levee, many coming from Camp Picton, Canadian Armed Services, Trenton and regimental outposts.

Buffet lunches were served in both messes.

RSM Howard Kokesh and Staff Sergeant Scott were the hosts.

It's A Boy

This 5 lb. 3 oz. baby boy comes in for a long list of presents from downtown merchants for being the first New Year's baby in Belleville. The baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hebor, 12½ Everett Street, checked in at 11:49 a.m. Jan. 1, almost 12 hours after the New Year. Nursing trainee Mary Southwell admires the new baby held by its mother.

Parents Invited to Schools

During the next two weeks the parents of students in Belleville's four secondary schools will have an opportunity to learn at first hand how their children are progressing. Each school will hold "Open House" on two evenings to enable parents to meet the teachers and to discuss the successes and failures, problems and progress, of their sons and daughters.

Parents of students who have failed in one or more examinations of the fall term or whose fall term reports did not measure up to expectations are especially invited to take advantage of this opportunity to find solutions for the problems involved.

In order that teachers may meet as many parents as possible in the time allotted, the interviews will be necessarily brief. However, if longer discussion is deemed necessary, further consultation at a later date may be arranged.

At BCI & VS parents of students whose surnames begin with letters A to K are invited to be present on Wednesday evening, Jan. 4. Parents of other students may visit the school on Monday evening, Jan. 9.

Centennial Secondary School will welcome parents of students whose surnames begin with letters A to L on Wednesday evening, Jan. 4 and with other parents on Tuesday, Jan. 10.

All schools will be open at 7:00 p.m. on the dates indicated. Invitational letters outlining the specific procedures to be followed in the several schools are being sent to the parents.

Secondary School are scheduled to visit the school on Thursday evening, Jan. 5. Teachers of classes in Grades 9 and 10 at M.S.S. will be in their rooms on Tuesday evening, Jan. 10.

Teachers at Quinte Secondary School will meet with parents of students whose surnames begin with letters A to K on Wednesday evening, Jan. 4 and with other parents on Monday, Jan. 9.

Children [and Even Adults Ones] Find District Snow Slopes Inviting

With afternoon temperatures in the mid-thirties, and local skiing and tobogganing slopes in top condition, sports-minded residents of the Bay of Quinte district took to the open yesterday.

Good skiing was reported in the Oak Hills area and at Batawa as well as in Prince Edward county while tobogganers were out in force at Whalen's Winter Playgrounds in Ameliasburg township.

Available slopes in the city also had their quota of tobogganers and sleigh riders.

Following a Sunday night fall of soft snow, the entire Quinte area was turned into a winter wonderland Monday morning, with heavy wet snow clinging to trees and shrubbery.

Power tobogganers were out in force throughout the area. The ski-doos were active on the city's Zwicks Island Centennial Park and many were also seen darting about the fields and through the woods in Ameliasburg township.

For those without skis, sleds or tobogans, the weatherman co-operated and kindies had a big day rolling snowmen in the soft easy to pack snow.

Today there are many fine examples of snow sculpture in different parts of the city ranging all the way from eight-foot high snowmen to gigantic Peter Rabbits.

One of Quietest New Year's Marred by Monday Fatality

Belleville city police and provincial police report a total of 21 accidents in the Quinte district over the holiday weekend. Most of them were of a minor nature.

Nine of the accidents occurred in the city and all were minor. City police also report a low number of nuisance calls over the weekend and list it as one of the quietest New Years on record.

Provincial police report five accidents Saturday, three Sunday and four yesterday.

The most serious accident resulted in the death of Sharon Yvonne Woodcox, 20, of Belleville, when she was struck by a car driven by Harold K. Morton, 49, of Thomasburg on the Bay Bridge about 9 p.m. yesterday.

A car driven by Rose Marie Moore of 42 College St. W. was involved in the accident on Highway 2 East in front of the Highway Fruit Market. There was no damage to the Moore vehicle. The Rogers vehicle knocked down nine guard rails in the accident.

Provincial police also report a number of complaints from district farmers about hunters refusing to leave their property when asked to do so. There were three calls about one group of hunters from Toronto, but no arrests were made.

Belleville Girl Killed While Crossing Bridge

A 21-year-old Belleville girl became the Quinte district's first traffic victim of the year last night when she was struck and killed on the Bay Bridge.

She died instantly when hit by a station wagon driven by Harold K. Morton, 49, of Thomasburg, as she walked between bridges towards Rossmore about 9 p.m.

The Morton vehicle was proceeding north towards Belleville at the time of the accident. After striking the girl, the vehicle slammed into the end of the bridge, causing considerable damage to the front end.

The driver was taken to Belleville General Hospital for treatment of minor injuries and later released.

The impact jarred the Woodcox girl out of her boots. One red boot was found 40 feet from her body.

Miss Woodcox was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woodcox (nee Pearl Reeve) and was born at Tweed. For the past six years she had worked at the Bell Shirt Company in Belleville.

She is survived by her parents, a brother Robert, at home, and three sisters, Mrs. Raymond (Phyliis) Vance of Rossmore, Mrs. Carl (Linda) Suttle of Belleville, and Shirley Anne, at home.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon from the Thompson Funeral Chapel with interment in Elmwood Cemetery at Corbyville.

Canada Must Eliminate Poverty

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson says Canada still has pockets of "grinding poverty."

The prime minister, interviewed by broadcaster-journalist Charles Templeton, said destitution of the sort that exists "is sinful . . . in an affluent society."

"We've got to remove it. I don't mean remove it in terms where everybody will be equal in income and affluence, but . . . in the sense where there won't be this grinding poverty we talk about and which still exists."

Secret Agents To Be Arrested

MANILA (AP) — President Ferdinand Marcos has ordered the arrest of the Philippines' army of honorary secret agents.

Marcos, in a wide ranging shakeup of the country's police forces, ordered all unpaid "agents" arrested, their weapons seized, and criminal action started against them for "usurpation of authority, illegal possession of firearms and violations."

His directive was aimed at a vast army of so-called secret agents, appointed by mayors and other politicians, who act as armed bodyguards and "investigators" for various power groups. A recent congressional inquiry suggested there may be as armed bodyguards and "investigators" for various power

Forward Into 1967

The very terms "Centennial Year" and "Expo 67" suggests progress in Canada this year.

It has been progress all the way up to now — and no other country in the world has so much potential for continued success as Canada.

Education is the key to the future, and the creation of a University of Ontario, as foreseen by the recommendations of the Spinks Commission is eloquent of this.

But no progress can be made by servile acceptance of every project that is mooted along the path toward the larger goal of broader knowledge and more efficient methods of tuition, and ultimately toward the creation of a new generation of Canadians whose skills match the challenges of the time.

Already there is opposition to the composite university idea because it could mean the submerging of the status and esprit de corps of the individual establishments which would go into the making of a University of Ontario.

Merging of the 14 public universities in the province under an autonomous University of Ontario envisages long-range planning, graduate academic policy, budgets and campus development coming under a single overall authority.

The next decade in Canada is going to witness a revolution in educational ideas and methods. New concepts are being advanced all the time. New discoveries are being made in the sphere of space research and medicine. People are living longer and there is the enormous problem of expanding population, hunger, and the need to increase the world's food supply.

These all require study by persons who are abreast of current trends and also have the imagination to come up with solutions to problems as yet unsolved. Cancer, which has yielded many of its awesome secrets but by no means all, is one big enigma which might come closer to being solved completely in the years ahead.

In moving toward these goals Canada's educational system will play a vital role. And if, as is apparent at this time, such progress is marked by controversy, it is nonetheless heartening that the country continues to look to the future.

Individuality

Most of the great works of this world are conceived in the minds of individuals. The discovery of penicillin, by Alexander Fleming, and polio vaccine, by Dr. Salk, are examples.

In similar fashion are deeds of high adventure performed. Soon, long-time aviator and yachtsman Francis Chichester will set out from Australia around treacherous Cape Horn, bound for England. And there are plans, in the Centennial Year, two Quebeckers, Paul Comte, 48, and Armand Levasseur, 50, both of Valleyfield, will set out January 15 on a 6,750-mile trip through Canada's frigid north by snowmobile. They expect to reach Alaska in May.

Youth too must have its fling — if this space age gem can be so termed. It concerns high school students of Kettering Grammar School in England who have undertaken a secret Russian launching site. The students used a borrowed $75 radio set and made the discovery after feeding tracking details of Soviet satellites into a computer.

U.S. tracking experts believe the site, somewhere near the Arctic Circle in the area of Archangel, could be a development centre for anti-missile missiles.

Which makes sense of the recent observation by a Canadian educator that teachers — and by inference, students — should be "given their head."

The Simple Life

Here are some New Year thoughts for those who feel sometimes that things are getting on top of them. And that includes just about everyone, from young people studying for exams to businessmen and housewives.

Longfellow said: "In character, in manners, in style, in all things, the supreme excellence is simplicity."

And Thoreau, echoing these words in his classic philosophic work, Walden, observed: "Our life is frittered away by detail . . . Simplify, simplify."

That was the American writer's advice after living without luxuries in Waldens woods (in Massachusetts) for two years.

The greatest sin — fear; the best day — today; the best town — where you succeed; the best work — what you like; the best plan — work; the greatest mistake — giving up; the greatest burden of the Devil — war; the greatest thought — God; the greatest thing for one — love.

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — With the New Year, there can be heard the first faint rustling of what could be the turning of a new leaf in Quebec.

Through the last three or four years it often seemed the only message carried in the roar of impassioned oratory coming out of Montreal and Quebec City was "nobody here but us Separatists."

For while the core of sworn secessionists has been exceedingly small, it has been exceptionally hard and extremely vocal.

Quebec's political leaders, perhaps mistaking the rising Separatist noise for increasing public support, frequently seemed to echo the Canadian nationalist extremists, even at times give them a lead.

And through their sheer combined uproar they often appeared to intimidate the Federal Government into what seemed to smack of accommodation or even appeasement with the anti-Confederation pleaders of "Special" or even "Separate statism."

But recently things have been changing.

Other voices are being heard.

In the political, business and academic communities.

PAYING PENALTY

At last the Quebec Members of the Federal Cabinet and a growing number of French-Canadian MPs, after years of stunned silence, have been taking to the public platform to e m phasize again Confederation.

Even the fiery Creditiste Leader Real Caouette has joined the chorus, publicly blasting the Separatists as "saboteurs, not of Canada, but of Quebec herself."

In the French-Canadian academic world, the lead to p r o Confederationists is being given by Dr. Roger Gaudry, president of the University of Montreal, only recently a hive of Separatism, and by Jean-Paul Lefebvre director of adult education for the Montreal Catholic School Board.

Said Dr. Gaudry the other day:

"The heritage our ancest o r s bequeathed to us is not the City of Montreal, nor the Province of Quebec, but Canada the Nation.

"Let us therefore be proud to be Canadians. And let us look for similarities instead of differences, for common interests instead of personal conflicts."

Jean-Paul Lefebvre:

"The thin screech of the Separatists is damaging us all. We must not connect with extremists whose policies are directed to separating us from other Canadians."

The Quebec business and industrial community has b e e n blustest of all about the "damage" the small but loud band of Separatists is doing — to the provincial pocketbook where perhaps it hurts the most.

Joining the economic warning are the Chambre de Commerce de Quebec, Le Centre des Dirigeants d'Entreprise (the Centre of Business Leaders) and the Chambre de Commerce de Montreal.

STAGNATION

Publicly they have wondered whether some of the "extremist" viewpoints in Quebec — including, they suggest, union wage demands (like the 30 percent the longshoremen extorted from Ottawa by holding up the wheat exports) and, as they put it, "our political exploitation of past frustrations" — isn't producing "an unstable social climate and a fear that we may separate politically and economically?"

"Doesn't that explain," they ask, "the lack of confid e n c e shown in us by foreign and even Canadian investment?"

Then they pile statistics showing "a cut in investment resulting from a flight of capital."

What they warn could be a Quebec "plunge into economic stagnation," already is showing "early signs of starting — such signs as rising unemployment and soaring interest rates on bond issues.

"The big screech of the Separatists is damaging us all. We must not connect with extremists whose policies are directed to separating us from other Canadians."

Martin Luther was excommunicated by the Roman Catholic Church 446 years ago today—in 1521—and took refuge at a friend's castle. His desire to reform corruption in the church coincided, with a period of social and cultural unrest in Germany and his tracts were popular throughout the land. Within 10 years, the most important German princes and many of the people had adopted Protestantism — so named because they protested against an edict on preaching and the preservation of church weigh.

Emancipation of Women 1966–Style

Philadelphia Evening Bulletin

A movement gathers force and sweeps across the world. In the hurry and battle over issues and directions a full sense of its impact on the course of civilization is sometimes lost. Perhaps the wise and wily anthropologist, Dr. Margaret Mead, can supply this perspective for the family planning movement the other day. Speaking as usual to the 50th anniversary conference of population/

Planned Parenthood World Population.

As world movements go, conception control (Dr. Mead's phrase) is a youngster—hardly more than a decade old. But its implications for the female half of the world's populating age profound. All it once abundance of new conditions have emerged, simultaneously.

For the first time, the human race now sees that ancient fears about welfare it will die out, joining the carrier pigeon in extinction, are no longer relevant. Reproduction is assured by our enormous numbers. For the first time, the need is for fewer children rather than more. For the first time, on a popular scale, the means of birth control are at hand.

And, at the same time, the need for more educated and trained people—more adults per child, as Dr. Mead put it—has never been greater. This is the opportunity and the responsibility that women are now coming to share with men in their worldwide emancipation from the burdens of incessant childbearing.

The appeal of family planning has been pitched mostly on two levels: the family and its health and economic needs, and the nation and its ability to feed and care for its people. The responsibilities and opportunities for women that lie beyond next door are being overlooked, even in America where many middle-class women have been freed from unwanted pregnancies for some time now.

But they should be discussed and not just by women but by men and governments. The impact of this vast emancipation on the character and quality of human life is but dimly perceived.

Beliefs, Security, Esteem

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

And so begins my 22nd year of writing a daily column. What have I learned in all this time?

— That people believe what it pays them to believe, and hardly ever will accept an idea that jeopardizes his security or threatens his self-esteem.

— That people become more aware of social evils when they invent fundamentals, and that the amount of response is often in inverse ratio to the profundity of the issue.

— That negative feelings move us much more than positive feelings; we can read a dozen columns we enjoy and agree with, and not signify our approval; but one column we disagree with will evoke an angry letter to the author.

— That most people need enemies as much as they need friends; they can define only what they are for only in terms of what they are against; and this is perhaps the most dangerous tendency of the human animal.

— That the communications gap between generations has become wider and more nearly unbridgeable than the gap between languages or nations or ideologies.

— That intelligence in discourse consists, more than anything else, in understanding and accepting all the implications of one's beliefs; and that most people live intellectually in watertight compartments, believing one thing in one area, and some quite contradictory thing in another.

— That the influence of formal education in the schools is the most over-rated factor in our society, and the influence of informal education in the home is the most under-rated and least appreciated.

— That when we ask the young or the under-privileged to assume their responsibilities along with their e q u a l rights, we conveniently ignore the melancholy fact that they more mature and affluent of our society have failed shockingly to live up to their responsibilities, and have consequently almost exclusively on their rights and privileges, thus setting no kind of example for children.

— That people who are driven by their appetites perish by ignoring their appetites; and that only a few wise or lucky ones are able to sustain a creative tension between these opposites.

— That if I can learn as much in the next 22 years, I shall be a fairish chance of my turning into a human being before I die.

Medicine Chest Needs Replenishing Regularly

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Have you looked in your medicine chest lately?

It's a fair wager that half the stuff is useless and that you can't even remember what some of it was for.

I have been amused when asking a housewife if she has some simple medication at hand to see her paw through 15 or 20 or more bottles looking for it. Or perhaps amused isn't the right word.

Certain basic medications should be available. Aspirin in some form is a familiar standby. An anti-diarrhea mixture (usually containing bismuth) is handy. Possibly, if you will be conservative in using it, a small amount of paregoric is helpful in an emergency for relieving abdominal cramps.

Rubbing alcohol is useful, and makes a good antiseptic, but many folks want some other antiseptic solution, too. Iodine, being in an alcohol solution, evaporates and after a few months can be so strong as to be irritating, so buy it in small bottles and don't keep them too long. Or use one of the other antiseptics.

The same is true of hydrogen peroxide. It deteriorates and loses its strength.

A few glycerine suppositories can be helpful if constipation is a problem. Milk of magnesia is gentle in teasing along bowel action, and also helpful for occasional heartburn.

A hot water bottle can double as an ice bag if you fill it with crushed ice.

If the thermometer got broken the last time you used it, better get one now, instead of waiting until you need one in the middle of the night.

That's a minimal list, but most additions would be on the basis of individual needs: iron, antibiotics, sedatives, decongestants, anti-histamines, perhaps a digitalis, and others. (As to antibiotics, they lose potency sitting on the shelf, so if you have two or three left after an illness, throw them out.)

I don't have to say it — or do I? — that all medications, no matter how harmless, should be kept out of reach of children. Despite all the warnings, people still let children get at the aspirin, pills, baby pills, child medicinal pills and such, not to mention furniture polish, tobacco, nicotine, booze, lye and other poisons.

It's not a bad idea to make yourself observe a rule of turning on the light before taking anything from the medicine chest. Don't do it in the dark. You'll learn the hard way if you grab the nail polish instead of the aspirin bottle some night. But worse things can happen.

One more notion: If you take a heating device to bed with you, a hot water bag is safer than an electric pad, because hot water gradually cools. A pad, if set too high and kept on too long, could cause burns — temperatures of less than 120 degrees can do it.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is myeloma hereditary? — Mrs. F. F. N.

Sorry, but I cannot give a positive answer. The cause of myeloma is not known. Checking several medical references to find no statement contending causal hereditary. However, if there are reports of more than one case in a family.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard that cranberry juice is a good drink for those with kidney and bladder. Please answer. — E. W. P.

Where Is the "Real America?"

Christian Science Monitor

Americans are always deploring the fact that they don't get visitors from abroad fail to see "the real America." New York, Hollywood, Miami are wasting but any United States patriot will assure you they are not typical.

Now we have the wonderful chance to find out what makes a place "real America." A North Carolina tourist promotion that invites European countries this summer based its promotion on the claim that the Tar Heel state is truly American. As a sample of what it has to offer, the visitors were citing, and riding along with a member of the Cherokee tribe, Russell Walkingstick. Mr. Walkingstick, a graduate in fullbrihal regalia for interviews and receptions with tremendous effect. The mission proved to be no opportunity to tell the prospective European tourists that they come to North Carolina they would see not only more Indians but also canoeing, beaches, wooded mountains, and the spot where the Wright brothers made their first flight.

We find it hard to determine what qualifies an area to be called a part of "the real America." Is it a place where boys play softball of an evening and families walk in the park? Where people cook their dinners on a barbecue grill in the backyard? Where they still have church suppers, prepared by the ladies of the congregation who donate both time and ingredients? Where men come home and mow the lawn after the evening meal and paint the front porch steps on a Saturday morning? Where people of modest means get together and start a little theatre or an art museum? Where families go to church together on Sunday?

The real America may have some of all of these customs but there is one essential: It must be simple and friendly. We have a feeling that it can be found almost anywhere, even in the biggest cities. But visitors need to be helped to find it.

Guns Easy To Acquire

Victoria Times

It can be argued — and was in parliamentary debate — that persons of good character, possession and use of firearms will not prevent their illegal acquisition by criminals. At the same time, some action to keep on record the owners of guns might make them more difficult to trace. But apart from that, present regulations are apply at least in British Columbia, seem something less than desirable. In that province a person who is over 14 years of age can own a rifle if he has the price to buy it or has one given to him. He need prove no competency in its use nor submit to any examination at all and, to demonstrate an ability to acquire a gun, or to act responsibly with one. It's a wide-open field.

Algoma Mines Idle At Sault

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Only maintenance crews were still employed at Algoma Steel Corp. Monday as company and union negotiators prepared for the resumption of talks Wednesday aimed at settling a strike of 80 bricklayers.

The company laid off 1,000 men in three mills New Year's Eve, bringing the giant plant to a standstill for the first time since the strike began Dec. 17.

More than 7,000 men are out of work, including 700 at Algoma's ore operations in Wawa, 150 miles north of here.

Bricklayers want a 50-cent increase in the basic hourly rate of $3.28, plus a reduction in the weekend work. The company rejected the weekend pay request while offering a 30-cent more an hour over three years.

First Baby In Dispute

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada entered 1967 Sunday, with a dispute over who was the first baby born in Centennial Year.

Ottawa General Hospital says an eight-pound, eight-ounce boy born at the stroke of midnight to Mrs. Germaine Lacroix of Hull—is the first centennial baby.

But Ottawa Civic Hospital authorities countered with seven-pound, ten - ounce girl born two seconds after midnight.

Another strong contender is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jean-Guy Caron of Ste. Therese, Que., born in St. Eustache at one second after midnight. The baby weighed six pounds, 3½ ounces.

Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland insisted that a Newfoundland baby must be the first centennial baby because the province was the first part of Canada to reach midnight and 1967.

A daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Thrones of St. John's at 12:06 Newfoundland Standard Time was first reported in the province.

Canadian Stock Markets Enter '67 on Flock of IFS

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets are riding a wave of uncertainty into the new year.

A flock of ifs has the investor in a quandary. He's waiting to see whether tight money will confluse. He wants to know whether the economy will continue buoyant. He's worried about the effect of inflationary wage settlements on profits.

And since the New York Exchange determines to a great degree the direction of prices on Canadian markets, he's wondering whether the United States will be forced to raise taxes to pay for the Vietnam war.

A year ago most experts were optimistic that 1966 would be marked by record high stock prices. Instead, after a good opening month, the market went into a tailspin that sent some prices at Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver to the lowest levels in three years.

In Toronto, the average price of industrial stocks fell 22 per cent during the year. The only bright spot in Toronto was western oils. The same general condition prevailed in Montreal and Vancouver although the West Coast market was buoyed by record volumes resulting from mining speculation.

COULD RALLY

David Bryson, an analyst with J. H. Crang, a Toronto brokerage house, says:

"We enter 1967 in a better technical position for stock market rallies, but the problems of tight money and higher wages are still present, aggravated by the lack of U.S. investor participation in our industrial stock market."

John Van Luven, president of the Vancouver exchange, is more optimistic. He predicts a good year for Canadian markets, counting on higher stock prices because of the inflationary trends indicated by higher wage rates and prices.

A number of brokers say Canadian stocks are in a better position to respond to a rally because they are selling at only 15 times their earnings on the average while a number of the so-called high flyers at New York are more than 30 times.

Aside from international factors, there were domestic influences that affected Canadian prices in 1966. The rail strike was one. The government's opposition to steel price increases was another. A third was the December mini-budget with its tax increases.

LOW IN OCTOBER

Canada's prime market barometer—the Toronto industrial index—hit its high for the year in January when it reached 175.60. It began falling and reached its low point in October at 136.96. At year's end it was back up to 147.59 but that was still 29.97 points below the 1965 close.

International Nickel, the world's largest producer of nickel and the key stock in the Toronto industrial index, is a good example of how the market performed.

Inco touched a high of 108 in February and fell to a low of 79 in October. It started to recover following an announcement in November of an increase in the world price of primary nickel. At year's end it was around 94.

Most brokers say that although the market showed slight improvement in the final month of 1966, it was due to technical conditions rather than changes in the economy. there was no news to stimulate the market.

Western oils were the only major group to excite investors during 1966 and the oil index climbed to its highest level in nine years following fresh discoveries in the Rainbow and Zama Lake regions of northwestern Alberta.

The index was up 28.87 points for the year, ending up around 131.35 after touching its high of 133.84 in December. It has been estimated that the area contains about 2,000,000,000 barrels of oil and winter drilling activity is expected to reach an all-time peak, promising further market flurries.

Among the most active issues were Banff Oil which had a low of 7.75 and a high of 19¾, Canadian Superior 18⅝ and 32¾ and Dome Petroleum 13⅞ and 30¾.

Uranium held the limelight during the summer months as rumors of hefty sales abroad were flying about.

Denison Mines, which has the free world's largest known reserves of the metal, stood at 50¼ near the year end. It had a low of 35¾ and a high of 60. Rio Algom was 24¾. Its low was 18¾ and its high 27¾.

In Montreal, Brines grabbed the spotlight in early October after Quebec agreed to buy power from the controversial Churchill Falls site in Labrador.

Vancouver showed record volumes for the third consecutive year, highlighted by Cascade Mindemoya which traded more than 10,000,000 shares at prices ranging from 1.03 to 5.15.

At Toronto, the TSE index was down 17.16 to 141.52 and golds 4.84 to 150.21, while base metals edged up .40 to 84.81. Volume was 975,652,000 shares compared with 934,224,000 in 1965.

At Montreal, industrials were down 24.29 to 148.69, utilities 25.24 to 128.40, banks 18.72 to 168.45 and the composite 16.79 to 140.98. Volume was 270,000,000 shares compared with 377,000,000 last year.

Montreal Police Said Planning April Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—La Presse says 30 Montreal policemen have held a secret meeting to plan a general strike of the city's 2,300-man police force for midnight April 27, eve of the opening of the 1967 Montreal world's fair.

The newspaper says it learned that the formation of the 30-man "guiding nucleus" from an informant who took part in the evening Saturday night in suburban Laval.

Police were exasperated with the slow pace of contract talks with the city since their last contract expired Jan. 1, 1965. They were seeking higher wages, time-and-a-half for overtime and an enlargement of the force in time for Expo 67.

Last Dec. 29 the Montreal Policemen's Brotherhood held a general meeting at which members rejected the city's latest offer, terms of which were not made public.

Jean - Guy Menard, a brotherhood official, said today he is aware of any secret meeting but it is no secret that city police are fed up with their pay and working conditions.

Mr. Menard said a policeman who normally earns $3.06 an hour is paid $3.25 for each hour of overtime. He described this as a ridiculous situation, especially in view of the amount of overtime that would be necessary during Expo 67.

Gasoline to Go Up But When Not Known

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for Ontario service station operators says the price of gasoline will increase two-tenths of a cent per gallon at most stations as a result of the increased federal sales tax.

Kenneth Langdon, executive secretary of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Service Association, said Saturday the increase will be the same as that in the wholesale price to dealers.

Regular - grade gasoline at most stations in southern Ontario will cost 68.1 cents a gallon instead of 67.9 cents. Premium grade will be 81.1 instead of 80.9 cents.

Belleville agents of major gasoline companies had received no notice from their head offices of price increases at noon today. However, a local spokesman for British American Oil Company said he expected a telegram later this afternoon notifying him of the increase and its amount.

B-A Net Increase 10 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — British American Oil Co. Ltd.'s net earnings for 1966 will likely show a gain in line with the 10.8 per-cent increase reported in the first six months of the year, President Charles Hay said today.

Earnings for the six months ended June 30 were $19,239,000 or 88 cents a share, compared with $17,360,000 or 80 cents in the first half of 1965.

In a preliminary report to shareholders, Mr. Hay said consolidated net production of crude oil and natural gas liquids averaged 67,200 barrels a day in 1966, up more than five per cent from 1965. Net gas production was 270,000 million cubic feet daily—was about the same.

Spending on exploratory drilling was increased, although the number of wells drilled decreased to 53 from 80. The program resulted in three oil and seven gas discoveries.

"The trend of industry activity and discoveries from Rainbow through the Zama-Steen river area have further enhanced B-A's acreage," Mr. Hay said.

"Due to the proximity of these discoveries, there is every likelihood of production from B-A's land in the area."

Brewery Profit Declines Cent

TORONTO (CP) — Profits of the Toronto - based Canadian Breweries Ltd. for the six-month period ended Oct. 31, 1966, declined to $6,719,366 or 23.4 cents a share from $6,966,182 or 24 cents a share a year ea lier, the company said in an interim report.

Second-quarter profit was $3,029,474 or 10.5 cents a share compared with $3,274,433 or 12.7 cents a year ago.

Woman Washed Off Raft

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (Reuters) — A woman was washed overboard and lost at sea when a giant wave struck a balsa-wood raft attempting an anti-Kon - Tiki voyage across the Pacific, it was reported Monday.

The leader of the raft expedition, a 32-year-old language professor from Vancouver, B.C., Vital Alzar, radioed to shore here that high seas endangered the 46-by-26-foot raft Pacifics, which set out from the Galapagos Islands Dec. 25 for Polynesia.

Alzar said Pastora Lorz, an Ecuadorian woman accompanying six males, was washed overboard before the raft was blown from the starting place of San Cristobal, Galapagos.

The expedition leaders hoped to show the Huancavilca Indians from Ecuador and not Incas from Peru could have made the two trips and peopled the Pacific islands 2,000 years ago.

Happy Centennial!

And it will be a wonderful year for you—and for all of us.
Because it's Canada's Centennial year.
One hundred years of Confederation.
Of opportunity.
Of historic growth into a strong, important nation.
To celebrate, all kinds of exciting projects are beginning.
Today, for example,

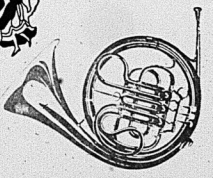
Let's have a wonderful year

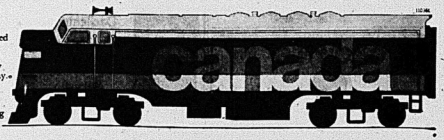
Festival Canada

Festival Canada is the largest entertainment package ever offered Canadians. Virtually all of our most important entertainers plus attractions from outside our country will travel to communities—large and small—to help celebrate Centennial. There will be something for everyone: western music, opera, ballet, comedies, musical shows, drama, variety shows, symphonies, and popular music. And you'll find tickets to all entertainment at unbelievably economical prices!



The most exciting train you've ever seen.

This is the train you've heard about. The one that will visit 63 cities, bringing Canada to Canadians right across the country. The Confederation Caravans are the Train's colourful and exciting counterpart and will visit 657 communities the Train won't reach. Why the Train and Caravans? To bring Canada to you. Whichever you visit, you'll see Canada as you've never seen it before. You literally re-live the growth of Canada. You walk through a primeval forest. You 'live' in the hold of an immigrant ship. You experience the hardships and adventures of our pioneer settlers. You're part of the creation of Confederation. Then, you see how the new leadership gave Canada the strength it needed to develop . . . expand . . . and to help other nations fight for peace and independence. And you suddenly discover the magnificently essential role Canada plays in the world today. The most exciting train in history. At this very moment, it is hurrying from Ottawa to Victoria, where on January 9th, it will begin its cross country journey to bring all this to you!

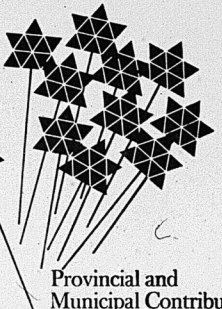


Youth Travel

Since 1964, thousands of young Canadians have been travelling across Canada under the Youth Travel program. Imagine how a group of youngsters must feel when they visit the Yukon. They see the old Klondike River Boats . . . go panning for gold . . . visit towns and cities rich in history and meet fellow Canadians whose way of life is much different from their own. By the end of the year, 40 thousand high school students will have participated in this exciting and enriching program.

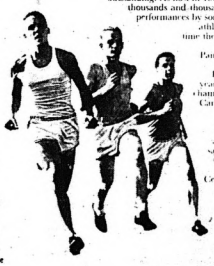
Centennial offers something for all of us.

And almost everyone in the country will participate in some Centennial celebration before the year is over. Already, the Community Improvement project has involved cities, towns, villages and farm areas from coast to coast in an ambitious clean-up and beautify campaign. Whatever your place of worship, in 1967, you will see a startling growth of unity among religious faiths across the country. To date, 32 faiths have joined the Inter-Faith program to foster a greater awareness across Canada of their common objectives and beliefs. The RCMP will stage special performances of their famous Musical Ride. Naval Reviews will be held on both the East and West coasts . . . we will see exciting exhibitions of Folk Art from the Ethnic groups in Canada . . . and, in thousands of schools across the country, children have taken part in Centennial Tree Planting Ceremonies.



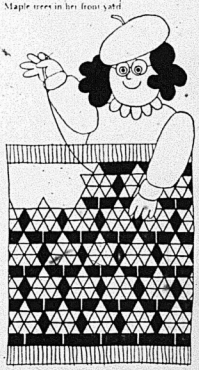
Pan-American Games

Of a variety of athletic events held throughout the year, the Pan American Games is certainly the most outstanding. As host in 1967, Winnipeg is expecting thousands and thousands of visitors to witness performances by some of the world's greatest athletes. This will be the best time these Games have ever been held in Canada. But the Pan Am Games are only one aspect of the Athletics Program. Throughout the year, numerous international championships will be held in Canada—including colourful events such as fencing, Commonwealth golf, water-skiing, ski-jumping, and figure skating. At the same time, about 6 million Canadian school children will be striving to earn Centennial Athletic Awards in games, competitions and events to be staged in every school in the country.



What's your neighbour doing?

You'd truly be amazed at how many Canadians have taken Centennial to themselves. Each in his or her own way has contributed to the 100th anniversary of Confederation with their own individual project—from the lady who hooked a bright and colourful Centennial rug to the little 12-year old who planted two Maple trees in her front yard.



Provincial and Municipal Contributions

Every province in Canada has made outstanding contributions for 1967—and the future. In municipalities right across Canada, parks, recreation centres, new libraries, auditoriums, laboratories, medical buildings, arenas, art centres, and hundreds of other projects will carry out the meaning of Centennial—both now and for years to come.

Industrial Projects

Industries in Canada have poured millions of dollars into exciting and stimulating Centennial projects of their own. Every one is based on the meaning of Canada's history, her future, and on the hope of furthering unity among Canadians everywhere.

Military Tattoo

This will be a spectacular show performed by two companies, each with 350 men from the Canadian Armed Forces and will visit 40 communities throughout the year. Here in one magnificently colourful and exciting show are 300 years of military history. The costumes, manoeuvres and music will recreate the pageantry, ceremony and historical events from the past three centuries. In cities with arenas large enough, two companies will combine and, with local troops, put on a performance of up to 1,700 men!

See it.

Voyageur Canoe Pageant

To recapture the colour and excitement of Canada's past, a 100-day Canoe Pageant will be staged. The Voyageur Canoes will retrace the treacherous routes of the Voyageurs from Rocky Mountain House to Montreal, a water distance of over 3,500 miles! The Pageant will operate in such a way that a variety of Centennial celebrations will take place along the way. Historic, colourful and exciting.

The Celebration Begins

These are some of the magnificent Centennial celebrations and projects going on right now and coming in the future. While those on the Federal, Provincial and Municipal levels are exciting and stimulating, more important are the projects developed by private groups and individual Canadians like yourself. This is direct participation in Centennial. And, at the end of 1967, it is this kind of participation that can help you and every living Canadian to realize one very solid truth: "Canada is a great country. And I'm proud to be a Canadian."

Expo '67

One of the most outstanding projects for Centennial year is Expo, the first official world exhibition ever held in the Americas. Over 70 nations are participating, featuring hundreds of spectacular examples of their achievements, their way of life, their finest cuisine and their entertainment for us to enjoy. Ten million people are expected to see the spectacle of "Man and His World."

Antique Glass Collecting Cabinet Minister's Hobby

TORONTO (CP) — Whenever Ontario's minister of citizenship goes out of town for a speaking engagement, he invariably sets aside 10 minutes for a quick look in local antique shops.

John Yaremko doesn't need much more time. His expert eye can spot a piece of antique glass in a second. And chances are he'll know more about its origin than the shopkeeper.

"He's an astonishing collector with a very astute mind," says Gerald Stevens, a research associate with the Canadiana department of the Royal Ontario Museum.

"He will examine a piece of glass and surmise from his knowledge of Canadiana that it might relate to this or that.

"In my opinion he has the largest collection of Canadian pressed glass in Canada. It's a very select collection and represents the majority of patterns known at the present time."

Mr. Yaremko, who is also provincial secretary in the Progressive Conservative government, started his hobby 10 years ago and now has several hundred pieces.

"At the time we were redecorating our home with Canadiana furniture and paintings, I did a fair amount of research on antiques and when I was reading about early American glass the thought struck me that there must be some pieces about of Canadian vintage."

MAPLE LEAF PATTERNS

A short time later Mrs. Yaremko came home from an auction with a pitcher decorated with maple leaves and the Yaremko pressed glass collection got its start.

The Yaremkos now have a great variety of pieces with the maple leaf motif, and research by Mr. Stevens has traced this pattern to two Ontario factories—Sydenham Glass Co., Wallaceburg, and Jefferson Co., Toronto.

Many of Mr. Yaremko's favorites are in the Pillar pattern produced by the Lamont Glass Co., Trenton, N.S., from 1850 to 1902.

"Anything with a maple leaf or beaver design is almost certain to be Canadiana," Mr. Yaremko told a reporter. "This goblet has both designs on it plus an inscription around the base reading, St. Jean Baptiste, Quebec, 24 Juin, 1890. It's the hope of every collector to have one of these."

The piece he considers his rarest and most valuable is a small paperweight bearing the name, Sydenham Glass Co., across the front. "It's valuable ing. Someone must have been very proud of it."

He found the paperweight in an antique shop in Chatham, Ont. The majority of his pieces were turned up in Quebec, Ontario and the Maritimes.

Mrs. Yaremko's favorite is a Bayed Heart butter dish, also considered rare. She found it herself at a church antique show in Kingston, Ont.

Mrs. Yaremko is in charge of cataloguing the glass and keeping track of where the pieces are stored. Asked if she had ever broken a piece, she said, "Never."

"The only time I broke a piece was in an antique shop," Mr. Yaremko says. "I wasn't interested in it anyway, but it cost me $7."

Antique Glass Collector

John Yaremko, Ontario's citizenship minister, is an avid antique glass collector who has one of the largest collections of Canadian pressed glass. Whenever he is away from Toronto, he sets aside a few minutes for a check of local antique stores.

Will Weave Centennial Tartan in NB

FREDERICTON (CP) — The New Brunswick capital will be one of at least two Canadian cities where Canada's official centennial tartan will be woven.

The tartan, designed especially to honor the 100th anniversary of Confederation and recently proclaimed official by the federal centennial commission, will be produced in workshops employing handicapped persons here and in Edmonton.

Edith Dalton and Adelaine Hashie, both of Fredericton and employees of Provincial Artisans Inc., were the first persons in Canada to begin the weaving. Work was delayed at the Edmonton firm because the necessary wools were unavailable.

The tartan, primarily blue and green squares—representing the earth and sky—divided by narrow strips of red and yellow and white and black, is being woven from yarns produced at nearby York Mills.

Dr. Ivan Crowell, director of the provincial industry department's handicrafts branch, says the tartan will be available to the consumer in skirt lengths and will also be manufactured into skirts, full-length dresses and jumpers, topcoats and sports jackets.

Many Requests for Instruction In Crafts Related to Centennial

TORONTO (CP) — It used to be that when a girl made a sampler, she was simply compiling a dictionary of stitches.

Beginning as a little girl just starting needlework, she did samples on a piece of material of each kind of stitch as she learned it.

Only later did the sampler take on designs and lettering, says Eleanor Flint, supervisor of crafts for the home economics branch of the Ontario agriculture department.

Miss Flint's office has had an increasing number of requests for instructions on how to make samplers and other such old crafts as rug and quilt-making. She attributes the interest to Centennial Year.

She reports an appalling lack of source material on such skills. She has taught a three - day course on the making of samplers and compiled a notebook that is sometimes loaned to interested groups.

Miss Flint earnestly recommends simplicity in planning a design for a sampler.

"You must have a theme, then build your sampler around that theme, and don't try to do too much. Eliminate anything that isn't actually relevant. Some people want to put everything into one piece of material.

"Remember, the background is as much a part of the samplers as what you put on it. This isn't like another point where you fill in the background as well as the pattern."

Design your pattern roughly first, then carefully in detail.

You can use quad paper, ruled in quarter-inch squares, that will correspond to the weave in your material.

Miss Flint says various materials can be used. Any even weave material is suitable, and a basket weave type of wide strands is best.

"You may use any embroidery cotton. We usually use a three-strand. Remember any piece of needlecraft should be as neat on the back as on the front. The threads in a cross stitch should go in the same direction on the back."

SPIT ON THREAD

You can use a sampler. Miss Flint recommends working from the centre of the bottom out. Then you are working from the known to the unknown. Trust is when you count squares that should be left untouched between bits of pattern, you are only counting two or three squares, from one patterned area to another, not 20 squares from an edge, oh.

Miss Flint notes that in any needlecraft magazine there are silk kits, the kits are usually advertised as having authentic faded colors.

"Garish colors don't go on a sampler. You can soften colors by mixing threads. A lighter green or yellow will soften a bright, dark green.

"As for the actual working stitch, anyone who can read should be able to do it. Don't be discouraged. You can take threads out. I think the criterion of a good embroiderer is not what she puts in, it's what she takes out because she's not satisfied.

"When they're done, I always advocate that samplers go under glass. Even though they are supposed to be sun fast, keep them out of bright glare. Remember, it's a delicate piece of work."

Ready-to-wear Fashion Preview To Be Staged in Montreal

MONTREAL — The Centennial year edition of Canada's only comprehensive ready-to-wear fashion preview, the National Collection, will be staged in Montreal Feb. 9, it has been announced.

"There is every indication it will be the major fashion event in Canada during 1967," said Bernard Shane, vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, sponsors of the show.

The National Collection is the showcase for fashions created by leading Canadian fashion houses in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver. These designers sew in the ILGWU's Union Label as a symbol of quality, design, manufacturing and decent labor standards.

For the first time in the five-year-old history of the National Collection, only exclusive creations with a "made-in-Canada" flavor will appear in the show. The 'round-the-calendar presentation will include fashions for autumn and winter, 1967, as well as spring and summer creations.

More than 100 Canadian manufacturers and designers are expected to create styles for the four-season showing. In all, some 500 fashion houses across Canada are eligible to use the Union Label.

As usual, attendance at the Feb. 9 presentation will be restricted to fashion writers. Following the morning and afternoon presentations at the new Chateau Champlain, they will select a total of 23 fashions for Critics' and Merit Awards.

The awards will be presented to winning designers at a dinner evening at a gala ceremony in Montreal's great concert hall at the Place des Arts. The black tie awards ceremony will be staged as a benefit.

"It is a challenging undertaking," Mr. Shane stated, "but we feel the Canadian fashion industry is equal to the task."

Co-ordinator of the National Collection will be Jennifer Lindsay, noted fashion authority.

The ILGWU presents the National Collection showings to stimulate interest in Canadian-made fashions produced by its 25,000 members across Canada.

Vetoes Rock and Roll Band At Wedding Reception

Dear Doris: I am to be married in January and my girl's parents are paying for the wedding. They want an organ player to play at the reception. But my girl and I would like a band. This band consists of 16-year-old young men, but they play well. I am paying for the band.

Her mother does not want the band. She says it's her show. What can I do? — Groom-to-Be

Dear Groom-To-Be: It is her show — and her daughter's. Usually such details as music and guests are settled in consultation; but there has to be some give and take on both sides.

Why not suggest that the organist play through the dinner? Then later, if the young folk want to stay on and dance a while, have the band for that part.

A wedding is a family occasion, more than a young people's party. Only when you start marrying off your own will you see just how important it is to make it a dignified time - to - remember for everybody.

Dear Doris: We can all learn a lesson from the poem about monkeys, which someone requested. I've made a copy for you. — Vera

Dear Vera: Thank you. I marvel constantly at the generous kindliness of the many readers right across Canada who take the trouble to copy out and send in a requested bit of poetry. "A Monkey's Viewpoint" — about 150 copies of it — is now here on my desk. Titles are variously: "Darwin's Mistake," "Man's Pedigree", "Evolution?", and others.

I can supply copies for the usual 10 cents and a stamped envelope. And there is room for a few lines here, just to give you the idea:

"That man descended from our noble race,
The very idea's a great disgrace!
No monkey ever left his wife,
Starved her babies or ruined her life!"
— And so on. It seems monks don't steal, get drunk, kill people, act miserly. Truly a superior race!

Dear Doris: To settle an argument, what on earth is a fink, 1967 style? — Paw

Dear Paw: Dictionary or teen talk? Or underworld slang?

In labor circles, a fink is a strikebreaker. With the toughies, it is a squealer. With the teens it's an insult handed out to just about anybody who doesn't rate.

What's troubling you? Putting it on paper to Doris is the first step towards solving your problem.

Susanna's Family Fare

Gift Cheers Hospitalized Child

Dear Susanna: Quite accidentally, I learned something of great value about visiting children in the hospital.

When I went to see my little granddaughter after her operation I was so overcome at just being with her for a short while and finding out all I could about the way she was feeling, that I forgot to give her the present I had in my knitting bag until the nurse was asking me to leave.

What a blessing it was. Her sadness at my departure gave way to a tiny half-smile as she contemplated opening her gift.

She gave a gentle wave to me as I went out the door, all the time working away with her other hand at the ribbon around the package. — Grandma

Sure, and a tear is in order, Grandma, at such a beautiful letter. — SUSANNA

Kitchen Tested Recipes

For Cheap and Tasty Meals Capitalize on Carrots

By MARY MOORE

Canadian carrots are plentiful, cheap and keep well.

I have three tested recipes for you to make and fit into three courses of your meals in the brand new year: Carrots Harvard in your main course; and at another meal Golden Salad Mould for a salad course (pretty at a buffet meal); and Simple Carrot Pudding for dessert. These are all repeats from more than five years ago and are given because they have proven popular with this audience.

CARROTS HARVARD

1¼ lbs. carrots (6 medium-large or 12 small)
¼ cup water
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsps. sugar
1 tbsp. cornstarch
2 tbsps. vinegar
1 to 2 tbsps. butter

Wash and scrape carrots. Leave small ones whole, cut larger ones into fingers. Cook, covered, in a little gently boiling salted water for about 20 mins. or until just tender. Drain off liquid into measuring cup and if necessary add water to make ½ cup. In saucepan combine sugar and cornstarch, mix well then add vinegar and cooking liquid. Cook gently, stirring constantly until thickened and clear. Stir in butter. Add carrots and heat through, stirring carefully.

GOLDEN SALAD MOULD
(serves 10):

1 cup canned crushed pineapple, drained
1 package lemon jelly powder
½ tsp. salt (first amount)
½ cup finely shredded or grated carrot
1 tbsp. plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup genuine mayonnaise
½ cup light cream or evaporated milk
½ tsp. salt (second amount)
1 tbsp. grated onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup coarsely grated cucumber

Pineapple Layer: Drain pineapple before measuring. Add enough water to syrup to make 1¼ cups liquid. Heat to boiling and dissolve jelly powder in this. Add ½ tsp. salt and chill until partly congealed. Add carrots and pineapple. Turn into lightly oiled large mould, filling only half full, then chill. Cucumber Layer: Dissolve plain gelatin in cold water, then stir over hot water. Combine remaining ingredients. Add gelatine and blend well. If desired tint green (a very pale green is recommended). Pour over congealed pineapple layer and chill until firm. Unmould and garnish with salad greens attractively.

SIMPLE CARROT PUDDING:

One cup each grated carrot, grated potato; 1¼ cups bread crumbs; 1 cup each raisins, currants; 1 cup brown sugar; ¾ cup suet, finely chopped; 2 tbsps. sour milk; ½ tsp. baking soda; ½ cup flour; 1 tsp. salt; 1 tsp. cinnamon; ½ tsp. nutmeg; ½ tsp. allspice.

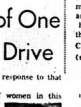
Mix ingredients in order given. Pour into well greased moulds. Cover and steam individual moulds 1¼ hours; large moulds, 3 hours.

Ann-Landers

Defends Position of One Who Does Not Drive

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in response to that lame-brain who signed herself "Wheels."

I happen to be one of the millions of women in this country who does not drive a car. I resent being called a cheapskate, a free-loader and a neurotic screwball. I have taken driving lessons and tried my darnedst to master the wheel but it is hopeless. My instructor told me to save my money, that I will never be able to drive, and I have accepted her verdict.



ANN LANDERS

Too bad more women don't accept the verdict instead of running loose on the streets and highways — endangering the lives of innocent people as well as their own.

Let's face it, some people simply do not have the temperament or the psychological equipment to handle a car. It's nothing to be ashamed of. Please print this letter and take them up. Thank you. — A PASSENGER.

DEAR PASS: Here's your letter, and I do hope it wakes up some of the rotten drivers who should also be passengers. Unfortunately, it can't wake them all up because some of them already are dead.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Once you said good looks are an asset and people don't lose friends because they are attractive. Well, you are wrong. Several months ago my wife and I and another couple went out to dinner. I will call the couple Bill and Frieda. As we entered the restaurant, the host greeted us with, "Well, how is the best looking woman in town?" and he took my wife's arm.

Frieda said in a voice loud enough to be heard all over the place, "What's wrong with me? Am I ugly or something? I get sick of hearing how good-looking she is."

Frieda was surly and unpleasant all evening and we haven't seen them since.

This isn't the first time we've had a problem over my wife's good looks. Since you're so smart, what's the answer? — MARRIED TO A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.

DEAR BEAUTIFUL: I am addressing my remarks to you because that letter was no more written by a man than this answer is being written by a monkey — and no cracks please.

The head waiter's remark was tactless and it obviously irritated Frieda. Had she been genuinely fond of you, however, she would not have become overly unhinged.

The beautiful woman who is friendless is not friendless because she is beautiful. She is friendless because she refuses to exert the energy to make other people feel comfortable.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is serious but if I tried to discuss it with my parents they'd laugh it off.

I am 17 and smarter than most people think. Also I have two perfectly good eyes in my head and I don't miss much.

My 26-year-old brother married a well-stacked good-looking sex kitten, age 22. She can't seem to keep her eyes or her hands off my boy friend. I don't know if I should talk to my parents or my boy friend. Or should I go straight to my brother? — MISS INDECISION.

DEAR MISS: Don't go to anybody. If your boy friend is inclined to play games with your brother's wife he will do so and he won't ask your permission. Tools. If he is not so inclined, Sex Kitten is wasting her time and she will end up making a fool of herself.

CANADA'S FLOAT SALUTES MONTREAL FAIR — The International World's Fair Montreal is paid a floral tribute in the float entered by Canada in Monday's Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena, Calif. Flags of many of the 90 countries which will participate in the fair are depicted in many-hued flowers.

Canadian Float Wins Prize

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A float inspired by Atlantis, legendary island supposedly sunk by an earthquake, Monday won for nearby South Pasadena the top prize in the 78th annual Tournament of Roses parade.

An estimated 1,000,000 curbside spectators, many of whom had camped out all night in temperatures that sank to 30 degrees, applauded the two-hour procession of breathtaking floral masterpieces, beautiful girls, blaring bands and costumed equestrians.

Millions more saw it on television.

Among the floats was one from Canada, marking the centennial year and Expo 67. The theme of the float, a 50-by-20-foot affair covered with 10,000 flowers, was Canada: Host of the World.

The float was first in its category.

Queen and Pearson Are Heard As Centennial Flame Is Lit

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson lit a commemorative flame on Parliament Hill Saturday night to mark the opening of Confederation centennial celebrations while hundreds of Ottawans stood in deep snow, craning their necks to see.

A cheer went up from the crowd when, after a moment's hesitation, the flame caught fire in a low round fountain featuring the coats of arms of the provinces and northern territories.

The Queen, in an address filmed and recorded several weeks earlier, said the 100th anniversary of the union of the original provinces by the British North America Act of 1867 should mark the beginning of another century as creative and inspiring as Canada's first.

In his address, Mr. Pearson said the start of the centennial year is "a time to measure, with grateful hearts, the achievements of our past.

FACE FUTURE

"It is a time to face with confidence the test and opportunity of the future," he added. "It is a time to assess our national condition.

"It is a time to appreciate the honorable place we hold in the world community gained by sacrifice in war and service in peace."

At midnight, the Peace Tower carilion rang out and church bells throughout the capital area joined in marking the opening of the new year.

A 9-by-12-foot screen carried the Queen's message and allowed the crowd to see by relay what was happening.

Bruce's Poem Quoted

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson quoted Canadian poet Charles Bruce Saturday night in saying the real meaning of Canada must be found in the hearts of the Canadian people.

Mr. Pearson quoted part of a poem written by Mr. Bruce, retired general superintendent of The Canadian Press, on the occasion of the Queen's visit to Canada in 1951 as Princess Elizabeth.

This heaped geography . . .
What is the blend of fear, strength, song and dream
Slowburning in its heart?
There is no answer but the wordless answers
That live in flesh, in nerves, heart, blood and bone.

Plan Revised, Expo Visits Now Assured

BARRIE (CP) — A plan to give senior public and high school students across Canada a week-long stay at Expo 67 will go on at a slightly higher cost.

Edwin Genge, teacher at the Barrie - area Elmvale District high school and organizer of the plan, said Monday he has 10,000 students register in the plan at a new rate of $55 each for the week.

Mr. Genge hoped to have 100,000 students register in the program at a cost of $54 a week each, but lack of applications forced his company, Elmvale Expeditions Ltd., to raise its rate.

"We set Dec. 31 as a deadline for applications," he said in an interview, "but we only had promises from 25,000 by Dec. 21. We raised our rate and now have slightly more than 10,000 registered."

Mr. Genge said better accommodations will be available to students in the new plan. The idea of a tent village has been discarded and the students will now be housed in either trailers or dormitory - style huts at a campsite 19 miles from Montreal.

The $55 cost includes 21 meals, an Expo passport for the week, commuter bus service daily from the campsite to Expo and all campsite facilities.

Hamilton Man Stabs Wife, Then Slays Self

A spokesman said an autopsy performed Monday showed that Mrs. Pucko died of stab wounds to the back and heart. Her body was found Sunday in snow outside her farm home at West Flamborough, five miles west of here.

Examination of throat and stomach wounds found on the body of Mr. Pucko indicated they were "self-inflicted," police said.

Neighbors told police they last saw the couple alive Saturday.

Date of an inquest has not been set.

Couple Charged As Child Dies

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A manslaughter charge was laid Saturday in magistrate's court against a 22-year-old London bus driver and his 24-year-old wife in connection with the Dec. 24 death of their son, Sidney James Watson, 3.

Robert and Dorothy Watson are also charged with failing to provide the necessities of life for their son.

They will appear in court Jan. 6.

Confederation Train on Way

OTTAWA (CP) — Mme. Georges Vanier pressed a green button Sunday and old 1867 responded in stentorian diesel tones with the first four notes of O Canada.

A delighted crowd cheered from the snowy platform as the long purple-track-eater known as the Confederation Train then pulled smoothly out of Union Station and headed west.

It will follow the CNR main line to Winnipeg. From there to Victoria, B.C., it will speed along the existing CPR route that brought the West into Confederation.

The train will make 81 stops ranging from one to 10 days in a Centennial Year tour of Canada that begins Jan. 9 at Victoria.

The two 12-year-old made-by-General Motors diesels that pull it were resplendent in shades of purple. One is numbered 1967, the other 1967.

The dates that signify a century of Confederation are painted hugely along the sides of the 13 gaily-decorated cars behind. Six of the cars carry imaginative historic displays.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh said the Confederation Train would "reinforce our conviction that our country does indeed stretch from sea to sea and that all of it, whether in the geographical centre or along the geographical perimeter, is an essential element of our unity.

"It is both my hope and conviction that this train will add a new strength and a new meaning to our national unity," Miss LaMarsh said.

New Year Greeted by Blazing Outhouses

BOWSMAN, Man. (CP) — Outhouses disappeared in a blaze of glory here New Year's Eve.

Their usefulness ended, the time-honored institutions were paraded through the streets of this tiny farming and lumbering community and then gathered for a gigantic bonfire to usher in Canada's centennial year.

"This is a solemn moment in the history of Bowsman," began Rev. Jim Liles in his eulogy to a privy. "The time has come to destroy friends who have held up their ends through the years."

A torch was put to the pile of buildings and, in the glow of 33 burning outhouses, many of the village's 504 residents welcomed a new year and a new era of daily comfort.

A brand new water and sewage system made the outdoor toilets obsolete and a bids taken seriously by a visitor set the stage for the year end celebration.

The story of the burning gave the community, 320 miles northwest of Winnipeg, international coverage.

"Somehow the news got around," said counsellor Stan Tail. "Then we really had to do something."

Most residents liked the idea but a few — including some outsiders—railed a bit of a stink. Local protestors disliked being in the nation's limelight and a Norin Dakota woman wrote Mayor A. R. Sutherland.

She asked: "Why must all old things pass with the coming of progress? What will teen-agers push over on Halloween? Worst of all, what will we use the old catalogues for?"

Despite the feeble protests, the weatherbeaten buildings were bedecked with placards and streamers—toilet tissue, of course—for the final salute from the town.

But Mayor Sutherland's outhouse was not there for it all. The building, described as the finest in town, was moved into the street 24 hours early by pranksters and set ablaze.

"I'm still using it," complained his worship.

Queen's Cousin Is Sued for Divorce; Earl Wants to Marry Co-respondent

LONDON (CP)—A potential royal scandal that had simmered quietly for more than three years was dropped publicly on the Queen's desk Monday with the announcement that her cousin, the music - loving Earl of Harewood, 43, is being sued for divorce.

His solicitors said the earl will not contest the suit. They said he wants to marry the "other woman," an Australian divorcee and former model who is the mother of a 2½-year-old son by the earl.

The announcement means an unprecedented situation for the Queen. She is head of the established Church of England, which is formally opposed to the remarriage of divorced persons. But under ancient royal law, the earl may have to ask for her approval to remarry.

An official at Buckingham Palace said Monday night the Queen had been advised of the divorce action, but there was no other comment.

The divorce made headline news in the entire national press of Britain and was featured prominently on BBC newscasts.

The earl is 18th in succession to the throne. He served as aide-de-camp to the late Earl of Athlone when he was Governor-General of Canada. As Viscount Lascelles, he went to Ottawa shortly after being released from a German prisoner-of-war camp in 1945 and was with the Earl of Athlone until Field Marshal Alexander of Tunis became vice - regent in 1946.

He married Lady Harewood in 1949 at a glittering Mayfair wedding attended by 900 guests, including virtually all of the royal family. They have three sons.

His liaison with Patricia Tuckwell, 39, began several years ago and apparently has been widely known in both British society and in music circles for some time.

The earl moved to a house in the wealthy St. John's Wood area of London 16 months ago—the same home where Miss Tuckwell gave birth to his son in July, 1964—and he and Lady Harewood had avoided appearances at the same functions since. Miss Tuckwell has been his frequent public companion for some time, travelling to Spain on holiday with him as early as 1962.

All of the principals were unavailable Monday night. Lord Harewood was reported to be at the family home in Leeds, a massive estate called Harewood House, while the 29-year-old Lady Harewood was at another family house in Suffolk with her sons. Miss Tuckwell's whereabouts were not definitely known, although one report said she may be in Australia.

Lord Harewood is the son of Princess Mary, the Princess Royal, who died in 1965. He succeeded in the 150-year-old title on the death of his father in 1947.

Miss Tuckwell, whose marriage to a Melbourne photographer ended in divorce in 1958, was a successful model and ran an agency for a time in Australia. Because of her dark, attractive eyes, she was known as Bambi among her friends.

All three principals are music lovers.

Lord Harewood, an expert on the subject, was for several years artistic director of the Edinburgh Festival and has been involved with such companies as the Royal Opera at Covent Garden and the New Philarmonic Orchestra.

He was introduced to Lady Harewood by composer Benjamin Britten in 1948 while both were attending Britten's Aldeburgh Festival.

Miss Tuckwell was once a violinist with the Sydney Symphony Orchestra. Her brother, Barry Tuckwell, is principal horn player with the London Symphony as well as the orchestra's chairman.

The announcement of the pending divorce came only a few days before notice of the action would have appeared in the lists of undefended divorce petitions.

Eldorado Man Honored

Soccer Champs' Manager Made Knight by Queen

LONDON (CP)—The manager of England's World Cup-winning soccer team Sunday became Sir Alf Ramsey in a New Year's honors list studded with sports stars.

The list of awards by Queen Elizabeth included a knighthood for the one-time England international star who plotted a two-year campaign to bring the top prize of world soccer to England last summer for the first time.

It also included titles and decorations for some 1,800 persons from all walks of life—industrialists, scientists, diplomats, film and stage stars, and an 86-year-old woman street collector for the National Savings Movement.

Actress Margaret Rutherford, 74, famed for her stage and screen portrayals of eccentric Englishwomen, became a dame of the Order of the British Empire—the female equivalent to a knighthood.

3 CANUCKS HONORED

At least three Canadian-born officers of the RAF were honored. Group Capt. David George Evans, native of Windsor, Ont., was made a commander of the Order of the British Empire. Sqdn. Ldr. James William Wood, born in Toronto, was made a member of the same order. Flt. Lt. Ralph Clifford Chambers, whose birthplace was Eldorado, Ont., received the Air Force Cross.

(Flight Lieut. Chambers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Chambers who moved from Eldorado to Toronto 10 or 12 years ago. Married to an English girl, he has been with the R.A.F. in England for some years.)

Two passenger liner officers well known in the Canadian trade were made MBES. They are Captain Joseph T. Sheffield, master of the Newfoundland, and Harry C. Harrison, chief purser on the Empress of England, both residents of Britain.

Jack C. C. Sloman, British assistant trade commissioner in Vancouver, was made a member of the Order of the British Empire.

Several officials were honored in connection with the British Empire and Commonwealth Games held on the island last year.

They included Herbert G. MacDonald, president of the organizing committee, who was made a knight of the Order of the British Empire, and Arthur G. Abrahams, director of games organization, a CBE.

Ramsey, 46, became a national hero after England beat West Germany 4-2 in the final of the 16-nation soccer competition last July.

England team captain Bobby Moore, who played a big part in the World Cup victory, becomes an officer of the Order of the British Empire.

The sports awards also included a member of the Order of the British Empire for Dawn Fraser, 28, of Australia, first swimmer ever to win a gold medal in three consecutive Olympic Games.

There were no obviously controversial honors, such as the 1965 MBE for the Beatles pop group which led some holders to return their awards in protest.

It was the first honors list containing no awards specifically for "political and public services" in line with an announcement by Prime Minister Wilson in the House of Commons last October.

The only life baroness created in the list was Mrs. Barbara Serota, a top - ranking Labor party member of the Greater London Council who was honored for services to children's welfare.

Five new life peers included Sir Robert Platt, professor of medicine at Manchester University.

LONDON (CP) — Gwendolen Lady Benn, grand old lady of Surrey public life who lavished hospitality on Canadian soldiers during the Second World War, has died at 85.

Lady Benn, widow of publisher Sir Ernest Benn, who died in 1954, died in her sleep Friday at her home in Oxted, south of London. Funeral services will be held today.

A special memorial service Jan. 17 will mark her contributions during more than 20 years as a conservationist, magistrate, county councillor and patron of hospitals and schools.

When Surrey County became virtually Canadian - occupied territory early in the Second World War, the Bennes reacted enthusiastically. Officers of the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada were billetted in the former Benn home, Priest Hill, near Oxted, and the big house became a renowned centre of hospitality for the Vancouver regiment and other Canadians.

In 1959, when Lady Benn was 78, she announced to her family that now that the St. Lawrence Seaway was opened she would go to Canada and make a cross - country tour. Accompanied by her granddaughter Elizabeth, Lady Benn travelled from Quebec City to Vancouver, where she was feted by Seaforth veterans.

Boy Wonder Is Back

Zanuck's Return Saved Tottering 20th Century Fox

Five years ago Darryl F. Zanuck was producing movies as an independent in Europe and 20th Century Fox, the firm he built into a giant, was tottering. Today, Zanuck is the No. 1 man at Fox and Fox is the biggest-grossing studio. How Zanuck fought his way back to control and led Fox to unparalleled prosperity is explored in the following article, the first of a five-part series.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Jackals of Hollywood, ever ready to pounce upon a fallen lion, were saying five years ago that Darryl Zanuck was washed up.

The onetime boy wonder from Wahoo, Neb., they said, was more interested in wooing young European actresses and wagering fortunes at chemin de fer then he was in making movies.

"Zanuck is finished," said executives and agents who had sought his favor when he was one of the half dozen most powerful men in the film industry. They pointed out that Zanuck's five films as an independent producer had run a deficit of $4,000,000.

The critics reckoned without the driving force that had elevated Zanuck from a scriptwriter for Rin-tin-tin to studio boss. His energies revived, he abandoned independent production, returned to 20th Century Fox and in four years drew it from the edge of bankruptcy to the top-grossing film company in the world.

One movie alone—The Sound of Music—would have provided solvency that other studios would envy. But under Zanuck's presidency, 20th Century Fox produced a string of winning films and the most successful television operation in Hollywood including such series as Peyton Place and Batman.

The fall and rise of Darryl Francis Zanuck dates from 1957, when he shocked the film world by stepping down as production chief of 20th Century - Fox. Movie moguls relinquish power only by dying or being deposed. No one could figure why Zanuck would voluntarily abandon control of the domain he had ruled imperiously for the 20 years after he merged his tiny 20th Century company with the giant, ailing Fox.

"Darryl enjoyed power as much as any studio boss," says an intimate. But he was 55 and he felt his life ebbing away. His marriage had gone sour, and he wanted the excitement of living in Europe. He also figured he could do a better job of making two or three handpicked films a year instead of supervising 40."

That proved to be an error. Zanuck's abandoned film mate, some starring then girl friend Juliette Greco, were failures. An associate analysed: "Darryl was like a great muralist who turned to painting miniatures."

Zanuck realized his error and began work on The Longest Day, a panorama of D-Day at Normandy.

Three production chiefs in four years had failed to combat the falling market. Ebullient, Greekborn Spyros Skouras presided as company chief in New York, but he was ailing and his hold was unsure. Wall Street men on the board began assuming more power.

Stockholders were growing restive, and with good reason. Skouras had put most of the company's eggs into one basket: Cleopatra, The Romemade epic was spending money at a furious rate, and other 20th - Fox releases were performing dismally.

The tidal wave of red ink began in 1961: A deficit of $22,532,084. In 1962: $39,796,094.

In one year the company's stock plummeted to 15 points from 35. Darryl Zanuck was profoundly affected; he and his family owned more than 100,000 shares, more than any other stockholder.

Zanuck began to think about returning to leadership.

know where their toys and books are."

Broadway run of the 10 - month Broadway run of Dylan, she has always commuted to Toronto whenever she was working. "I world guess it would have been easier to live in New York but I just dread flying back and forth. The reason I've stayed is the house."

And how does she propose to break into the Toronto theatre world again? "I'll probably have to go somewhere else and build myself up again first."

Three Football Games Too Much for Cynthia

But Monday, after three parades and three football games for a total of more than 12 continuous hours of broadcasting—even the most devoted television viewer must feel that he has seen enough drum majorettes, end runs and incompleted passes to last him for a while.

The television networks spoil the viewer. When he indicates he likes something, he is likely to get it in such quantity that he quickly tires of it. It is just as true of parades as of sportstories, comedy - fantasy and even westerns.

There is nothing to force viewers to watch everything that is offered. But the average television set is in use about 5½ hours a day, which suggests that it is hard to go on a TV diet.

Both were preliminaries to the impressive and elaborate Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena, Calif.

NBC then covered in order the Sugar Bowl game, the Rose Bowl game and the Orange Bowl game. The other networks returned to regular programs. Presumably only the hardiest football fans stayed on for the nine or more hours.

Kate Reid International Star But Gets No Work in Toronto

Despite Broadway hits in Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf and Dylan and star billing in Hollywood's The Producers and Condemned, she hasn't had a single genuine offer to appear in a Toronto production in five years.

The fact that the 36-year-old actress appeared at Stratford Festival Theatre here in mid December in The Subject is Roses doesn't count. Roses is a production from Ottawa where it ran with great success.

She accepted the Ottawa offer "just because they asked me." Winnipeg, Charlottetown and the Stratford Festival also asked, too, and she was delighted to accept.

But not Toronto — "I really want to work here."

Miss Reid's main problem in Toronto, she says, is "the fallacy that once you've done well somewhere else like Broadway good surprises yourself."

"In my case that simply isn't true. I'll take what the traffic will bear, of course, but I don't hold people up. I don't act for monetary reasons."

Among them is one from an English producer. "Perhaps I should go to England. I haven't been there for seven or eight years."

BROADWAY FLOP

But there are other plays, other TV offers from Hollywood and a chance to do a film in Canada.

"It's so hard to decide," she says, admitting that the failure of her latest Broadway venture, Tennessee Williams' Slapstick Comedy, unnerved her.

"I really wanted to do that. It was gone in a week. But then most Broadway actors go through this all the time. They're lucky to have a hit once every five years. I had two in four years."

Despite the theatrical cold shoulder she receives here, Reid says has remained home "it's like it here and I want to be with my children."

Reid, 11, Robin, 8, two dogs, a cat and a large, comfortable home in fashionable Rosedale are Miss Reid's element. She used to live in rented places but it simply wasn't any good for the children. Children should have a place where they

McLuhan Gets Chair At Fordham for Year

NEW YORK (CP)—Fordham University announced Monday night that Prof. Marshall McLuhan of Toronto, a well-known communications theorist, will be appointed to the Albert Schweitzer chair in the humanities at the university here.

Robert A. Kidera, vice-president of university relations, said in a statement McLuhan would take up the post in September.

The professorship is financed by an annual state grant of $100,000 to support a scholar and his staff and to provide them with research facilities.

McLuhan, 55, now is director of the University of Toronto's Centre for Culture and Technology.

Working with McLuhan will be three aides chosen by the Toronto professor. They are Harley Parker, a painter and designer and now chief of display and exhibitions at the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto; Dr. Edmund S. Carpenter, head of the anthropology department of San Fernando Valley State College in Northridge, Calif., and Rev. John M. Culkin, director of Fordham's communications center and a pioneer in educational film studies.

McLuhan and Carpenter were editors of a magazine, Explorations, portions of which were incorporated in their book, Explorations in Communication.

McLuhan, who has said that modern communications are powerful forces for change, has written several books including The Mechanical Bride: Folklore of Industrial Man; The Gutenberg Galaxy and Understanding Media.

The New York legislature in 1964 created the chair of professorships in the humanities and science to be awarded to persons of international stature for enhancing their intellectual and scientific vigor and attracting scholars.

Five of these were Albert Einstein chairs and five Albert Schweitzer chairs.

Plums Await Lucky Grits

OTTAWA (CP)—Political and public service plums are piling up steadily on Prime Minister Pearson's desk.

The party faithful have their eyes set on cabinet appointments expected early in 1967, seven vacancies in the Senate and 16 posts for parliamentary secretaries, due to be reviewed next week.

Parliamentary secretaries are MPs who assist cabinet ministers. They receive $4,000 annually on top of their $18,000 indemnity as MPs. New ministers often are recruited from the secretaries ranks.

The Senate seats, carrying a salary of $15,000 a year until the retirement age of 75, are not expected to be filled until the cabinet shuffle is announced.

Gloria Swanson Slams Mod Styles, Toy Guns

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gloria Swanson, the fabulous flapper of the silent screen, who has ballooned to 94 pounds, had plenty of energy remaining to lambaste some aversions—

—Food that isn't from "our sprayed, natural health" background. I'm a food nut. We are not a healthy nation—but that's a long subject."

—Mod fashions: "This is the day and age of shock. It's the same way with literature. I don't think all these people who write four-letter words really like it."

—Toy firearms for children: "I'd a thousand times rather be shot than shoot somebody, even in self - defense. Even when there's a fly I do everything I can to coax it out of the house."

This was an appointment with triple-barreled appeal.

Gloria Swanson, beautiful dazzlingly crowned glamor queen of the silent screen, was to lunch Mack Sennett's The Pullman Bride and such Cecil B. DeMille epics as Don't Change Your Husband and Male and Female. Now 67, seven times a grandmother, since 1930 a New York resident, talking about, in part, her recently completed role in, of all things, a science fiction of CBS-TV's cornpone drama The Beverly Hillbillies.

The setting of the interview was the baronial, 29-room mansion of actor George Hamilton, beau of President Johnson's daughter Lynda Bird and a long-time friend of Miss Swanson.

Miss Swanson's frail-looking, five-foot-two figure was in a mini - jersey blouse and loose, matching slacks.

VOICE SOFT

Her voice is soft, her more gentilly upswept, her eyes are blue with long black lashes. White - framed, half-sing spectacles rested most of the time atop her caramel-colored hair, worn in a long bob.

She was vivacious despite her fatigue. For days she had gone without sleep or regular meals while giving constant attention to her mother during a terminal illness, "I lost five pounds in a week," she said.

Any prospects of remarrying for the five - times divorced Miss Swanson?

"Not that I know of."

Her husbands were actor Wallace Beery, business-man Herbert K. Somborn, the French

"It's the way you treat this motor you've got — this fantastic human motor and forget about it," Miss Swanson said she never had a drink of hard liquor until she was 28 and that her drinking was accidental.

Today's movies?

"I don't see as many as I'd like. The British Sense of humor is similar to a silent film. For the first time I paid my self - respect about it. It was a peculiar sensation."

Miss Swanson was born in Chicago. A vivid out of curiosity to co-star in a silent film, she answered a Beverly Hillbillies part for which the girl calls for no experience.

STAR IS BORN

A hour later she was playing boisterous rodeo girl Lulubelle opposite Eddie Albert. Mack Sennett's The Pullman Bride and such Cecil B. DeMille epics as Don't Change Your Husband and Male and Female. Now 67, seven times a grandmother, since 1930 a New York resident, talking about, in part, her recently completed role in, of all things, a science fiction of CBS-TV's cornpone drama The Beverly Hillbillies.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

Staff Sportswriter

May 1967 bring:

A new arena to the city of Belleville.

Another shot at Cassius Clay for Chuvalo.

And the ability and know-how to do something about it when it comes.

A new goal judge when Toronto Varsity Grads again visit this city.

The wisdom for Claude D. Tice to make him a Yankee-Black Hawk-Ti-Cat roster.

One final season free of injuries for Mickey Mantle.

Washroom facilities at Alemite Park.

Snow for the Quinte district's many skiers (as long as it doesn't fall in our driveway).

A few goals for Mo-Hawk Gary Greasbahl.

An end to the stupid wedge which has built up among district hall umpires, damaging both their reputations as officials, and ball in general.

Low scores and holes-in-ones for Bay of Quinte Golfers.

The realization by some sport bodies that a neutral, unbiased executive is an absolute necessity to assure the success of any organization.

A good week's holiday for bossman George H Carver.

The OHA President's chair, and success there, for Jack Devine.

The ability to win but the grace to lose honorably for all Belleville and district teams — senior and minor.

Keen eyes for the Quinte Marksmen, the Belleville Bowmen and the Quinte Trap and Gun Club, plus lively "birds" for the Garrison Badminton gang.

The enjoyment of playing without the "must win" attitude for the working men's leagues, such as the Quinte, Gas House, Commercial "B", Northern Electric, etc.

Smooth lanes and co-operative headpins for all five and ten keglers.

And — to all connected with sport — the wishes for a successful Centennial Year in which we can summarize next December by saying, "We played our best and the best team won."

Quebec Peewee Tourney Draws Record 86 Teams

QUEBEC (CP)—A record 86 clubs and 1,376 players will take part in the eighth annual International Pee Wee Hockey Tournament Jan. 27 to Feb. 4.

Tournament organizers announced that another 40 applications for participation in the tournament were turned down for various reasons.

At least 70 of the 78 clubs which competed in the event last year will be back this year at the Colisem, home of Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League. The other 16 clubs either will make their debut in the tournament or else return after a few years' absence.

The 86 participating clubs include 55 from Quebec, 25 from Ontario, four from the United States, one from Nova Scotia and one from the Northwest Territories.

A Swedish team was unable to participate in the tournament because the International Amateur Hockey Federation prohibits international competition for players under 17 years of age.

RUSSIANS DECLINE

The Russians told tournament officials that it is "more interesting for children to go to school than to participate in the tournament."

France has not yet replied to an offer made last year.

A total of 173,304 spectators attended the tournament last year and the number is expected to top that this year.

This year a player participating in the tournament has a chance to receive a $2,000 scholarship. The winner of the scholarship will be paid three annual amounts of $1,000 if he later attends a university.

If he does not go to a university he will be paid $2,000 when he reaches the age of 21.

All players will receive a diplomary, including hilmcual dictionaries for the English-speaking players.

Russian Team Bombards Wetzel

WINNIPEG (CP)—Carl Wetzel could be forgiven for thinking that the world is round, flat, black and coming straight at him.

Wetzel, goaltender for the U.S. national hockey team, faced 50 shots from the Soviet national team Monday as the Russians won 7-1 in the second game of the Centennial world invitational hockey tournament.

"The way they were shooting at me, you'd think I was in Vietnam," said the 28-year-old former soldier who tried out with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League in 1964.

He faces more pucks at 7:30 p.m. CST tonight when the U.S. meets the Canadian national team. In five previous clashes with the Canadians this season Wetzel has faced more than 25 shots in each game as Canada won three and tied two.

The Canadians defeated Czechoslovakia 5-3 Sunday and applied for the tournament lead with the Russians.

Wetzel made 12 spectacular saves but he couldn't stem the Soviet tide that swelled to period leads of 2-0 and 7-0.

The Americans got their goal late in the third period when defenceman Don Brez scored after the Russians had clinched the victory and eased the pressure.

U.S. coach John Mariucci said it was the strongest Soviet team he had seen. They controlled the puck and much of the game.

The Americans managed no shots on Russian goalie Victor Nobomeiskin and Alexander Ragulin missed only three starters on the Soviet side out of eleven they had.

"The Canadians play much better this year, particularly as a team," said Cherishnev.

Defenceman Jiri Machac, Jan Klapac and Vaclav Nedomansky, on the negotiation list of the National Hockey League New York Rangers, scorgd for Czechoslovakia.

In an understatement, Wetzel, who has one-half an NHL game to his credit, said the Russians opened strongly.

They moved into the U.S. zone immediately after the faceoff and stayed there for almost five minutes. Wetzel blocked 11 consecutive shots before Molseyev beat him with a 20-footer from the left side at 8:46.

The Russians collected their second goal 22 seconds later and then it was only a matter of how many times they could beat the fabulous Wetzel. The Russians received nine of the 16 minor penalties, but generally outshot the Americans on these occasions.

In the Canadian contest, Czechoslovakia opened an early 2-1 lead then faded as Fran Huck wrestled free from three defenders to set up Johnston for the tying goal.

Canada then turned to the pass to stay ahead, Billy MacMillan lured the Czech defence away from his linemates and passed to Dineen, who relayed to Cusson on the doorstep of a hapless Czech netminder.

After Nedomansky's solo effort made it 3-2, Carl Brewer, former NHL defenceman with Toronto Maple Leafs, laid down a perfect pass for Johnston to send the Canadians ahead for good.

Wetzel should be in for more hard work tonight. He has faced more than 25 shots in each of five previous games against Canada, of which the U.S. lost three and tied two.

Gilbert Only Cheer Raised By Rangers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rod Gilbert of New York Rangers became the first 20-goal man in the National Hockey League this season, but the New Year's weekend left the Rangers with little else to celebrate about.

Gilbert's 20th proved to be the only goal the Rangers mustered in two weekend games as the first-place Bluebirds lost to Montreal Canadiens 2-0 Saturday night and 2-1 to Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday.

Gilbert's goal kept him in third place in the NHL's individual scoring race tied with two others behind leader Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks and Mikita's linemate Ken Wharram, who each scored six points in two weekend games.

Gilbert has 11 assists to go along with the 20 goals for 31 points and a tie with Poodle Rousseau of Montreal, with nine goals and 22 assists and Phil Goyette of New York, who has three goals and 28 assists.

Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings helped his club out of the cellar by scoring two goals and an assist during the week-end and is in sixth place with 11 goals and 19 assists.

Gordie Howe of Detroit had a goal and an assist in nine into seventh place with nine goals and 19 assists.

Don Marshall of New York with 15 goals and 11 assists, and team-mate Boom Boom Geoffrion, with 11 goals and 15 assists, are in eight place.

Pit Martin, last-place Boston's only player among the NHL's top 10 scorers, is ninth with nine goals and 16 assists.

Bobby has 15 goals and nine assists while Dennis has 13 goals and 11 assists.

Mikita Paces Scooter Line

MONTREAL (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks are tied for first place in the National Hockey League standings and then are there with the help of their Scooter Line.

The Hawks, who never have won an NHL championship, lead all three of their games this week to pull level with New York Rangers. Each has 19 points.

Stan Mikita, centre of Chicago's Scooter Line, continues to threaten the NHL record for most points in one season. He is the forward line of Ken Wharram and Doug Mohns also is threatening the record for most points by a line in one season.

Statistics released by NHL headquarters today show that Mikita scored six points this week, giving him 28 points in the Black Hawks' first six games. Included is a league leading 23 assists.

Bobby Hull, Chicago's Golden Jet, holds the record of 50 points in a season. He set the mark last year with a record 31 goals and 42 assists. After the Hawks' first 23 games last season, Hull had 47 points, including 28 goals.

Mikita's current pace is outlined for the remaining 30 games, would produce 114 points. He also could score 69 assists record of 59 which he set in 1964-65.

Wharram, right winger on the Scooter Line, got four points last week to move into second place in the scoring with 22 points. Doug Mohns, the line's left winger, scored six points in his total to 20 for the season.

That is the highest total for the same point it would take 102 points to match the record of 133 set by Bobby Hull last season. The current record is 75.

Marlboros Begin Year By Beating Kitchener

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros celebrated New Year's in their own special way and, instead of a hangover, they ended up with first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The Marlies started the holiday weekend slowly, tying Oshawa Generals 6-6 New Year's Eve, but came on with a rush New Year's Day to defeat Kitchener Rangers 3-2.

Kitchener and Toronto were tied going into Sunday's game, but the victory gives the Marlies 21 points, two more than second-place Kitchener.

In Sunday's other game, Niagara Falls Flyers blasted St. Catharines Black Hawks 9-3. Bet the two teams did it all over again Monday and the Black Hawks won 5-3.

Bill White scored the tying goal for Oshawa with 20 seconds remaining and Ron Daskalchuk added the winner 2:58 into the third period.

Bob Watson, George Babcock, Jerry Dion and Chris Hayes got the others.

Acomb scored again Sunday and Mike Byers and John Wright got the others in Robitaille and Don Luce scored for Kitchener.

Derek Sanderson scored three goals Sunday for Niagara Falls, followed by Tom Webster and Jim Lorentz with two each. Bill Little and Clem Tremblay had one each.

St. Catharines goals were scored by John Fisher, Stu Roberts and Jean Paul Leblanc.

The Athletics downed Guelph Regals 7-5 Sunday night to move back into second place in the circuit. Galt Hornets took over second position last week, but Sunday's win gives the Athletics 32 points, two more than Guelph.

Collingwood Georgians, meanwhile, maintained their hold on first place by defeating Oakville Oaks 9-5 Sunday night. In the other game, North York Varsity Grads edged Kingston Aces 4-3.

Miners Down Deep

Swedes Beat Drums In Rapid Tattoo

STOCKHOLM (CP - AP) — Drumbeller Miners of Alberta suffered their third defeat in the Bunny Ahearne Hockey Tournament in Sweden when Leksand beat them 5-4 Sunday night.

The Miners, 1966 Allan Cup champions, now have all to themselves the cellar spot in the group in which they play with three Swedish teams.

Leksand and Brynaes share first place with six points each, followed by Djurgaarden with five and Drumbeller with three.

A Soviet team is playing with Swedish teams in the other group.

The Miners came close to overtaking the Swedes, leading 5-1, when they scored three goals in two minutes of the third period. Despite excellent chances of scoring three more goals, the Miners were stopped by Leksand's goalie.

Leksand victory was justified, since the Canadians spent most of the game fighting instead of playing.

One Ost of Leksand was certain Ray Sawka, 27-year-old defenceman.

The best Canadian performances were put on by veteran forward Sid Finney, 37, the only Miner with an NHL background, and 28-year-old centre Tony Kallman. Goalie Don Mathers, 29, made a number of great saves to stave off a more serious defeat.

Gene Lambert, 26 - year - old forward raised the fastest skater with Drumbeller, noticed two goals. Singles were scored by forwards Pat Halas, 22, and Jim Baird, 27.

Henderson Has Touch Of Gold

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Paul Henderson gets a hangnail, all the Detroit Red Wings had better wince. Their fortunes in the National Hockey League appear to hang on his health.

With a healthy Henderson scoring two goals and assisting on three others during the weekend, the Red Wings defeated Montreal Canadiens 4-1 Sunday night after a 3-1 win Saturday over Boston Bruins.

While Henderson was missing from right wing for six weeks with a throat ailment, the Red Wings managed only three wins and dropped to last place. They climbed from the cellar as Henderson scored the winning goals in both weekend games.

Chicago Black Hawks moved back into a tie for first place with New York Rangers, beating Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1 Saturday and Boston 3-2 Sunday. The Rangers lost 3-0 to the Canadiens Saturday and 2-1 at Toronto Sunday.

Norm Ullman, Ted Hampson and Bruce MacGregor scored

Southern Cal Gamble Fails, Purdue Wins Rose Bowl

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Purdue University Boilermakers are Rose Bowl champions in their first try because coach Jack McKay of University of Southern California Trojans couldn't resist the urge to gamble.

Purdue, making its first appearance in the game before 101,455 at Pasadena, California's big one for a 14-13 victory after USC tried to cap a 13th comeback with a two-point conversion that failed.

The Rose Bowl was one of three played Monday. Elsewhere, halfback Larry Smith shattered all sorts of rushing records to spark underdog Florida University to a 27-12 upset over Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl. In New Orleans, southpaw quarterback Kenny Stabler teamed up with all-American end Ray Perkins to pace Louisiana State to a 24-7 triumph over Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl.

On Saturday, University of Georgia downed Southern Methodist University 24-9 in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tennessee dumped Syracuse 18-12 in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., and the East tramped the West 45-22 in the Shrine all-star game at San Francisco.

Behind 14-7 late in the game, Southern California caught fire and finally scored on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Troy Winslow to end Rod Sherman.

"I talked to the kids for three or four weeks about beating Purdue," McKay said after the game, "I couldn't make a decision not to try when the time came."

So Winslow tried a pass to Jim Lawrence in the end zone, but defensive back George Catavolos of the Boilermakers intercepted and moved Purdue out of danger.

Fullback Perry Williams sparked the favored Boilermakers by slamming over for two touchdowns, one from the two-yard line and the other from the one. Bob Griese converted both. USC got a touchdown from halfback Don McCall on a plunge from the one with Sherman, a standout for the losers, counting the other.

In the Orange Bowl, Smith stole the spotlight from Florida quarterback Steve Spurrier, winner of the Heisman Trophy as the top college football player in the United States. Spurrier had an off-day but Smith was red hot, rushing for a record 187 yards and ripping off a 94-yard gallop for one of his two touchdowns.

His total yardage broke the former mark of 160 set by Steve Van Buren of Louisiana State in the 1944 Orange Bowl. And his long run was 15 yards far than the former record of 79 yards by Ernie Koy of Texas in the 1965 game.

In the Sugar Bowl, a field left soggy by three days of rain didn't bother Alabama as Stabler hit Perkins with three touchdown passes of more than 40 yards. Joe Kelley scored the remaining Alabama touchdowns and Steve Davis picked up 20 points on a pair of field goals from 30 and 40 yards and four converts. Dick Davis scored the Nebraska touchdown.

The victory, Alabama's 9th in a row, was the most one-sided since 1950 when Oklahoma romped to a 35-0 win over Louisiana State.

Stabler completed 12 of 18 passes for 218 yards while Perkins snared nine passes for 178 yards. The win left third-ranked Alabama the only unbeaten and untied major college team in the U.S. this season.

In Saturday's Cotton Bowl contest, Kent Lawrence raced 74 yards for one Georgia touchdown with others going to Ronnie Jenkins and Billy Payne. Bob Etter kicked a field goals and three converts. Mike Richardson scored the only SMU touchdown.

Ken Warren threw two touchdown passes and Gary Wright kicked a pair of field goals to shoot Tennessee into a 18-0 lead at half time of the Gator Bowl. Syracuse got touchdowns from Floyd Little and Larry Csonka.

Quarterback Larry Talbot of North Carolina hit on his first 11 passes to guide the East to its big win in the Shrine game. Talbot threw touchdown passes to Michigan State's Gene Washington, Minnesota's Ken Last and Michigan's Jack Clancy. Nick Eddy of Notre Dame added two touchdowns and Clint Jones of Michigan State one. Dick Kenney of Michigan State kicked six converts and a field goal.

Packers Win Thriller

Dallas Fails In Bid For Fame (And Riches)

GREEN BAY, Wis. (CP)—Green Bay Packers, apparently solid of wind and limb after winning their fourth National Football League championship in six years, start preparations Wednesday for pro football's version of the California gold rush.

The Packers made a start on the road to riches Sunday with a 34-27 win over Dallas Cowboys in a thriller that decided the league championship.

With an estimated $8,500 a man from that victory, the Packers stand to collect a guaranteed $15,000 a man if they beat Kansas City Chiefs of the American League in the Super Bowl game in Los Angeles Sunday, Jan. 15. Even the losers will get $7,500 each.

Packer coach Vince Lombardi has called a meeting of the team for Wednesday. A club spokesman said workouts for the Super Bowl game will start Thursday.

The title game at Dallas, as exciting a contest as any in NFL annals, began with the Packers apparently headed for a rout and ended with Cowboys storming the goal line in an effort to push the game into sudden-death overtime.

Green Bay took the opening kickoff and marched down the field, scoring on a 17-yard pass from Bart Starr to Elijah Pitts —the first of Starr's four touchdown serials of the day. On the following kickoff, Jim Grabowski picked up a Dallas fumble and galloped 18 yards for another touchdown.

The Cowboys, not losing their poise, tied the score at 14 in the first quarter and the gruelling game proceeded on about even terms until the Packers worked to a 34-20 lead only five minutes before the final gun.

But Dallas quarterback Don Meredith fired a 68 yard touchdown bomb to Frank Clarke and it was a new game.

Dallas gained momentum and with 2½ minutes remaining had a first down on the Packer two-yard line.

It was fourth down, 28 seconds and still two yards to go after Green Bay's defence held firm. Meredith rolled out to pass but Dave Robinson broke through and got a hand on Meredith, who managed to pull away and get rid of the ball.

Tom Brown, a former major league baseball player, leaped high and intercepted for the Packers in the end zone.

"It was the biggest play I ever made," Brown said. "Don had to throw the ball. It was fourth down . . . when I saw that ball coming on that pass, it looked, oh, so nice . . ."

Chiefs Win Easily On Field Turn To Movies For Help

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City Chiefs, surprisingly easy 31-7 winners over Buffalo Bills in the American Football League championship game, now turn to films to see what makes Green Bay Packers tick.

They meet the National League champs Sunday, Jan. 15 in the Super Bowl game in Los Angeles, and each team has provided the other with films of past performances.

However, the Chiefs' studies were to start today with the film of Sunday's rout of the Bills, defending AFL champions who had won the league crown two years in a row.

There were some mistakes in the Buffalo game, and coach Hank Stram said at the time the errors would wait a while with the score 31-7.

When told that oddsmakers had established the Chiefs as eight-point underdogs in the big money game, coach Hank Stram brushed it off.

"I have no particular interest in such things," he said.

He said he had talked to coach Vince Lombardi of the Packers.

"We agreed to exchange three films," Stram said. "We had our choice of the ones we wanted."

Stram chose Green Bay's games against Cleveland, Minnesota and the NFL championship battle against Dallas Cowboys. He said it was a logical reason for the selections, but wouldn't reveal it.

Lombardi picked films of the Chiefs' games with New York, San Diego and the championship tilt in Buffalo.

ONLY TWO AILING

The Chiefs are all in good shape except Fred Arbanas, all-league tight end, and Dennis Eiodrowski, relief guard, but both are expected to play.

Krays Monday showed Arbanas suffered a slight separation of the left shoulder, but Stram said he will be able to take part in the workouts and will be ready for the game.

"I'll play if Lamar Hunt (Chiefs' owner) has to buy me a new shoulder," Arbanas declared.

The Bills gained only 40 net yards rushing and were not inside the Chiefs' 48 in the second half Sunday.

Kansas City's Jerrell Wilson and the Buffalo fumble on the opening kickoff and three plays later the Chiefs had a touchdown. That set the tempo.

Buffalo kept its poise and was driving for a touchdown that would have tied the score at 14-14 in the last minute of the first half.

From the 11, quarterback Jack Kemp fired a pass toward Bob Crockett, wide open in the end zone after defender Willie Mitchell slipped and fell.

That set up a field goal that made the halftime score 17-7, instead of 14-14. The Chiefs went on from there.

Business Boom, Viet Nam Truce Are Forecast

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Business will be booming in the United States and, taken all around, the year 1967 will be a better year for America than the last four have been. . . .

The Viet Cong will tire of warfare before the United States does. A ceasefire will be brought about by the intervention of some third party. . . .

Communist China will be admitted to the United Nations. . . .

An Englishman named Maurice Woodruff.

Last year he did the same thing. His publisher, the New English Library, says:

Here are some of his soothsaying bulls' eyes scored last year:

How does Woodruff do it?

"Don't ask me to even try to tell you," he replied. "I have the feeling that if I delve too deeply, I may weaken the gift that is there. . . .

"So far as I have been able to work it out, I believe that 60 per cent comes from an inborn gift, 15 per cent is intuition, and 25 per cent sound, simple psychology, plus the knowledge of what makes people tick which comes from experience."

Whatever it is, he predicts for 1967:

"A woman will be making a very big impression in American political life. . . .

"There is going to be a hell of a row in America over some attempts to restrict freedom of the press. . . .

"One of the weddings of the year will be between a man with a British title and an American girl. . . .

"The popularity of Gen. De Gaulle will decrease. . . .

"I predict a change in the political leadership of the Soviet Union. As a result of this, Russia will become more sympathetic toward the West. . . .

"Princess Sarajpa . . . will marry a wealthy Frenchman. . . .

"If Castro has not already disappeared from the scene by the end of 1966, this is something that is likely to happen early in 1967. I see a hand of a relative in his ultimate downfall. . . .

"In men's fashion we shall see a return of the walking stick to favor. Spats will be worn. . . .

"Greta Garbo will come back. She will be making a film, possibly a remake of one of her old successes. . . .

Two Drugs Blacklisted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has added two more anti-histamines-butizine and hydroxyzine—to its list of drugs having the potential for causing birth deformities.

The Washington Post reports the FDA added the drugs to its list already containing meclizine, cyclizine and chlorcyclizine. The products using bucilizine and hydroxyzine are sold by prescription only.

The new additions to the FDA list are manufactured by Chas. Pfister and Co., a division of Atlas Chemical Industries, Inc.

At the FDA's request, the newspaper says, the manufacturers sent letters to physicians last May warning that products containing bucilizine and hydroxyzine should not be used by women in pregnancy.

The letters said doses substantially above the human therapeutic range of bucilizine caused abnormalities in pregnant rats and similar doses of hydroxyzine caused abnormalities in pregnant mice rats and rabbits.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Montreal Airport Strike Talks Held

MONTREAL (CP) — Management and union officials meet today with a mediator seeking to end a strike by 46 men who walked off their jobs Friday as refuellers for airliners at Montreal International Airport.

The meeting was to start at 10 a.m. EST.

The pay dispute has not hampered flight schedules at the airport, where planes are being fuelled by supervisory staff of Consolidated Aviation and Fuelling Services Ltd.

The company, which holds an exclusive contract to pump fuel into planes at the airport, got together with the International Association of Machinists for three hours of negotiations Monday.

Hartland Price, president of Consolidated, said the company didn't budge from its offer which the men rejected Friday. He said the union was "conciliatory" during the discussions, arranged by a mediator working for the Canada Labor Relations Board.

There were no incidents reported along the picket lines although during the weekend police were called in to move pickets here blocking access to storage tanks and fuel pumps.

The union has turned down a company offer including hourly increases of 79 cents for refuellers and $1.25 for mechanics in a 30-month contract.

The union is seeking a one-year contract and a better deal on fringe benefits such as sick leave and severance pay.

Mr. Price said the union outlined its demands during the negotiations Monday, first meeting between the two sides since the strike began.

"We have taken the demands under consideration with the view that the union is bargaining sincerely," Mr. Price said. "We felt the union was conciliatory."

Mr. Price said the company is prepared to maintain all fuel services indefinitely with supervisory staff.

Watching TV Can Give Children Fits

LONDON (AP) — Watching television has caused some children to suffer convulsions, the St. John Ambulance Brigade reported Monday.

"It is most improbable that anything of this sort would happen to a normal healthy child," a spokesman said. "But if it does, the child should be given plenty of fresh air and medical attention."

MINI-SKIRTS BANNED

BURTON ON- TRENT, England (Reuters)—Lady conductors on buses have been banned from wearing mini-skirts on duty here. A spokesman for the transit authority said: "It could be embarrassing for people to see a conductress in a mini-skirt scampering up and down the steps on a double decker bus."

OPP Reports 11 Fatalities During 1966

NAPANEE — "Safe driving is everybody's business, and when this responsibility is taken seriously the 1967 fatality rate will decrease" — is the admonition of Safety Officer J. E. Elliott of the Ontario Provincial Police in his report for last week. He points out that the breaking The Highway Traffic Act into force with anything occurring the driver's view through the windshield, the driver's vision in either side, or the rear window. This includes dangling objects as well as glass which is steamed up, dirty or snow covered the constable stated.

The fatal accidents in 1966 there were 18 property damage accidents, but no personal injuries. There was a slight decrease in bringing the total for 1966 to 11, one less than in 1965. In everything else there was an increase over the previous year. 546 accidents with 211 persons injured this year, as against 461 accidents, involving 182 injured persons in 1965.

Last week the officers investigated one theft, five disturbances, 24 other minor complaints, responded to four requests for assistance, and delivered two compassionate messages. Seven persons were charged under the Liquor Control Act, and two were locked up in the County Jail for impaired driving. During 1966 the OPP of this detachment carried out 1,000 investigations in addition to the accidents. In 1965 the figure stood at 2,520.

The closing week of 1966 saw 16 charges laid under the Highway Traffic Act, 73 vehicle safety checks performed, and 21 warnings issued. The officers spent 802 hours on duty and patrolled 1,388 miles of roads and highways.

HOPES TO MAKE 200th A.D.

MOSCOW (AP) — The oldest man in the world drank in the new year with a glass of and his favorite brew, lemonade. Tass reported Sunday. The official Soviet news agency said Shirali Muslimov, now claiming to be 162 years old, hopes to live until the year 2000, when he would be 196.

Gala Events Usher in New Year

NAPANEE — Mayor Lorne A. Smart is much pleased with the dance which he sponsored New Year's Eve. The behavior of young people could not have been improved upon, he states and he was pleased, also, that so many adults put in an appearance to give a hand if they were wanted. Among those who were there as chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Max Clutton, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Clark, Mr. and Mrs. L. Wagar, Dr. and Mrs. R. Macpherson, Mayor Smart and Mrs. Smart. Young folk attended from as far away as Shelburne and Tamworth, and the orchestra was made up of boys from Odessa and Wilton. The mayor left for the parties of the Town Hall before midnight and donned his chain of office to read the proclamation officially welcoming the centennial year. At the request of the musicians he returned, still wearing the chain of office.

Although Napanee had a gay time New Year's Eve, with its many dances and parties, welcome to centennial year there was a minimum of lawlessness. The County Gaol had a few more boarders Sunday than the previous day, but two of these were brought in by the O.P.P.

There was only one court sitting day involving two cars. It took place near Perry's service station, but no other details are available.

Tamworth Man Killed When Struck by Car

NAPANEE — Gerald Parks, 44, of Tamworth was fatally injured Sunday, Dec. 31, when he was struck by a car while a pedestrian on the road. No charges have been laid against Ralph Wightman, driver of the car. Parks is said to have been wearing dark clothing, and to have been walking with his back to the traffic. The accident is still being investigated by the OPP. Wightman's car sustained a broken windshield and minor damage. There were no injuries to the driver or his two passengers.

Minor Accidents Mar Holiday Weekend

DESERONTO — William D. Young was arrested Sunday afternoon and charged with impaired driving when he was involved in an accident at the corner of Main and Church on George Streets. His car received damage estimated at $200 and damage to that of Mrs. Ward Dawson of 81 Dundas St., Napanee is estimated at $600. There were no injuries.

INJURED IN FALL

Cornelius Maracle, 72, is in the Belleville General Hospital as the result of a fall from a ladder Monday afternoon. He was helping George Jackson to put siding on a boat house when a rung broke and he temporarily flew ladder and he fell to the ice. Dr. D. C. Mclarnon attended, and had him removed to hospital by ambulance.

POWER FAILURE

The Deseronto Fire Department was called out Sunday afternoon but found nothing to do by the time they reached the scene of the trouble. A Hydro lightning arrester had been damaged during the heavy snow out into it, and kicked out, interrupting the power and causing a short circuit. The alarmed someone who feared fire. Repairs were soon made by the Napanee Public Utilities repair crew. The incident occurred near Dawson's Motel, and power was off for a short time on Highway 2, about half way to Napanee, and beyond Deseronto, as part of the Tyendinaga Reserve.

Five Saved From Yawl In Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP) — Tenzer Agar Mary Shapiro's first trip to sea turned out to be a nightmare.

"I think it will be my last," she said Sunday as she stepped from a plane at Kennedy Airport.

Mary, 17, of Yonkers, N.Y., was one of five persons rescued from the stricken yawl Petrel after the 70-foot, ocean - going yacht fought mountainous Atlantic seas and hammering winds for two days and nights last week.

The five were brought to Norfolk, Va., Sunday on the British freighter Cotswold, which picked them up from the Petrel last Friday.

JUMPED FROM DECK

When they disembarked from the plane, they were carrying three orange life preservers they had worn when they leaped from the deck of the Petrel into the Cotswold's lifeboat.

Heidi's father, Hans Van Ness, who owns the Petrel, is another of the rescued. He and an older cousin, Bertita Kornmacher, greeted her at the airport.

"I was too seasick to know what was going on," said Heidi. "The cabin floor was flooded. No one ate for two days — just peanut butter and jelly."

Three other men are still with the Petrel, which is being towed to Stamford, Conn., from where it sailed a week ago on what was to have been a cruise to Bermuda, then to Antigua in the British West Indies.

The remaining two men in the party of 10 are aboard the coast guard cutter which is towing the Petrel.

The Petrel is expected to reach Stamford late tonight or early Wednesday morning.

STUDY SHIP

LONDON (AP)—Lloyd's Register of Shipping announced Sunday it has prepared drawings of a new super tanker capable of carrying 500,000 tons of oil. The tanker would be 1,300 feet long — one-third as long again as the liner Queen Mary. Lloyd's said the object of the study was to produce a realistic design for a 500,000-ton deadweight tanker capable of 18 knots.

Attempt Made To Burn Library At Pembroke

PEMBROKE (CP) — Police arrived in the nick of time Monday night to foil an attempt to burn down the public library.

Police Chief Bert Dickie said today "an arsonist is definitely on the loose in Pembroke."

Police received a telephone call from a resident about 9 p.m. Monday reporting a prowler at the library. When they arrived they found entry had been forced into the library through a basement window. A burning candle had been placed on a heap of paper.

STUDY SHIP

WASHINGTON (AP) — The British are reported considering offering a credit guarantee for Cuban purchase of a large fertilizer plant from Britain. U.S. officials said Sunday the matter is being discussed with Britain and apparently a final decision has not been reached. The United States strongly opposes such a transaction, which it feels would punch a big hole in U.S. efforts to quarantine Fidel Castro's Communist regime.

Viet Cong Defections Set Record While South's Desertions Decline

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. officials announced today that a record 20,242 Viet Cong defected in 1966 with the biggest surge coming in the final two months of the year.

A U.S. spokesman said the 1966 total was nearly double the 11,124 who left the Communist ranks during 1965 and was the highest number in the four years since South Vietnam began the open arms program to win over Viet Cong adherents.

Desertions from the South Vietnamese armed forces during 1965 totalled 113,000 and for the first half of 1966 reached 67,000. But officials contend the desertions in the last half of 1966 will show a decline because of new stiff penalties and improvement in pay and conditions of service.

In announcing the Viet Cong defections, the U.S. spokesman said December was a record month with 2,516 Communist adherents rallying to the South Vietnamese side, topping the previous monthly high of 2,505 in November.

The total for the four years of the open arms program is more than 48,000, the spokesman said.

Despite the claim of 20,242 defections in 1966, the strength of Communist forces in South Vietnam has remained throughout the year at about 280,000 men by U.S. official estimates. The Communists have filled their ranks through recruitment and infiltration from North Vietnam.

Designed for Limited War

The A7 Corsair II, a lightweight jet bomber designed specifically to meet the needs of a limited war such as in Vietnam, is shown on its maiden public flight at Dallas Naval Air Station. The U.S. Navy and Air Force are expected to purchase nearly 1,600 Corsairs in the next five years. It may carry the Walleye, a television-controlled guided missile.

Canadian Accident Toll Up, That in U.S. Falls

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 36 persons died in accidents across Canada during the 78-hour New Year's holiday weekend—five more than in the same weekend a year ago.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday, local times, showed 28 killed in traffic, nine in fires, three by drowning and six in miscellaneous mishaps.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council predicted 35 to 45 persons would be killed in the holiday weekend. The 1965-66 New Year's traffic toll was 36.

In Ontario 13 persons died in traffic, two in fires and a seven-month-old boy suffocated in his carriage.

CHICAGO (AP) — The U.S. traffic-death toll during the extended New Year weekend dropped sharply from last year's record and was below estimates made by safety experts.

During the 78-hour holiday period, from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday, 446 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents.

The total compared with 564 traffic fatalities during last year's three-day New Year weekend, the record for any year-end holiday.

The National Safety Council, which had estimated that motor vehicle accidents would result in between 460 and 560 deaths, said motorists were driving more safely and the toll "proves that improvement is possible."

Huge Wave Damages Ship

NEW YORK (AP)—The Liberian - registered tanker Failaika reported to the U.S. Coast Guard today that an "abnormal seawave" smashed her forward middleship bulkhead, destroying almost all of the navigational equipment.

The Failaika, which rigged up an emergency radio antenna and transmitted with batteries, reported that it was maintaining its course in the stormy Atlantic 600 miles east of New York.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian casualty figures listed in a Communist pamphlet on American bombings of North Vietnam are identical to those used in recent New York Times dispatches from Hapoi.

The 12-page document was distributed by a North Vietnamese official to reporters in Moscow in November. American intelligence says. It is titled Report of U.S. War Crimes in Nam Dinh City."

A copy of the pamphlet was provided to The Associated Press by government sources Sunday after The Washington Post compared the pamphlet's figures with those in The Times's stories reporting U.S. air attacks had killed many civilians in North Vietnam.

The dispatches in The Times by Harrison E. Salisbury have stirred new controversy over whether the United States deliberately has attacked civilian areas.

President Johnson and administration spokesmen say only military targets are being hit. The president told a press conference last Saturday that inevitably and almost invariably there were casualties among civilians in war zones. He said he regretted every casualty both in South Vietnam and North Vietnam.

Coast Guard Icebreaker Sailed Round Arctic Isle

OTTAWA (CP) — Circumnavigation of King William Island in the Canadian Arctic by the coast guard icebreaker Camsell was one of the highlights of Canadian coast guard operations in the Arctic during 1966.

The Camsell, based at Victoria, made its regular summer trip along the Arctic coastline as far east as Shepherd Bay and Spence Bay. Then it turned north into James Ross Strait and Franklin Strait.

Sept. 5 the Camsell steamed into Bellot Strait, sometimes regarded as the gateway between the eastern and western Arctic. The ship, commanded by Capt. J. A. Strand, then turned back westward and steamed south between King William Island and Victoria Island before heading for Cambridge Bay and its normal homeward route westward along the mainland coast.

In all 15 coast guard ships, four chartered dry cargo ships and three chartered tankers, as well as a number of freighters regularly engaged on northern routes, took part in shipping operations in the Arctic during the summer.

In the eastern Arctic the cargo ships were supported by the heavy icebreakers John A. Macdonald, d'Iberville, Labrador, N.B. McLean, Montealm and Wolfe. The coast guard's shallow - draft cargo carriers, Auk, Eider, Puffin, Raven and Gannet, were kept busy until the larger deep - draft ships could not come close to landing points.

Transport department officials said the supply operations went smoothly throughout the season.

Two Americans and Filipino Woman Are Freed by Viet Cong

SAIGON (CP) — Two American cans and a Filipino woman released by the Viet Cong were picked up by South Vietnamese government troops today, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The guerrillas' clandestine radio said earlier the men were being released after "repenting," but it did not name them.

American officials identified the two as Thomas R. Scales, 44, of Matamora, Pa., and Robert W. Monahan, 41, of Brooklyn, N.Y., both civilians employed by an engineering company improving Vung Tau airport, 45 miles southeast of Saigon.

The Filipino woman was named as Phelia Gaza, wife of a Filipino airline employee. She and her husband were captured in June and he died in captivity Dec. 30.

The Americans disappeared May 27 and their jeep was found empty on the road from Saigon to Vung Tau where they worked. They were picked up today in Bien Hoa province, well to the north of Saigon.

They were in poor condition.

In the air war, U.S. navy pilots attacked more than 200 North Vietnamese supply barges and junks Tuesday and reported destroying or damaging 111.

Moving in one day after U.S. Air Force planes shot down seven Communist MiG-21s, navy fivers from three aircraft carriers reported using rockets to damage a surface-to-air missile radar site and to set fire to a torpedo boat off North Vietnam's port of Haiphong.

Industrial Body Shakeup Is Urged

Houston Opposed

J. C. "Pat" Houston, chairman of the Belleville Industrial Commission said today his advice would be to ignore Alderman Arthur Keegan's suggestion the present Industrial Commission be replaced. Mr. Keegan is "crying in the wilderness," he claimed.

Mr. Houston said that apparently Alderman Keegan has forgotten the commission is an autonomous body operating under it's own bylaws.

These bylaws call for a seven-man directors board: two from the city council, one from the Chamber of Commerce and four from the industrialist body.

"These men are all professionals," Mr. Houston said. "To appoint commission members from city council would be like comparing professionals to amateurs," he said.

Mr. Houston said potential industry wouldn't have anything to do with an industrial commission made up entirely of aldermen.

Mr. Houston advised that the commission make-up be left alone.

"They are doing a difficult job and are doing it quietly and well," Mr. Houston said. "Council is being kept fully informed."

Commenting on Alderman Keegan's talk at council regarding employment conditions in Belleville and the need for the Quinte district being made a designated area, Mr. Houston said the statistics quoted were not new.

"The information was compiled from Industrial Commission reports," he said.

Contrary to Mr. Keegan's statement, Belleville residents working in other centres were not trained tradesmen.

He said there was still a decided scarcity of trained workers in Belleville.

J. C. HOUSTON

Gordon Said Returning

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province says former finance minister Walter Gordon will rejoin the Liberal cabinet sometime this week "probably as minister without portfolio."

In a front page story from its Ottawa bureau, the newspaper says it has "learned authoritatively" that Mr. Gordon, who resigned from the cabinet Nov. 9, 1965, following the last federal election, has been offered a new cabinet post by Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Gordon, whose policies during the 3½ years he was finance minister have been described as overly nationalistic by some Liberals, was succeeded by Mitchell Sharp.

As a Liberal backbencher, Mr. Gordon continued to put forward his views on U.S. investment in Canadian industry and resources and made a cross-Canada speaking tour last year.

Man-in-Street Reluctant to Comment

The proposal to re-organize Belleville's industrial commission has complex involvements as far as the typical citizen and businessman is concerned.

Most of those interviewed were reticent. They wanted to hear the issue argued pro and con by council before making up their minds.

However, several Front Street businessmen hinged remarks on a single theme: Would city councillors have sufficient time to devote to commission duties?

Jerry O'Connor, city jeweller: "I think it would be a mistake. They (councillors) haven't got time to be on council and run their businesses as well as giving the attention needed to industrial promotions.

"What prepares them to be able to talk to industrialists? The calibre of men on the commission now has been the best in my time."

Carl Rolul, music - camera centre owner: "They haven't the time and council shouldn't even consider it. I don't think they have given the industrial commission sufficient time to let anything they've done come to full fruition."

Dorval Airport Workers Back Refuelling Planes

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal International Airport's service workers were back on their jobs refuelling airliners at 1 a.m. today after ratifying settlement terms to end their four-day strike.

Nat Gray, representative for the International Association of Machinists, said Tuesday night there was much dissatisfaction with the agreement with Consolidated Aviation and Fuelling Services Ltd., although it was ratified by a large majority.

"There was a general consensus it was the best settlement we could get in the circumstances, it was settled for it." Consolidated Aviation, which holds the exclusive contract to refuel airliners at the airport, kept planes scheduled with supervisory personnel after the off men walked out Friday.

Tuesday's settlement terms were worked out after days of meetings between union and management representatives under the mediation of a federal conciliator, Charles Poirier of Montreal.

Mr. Gray said there was "considerable debate" at the workers' meeting during which the men voted to accept the new agreement.It did not give them a one-year contract—the main point in their strike demands.

The contract provides for an hourly increase of 79 cents, for refuellers and $1.25 for mechanics over a 30-month period.

Agreement on the wage terms had already been reached between the union and management negotiators before the strike began Friday.

Mr. Gray said the company had made some compromises, however, in allowing for improved sick leave benefits, increased overtime pay and longer holidays.

Keegan Wants Council Control

ALD. ARTHUR KEEGAN

Ald. Arthur Keegan wants the Belleville Industrial Commission completely re - organized.

He would replace the present body, composed largely of industrialists, by six aldermen.

Last night, at the inaugural council meeting of 1967, he gave notice of motion to that effect. Under the rules, there could be no debate on this motion. However, a poll of the council members taken by The Intelligencer today shows two members supporting Ald. Keegan, six, including Mayor Jack Ellis, opposed, and one favoring the mayor himself acting as industrial commissioner.

Reaction from private citizens was less clear. Most wanted to hear council debate Ald. Keegan's motion before making up their minds as to its merits.

The motion, up for discussion at the next meeting of council, asks that six aldermen be appointed to the industrial commission, with the present slate of directors to be retained in an advisory capacity.

The motion also asks that city council take the necessary steps to set up an industrial bank to assist the industrial commission. Purpose of the bank would be to provide financial assistance for the construction of industrial buildings, where necessary, to attract industry.

Later in a five-page address to council, Alderman Keegan declared that the city's agricultural economy depended upon new industry to bring it out of the doldrums.

He said the city's commercial and industrial assessment ratio was dropping, while residential assessment was increasing out of all proportion.

He claimed that in the past 10 years approximately 20 local businesses had folded and that another eight would close in another few months.

Over 600 Belleville persons were working in Kingston, al-

Conditions Flexible

MOSCOW (AP)—Tass quotes Premier Pham Van Dong of North Vietnam as telling a U.S. correspondent that Hanoi's four - point demands in Vietnam are "a basis for solution of the Vietnamese problem." The implication appeared to be that the four points were not necessarily pre-conditions to talks.

The Soviet news agency, reporting on an interview with the North Vietnamese premier by Harrison E. Salisbury of the New York Times, says Dong added that the big question is "to find a solution that can be enforced."

"The party which has to make the first steps is Washington. We have no doubt on this point. We cannot press history forward. If this does not come about today, it will come tomorrow. It's no use to make haste."

Tanker Nears Haven

HALIFAX (CP)—The Liberian tanker Pallaika, smashed by a giant wave in the Atlantic Monday night, is expected to arrive in Portland, Me., late tonight, the Air-Sea Rescue centre said today.

The 17,961-ton vessel, on her way to Portland from Nigeria, lost most of her radio and navigating equipment when the wave hit her bridge about 600 miles east of New York and it had been earlier estimated she would not arrive in Portland until late this week.

The centre said, however, that the Pallaika had increased her speed to 14 knots from three knots and was expected to reach Portland at 10 p.m. AST.

The United States Coast Guard cutter Vigilant reached the troubled tanker early today and was to accompany her to Portland.

Bullets Riddle Algerian Fugitive

MADRID (AP)—Spanish police searched today for two gunmen who assassinated Mohamed Khider, Algerian political exile accused of absconding with $1,000,000 from the treasury of Algeria's ruling National Liberation party.

Police believe the dispute over the missing FLN funds triggered the slaying of the former nationalist leader who was a key figure in the country's revolt against French rule.

Independence leader Ahmed Ben Bella, overthrown as Algerian premier in 1965, had accused Khider in 1964 of making off with the $1,000,000 and putting it in Swiss banks. Khider counter-charged that Ben Bella took the money.

Madrid security police checked the list of Algerian refugees known to be in Spain in an attempt to run down the assassins. They also questioned Khider's widow, Fetta Toudor, and her brother in an effort to identify the gunmen.

The gunmen intercepted Khider on the front door of his apartment entrance, let him pass, then opened fire as he entered his car.

As Khider tried to get into the car, he was brought down by several bullets. Neither his wife nor her brother were hit.

A revolutionary since he was 25, Khider spent many years in French jails. He was one of nine nationalist leaders who decided in 1956 to launch the war for independence.

Invasion Leaders Irate At Protection for Cuba

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The leaders of a tiny Cuban-Haitian exile army are in jail today, fuming over breakup of a fantastic plan to conquer Haiti and turn it into an invasion base against Cuba's Fidel Castro.

Officials at Key West's Monroe County jail said all were held for the federal government on charges of violating U.S. neutrality laws.

Bail was set at $5,000 for Rolando Masferrer, exiled Havana politician who has targeted before with the United States over plots to take Cuba.

Officials set bail at $2,500 each for most of 27 comrades jailed here with him after a roundup of about 80 motley uniformed persons, including a woman and a priest.

William Meadows, U.S. attorney for south Florida, said he was checking on whether Masferrer had violated restrictions imposed on him by the immigration service for previous war-making activities.

About 50 of the captives were taken to Miami for booking. All were released Tuesday night on recognizance bail of $100 each.

Masferrer, 45, criticized the United States for "protecting Fidel Castro" by arresting him and his band at a Florida Keys rendezvous where federal agents said the expedition was preparing to embark.

One of the group's officers, Anton Constanzo, said at Miami that he eluded arrest and hitchhiked home.

Constanzo said the expedition had planned to land at Port au Prince, the Haitian capital, join forces with 20 comrades in the island republic, and overthrow Haitian president Francois Duvalier's government with the help of native malcontents.

Then the island would be used as a base to make war on Castro, whose territory lies only 50 miles west across the windward passage. Constanzo said Masferrer was confident he could force a Cuba invasion army within a month.

Big Four Auto-makers Tell U.S. They Cannot Meet Safety Code

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stage is set for some give-and-take between the automobile industry and the U.S. government over safety features to be included in 1968 model cars.

The four major U.S. producers and many foreign manufacturers notified the commerce department Tuesday of their inability to meet all 23 safety standards proposed for next year's cars.

They indicated some could be met immediately, but requested a modification of some proposals and a delay in putting others into effect to allow for design and production changes.

Dr. William H. Haddon Jr., administrator of the national highway safety agency, withheld judgment on the thousands of pages of comments he received from manufacturers and suppliers.

But there already were indications the differences would be negotiated.

Haddon said it will take two weeks just to evaluate the industry comments. He said he won't know until that time whether negotiations will be held on possible modification of the 23 proposed standards.

Under law, his agency must publish by Jan. 31 its final standards for 1968 model cars. The time schedule Haddon said he intends to keep.

But the administrator already has voiced a willingness to modify the substance and timing of the proposed standards if necessary. And Alan Boyd, undersecretary of commerce for transportation, has said the department doesn't plan to be hard-headed about its proposals.

The domestic manufacturers asked Tuesday for a meeting with Haddon. They will likely get it since it's been the agency's policy to keep an open door.

Ford and General Motors said they could comply immediately with 19 of the 23 points. Ford listed seven others it could meet if minor changes were made in the proposed standards. GM listed eight of these.

American Motors said it could meet 16 almost immediately while Chrysler said it could meet eight immediately and three more if minor changes were made.

Chrysler said in reviewing the proposals it considered that the final version would be legally binding and any inability to comply with them could shut the company down.

Volkswagen, the West German manufacturer, said the proposed standards came as a shock and if finally adopted would mean an end of its U.S. market.

Rolls Royce, the British firm, said it could meet 10 standards immediately but incorporating all 23 of them into 1968 cars now would disrupt production because of the need to redesign and retool for them.

Reeve Requests Higher Pay for Twp. Workers

AMELIASBURG — Reeve George Cunningham at the inaugural meeting of Ameliasburg township council here last night proposed a nine-point program to be acted upon as "expeditiously as possible." He described the proposals as his own personal ideas and in the request for an increase in pay for township employees said he was moved to include the recommendation after looking at salary schedules of other municipalities. "In this respect I don't think Ameliasburg employees are being kept abreast of the times," he emphasized in asking for special consideration of the pay increase item. Reeve Cunningham said he considered from 10 to 15 per cent raises in salaries necessary due to the increased cost of living.

Reeve Cunningham also asked council to consider a pension plan for employees suggesting the Municipal Employees Plan sponsored by the Ontario government be looked into. The seventh point in the program calling for council to consider a five - year capital expenditure budget would enable township elected and appointed authority to project undertakings and spending more efficiently, the reeve explained. Additional items the reeve asked council to consider included:

Assume the responsibility of improving and maintaining a mile of Fenwood Gardens road and three quarters of a mile of Huff's Island Road, provide each township employee with an employer's manual for the purpose of briefing them in procedures as laid down by the Municipal Board; provide road superintendent Bill Knox with supervisory authority during emergencies; survey four miles of sidewalk in the township for the purpose of re-building deteriorated portions; appoint immediately a committee to organize and present the annual Apple Blossom Festival; seek ambulance service preferably from Belleville.

Councillor Norman Post asked if there is his first bid for municipal office this year sparked discussion about the possibility of two-year terms for council members. Reeve Cunningham answered that township clerk William Nightingale sought public opinion on this matter at the 1966 nomination meeting and prompted weak response. "On the other hand there is interest in the advance poll for residents' convenience and I feel council should make an effort to provide this accommodation this year, the reeve said.

50 Appointments Made by Council Ald. J. Deacon on Hospital Board

City council this year will have two representatives on the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors instead of one council appointee, which has been the case for the past two years.

Yesterday council appointed Alderman Jack Deacon to the hospital board, replacing board chairman, A. M. Haig. Mayor J. R. Ellis is ex-officio member on the board.

Under the private bill setting up the joint ownership of the hospital between the city and the county of Hastings, city council makes no appointments to the board. However, there is no requirements that they be from council.

The appointment of Ald. Deacon to the hospital board was one of more than 50 appointments made by council in various boards and committees.

Commenting on the appointments, Mayor Ellis said he had been pleased that so many citizens this year took the opportunity of writing in and offering their services in various capacities.

The mayor said that one of the most controversial appointments which council had to deal with was that to the hospital board of governors. He said the decision of council to appoint an alderman was made only after much discussion and careful consideration.

He said council took into consideration the fact that three quarters of the representation from the county of Hastings are from county council while last year he had been the only city council representative on this very important board.

Mayor Ellis said he made it a point to attend every meeting of the board which he possibly could but he welcomed Alderman Deacon sitting on the board with him.

"Council's choice of Alderman Deacon, I think was a wise one since he is not without experience on the board and this will be essential in the trying and busy times ahead".

WILL BE MISSED

At the same time, Mayor Ellis said that Mr. Haig, who has served the city of Belleville for many years both on city council and on the hospital board, would be missed.

Mayor Ellis noted that Mr. J. R. Blackbourn was leaving the Belleville Retarded Children's Education Authority and was being replaced by Bram Humphreys. Also Paul Wiegand was leaving the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board to be replaced by Mrs. Margaret Orr.

Mr. L. E. McLean is being replaced on the Court of Revision by Richard Barrett and Mrs. A. S. Lewis is being replaced on the Library Board by Mrs. Bunker.

Another change is the appointment of Bruce Smith to the Moira River Conservation Board in place of George L. Brown. Mr. Smith is a former chairman of the Moira Authority.

MANY REASONS

In noting the various replacements made, Mayor Ellis emphasized that this did not necessarily mean the individuals lose out in an election. He said there were many reasons why these persons were not being returned to the various boards or commissions.

To those retiring Mayor Ellis said he was sure he expressed the feelings of all council when he said we re-council are grateful for the many hours that these unselfish citizens have given to the furthering of their community.

The list of appointments approved by council is as follows:

Parks - Recreation and Arena - 1967 - Alderman Williams, Alderman Keegan, Alderman Joss, Alderman Soden; Mrs. Richard Ellis, Mr. J. D. Templeman, Mr. Robert Phillips.

Construction Business in Twp. Good

Last night township building inspector Harry Hayles reported to council he had issued permits covering $736,644 during the 12 month period. Among the permits issued was one in the amount of $100,000 for the Kente acre public school, which left a remainder of $381,664 of construction business to provide additional assessment and increased tax revenue for the township.

Council Requests Sales Tax On Building Materials Be Either Abolished or Reduced

Belleville city council feels that the federal sales tax on building materials should be either abolished or reduced to give a boost to the home building industry.

Yesterday at the first meeting of the New Year, council members concurred in a city solicitor resolution asking that the federal and provincial governments be urged to seriously consider the reduction or elimination of sales taxes as they apply to building materials.

Mayor J. R. Ellis said sales tax was not an additional cost of up to $1,000 for home owners and since the tax had been introduced housing construction had fallen off badly in Belleville.

DIFFERENT ATTITUDE

Alderman Don Joss took a different attitude, claiming that high money had as much to do with the fall off in housing construction as did the sales tax.

He said Belleville council had plenty to worry about without discussing taxes imposed at the federal and provincial level.

But Alderman Doug Boyle supported the mayor's view point. He claimed a decreased sales tax would mean added housing for Belleville.

Council tabled a resolut i o n from the city of Windsor asking that the province pay a school tax rebate for taxpayers 65 years and over.

Mayor Ellis said a similar resolution which he had placed before council last year had been turned down mainly because it was premature.

BRIEF REQUESTED

Now, however, other municipalities seemed to be taking it up.

He noted, however, that the Windsor resolution actually did not ask for the older people, other than suggest the provincial government allow school tax rebates.

He urged that the city manager compile a complete and comprehensive brief on the matter of the municipality allowing school tax rebates to old people and in view of asking support from the Ontario Mayors a nd Reeves Association.

Council also tabled a resolution from the city manager calling for outstanding welfare accounts owing other municipalities to be written off. The five accounts totalled just over $6,000.

EVERY EFFORT MADE

City Manager R. J. Reynolds reported that the city solicitor had advised it would be futile to pursue the accounts further unless court action was instituted. Even if such action were taken Mr. Reynolds said there was a doubt of success.

He said the local welfare department has made every effort to collect the accounts, but with no results. He said the other municipalities felt the accounts were not their responsibility.

Council set the dates for installment payment of realty and business taxes for this year.

Interim realty tax instalments will be due on February 28th and April 28, and regular tax billing payments on the 30th, August 31st and October 31st.

The interim business tax billing instalment will be due March 31st and the regular tax billing on September 29th.

Aldermanic Supporters Few for Keegan's Industrial Proposal

Belleville aldermen were split today on the question of changing the "complexion of the Industrial Commission.

Of nine polled, five were against Ald. Arthur Keegan's suggestion to replace the present commission with six aldermen. Two were in favor, one was noncommittal and another suggested the industrial commission be scraped.

Ald. Douglas Boyle said he didn't think it was feasible to replace the present commission with aldermen. "The Industrial Commission in an economist body," he said. "I think it is equally as capable as any aldermanic group would be."

Ald. Donald Joss also felt it was not a good idae. "We have an alderman on it right now (Ald. Carruthers) and perhaps another one wouldn't hurt," he said. "But I think those men on the commission now are eminently qualified and I can't see where aldermen would do a better job."

Staunchest supporter of Ald. Keegan's proposal was Ald. Kevin Soden who agreed it had merit. "It's quite an upheaval from what they've been going along with," he said. "The present men have the industrial knowledge and experience and could offer their advice and assistance.

"The problem you run into is that once sometimes as they form a board, these fellows (industrialists) might work against new industry coming in. Not that the present members do, but this industrial commission is made up of the industrialists in town who could conceivably not want new industries bidding for their labor.

"Council would gain more active control through this plan but I don't know which aldermen could give it the time it would warrant."

Ald. Enos David felt the Industrial Commission as such is a waste of money and the Mayor should be industrial commissioner.

"We're just as far ahead without an industrial commission really", he said. "In every case where towns get industrial results it's usually the mayor of the municipality who gets it. He has the influence and the prestige".

Ald. ack Allin said the results of the Industrial Commission "haven't been satisfactory. Certainly something has to be done", he said, "but I just want to give it some thought first".

Ald. John Deacon felt the aldermen already have enough to do without taking on something they know nothing about. "The present members of the commission are knowledgeable men and they have the connections they can use and the time to devote to it," he said. "They all want to see development here too, just like everyone else does".

Ald. T. A. Carruthers, a member of the commission, said he thinks the commission is doing a good job. "The Industrial Commission is an entity in itself," he said, "so I'm not sure how Ald. Keegan proposes to go about changing it.

"I believe the charter calls for the mayor and one representative from council. Of course if the city decides to stop the grant, then it would have to fold, but I don't think they have that in mind."

He said it wouldn't hurt to have some aldermen as members of the commission, but not on the board of directors. "The more interested people on the commission, the better it is."

Ald. Donald Williams felt an aldermanic commission would become too unwieldy and said people haven't given it a fair chance yet.

"They've only been in operation a few years," he said. "They've got to sell the city. Once they get themselves established they'll get going."

He said people are crying about Belleville when actually it is better off than most cities in Ontario.

Ald. J. R. Scott said: "I think there is some merit in the plan to bring this commission directly under the control of the people and thereby make it responsible to the taxpayers."

Mayor Jack Ellis today pointed out that the Belleville Industrial Commission is a corporate body with a provincial charter and as such could not be voted out of existance by city council.

He admitted, however, that council could set up a second industrial commission composed only of aldermen.

Mayor Ellis said the Industrial Commission could appoint more aldermen to its board but felt it would be very unwise for it to do so.

"Industrial prospects coming to the city wish to remain anonymous and will talk only to the industrial commissioner, or other industrialists", he said.

"They will not talk to members."

most 100 in Oshawa and others in the Rochester area. Mortgage money for building homes was being refused for these people in Belleville but they could get approval for building in Kingston or Napanee.

The alderman said the problem was the lack of industrial development in Eastern Ontario, a problem which he felt could be overcome through united action.

Alderman Keegan called on Mayor J. R. Ellis to give leadership "because the entire Bay of Quinte area designated as a depressed area, with the view of bringing industry into the area."

Reference was made to a letter to the editor from Belleville realtor Doug Grant which appeared recently in The Intelligencer. The letter stressed the industrial and educational needs of the Quinte area and drew mention in many other Ontario papers.

Letters received by Mr. Grant from the Ontario department of economics and development and from Ontario Premier John P. Robarts were read to council by Alderman Keegan.

The letters outlined what the Ontario department was doing to encourage uniform and sensible development across the province.

The letter from Premier Robarts noted that the department of economics and development was directing its efforts toward the establishment of industry outside the metropolitan area.

In addition the government had appointed a cabinet committee with complete advisory staff to find ways and means of dispersing industry outside the Toronto area.

Alderman Keegan suggested that Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South, be invited to speak to council to enlighten members on the whole matter.

Following Alderman Keegan's remarks Mayor Ellis asked that copies of his address be made available to council members.

He also asked that the alderman prove his statistics which, he said, put the city "in the worst possible light."

Following the council meeting Mayor Ellis told reporters that his year - end report to council late in December had refuted many of the statistics given by Alderman, Keegan.

Keep Water Out

MORSE, Sask. (CP)—A two-mile system of road embankment and a dam has been opened here, 75 miles west of Moose Jaw, after $165,000 construction costs. Control gates under the road protect about 2,000 arable acres from flooding by Reed Lake.

District Bird Count Made by Naturalists

In spite of a chilling east wind, everyone enjoyed the outing. Seven cars containing 20 members combed the Belleville area in all directions for a radius of about seven miles from the city. Terry Sprague also covered Big Island and Huff's Island.

The following is the total number of birds seen: six sparrow hawks, two rough legged hawks, one rusty blackbird, three red tailed hawks, one pigeon hawk, 56 goldfinches, four horned larks, 42 juncoes, one Canada jay, one crow, one Virginia rail, three sharp shinned hawks, 350 snow bunting, five broad winged hawks, four red shouldered hawks, 610 starlings, 27 bluejays, 270 herring gulls, one Arctic three toed woodpecker, seven downy woodpeckers, three hairy woodpeckers, four white breasted nuthatches, 417 house sparrows, two northern shrike, 228 tree sparrows, 57 black capped chickadees, four brown hodded chickadees, two song sparrows, 143 rock doves and 16 merganasers.

At 4.30 p.m., all met at the Mac Wallbridge home for a potluck supper and games.

Behind the "Glass"

By C.D.T.

The members of the Quinte Curling Club have fully recovered from the New Year's festivities and are back at their favorite game with a full program of events slated for the near future.

The Consul playoffs will be held at Napanee on January 20 and 21 and the Quinte Curling Club will be represented by a rink of John Woodcroft, Ken Thomson, Wil Weymark and Neville Burroughs as skip. This rink took nine other rinks into camp in a round robin affair and won their last game in an extra end. Although this rink is not long in experience they play well together and every member of the rink can make the "tough" shot in a pinch and they will give a lot of rinks plenty of trouble before they are put out.

On Saturday at the 6RD rink the preliminary round of the Tankard will take place. This will be a district meet and is a two-rink effort, the combined scores winning. The two rinks from the local club will be Dr. McCorquodale, Al McCullam, Bill Riley and Ron Bean at the other Al Shukster, Jim Perrin crew, Dave Brown and Murray Jackson. This competition is a knockout draw.

The big week of the Centennial celebration is fast approaching and plans have been completed for an excellent and enjoyable time. There are events for every day of the week starting on January 15th with the invitation men's spiel for the closing event. At present there are 15 outside rinks entered some from as far away as Hershey, Penn., and these will be augmented by nine local rinks. The program will be opened by a church service in St. Thomas Church on Sunday and it is hoped that a full turnout of the members will result. The whole event will be kicked off by the Sportsman's spiel and this is an event eagerly looked for by all members.

Bridge Roads, Arena and Sewers Mayor's Priority Projects for '67

A start on the proposed Dundas Street road project which ultimately would provide a new bridge over the Moira river, construction of a new arena on the Belleville fairgrounds and installation of sanitary sewers in the Ward are three projects which should receive priority in the city this year.

This is the opinion of Mayor J. R. Ellis who yesterday at the Kiwanis club noon luncheon outlined city projects to be considered for the year 1967.

The report by Mayor Ellis was such as would normally have been given at the inaugural meeting of council. This year, however, due to the two-year term of office for all elected positions, there was no inaugural meeting.

Summing up, Mayor Ellis said that in all, eight million dollars worth of capital works and 2½ million dollars for public utilities commission services were recommended for consideration within the next five years.

If they were all completed there would be an increase of approximately four mills on the tax rate, or a new increase in taxes of about 12 per cent.

He compared the 1965 per capita tax rate in Belleville of $106.76 with the Peterborough rate of $140.25, Lindsay's at $143.32, Chatham $143.46 and Oshawa $157.89 and said that Belleville could increase its rate by 20 per cent and still be below these centres.

"No one wants any more than I do to see taxes remain reasonable but taxes are caused by two things: capital expenditures and repairs and maintenance.

"It seems to me to be very foolish saving to leave undone some of the capital works which would greatly reduce the cost of repairs and maintenance to the old facilities."

Specific items in the capital works budget proposed by the mayor were a request from the public school board for $250,000 for a new school in the northwest section of the city and half a million dollars for the utilities commission for the extension of primary watermains.

The allocation for local improvements this year is $340,000, to be used for sanitary sewers, local watermains, roads and sidewalks.

An amount of $75,000 will be added to the works budget for installation of alarm services, and another $200,000 for provision of sanitary sewers in parts of the city not yet serviced.

This year also an amount of $150,000 will be provided in the capital works budget to improve Sidney Street to a four - lane artery from Dundas to a point about opposite Wilson Ave.

The mayor said the Dundas Street bridge complex had been talked of for many years and the firm of Dunlop and Smith was scheduled to outline the proposal to council in the near future.

Mayor Ellis said he could not say what course council will take when it discusses the Dundas Street project, next month but admitted he was disappointed that some council members have taken the stand that the project should not go ahead.

The mayor said he was supportive of an amount of $140,000 being placed in this year's capital works budget as a start towards the construction of sanitary sewers on St. Paul and South Front streets. These, he expected, would be constructed as local improvements with the city as a whole picking up the difference in cost between the now normally required and the larger size required because of desire to serve the entire area.

Referring to the proposal to construct a new arena at the fairgrounds, Mayor Ellis said such a structure was badly needed.

"The old arena near city hall has served us well and faithfully, but I am sure almost everyone in the city agrees that it is woefully inadequate for the recreational needs and requirements of a city of 33,000 people."

"We are overdue for a better facility and I am assured that ice time would be booked solidly from the time of its opening, in addition to a full schedule at the existing arena".

Welfare Probe Will Be Thorough: Alderman

Members of the special committee of city council appointed to investigate welfare matters in Belleville will invite written presentations from interested persons, it was stated today by committee chairman Alderman Donald Williams.

"We want to get the full truth of the entire matter," he said.

Alderman Williams said written presentations from welfare recipients, as well as from city doctors and private welfare organizations would be invited. He asked that the written submissions be in the committee's hand by Jan. 21 following which meetings and interviews will be held.

East-West Relations

One of the many ironies and paradoxes of the world scene today is the love-hate relationship that exists between Russia and the Western world.

In Viet Nam, Soviet anti-aircraft guns and missiles are blasting American aircraft. But of course the Soviets are not at war with the United States, any more than the U.S. is at war with North Viet Nam. Well, not really . . . East and west may be shooting at each other, but in this instance war has never been declared officially.

And the irony of it all, and the paradox, is that after more than 20 years of "cold war" fencing the United States and Russia are actually on fairly good terms. This goes for relations between the latter and other countries of the western world as well.

Indeed, the term "cold war" has really gone out of fashion, and what remains of it in terms of the east-west confrontation has shifted its focus. China is now regarded as the greater menace by both Washington and Moscow, and the word is that a recent increase in Russia's military spending is to strengthen its defences vis-a-vis China. Soviet missiles are now said to be aimed at Chinese cities as well as those of the western world.

But to turn to the more agreeable aspects of this business of global power politics, here is one example that is close to home. That is, apart from spy scares, the arrest of Soviet agents and their expulsion, and some of their diplomats found to have been engaged in espionage activities, Canada has always enjoyed good relations with Russia.

One area of common interest is in the development of the Arctic regions of both lands. In this it is generally acknowledged the Soviets are more advanced. They have built whole new communities and provided accompanying services. Canada's Minister of Northern Affairs, Arthur Laing, headed a tour of inspection of these facilities last year. Here in Belleville, a representative of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, addressed a service club on Arctic development.

And word had have envisaged the establishment of a direct air link between Montreal and Moscow, by Air Canada in concert with its Soviet counterpart, Aeroflot, and fares of $371 for groups of 15 or more people.

Aeroflot has even taken advertising space in Canadian newspapers to inform travellers of its service to Moscow on board the world's largest airliner, the TU-114. And on the way, it "tickles your palate with Russian dishes, caviar, vodka and the finest brandies and vintage wines."

Well, it might not be bad at that, although the TU-114 with its turbo-prop engines, is said to be a noisy brute. But by and large the Soviet airline is as "with it" these days as any in the west, even down to the comely stewardesses — three of whom, incidentally, are shown in the airline's current advertisement.

The hope is that this new link between Canada and the Soviet Union, along with the service being provided by the liner Alexander Pushkin between Montreal and Leningrad, will serve to give added lustre to this country's relations with the outside world during Centennial Year.

Jack Ruby Dead

Ruby's death from cancer came more than three years after he fired the shot that killed Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged assassin of President Kennedy.

Convicted of the murder of Oswald, and sentenced to death, Ruby had been granted another trial which was due to have been held shortly.

The Texas nightclub owner, like Oswald himself, was a shadowy character catapulted to dubious prominence by his fateful rendezvous with time and circumstances on that sultry day in Dallas in November 1963.

If there were any sympathy at all for those with fingers on rifle and pistol triggers at that time, Ruby may have deserved some, for his action served as a kind of release, albeit in the form of anti-climax, for the anguish and bitterness felt by millions at the death of the president.

Since then the man has languished in jail, a victim of the tortuous processes of the United States legal system. The manner of his death, too, is a stark reminder of the ravages of inoperable cancer. Ruby's condition was diagnosed but a month ago, and from then on it was only a matter of time before the end came.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
January 4, 1947

Harry K. Hunt, a former Belleville boy was installed as president of the Toronto Kiwanis Club for 1947 by the Lieutenant Governor at the Royal York Hotel on Thursday, Jan. 2. Mr. Hunt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Hunt of this city.

TV Programs Spark Bomb Scares

Christian Science Monitor

In recent days two programs appeared on television featuring bomb scares on passenger planes, and one TV humorist considered the subject good for a laugh. Within a day after the showing of "The Doomsday Flight", five airlines had received bomb threats according to the Federal Aviation Agency.

The other program depicting destruction of a plane by the planting of a bomb aboard, was "The FBI" a show that has the express approval of the director of the FBI. Anticipating that mentally unstable persons might find showing of "The Doomsday Flight" provocative, the Air Line Pilots Association registered an advance protest, but to no avail. The Air Transport Association of America also expressed concern.

Exposure, when carefully done, can help to prevent wanton acts of destruction. But when otherwise done, it can encourage those very acts. While we would not argue for the censoring of such shows by any authority, we would make plea for the judgment, discretion, and commitment to the public welfare that will voluntarily withhold such broadcasting or telegasting of material apt to fan man's worst fears of passions. For there is evidence that, in so doing, it induces the very results which all men of good will would wish to prevent.

It is possible to treat of a theme, about which the public should be alert — whether it be crime, accident, disease, or disaster — without vividly portraying the morbid details. What could be more absurd than graphically to suggest to the weak, frightened, deranged or maliciously aggressive mentality a destructive plan of action or some dread consequence?

It is highly suggestive thing to depict the formulation or execution of a scheme to blow up a plane with a bomb. It is equally suggestive to play up the morbid details of a cruelly planned or performed murder.

The media have the moral obligation to avoid planting in either conscious or subconscious mind thoughts, suggestions which could bring harm to their viewers, listeners, readers, or innocent third parties. When advertisers graphically depict symptoms, say of a cold or headache, may it not have an adverse effect on suggestible viewers?

Is it not likely that impressionable thought, when encouraged to dwell upon the morbid, the cruel, or the depraved, will eventually bring these into its experience, harming either oneself or others? In doubtful cases, let the media act so as to protect the public.

Computers Come of Age

Christian Science Monitor

A dozen or so years ago the computer was still a novelty. Today there are roughly 25,000. The United States has more than three times as many as all the rest of the world put together.

The major development in electronic data processing promises to be in the field of computer communications. This development will obviate the need for mass production, but the number of computers is still expected to double in the next six or seven years.

It is predicted that within a generation many will have in their homes — along with the telephone, radio, and television — not their own personal computer but a computer terminal (resembling a teletype console.) This terminal will put them in touch with a multiple-use central computer.

Just as one now deals with an electric utility firm or board, he is expected to avail himself of the service of a data-utility firm. This company will process information at a low unit-cost to its subscribers.

English in the Minority

Winnipeg Star

One would be inclined to think the large majority of members of the Commons in Britain would be Englishmen, with a scattering of Scottish, Irish, Welsh or others, but one member has it all figured out that the English members are now a minority of the House.

He is Elystan Morgan, himself a Welshman. He estimates there are at least 130 members who are either Welsh or of Welsh descent and that, if the Scottish and Irish are added, these minorities comprise the majority.

Perhaps it is the genius of the English that they are willing to accept the best of the lesser races and use them to their own advantage. This is nothing new, as many have been put into the highest places. David Lloyd George was Welsh and Bonar Law, Ramsay MacDonald and Harold Macmillan were Scots. (Bonar Law was born in Canada but reared in Scotland.) Disraeli, of course, was Jewish.

Come to think of it, how long will it be before those of English, Irish and Scottish origin combined will be outnumbered in Canada's Commons? It won't be very long, with increasing numbers of men and women of German, Ukrainian, Polish, Italian and other origins, combined with those of French race, being elected.

We don't complain about this and indeed, it won't matter much, in a few generations, except for new immigrants, there will be few in Canada who will be able to boast of being of "pure stock" of any kind. Intermarriage is taking care of that.

Strictly Personal
Political Terminology

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

My speaking of the "falsely conservative" position recently reminded me that many readers have asked for a column dealing with slippery words as "conservative," "liberal," "radical." These words have not only changed their meanings in the last 100 years; they have also come to be used as terms of derogation by their opponents.

Thirty years ago, in a memorable speech at the Lotos Club in New York, the late Dorothy Thompson discussed these words and their lost meanings. "We are living," she began, "in the midst of lost words." Radical, conservative, and liberal were "glorious words originally," for each represented some necessary element, some essential strand, in the fabric of civilization.

"Radical" meant "going to the roots" and treating the causes of problems, rather than their symptoms; "conservative" meant "holding to that which is good and has stood the test of time"; while "liberal" meant "being generous in our judgments, and giving men a break."

The ideal to aim at, she said, was to be "a radical as a thinker, a conservative as to program, and a liberal as to temper." But, of course, not one person in a thousand can achieve this harmony, this balance of thought, action and inclination.

Most of us tend to adopt one monolithic position and stick with it for the reason of consistency, even though there is little that is consistent about human affairs. I think it could be demonstrated that the "classical" conservative, liberal and radical attitudes of a generation ago are outmoded — and the most people who represent these viewpoints are still fighting on a battleground that have been evacuated by history.

The radical, for instance, is still fighting a kind of "capitalism" that exists only in leftwing caricatures; the conservative, likewise, is still opposing a "socialism" that bears no resemblance to reality; while the liberal is still repeating the tired slogans that were fashionable a generation ago, but have lost much of their relevance today.

The world is simply changing much faster than our ideologies and attitudes; much of what we believe is obsolete; and there is a tremendous "reality gap" between what is actually taking place in our social organization and the ways we interpret these developments.

We need a whole new language of political discourse, one that is descriptive of modern reality, rather than the old jargon that is so overloaded with emotional connotations that it impedes communication more than conveying it. Our dictionaries are revised every few decades, because the language keeps changing, but our lexicon of political jags patiently lies behind the astounding transformations of modern society.

Oral Polio Vaccine Needs No Booster

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it necessary to take a booster of oral polio vaccine (the sugar cubes)? If so, how often? — D. M.

So far the evidence indicates that this type of vaccine will give lifelong immunity without need of boosters. However, testing will continue for a long time, and if after some years there are signs of waning protection, there will be plenty of time to advise people. Unless such a warning is issued, you need not have a booster.

The oral polio vaccine is different in this respect: It is a live virus, although modified to such a degree that it cannot cause the disease. Yet it is active enough to cause the blood to create antibodies or protective particles to fight off the disease if one is exposed to the real virus.

The modified virus survives and continues to produce antibody in the gastro-intestinal tract. As long as it remains, it keeps the blood circulating the necessary antibodies. This has been so for as long as the oral vaccine has been in use, and that is why we presume that it will continue for a lifetime.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has had sinus trouble for several years. Recently he has a pain over his eye and his nose was blocked on one side. When his nose was open, the pain went away.

The doctor gave him some medications but they only unblock one where the pain was. He does not get the pain now but has a discharge which falls into his throat and makes him cough and sneeze.

The doctor told him not to do any painting, but he has been doing some anyway. I hope you can help him. — Mrs. H.

If he disobeys his doctor's instructions, I don't see what I can do to help. I assume that the doctor has reason to think that an allergic condition for irritation from paint thinner may be involved. Allergy often is one factor in sinus disease.

You may still benefit from my booklet, "You Can Cure Sinus Trouble." To receive a copy, send 25 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Chicago Tribune Syndicate, P.O. Box 758, Dundee, Ill. It will explain what sinus trouble is, how it can start and what differing causes may be at work. You'll see some particularly corrective sinus information may be without pain but still cause a good deal of trip with its consequent throat irritation.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have trouble with scaly lips and have tried various brands of lipstick from cheap to the most expensive. I do take allergy shots for various things, but I assume sun is partly to blame. I have tried many kinds of salves but nothing helps and some make it worse. Have you any suggestions? — D. H.

Since you know to begin with what you have allergies to, it may be a vital clue to your lip problem. Why not try using nothing at all — just plain lips, anything else — for a few weeks and see if that improves things. If you are a smoker, cigarettes may be a factor.)

I've seen this work for girls who've been told to give up lipstick. Later, trying one thing at a time, they found out what they could safely use and what they couldn't.

Jailbreaks Worry UK

Brantford Expositor

The rate at which British convicts are escaping from jail makes Lord Mountbatten's report that there is no really secure prison in Britain the understatement of the year. Appointed two months ago to head an inquiry into prison escapes and security following the jail break of a man serving a 42-year sentence for espionage, Mountbatten's committee has also confirmed just how insecure Britain's obsolete prisons are.

Supporting the evidence of the commission is the rash of prison breaks that have occurred since the report's release just before Christmas. Most escapes have occurred at Liverpool prison and the once dreaded Dartmoor. Britain's fleeing felons number more than 500 this year, of which about one-fifth have escaped from jails once regarded as reasonably secure.

Lord Mountbatten's answer to the getaway problem is to increase prison staff, to improve the quality of administration by recruiting better trained and higher paid personnel, to provide a Board of Visitors for each prison service and the Home Office and, of course, to tighten security generally through the use of up-to-date scientific and electronic equipment.

It is clear from the admiral's report that prisoners are outsmarting their jailors and will continue to do until the service is smartened up. As Lord Mountbatten has forecast, it will need a lot of money to carry out his recommendations, but unless the necessary reforms are carried through there will not a prison make for British convicts. They can afford to thumb their noses with impunity at their jailors.

Reform Issue In Balance

Montreal Star

Prime Minister Pearson's remarks about the study of possible constitutional reform in Ottawa are a valuable counterweight to the continuing agitation for reform which proceeds in the province of Quebec. Here, the study, widely publicized, has been going on since 1960 or 1961. A legislative committee is on the job, the estates-general is getting up and, of course, the St. Jean Baptiste societies are hard at work.

There is, of course, no possible objection to any of this. Continuing debate is an old way of making sure that some of the statements made, including some by Premier Lesage and French-speaking Ottawa, left the impression that the "two nation" theory is in the ascendant and that nothing else will do than a degree of autonomy which would be virtual separation. Absorbed by their own sense of grievance, too little account is taken of the practical consequences of such a move.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jan. 4, 1967 . . .

Charles I of England took soldiers into the House of Commons 325 years ago today—in 1642—in an attempt to arrest five members, who escaped out the back door. This invasion led to the King any sympathizers he might have had in the lower house and helped to precipitate the Civil War. Since then, no British monarch has attempted to enter the House of Commons. Speeches from the throne are delivered in the upper House of each Parliament.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1917 — Germans and Austrians evacuated the Dobruja district of Rumania; Germans were driven off after bombarding and attacking British trenches near Armentieres.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1942—the RAF destroyed 44 Axis aircraft on the ground at Castelvetrano, Sicily; Japanese aircraft bombed in Australian airfield on New Britain; Axis bombers attacked Malta.

Billion Dollar Potential

Canadian Firm Sells 'Hindsight' to European Gas Developers

TORONTO (CP) — Still another Canadian company is hoping to get a piece of the action developing in the billion-dollar-plus potential of Europe's new-found gas fields.

Consumers' Gas Co., which distributes gas to customers in southern Ontario and the Ottawa Valley, recently has sent teams of technical and marketing experts to five European countries to give advice on handling natural gas.

Billing itself as the company which can offer the wisdom of hindsight, Consumers is putting itself into competition with consulting engineers from many parts of the world in hopes of winning some of the rich fees that soon will be available from European gas companies.

Although the use of gas as a fuel has a long history in Europe, most of the continent's experience has been with manufactured gas. Now, with major discoveries made under the North Sea and in England and intensive exploration still going on, most countries will be switching to natural gas.

Consumers, which went through the change a decade ago when western natural gas became available in the east to replace manufactured gas, figures it can save Europeans a lot of time and money by passing on its experiences.

So far, about 75 men have worked in England, Holland, Belgium, Germany and Spain and an equal number have been tabbed for further overseas work, some possibly going to Australia and Japan.

The company won't say what fees have been collected, but a spokesman says they have more than paid their way for the services given.

Consumers experts have helped work out rate structures and sales programs for companies that will be switching to natural gas, as well as giving advice on public relations and technical problems involved in preparing existing distribution systems to take the new fuel.

"There's a lot more involved in making the switch just turning to a new source," a gas official says.

"Because of differences in pressure and composition, new safety standards must be met, pipelines reinforced, outlets changed and a whole host of related problems dealt with."

In some cases, the Consumers task forces have sent raw material back to Toronto where it is processed in a computer for fast answers.

"We found we could offer them the wisdom of hindsight, probably worth more than any other single ingredient in decision making," says M. W. Kelly, Consumers vice - president in charge of distribution.

"When we finish a job we always tell a firm that if they don't think they've been well served they shouldn't pay our bill.

"So far, everyone has paid."

Manufacturers of gas appliances and equipment have been eyeing the expected boom in the European market for some time.

Through agreements worked out by the Canadian Gas Association with several countries, manufacturers now can design and build appliances to European specifications and get them tested for an official stamp of approval.

While marketing predictions for Europe are hedged with questions about how quickly the European countries move on the project, appliance sales generally are expected to at least double by 1970.

That could mean a $100,000,000-a-year prospect, one official says.

Atlantic Wins Sugar Suit

TORONTO (CP) — Atlantic Sugar Refineries Co. Ltd. said Tuesday it had received a favorable judgment against National Dry Ltd. of London, Ont.

Atlantic had sued National Dry for money it said was owing on a shipment of sugar used in making soft drinks. National opposed the action on grounds a shipment of liquid sugar from Atlantic was discolored and could not be used.

Mr. Justice W. D. Parker of the Supreme Court of Ontario ruled the sugar was suitable for its intended purpose and awarded Atlantic $7,078 plus costs.

Three New Schools To Open in County

PICTON (Staff) — To begin the Centennial year in Prince Edward County the opening of three new schools will mark the balance of the school term.

Opening Tuesday for the first time was the new Prince Edward School for the Mentally Retarded. The new school classes will be held in the First Baptist Church in Picton, the new Athol Township School in Cherry Valley also opened its doors for the first time today.

Next week the third school, North Marysburgh's new central school will open. This is located near the old school on Lake-on-the-Mountain.

During the holidays, teachers in Athol Township have been busy moving their records, books and equipment and getting set up for the first day of classes in the ultra modern new school. Meanwhile contractors have been busy putting on the finishing touches, some work still remains to be done, now that the school is opened.

More new school openings can be expected before 1967 comes to a close. Work is progressing rapidly on a large addition to the Wellington District High School area. Hallowell is also building a new central school which should be completed next year. Plans are in the final stages and tenders for construction will be called in the latter part of January for completion in September.

Gas Drilling Now Under Way Near Consecon

PICTON (Staff) — Centennial year in Prince Edward County could well be a rich year if natural gas is discovered in sufficient quantity to be used commercially. Drilling is now under way by Consumer Gas Co. L. H. Mclennan well known Wellington well driller is doing the initial drilling. With his equipment he drills an eight-inch hole from 60 to 200 feet in depth. The company then eases eight feet with concrete and then continues drilling an eight-inch hole.

The first drilling was on the farm of Bowen Squire on the north side of Consecon lake. A well of sixty feet was drilled and it was hoped to drill a "dry well" in what was known as a dry gas area. Instead water was struck on three occasions. Other wells will be drilled following further drilling to determine if natural gas can be obtained.

Lasagna Makes Tasty Party Dish

By MARY MOORE

Resolve along with me to carry the merry Christmas spirit over into and all through the new year. Resolve along with me to raise your cooking sites and improve your skills.

We were too ambitious in planning our program for Christmas and made so many dishes we did not have space for all of them.

But they are not lost to posterity. The Lasagna recipe I am giving you today is so good you will just have to whomp up a January party for eight friends and serve it.

OLD MILL LASAGNA
(serves 8 generously):

2 tbsps. butter
1 lb. ground lean beef (I used ground chuck)
¼ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic finely chopped
one 15-oz. can tomatoes (or nearly 2 cups)
one 6-oz. can tomato paste
1 cup water
one 10-oz. can button mushrooms
1¼ tsps. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. oregano
½ lb. lasagna (broad) noodles
8-oz. Canadian Mozzarella cheese (2 cups shredded)
1 lb. Ricotta (or cottage cheese)
about 2-oz. grated Parmesan cheese (half of a 4-oz. can)

In a very large frying pan or saucepan melt the butter and brown the meat lightly, breaking it up as it browns. Add onion and garlic and saute gently until they are limp. Add tomatoes and tomato paste, water (using it to rinse out tomato paste can), mushrooms, salt, pepper and oregano. Simmer 45 mins. uncovered.

Boil noodles in 3 qts. boiling water with 1 tsp. salt for 15 mins. Drain through colander.

Have ready a large shallow baking dish. (I used a corningware one 13 x 8½ x 2¼".) Cover bottom with 1/3 of noodles, cover them with 1/3 of the meat sauce, cover it with 1/3 of each of the cheeses. Repeat these three layers. Cover all with last third of noodles. Now spoon all remaining meat sauce in a broad strip at centre, lifting up mushrooms to top. Around the meat in a border sprinkle remaining Mozzarella cheese, top it with the Ricotta or cottage cheese to give a white contrasting border and sprinkle this with remaining Parmesan. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. ½ hour.

We served this with Caesar salad. You might care to add Italian bread sticks. To carry the Italian theme right through to dessert you could serve Zabaglione — an egg yolk and sherry custard, or you could buy Spumoni ice cream.

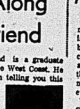
Brings 'Mutt' Along On Visit to Friend

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My boy friend is a graduate student at a well-known university here on the West Coast. He is very bright and has won many honors. I'm telling you this not to brag but to let you know that he's really not a moron — which is what you will probably think after I tell you my problem.



ANN LANDERS

My little poodle, Nicole, is dear to me. My boy friend has an airedale. The last three times my boy friend has come to see me he has yelled from the porch, "Put your dog in the basement. I brought Scotty along." I have done as he asked. It so happens that I don't like to put Nicole in the basement and I don't see why he should bring his mutt over and make demands on me.

Yesterday he pulled this stunt again and I told him to take Scotty home and come back alone. Would you believe that he and that dumb hound sat outside in the car for one solid hour? Finally he drove off in a huff and called me from his place to say I was spoiled brat.

I say he is the spoiled brat and that he owes me an apology. What do you say? — STILL SIZZLING.

DEAR SIZZ: No one should bring a dog when he goes visiting unless he has checked in advance and gotten the O.K.

A young man who is so attached to his bow wow that he can't leave him home when he goes to see his girl is too childish to go with girls.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Mom passed away several months ago and Dad and I miss her very much. Dad tries to cheer up both himself and me by taking me places Friday and Saturday evenings.

Last Friday we went to a cocktail lounge where there was dancing. Several fellows I knew from school (I'm a junior) were there slugging it. Not one fellow asked me to dance. This made me very depressed.

Do you think they were afraid of my father? Please answer as I am really in the dumps over this. — A.R.

DEAR A.P.: I'm sure your hunch is correct and I hope your dad will think of another way to cheer up both himself and you. Taking a teen-age daughter to a cocktail lounge is not my idea of a solution to any problem.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I fell in love with a married man. I didn't realize until later that I was not his first affair. His wife realized it, however, and decided she had had enough of his playing around. She divorced him.

Now his sons want nothing to do with him. He is not permitted to see his grandchildren. His business associates no longer include him in their social plans. At dinner tonight he looked at me through eyes of hate — as if it was all my fault.

Let this letter be a warning to all single girls who are carrying up to married men with hopes for the future. I wish to heaven I had never seen this character and I'm sure he wishes he had never seen me. — ASHES IN MY MOUTH.

DEAR ASHES: Your story is such a common one that I am printing it only because some people have to see or hear something four dozen times before they get the idea.

Successful Living

Massage Kneads Away 'Spare Tire

DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My problem may sound funny but really it isn't to me. I'm no beauty, but I can pass inspection except for one thing. My stomach protrudes to the extent that I look constantly pregnant, while the rest of me is evenly proportioned.

I can pull it in some, but not flat. I know I need a good exercise to tone up the muscles but what can I do about the excess tissue over the muscles? — Tummy Trouble

Dear T.T.: I'm sending you some exercises recommended for a flat tummy.

There is a type of massage which helps, too, and here is how it is done:

Stand tall, pulling in stomach muscles. With both hands grasp the leftover fat — the "spare tire". Proceed to knead and squeeze, working your way across from right to left, until the flesh is pink; usually two or three minutes is enough, daily, for results to begin to show in a couple of weeks.

That is, if you are dieting, too. What you are doing is helping the fat cells to break down and thus assisting in their assimilation by the body when nature turns to the stored fat to meet your energy needs.

Dear Doris: I have been going steady with this guy for three years, and whenever we go out he seems to have but one thing on his mind — hamburgers. I wouldn't mind hamburgers so much if they had nothing on them, but no — he always has to have onions on them.

Not that I will have to put up with the smell as we are never that close. Where along the way have I failed? He hasn't made one pass at me yet. Don't I appeal to him? — Ida Rather (no onions).

Dear Ida: If you can't beat him, join him. Next time order one smothered in onions yourself — since this is the perfume he enjoys.

Dear Doris: I read the letter about the little nine-year-old boy saving his quarters to buy a bike. When I was 10 I saved my money for a whole year.

I received money from my grandparents for passing my grade (5). I received $3 a day from my uncle for driving his tractor in baling. After a year I had $21. Dad paid another $20 and I was sure happy. Since then I have bought a $10 watch and a $15 guitar.

I'm sure the little boy would love his bike more because he helped pay for it. — Just Helping

Dear Helping: So am I. We do appreciate what we work and save for, far more than the things which come to us too easily. Good for you, J.H.!

Susanna's Family Fare

PLENTY OF GRAVY

Dear Su: Gravy hoats never hold enough. They don't keep the gravy warm, and the contents are inclined to spill over the sides if you pour somewhat quickly.

At our New Year's day gathering I came to terms with this problem.

I made a good quantity of gravy and poured it from the pan into the bottom half of an old glass coffee maker. Naturally I had scoured it out well, and I was able to leave it sitting on low heat at the back of the stove to keep warm 'til I was ready to serve the entire dinner.

I placed it on the table on a pretty ceramic heat stand, and received several compliments from the family on the practicability of serving it this way. — Everybody's Aunt — SUSANNA

Australian Parents Never Say "No" to Children

MELBOURNE (CP) — The trouble with Australian parents is they never say "no." This, says Victoria's chief policewoman, is why many teen-agers finish up in police cells and courtrooms.

Just before Christmas is the worst time for teen-age trouble. The youngsters try to outdo each other with expensive Christmas presents to friends. They cannot afford to buy the presents they want, so they steal them. Thefts from Australian stores cost millions of dollars a year. Much of the thievery is blamed on teen-age girls who believe they must have everything they want.

Chief Policewoman Grace Brebner said parents had failed to instill moral values such as honesty and integrity into their children. They had let them have everything they wanted.

THEFTS PLANNED

Chief Brebner has been leading a campaign against teen-age crime in Victoria state. Making her report, she said girls, mainly of school age, made carefully planned raids on stores.

They met in groups and planned two or three days ahead to take a day off school and go into the city on stealing raids. So there would be no duplication, it was decided what each girl would steal and even details such as the color and size of garments to be taken were arranged.

Sometimes they would try on garments for size before stealing them. They even stole the paper bags to carry their loot away.

In the last six months, more than 100 teen - age girls have been arrested in Melbourne for shoplifting. The number caught is believed to be only a small proportion of the number of thieves.

When the girls took these expensive presents home parents were either afraid to ask where they came from—their daughters were so rebellious—or just didn't care.

COSTS $1,000,000

One official estimated that shoplifting costs Melbourne stores $1,000,000 in the 24 days before Christmas and more than $10,000,000 in Victoria during the year.

A Melbourne judge believes teen-agers steal because they are spoiled by their parents and "corrupted" by the affluent society.

"Most young people have too much money," he said. "It ruins them.

"They want to dress like millionaires. These youngsters must learn they can't have everything they want."

That, says Chief Brebner, is why parents sometimes must say "no."

Duplicate Bridge Session

Some points of interest that bridge players would be wise to note are these: (1) There is no law in bridge which binds a player to his announced convention. A duplicate player's card may record that his No - Trump bids are on 16 to 18 points, but, if he opens with a One No Trump bid on 14 points, without his partner's knowledge, he is not cheating. In the same way a player is not cheating if he replies incorrectly to his partner's Blackwood call.

(2) When a declarer is playing a hand, and claims the rest of the tricks, he must not only place his cards face up on the table, but also state exactly in what order he plans to play them, and once stated, the order cannot be changed.

(3) If Declarer leads, or calls for a lead from the wrong hand, he must, if possible, play a card of the same suit from the correct hand.

A duplicate bridge session was held on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at 210 Pinnacle Street.

Suit Basic for Holiday Wardrobes

TORONTO (CP)—Planning a winter cruise or a sun resort vacation? You'll need quite a different wardrobe than the one required for that European jaunt last summer.

But there's one basic outfit for all three types of holidays—a suit.

On a cruise, a suit is excellent for those excursions ashore. It could be a wool linen, such as a chevron print in turquoise and beige with overblouse.

If you're plane - hopping and sightseeing in Europe during the winter, even in southern countries, a wool suit is the answer. It's perfect for the relatively warm days. And when it's cool it can be topped with a wool or knitted coat.

Even in the warm Caribbean, Florida or California, a cotton or linen suit is handy for jaunts to town or to other hotels for lunch. Naturally bright colors or white are the rule here.

A cruise usually demands a wider range of clothes than a small resort hotel or a tour. There is a dress etiquette for different hours of the day aboard ship.

One thing you'll almost feel obliged to take along is a floor-length evening gown. It takes up packing space, even if it's lightweight chiffon, but you'll feel right with it.

At a resort hotel, unless it's ultra swank, the dinner and dancing entertainment needn't be so formal. A short silver brocade gown with its own jacket for cool evenings is ideal.

For both cruise and resort wear several swim suits are a good investment. Recent California showings indicate that the bikini may have reached its peak and that the trend now is toward the one-piece cover-up look.

However, suits of this sort seem to be cut so skimpily and are joined in the middle so sketchily as to create as much interest as the bikini.

If you're planning a February - March visit to Portugal, the Canary Islands or the Spanish Costa del Sol, you'll still find the beaches on the chilly side. But tuck one swim suit into your luggage just in case.

The way you travel will determine how much you take along. A cruise lets you take the most luggage so you can pack extra casual daytime and evening dresses, velvet stoles, poolside costumes and costume jewelry.

If you're flying to the Caribbean, Mexico, Hawaii or Europe you are restricted to 44 pounds for economy class or 66 pounds for first-class passage.

On domestic flights — Canada and the United States—you can take two bags regardless of weight, but they must fit within precise size limits and you're also allowed to take a small overnight case on to the plane.

If you're bound for Europe on your own, the less luggage you have to handle the better time you'll have. And even conducted tours usually place a limit of one bag per person. That means you'll have to pare down your wardrobe to essentials.

Even if you're staying at home this winter, it's not a bad time to start shopping for cottons and sun clothes. The resort fashions on display during the winter are the cream of the crop, and most store buyers order from the resort collections with summer in mind.

Go and See "The Witch" If Anything Goes Wrong

LISBON (AP) — Whenever everything has failed to solve a love affair or cure a sickness in Portugal, the best bet is to go see "the witch."

The witch lives in every town of Portugal. Sometimes she operates a flashy office in the heart of Lisbon. Other times she sets up a make-bift altar crowded with canes, crutches, statues and candles in her tiny country shack.

But whatever the formula, thousands flock to see the "wise woman" who prescribes everything from simple gymnastics to a yellow spider dipped in butter to solve a problem.

Dona Silvina precedes her "incarnations" with a set speech: "Let us thank our brother, Dr. Sousa Martins, for the cures he is about to give us." Then she goes into convulsions near her altar, covered with pictures and wax images.

BEST CURE

"Lie on the floor," she orders. "Do what your body wants to do. Do gymnastics."

"I miss the earth, I miss my sick patients," her voice says in a manly growl, supposedly reminiscent of Dr. Martins.

Dona Silvina shows proofs of her cures. Fourteen crutches hang on the wall, testimony of seven cripples who walked away alone. She shows dozens of letters from grateful patients.

From time to time a case like Dona Silvina is exposed in the Portuguese press after a plain-clothes policeman has mingled with the clients in the waiting room. But the "witches" crop up in another spot and the clientele follows.

ADVICE STRANGE

The advice is often strange. A mother gives her baby a snakeskin to cure it of whooping cough. One Lisbon society matron boasts of being cured of an abscess by drawing a needle through a ball of worsted over which the witch uttered a spell.

If you want someone to become ill, you strew earth from the cemetery or coarse salt across his doorstep. Itinerant complaints are cured by eating a certain yellow spider dipped in butter. Enemies are banished by eating eggs from a black hen.

Occasionally an unsatisfied patient brings the witch to court on extortion charges.

Bringing Up Baby

NOTES COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Do you know anything more enchanting than a baby trying to figure out what the world is all about? But the wonderment of a baby is more than a charming way to delight your eye and unlock your smiles. It's an important part of his (or her) mental development. For what is wonderment but curiosity? And curiosity is one of the great teachers. It leads to learning through looking, touching, tasting, etc., unfolding untold mysteries for your baby.

Speaking of a pleasant taste experience, your baby will enjoy the toasted, nutlike flavour of Gerber Protein Cereal. He'll also get this nutritional goodness: (1) It has a 35% protein content to aid your baby's growth. (2) Like all Gerber Cereals, it has added iron, known for its blood building quality . . . and the B-vitamins, thiamine (B-1), riboflavin (B-2) and niacin. P.S. The other four cereals are equally nourishing.

* * *

All Gerber Cereals are pouch-packed. And each one every one has the smooth texture babies like. They stir with milk or formula to dreamy creaminess in seconds . . . stay that way throughout the serving.

Curiosity corner. Your baby's curiosity should be encouraged. And it's so easy! You might try these simple ideas on your darling.

- A gaily-coloured mobile over the crib or a bright balloon tied to the playpen help eye movement.
- Sweet mother-talk and soft music are fine for ear training.
- Various toys, in different textures and sizes, are good for teaching through touch.

New, refreshing sips for sweet little lips. Gerber Strained Apple-Cherry Juice is filled with delightful sun-kissed flavour and has added vitamin C (ascorbic acid)... a contributing factor for sound gums and other body tissues. Don't forget those other Gerber Juice delectables: Orange Juice, Apple Juice and Orange - Banana, Orange - Apple and Orange - Pineapple Juice Drink. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

A PLEDGE FOR 1967

FROM THE PRESIDENT OF DOMINION STORES LIMITED.

As we enter our country's Centennial year, Canadians have much to be thankful for, and good reason to celebrate by personal participation in the many special activities scheduled throughout the year across the nation. The one sobering note in our country's prosperous economy is "inflation," which has increased all costs of living, including food. In this regard, we at Dominion Stores solemnly pledge to continue the fight against "inflation" by every means within our power, to hold food prices at the lowest possible level.

Stolen Masters Found

LONDON (AP)—All eight paintings worth £2,500,000 ($7,000,000) stolen from Dulwich College Gallery have been recovered, police said today.

The paintings included three Rembrandts, three Rubens and one each by Gerard Dou and Adam Elsheimer.

One of the Rembrandts was the charming Girl at a Window said to be worth £1,000,000 ($3,000,000.) All the Rembrandts and Rubens were world famous.

Scotland Yard, announcing that the paintings had been recovered, said they were identified by the curator of the gallery.

The paintings were stolen Friday night from the college art gallery, the oldest public gallery in Britain.

A police spokesman said some of the paintings were slightly damaged.

Several persons were being questioned in connection with the discovery, but no arrests had yet been made.

All the paintings were recovered in London.

The announcement of the recovery did not say how the paintings were traced.

The paintings — three of which were cut from their frames — were passed out through a door panel at the gallery which the thieves removed so one of them could wriggle into the building.

This was thought to be probably the only way the gang could have avoided triggering the sophisticated alarm system at the gallery.

The yard did not announce the recovery of the first three paintings for fear the thieves might destroy the other old masters.

Trimaran Skipper Ailing

HONOLULU (AP) — A U.S. Navy vessel, the Lenawee, took aboard the ailing skipper of the Canadian trimaran Limelight in the central Pacific Tuesday.

The coast guard reported that skipper Bruce Campbell, 26, of Vancouver, was suffering from severe constipation and malnutrition but described his condition as good. Earlier, appendicitis had been suspected.

Three Australian crew members on the Limelight said they would sail the triple-hulled vessel to Honolulu, 600 miles to the southwest, arriving about Sunday.

The crew members, Peter S. Williams, John S. F. Young and Andrew J. Wardrop, said Campbell had been confined to his bunk almost three weeks and had eaten nothing for the past six days.

The trimaran was on a voyage from Vancouver to Australia via Honolulu and California when skipper became ill. Williams said Campbell was the only person aboard who could navigate. A coast guard plane was guiding the Limelight to Honolulu.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander
Staff Sportswriter

Personally speaking, I think it's a darn dirty trick.

After all, my sporting buddies and others not so buddy, know right well that I can't resist sticking my neck out.

And if you think all those strange indentations around my shirt collar are from days of judo training, there are plenty of "friends" in this immediate area who will inform you it just "taint so."

(Yes, Aunt Abbey, I did select the New York Rangers to finish the 1966-67 NHL schedule in last place. Can I help it if the damn C.P. keeps sending the standing upside down every morning?)

Now, where were we when all these so-called sportsmen down here started to bring up the Yankees, the Tiger-Cats and the Black Hawks, not to mention Chuvalo over Patterson. So what do you want — blood?

Well anyway, there is not an Christmas morning, gleaming out from under our little artificial tree as bright and shiny as the morning sun used to illuminate G. H. C.'s curly locks over by the banks of the Mohra.

All my own. Untouched by human hands. Manufactured by some ghostly company known only as "Pygpostilators Inc." If-n-n-n, not even a "made in Japan" on the bottom.

Only a small note, fastened with scotch tape, reading: "O.K. sucker, give us a shot at chopping off your Senior "A" hockey limb and perhaps the Junior "B" branch as well."

What did I really do to deserve this.

After all, the success of the OHA Senior "A" group is do to size and competition. There are ten teams and any one can beat the other of the nine on any given night.

The Mo-Hawks are outdrawing them all here in Belleville, with Galt, Collingwood and Woodstock not too far behind. Even in Kingston, where the best crowds are just under 1000, this is much better than last year when a pre-playoff crowd of 500 was a big one.

Oakville is said to be facing problems. Poor crowds have been the order since several key players deserted the club at the start of the season and wins are hard come by. And competition for the entertainment dollar near Toronto is always stiff.

A major reason for the league's good attendance has to be the number of new faces supplied for the fans. In the 40-game schedule, you see seven of the clubs in Belleville only twice and the other two teams on three occasions.

This helps travelling problems and also gets the most out of hot rivals, such as the Mo-Hawks and Kingston Aces, Galt and Guelph or the Barrie-Orillia-Collingwood trio up north.

But while so many entries help the league, it doesn't assist us poor working writers. After all, if we only see a club two or three times, it's not so easy to judge the players' capabilities, now is it?

O.K., O.K., we'll not back down.

Hey, where did all that fog come from in my new toy? It was so clear a while back.

Well, it looks like a three-way fight for first place. Collingwood has balance, steady goal-keeping and a couple of scoring guns. Woodstock has a tough, solid club, with great goal-tending; Galt has a big, rough, hard-skating club, adequate goal-tending and Ron Hergott's leadership.

Woodstock Athletics we like for first, if they can get a regular turnout of players for long trips, and Collingwood's early win streak will enable the club to nip Galt for second by the narrowest of margins. The top pair, we feel, have a slight edge in goal on the Hornets.

Fourth place goes to Kingston Aces but they, like our own Mo-Hawks, can look just as bad on one occasion as they do good on another. Six defencemen to choose from and adequate if not great scoring punch earns them an upper slot.

We may hang for this but the Mo-Hawks get fifth place barring serious injuries. Floyd Crawford's boys may not have the talent of some other clubs but hard work, a desire to win and the ability to make the most of what they do have can win a lot of hockey games.

A couple of serious injuries of any length to a club short of signed players could drop them to seventh or eighth.

Guelph Regals, unless "Boat" Hurley regains his former puck-stopping magic and some of his mates start filling opposing nets, will finish in sixth, close behind Belleville.

The last four spots should provide a dogfight but our guess has Toronto, Orillia, Oakville and Barrie, in that order.

The Junior "B"? We'll save it for another day, I don't like the way this limb keeps creaking.

Death Rode "Bluebird"

CONISTON, England (AP)— Donald Malcolm Campbell, who flirted with death on land and water, vanished and was given up for dead today when his jet hydroplane boat, Bluebird, somersaulted and sank racing about 200 miles an hour on Lake Coniston.

Shore witnesses said there appeared to be an explosion and "Campbell must be considered killed."

Wreckage of the boat and parts of Campbell's clothing— including his oxygen mask— were found but there was no sign of the 45-year old racer.

Friends said Campbell had a premonition that he would be killed in talking with them Tuesday night.

"I'M GOING"

His last words radioed from his speedcraft were:

"I'm giving her full power. I can't see much. I'm going."

Shore observers said that Campbell's last words "I'm going" could have meant that he sensed disaster or that he was going all out in trying for the record.

Frogmen were called to search for the racer, who had been strapped in the boat.

Leo Villa, a lifelong friend, was the first on the scene and picked up parts of Campbell's clothing but by the time he got there the boat had sunk.

RECOVER TANKS

Other items recovered were parts of Bluebird, including the high pressure air tanks mounted one on each side of the jet engine.

Strangely, Campbell had a premonition Tuesday night that he might die.

He had played a form of Russian solitaire in the weeks waiting for the speed trial. Tuesday, this superstitious man turned up an ace of spades followed by the queen of spades.

A friend with him said Campbell remarked:

"Mary Queen of Scots turned up the same combination of cards and knew from it that she was going to be beheaded. I know that one of my family is going to get the chop (killed). I pray to God it is not me."

WASN'T REASSURED

He could not be reassured that the turn of the cards meant nothing.

This morning Campbell was in a cheerful mood and seemed to have forgotten the depression.

When he arrived for the run he gave a cheery wave to a friend.

At 8:45 a.m. Campbell asked about conditions on Bluebird's radio.

There was a slight ground swell, but conditions were deemed moderately good otherwise.

"All right then," said Campbell. "We will have a slow run to see how things are."

He was racing at about 300 miles per hour and all seemed well. Bluebird was reported to be travelling fast and level and did not seem to be greatly affected by the slight ripples on the water surface.

Rockets had been fired to acare the birds.

The last fateful 27 seconds then began.

An eyewitness said that he had noted previously that the Bluebird's starboard sponson (an outside projection of the ship) lifted clear of the water. The witness said, "This is the first time I had ever seen that happen."

Campbell's last words from the Bluebird were:

"The water is not in good condition."

Almost as he said this, the boat's starboard side lifted slowly from the water as if it was trying to take off. Then she crashed back into the water.

SPRAY HIDES CRAFT

A great cloud of spray hid Bluebird's fast agonizing moments. When it cleared, Bluebird and Campbell were gone.

There was little to be seen except hundreds of little plastic flags floating on the surface that had come from Bluebird's buoyancy tanks.

Campbell had set the land speed record of 403 miles per hour in June, 1964 at Lake Eyre, Australia.

Campbell's land speed record stood for wheel-driven cars until Nov. 13, 1965, when Bill and Bob Summers of Ontario, Calif., broke it at 409 m.p.h. in their four-engined Goldenrod racer on the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah.

Water Still King

LONDON (AP) — Donald Campbell is the third British racer driver to master the art of speed on land but full victim in efforts to conquer water.

Sir Henry Segrave and John Cobb, who earned the title of Speed Kings, died in attempts to beat world water speed records.

In 1930, Segrave, with his speedboat, Miss England, ran a speed of 98.76 miles per hour on Lake Windermere and learned after his first two laps he had thereby broken the old mark by 2.5 miles an hour.

Cobb, the world's fastest land driver in 1952, went out after the water record of 178.4 miles an hour then held by Stanley Sayres of the United States.

He streaked across famed Loch Ness in Scotland at 246 miles an hour but his seven-gined boat, Crusader, disintegrated after striking three pressure waves which had built up in front of her.

"Proud Of Fanatics"

Campbell; A True Patriot

LONDON (AP)—Donald Malcolm Campbell's death ticked with national pride. He lived for speed and through speed on land and water he expressed the patriotic zeal that surged through his body.

He was the son of Sir Malcolm Campbell who, like him, had held at one time the world records for the fastest time on land and water. Donald achieved this distinction in 1964.

The cry "The best of British luck, Donald," may have been heard by his wife, mechanics and Donald Campbell's soul.

Campbell inspired a mechanic fanatic devotion of engineers and helpers.

"They work with me—not for me," he said said. "It's the cause that counts."

Campbell achieved 403.1 miles an hour on land in his 4,000 horsepine-gined car Bluebird and 276.33 miles per hour on water in his jet-propelled speedboat of the same name.

EXUDED ENERGY

Campbell took pride in the "fanatic Campbells" and he always was aware of the risk he ran. He was something of a mystic. He once said: "You get funny feelings. You'd be very wise to ignore them."

He knew what danger he faced when he went for speed: "Here's plenty apprehension," he said. "Make no mistake about that."

The operation almost everyone asked about Campbell was what drove him to speed.

The answer to many would be irrelevant and anachronistic. He was a pure red, white and blue patriot. He seethed with nationalistic fervor.

HORSES ESCAPE FIRE

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Two men were injured leading 19 race horses from their burning stable Tuesday. Shortly after the horses were evacuated, the roof of the barn caved in. The fire, at the Wolf Hill Farms area of Monmouth Park race track, was caused by spontaneous combustion from hay stored in the west end of the barn, firemen said.

Rangers At Toronto

Crippled Habs Meet Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Roll in the stretchers, dust off the crutches and page the doctors, here come Montreal Canadiens.

The Canadiens, defending National Hockey League and Stanley Cup champions, have had problems with injuries to key players since the start of the current campaign, which is partly the reason for their poor showing to date.

Jean Beliveau, Montreal's classy centre, has missed 11 games and isn't expected to return to action until Saturday. He has been out more than two weeks with an eye injury. Before that he had a hand injury and a groin injury.

Gilles Tremblay has missed seven games this year and is a doubtful starter tonight when the Canadiens face Chicago Black Hawks. New York Rangers clash with Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto in the other NHL game.

Tremblay has been out earlier this season with shoulder and ear injuries and may not play tonight because of a deadly bruised ankle.

ROCHEFORT WON'T PLAY

Right winger Leon Rochefort suffered a charley horse against Boston Bruins last Wednesday and will not play tonight. The Canadiens are also without goalie Gump Worsley, who underwent surgery recently for the removal of a cartilage from his right knee.

J.C. Tremblay, who suffered a head injury earlier this year, had a muscle spasm in his back but Saturday advised Montreal's 4-1 loss to Detroit Red Wings Sunday.

The Canadiens have one victory and one tie in five meetings with Chicago this year.

Ab Wharram, right winger on the Black Hawks' high-scoring Scooter Line, has five goals against the Canadiens.

HELPS ON SIX

Stan Mikita, centre on Chicago's top line, has scored only one goal but has assisted on six against Montreal.

The Scooter Line o, Mikita, Wharram and Doug Mohns has accounted for a total of 102 points in 30 games this season.

Mikita has 49 points, including a league-leading 33 assists, while Wharram holds down second place in the individual scoring race with 33 points.

A Chicago victory, coupled with a New York loss against Toronto, would give the Hawks sole possession of first place in the league standings. New York and Chicago are tied for first place with 40 points apiece. The Rangers have played four more games than Chicago.

Orland Kurtenbach, out of action with a pinched nerve in his back, will rejoin the Rangers for tonight's game. The Rangers returned Jim Johnson to Omaha Knights of the Central Professional Hockey League. He was with New York for five games while Kurtenbach was out.

The Rangers lost 2-1 to the Leafs Sunday night. In seven meetings between the two clubs this year, the Rangers have won three and tied two.

In Sunday's game, the Leafs scored 2nd solid tallies from Bruce Gamble, who made 42 saves to lead the way for Toronto's victory. He was spectacular in the first period when the Rangers peppered him with 21 shots.

The Leafs hold down third place in the league with 35 points, five fewer than New York and Chicago and two more than Montreal.

The Hawks will go to Detroit to meet the fifth-place Red Wings Thursday night.

RETURN JOHNSON

Unheralded, Unsung

Chiefs' "Forgotten Six!"

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Some football players thrive on their own press clippings but members of Kansas City Chiefs' defensive unit get their kicks by reading the scoreboard.

The line, sometimes called the Forgotten Six because it seldom is publicized, was a key factor in Kansas City's 31-7 victory over Buffalo Bills last Sunday for the American Football League championship.

Does lack of publicity bother the players?

"Naw, it's just something you learn to accept," said Jim Tyrer, 292-pound tackle who made this season's AFL all-star squad. "We get our recognition from the points on the scoreboard."

"I don't want to hear anyone talking about who won the game," said Curt Merz, 267-pound guard. "There are 40 men out there and they were all great."

CAN'T WAIT

Fred Hill, nas, 214-pound all-star at end despite the fact that he has lost almost all the sight in his left eye, can't wait for a crack at the Packers, rated eight - point favorites in the early wagering.

"I think we can beat Green Bay," he said.

Dave Hill, termed by Chiefs coach Hank Stram the most underrated tackle in the AFL, started calling the offensive line the Forgotten Five in mid-season. But Arbanas quickly corrected him.

"I make six," he said.

The other two members of the Forgotten Six are Ed Budde, a 6-6, 260-pound guard who is another all-star choice, and centre Wayne Frazier, a 235-pounder obtained from Houston Oilers in a trade after Jon Gilliam hurt his knee in a pre-season game.

"The fact we have scored more points (479 in 15 games) than any other team in pro football is a direct compliment to the blocking of our offensive line," said Stram. "They are big, strong and mobile and they have great pride."

Orillia Defence Stops Mo-Hawks

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

ORILLIA — Frustrated from the blueline in by a regimental-type defence, the Belleville Mo-Hawks suffered their second loss of the OHA Senior "A" schedule here last night.

The Pepsi's turned back the Mo-Hawks' bid by a 4-2 deadlock.

EDDIE MARINEAU

Belleville's loss left the club in a fifth-place deadlock with Guelph while Toronto Grads and the Pepsi's are narrowing the gap behind. The Mo-Hawks play host to front-running Collingwood in Belleville Friday night.

While they lost on the scoreboard it was far from the 13-1 whipping administered on the previous trip.

Orillia led 2-1 and 3-2 by periods while outshooting the visitors by a narrow 32-30 margin.

Belleville had golden opportunities to pull out a win but could not solve Orillia's gangflg defensive methods or goalie Ivan Walmsley when they did work in close.

Defenceman John Chaezewski, who played one season of senior "A" hockey for Belleville, topped Orillia's point-getters with a goal and two assists. Bob Forhan, George Ford and George Vail also scored.

Penalty-wise each side collected three minors and the clinching goal in the third period was scored just as a Belleville player returned.

Marineau tied it at 12.08, beating Walmsley with a sizzling shot from well out. Taylor fed him the puck just prior to the goal but the only assist was given to Greg Marchen who had started the play.

Ford put the winners in front to stay at 16.20, finishing off a sharp three-corner play by deflecting the dive home from close in front. Rexe had no chance. Chaezewski and Westfall earned the assists.

In the period's dying minutes, Vail and Dunc Brodie broke in alone on Rexe. The youngster forced both attackers into the first move and both skated wide.

Ivan Irwin was just beat from a first-period penalty when the Pepsi's made it 3-1 early in the second. Chaezewski fired the puck into a wide open net, with Rexe down and out of the play, as the Mo-Hawk defence failed to clear.

Thereafter the Orillia kitty-bar-the-door defence upset the visitors' attacks. Rexe robbed Ford shortly before Gresdahl, dangerous all night, gathered a clearing pass off the side boards and broke in alone to dyke Walmsley. It was his second goal of the season.

Marineau shot wide when hurried on a breakaway from an Orillia powerplay and Taylor was beaten at the goalmouth when the Pepsi's took overlapping penalties. The Mo-Hawk's outshot the opposition 11-9 this period.

Rexe suffered a bruised and cut cheekbone when hit by a deflected shot in the third period's first minute but he continued to play fine goal after a brief rest.

His mates came close on deflections around 5.00 and Taylor set Marineau up for a point-blank drive while Bradford was serving time — but Walmsley slammed the door.

Vail clinched the win as Bradford was returning, circling out from the net untouched to sink a backhand at 11.48.

Gary Darling's pass found Gresdahl uncovered in front but again Walmsley rose to the challenge and Rexe robbed Billy Forhan twice when Marchen was off in the late going.

ROOKIE RETURNS

BOSTON (AP) — Rookie forward Glen Sather was returned to Oklahoma City of the Central Hockey League Tuesday after a five-game trial with the parent Boston Bruins Sather, called up by the National Hockey League team because of injuries, did not score. He went back to Oklahoma City with the return of veteran winger Tommy Williams, who has been sidelined most of the season because of a knee in-

Nationals Lead Centennial Tourney!

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's national hockey team is alone in first place in the Centennial world invitational hockey tournament and coach Jackie McLeod can list three good reasons—Jean Cusson, Gary Dineen and Billy MacMillan.

The trio's skilful goal-scoring was the stimulant Tuesday night as Canada throttled the United States 7-1.

With Dineen dropping off perfect passes from centre, Cusson scored three goals and MacMillan one as Canada moved away from Russia into first place in the round-robin tournament.

The line struck for three goals Sunday as Canada opened the tournament with a 5-3 triumph over Czechoslovakia. The Soviet Union, defending world champions, did more than keep pace by shelling the Americans 7-1 Monday.

DINEEN EXPLAINS

"I guess we play well together," said Dineen, in trying to explain his line's 15 points on seven goals and eight assists.

"With him (Dineen), I can really work well," said Cusson, who now has five tournament goals. "I can cut in and know how he will drop the puck to me."

Cusson, said McLeod, has improved "at least 200 per cent. The key is that he has finally learned the tricks of checking."

Marshall Johnston, Fran Huck and defenceman Terry O'Malley scored the other Canadian goals, the Americans couldn't muster many threats, their goal coming from captain Bill Masterton off a power-play scramble in the second period.

The most impressive American was goaltender Carl Wetzel, who made 37 saves. Wetzel made two big stops in the first five minutes, robbing Roger Bourbonnais and Carl Brewer.

Then Cusson's line hit like before 7:00 fans, MacMillan's lob from the side of the U.S. net hit Wetzel's pads and bounced in front. Cusson flicked it into the open net.

After two minutes had elapsed, Dineen carried the puck behind the American goal. MacMillan took up a position on Wetzel's doorstep and pumped home Dineen's passout.

CAN'T CLICK

The U.S. making futile probes at Canada's forecheking, got a break late in the period but couldn't do anything with it. O'Malley and defenceman Barry MacKenzie of Canada spent 92 seconds in the penalty box, but Bourbonnais, Paul Conlin and Gary Begg, with Johnston relieving, limited the Americans to one shot.

Brewer's slap shot bounced off Huck's leg to Johnston, who put Canada ahead 2-0 early in the second. Masterton slipped away from a scramble three minutes later, grabbed a loose puck and flipped it over Canadian goaltender Wayne Stephenson while MacKenzie was off for tripping.

Huck took Conlin's shot from the blueline off his leg and tucked it behind Wetzel to make it 4-1 and 60 seconds later Cusson took Dineen's relay and left Wetzel helpless with a shot high to the right corner.

O'Malley made it 6-1 with a screened shot midway through the third period. Then Dineen dropped a pass and entered the American defense out of the way for Cusson's perfect shot that wrapped up scoring with 80 seconds left to play.

The U.S. managed 18 shots on Stephenson and replacement Ken Broderick. Pulled from action after permitting two easy goals in the first five minutes against Czechoslovakia, Broderick stopped dangerous third-period shots by Masterton, Don Ross and Herb Brooks.

Leafs To Pay To Play

TORONTO (CP) — The next time Toronto Maple Leafs play poorly at home, they will have to pay their way into the rink.

"Botch up another one here and it will cost you $5 each, the price of a blue seat," coach Punch Imlach warned his players after practice Tuesday.

Imlach, recovering from a mild case of food poisoning he picked up on the weekend in New York, was referring to the Leafs' performance Saturday night against Chicago Black Hawks in a National Hockey League game at Maple Leaf Gardens. Chicago won 5-1.

"They're lucky they didn't have to pay their way into that game," Imlach said. "I was even thinking of making them pay to get the film."

RELENTS ON FILM

But Imlach, who intended to make the players sit through a showing of the Saturday game film, relented and did not show it.

The Leafs are at home tonight to New York Rangers and Imlach plans to have defenceman Bobby Baun in the lineup. Baun missed three games because of a sprained elbow. To make room for him, defenceman Allan Stanley will sit out.

The Leafs will continue with their realigned forward units used in a 2-1 victory Sunday night in New York. Red Kelly will centre Frank Mahovlich and Ron Ellis, Dyve Keon will centre Larry Jeffrey and Jim Pappin and Bob Pulford will centre Brian Conacher and George Armstrong.

Bruce Gamble, who stopped 42 shots Sunday, will start in goal for the Leafs.

Drumheller Hits Cellar

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Drumheller Miners absorbed a 3-1 defeat Tuesday from a Swedish squad described by team manager Jim Fisher as no better than an average Western Canada team. A Canadian official said poor refereeing was a decisive factor.

The defeat by Bysas consigned the defending Allan Cup champions to the basement in Group 2 of the annual Bunny Ahearne championship.

Art Potter of Edmonton, past-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, gave Drumheller coach Ivor Kelly permission to pull his team from the ice during the game Tuesday.

The disgusted Potter said there was no way the Miners would be permitted to win the tournament. He described officiating as disgraceful.

SERVE ALL PENALTIES

The Miners served all 7 penalties assessed in the game. Near the middle of the third period, as Bysas opened a 2-1 margin, Drumheller was assessed five penalties in a two-minute stretch.

A possible riot was averted when an official leaped over the boards to avoid a charge by Bud Syverson, a former pro who joined Drumheller a few weeks before the trip. The crowd later showed the official back to the ice.

The Miners functioned without ace forwards Ron Stoplil and Tony Kolinsky. Former civil business commitments forced them to return home.

Retains Bantam Title

NAHOYA, Japan (AP)—Masahiko Harada of Japan made his third successful defence of his world bantamweight boxing championship Tuesday, pounding out a close but unanimous decision over Jose Medel of Mexico in a 15-round fight.

There were no knockdowns but Harada pressed the action most of the way, opening cuts over both the challenger's eyes.

Harada, who wrested the 118-pound title from Brazil's Eder Jofre May 18, 1965, brought his record to 46-3-3.

Minor Hockey

The Rangers blanked the Mohawks; Wings defeated Leafs 4-1; Barons and Canadiens tied 1-1 and the Hawks whipped the Bruins 5-1 in Minor Hockey Association tyke action last night.

Brian Cook earned a shutout for the Rangers with Michael Sullivan scoring for Leafs.

Peter Kincaid with two goals sparked the Wings victory. Paul Weeks and Norman Davis also scoring. Robert Chase with an assist from Thomas scored the Leafs goal.

Poise, Experience Ride Packers' Bench

The Chiefs, champions of the American Football League, meet Green Bay Packers, tops in the National League, in the contest Jan. 15 at Los Angeles and are eight-point underdogs in the early betting.

But Wally Lemm, who has coached in both the NFL and AFL, feels that while Kansas City has some fine players, the key to their chances will hinge on their ability to match Green Bay's poise.

Lemm coached Houston Oilers of the AFL in 1961, then left for the NFL and four years with the St. Louis Cardinals before returning to the Oilers this past season.

"Kansas City has fine personnel, which many consider the finest personnel in pro football," Lemm said Tuesday night in a telephone conversation from his home in suburban Chicago.

"But Green Bay has the savvy—just like the old New York Yankees. They have that championship game experience. That's a definite advantage. If there's any real difference, that's it.

"A team like Green Bay isn't going to make many errors and they're not going to choke up. When a team doesn't have that experience, like Kansas City, let something go wrong and they can lose their poise and have trouble."

The Packers have won four NFL titles in the past six years and have played in five title games in the past seven seasons.

The Chiefs, on the other hand, have only two championship games on their side, both of which they won.

"Kansas City has wonderful size," he said, "good speed, a good quarterback in Len Dawson, great running in Mike Garrett and great receivers in Otis Taylor and Chris Burford.

"Kansas City's offensive line is tremendously big. Neither it's any better than Green Bay's is open to conjecture, but they have tremendous size.

"Green Bay has an excellent defence, which has proven itself over a number of years. Kansas City has a good defence, but whether it has the fluidity of having been together for a long time, I don't know.

Lemm scoffs at opinions that Dawson can't be very good because he didn't make it with Pittsburgh Steelers and Cleveland Browns in the NFL.

"That's so much baloney," he said. "He never got a chance to make it in the NFL. That's one of the biggest fallacies when it comes to comparing the two leagues. There's a lot of quarterbacks in the NFL who didn't make it with one team and who made it with another."

Asked to compare Dawson and the Packers' Bart Starr, Lemm said:

"It's hard to rate them. They're different. They're both exceptionally good passers. But again, Starr has the championship game ability."

Blow 3-0 Lead

Flyers Tie Georgians

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Collingwood Georgians overcame a 3-0 deficit in the first period, to tie Barrie Flyers 3-3 in overtime and Orillia defeated Belleville Mo-Hawks 4-2 in Ontario Hockey Association senior action Tuesday night.

Hec Brainard twice stole the game from Barrie. He scored with 26 seconds remaining in the third period, forcing the overtime, then he wiped out a 3-4 Barrie lead at 8:56 of the 10-minute overtime period.

Guy Levesque, Al Smith, Jon Weeks, Dave Nicholishon and Bob Garner scored for the Flyers.

In the first period Collingwood's Dave McComb received a five-minute major penalty for spearing and then was given a 10 - minute misconduct and a game misconduct for arguing the call. Lumley spoke up in McComb's defence and was given a 10-minute misconduct.

Hornets Shade Clippers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Last month, Baltimore Clippers launched a drive to take over the American Hockey League's Eastern Division lead by the start of 1967.

The way they've been playing lately, the Clippers may be out of playoff contention by Valentine's Day.

Baltimore's slump continued Tuesday night as Pittsburgh Hornets edged the Clippers 4-3 on a third-period goal by Billy Harris. It was the only game played.

The Hornets, surging in the other direction, took over first place in the Western Division replacing the idle Rochester Americans in the top spot with a one-point edge.

Baltimore, which not long ago was challenging for the Eastern Division lead, has won one and tied one in its last eight games. The Clippers now lead fourth-place Springfield Indians by only five points.

Second - Place Quebec Aces, meanwhile, have opened up a seven-point margin over Baltimore and division-leading Hershey Bears have moved 12 points ahead.

Habs Dump Wings

London Ties Generals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Nationals drew 2-2 with Oshawa Generals Tuesday night to move into a second place tie in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

In other action, Montreal Junior Canadiens dumped Hamilton Red Wings 6-4 and now are tied with Peterborough Petes for last place.

The Red Wings rallied to cut the margin 5-4 mid-way through the third, but Liesemer put the game out of reach at 13:55 when he scored on a 10-foot shot.

Rangers To Honor Howell

NEW YORK (CP) — The Rangers, currently tied for first place in the National Hockey League, will hold a special night here Jan. 25 for veteran defenceman Harry Howell.

Howell, 34, is in his 15th NHL season and has played in more games than anyone else, active or retired, in a Ranger uniform.

On Saturday afternoon, Jan. 21, Howell is scheduled to play in his 1,000th NHL game when the Rangers play in Boston.

Four days and two games later, Wednesday, Jan. 25, when the Bruins play here, it will be Harry Howell Night at Madison Square Garden.

Harvey Still Loose

BLATIMORE (AP) — Doug Harvey, former National Hockey League star, sold by Baltimore Clippers last Month, so far has refused to report to Providence Reds of the American Hockey League.

Terry Reardon, coach and general manager of the Clippers, also an NHL team, said Tuesday night as far as he is concerned Harvey, 42, belongs to Providence.

"Providence is trying to get Harvey to report," Reardon said. "If he doesn't report, he becomes my property again."

Harvey contends he owns his own contract under a prior agreement. He said last month he became a free agent as soon as Baltimore put him on the block.

City Peewees Shut Out Cobourg 5-0

D. Rutherford and G. Marek shared the shutout honors.

Goegan, Grant, Richardson, England and Coulson had assists.

Goalies Feature CHHL Games

The Thomasburg Thunderbirds roared back from a 4-1 third period deficit to eke out a 4-4 tie with the Frankford Shoemen while Ivanhoe shaded the Wallbridge Warriors 2-1 in Central Hastings Hockey League games played in Madoc last night.

Goals by Richard Chapman and Jack Francis gave Ivanhoe a 2-0 lead which they held until the third frame when Tom Bennett scored for Wallbridge.

Bob Chesher scored twice to give him the league points lead with brother Bill and Glen Houlden also counting for Frankford.

The near - sensational work of Bill Curtis who was playing his third game in goal for Thomasburg was a feature of the game.

Chelsea Will Tour Canada, US

LONDON (Reuters) — Chelsea, an English First Division soccer team, will tour Canada and the United States at the end of the English season in May, it was announced Tuesday.

The team is due to leave for New York May 12, but the departure will be postponed for a week if they are in the English Cup final May 20.

The club secretary said the club expected to play 10 games in various cities. Some of the games would be against other European clubs, he said.

British Proposal for Peace Rejected Flatly by Vietnam

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam's foreign ministry officially rejected today the British proposal for talks to stop the fighting in Vietnam as a new appeal from London was on its way to Hanoi.

The British call for the U.S. and North and South Vietnamese governments to meet at once had been accepted by the United States and South Vietnam. But North Vietnam denounced it as "an impermissible vicious act."

In an official statement, a North Vietnamese foreign ministry spokesman called the British proposal "an act full of malicious intention aimed at screening the dark designs of the U.S. aggressors."

Despite earlier rebuffs from official Hanoi newspapers, the British foreign office appealed again Tuesday night to North Vietnam to agree to talks.

It said an affirmative response "will commit them simply and solely to joining efforts to lift the burden of war from their country and so creating conditions in which a political settlement could be negotiated."

The North Vietnamese statement appeared to slam the door on the British suggestion first made by Foreign Secretary George Brown Dec. 31.

"By 'calling for peace' at this juncture," Hanoi said, "The British government is precisely dancing to the tune of the United States so that the latter may take new, more serious steps of war escalation. . . .

"The government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam has always held that the U.S. is the aggressor; therefore it must stop its aggression, withdraw all its troops and those of its satellites from South Vietnam, put an end to all acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, and let the Vietnamese people settle their own affairs by themselves." It said, "Then peace will be restored immediately."

Hanoi seemed particularly annoyed that Britain failed to include the Viet Cong in its proposal. "It is absolutely impossible to end the war in South Vietnam without talking with the National Front for Liberation," the Viet Cong's political arm, it said.

Meanwhile, the New York Times says private soundings by U Thant, United Nations secretary-general, indicate any progress toward peace talks depends on an unconditional cessation of bombing by the U.S.

Times correspondent Drew Middleton says in a dispatch from UN headquarters:

"After two weeks of intensive, secret diplomacy, Mr. Thant was described as having hopes, based on what were described as hard facts, of a positive response from North Vietnam once the United States unconditionally ended the bombing. The response is expected here to take the form of a de-escalation of the North's military operation."

English Papers Urge Queen Be Freed From Distasteful Duty

LONDON (AP)—Three London newspapers today urged Parliament to repeal George III's royal marriage law so Queen Elizabeth won't have to decide whether her first cousin can marry the mother of his illegitimate son.

The Royal Marriages Act of 1772 was denounced on all sides as a museum piece of royal spite. It was brought to public attention again by the Earl of Harewood's announcement Monday that he is being divorced for adultery and wants to marry a former model who bore him a son 2½ years ago.

Under the ancient act, all members of the Royal Family descended from George II must have the monarch's permission to wed. This means that, technically at least, Harewood must seek the Queen's consent before marrying Patricia Tuckwell, a 29-year-old divorcee from Australia.

As head of the Church of England, which opposes the remarriage of anyone whose partner is living, the Queen would face clerical pressure to refuse her consent.

The Conservative Daily Mail, the Labor Sun and The Evening Standard, a Beaverbrook newspaper which takes an independent line, all urged repeal of the 195-year-old act. So did Cyril Hankinson, former editor of Debrett's Peerage.

Calling the act a "frowsty frowzy piece of legislation pushed through parliament by George III," Hankinson said the king "was furious at secret marriages made by his brothers, the Dukes of Cumberland and Gloucester, to commoners."

"Most people today think that the Royal Family should have the same rights as the Queen's other subjects when it comes to a personal matter like marriage."

Metal Spindles Found in Skull of Body Taken From Lake

TORONTO (CP)—Two metal objects were found in the skull of a body, alleged to be that of Mrs. Minnie Ford, the preliminary hearing of a capital Wayne, 20, was told Tuesday.

Pathologist Dr. Fred Jaffe also testified that the front of the woman's head was brushed or fragmented. He described the objects as two-inch spindles pointed at both ends.

Dr. Jaffe said the body was an adult female, moderately obese and about five feet five inches tall, which had been in the water for at least two years.

The skull fragmentation would have caused death "very quickly" if it occurred during life, Dr. Jaffe said. A groove around the neck also suggested a ligature had been applied.

Asked if he could state the cause of death, Dr. Jaffe replied: "No, because I was not able to determine if the injuries found were inflicted during life."

Ford listened impassively as the indictment was read and the first witnesses called. The hearing will determine whether he will stand trial.

Julius Karu, first witness called by the Crown, testified he was working on his cottage on the northwest shore of Lake Couchiching, 80 miles north of here, Oct. 10 when he saw a body near shore.

Mr. Karu said he and his wife had seen something in the lake about a week before but had thought it looked like "a dummy."

Crown counsel Lloyd Graburn asked if there was anything attached to the body. Mr. Karu said that when he first saw it, there was a blue bag attached to it near the head. It did not envelop the head.

"There was something printed on the bag — Miami Beach, something like that, you know," Mr. Karu said.

Questioned by defence counsel George Brigden, Mr. Karu testified the lettering was in white and the words read Miami Beach, Florida.

Constable Beverley Gill of the provincial police Grills detachment said he was called to the scene about 10:40 a.m. on the day the body was discovered.

He told Magistrate Norman Gianelli the body was lying along the shoreline and appeared to be that of a female. It was taken later to the Forensic Science Centre in Toronto, he said, where he was present when Dr. Jaffe performed an autopsy.

Later he said the body also had nylon stockings, and there was a plaster material covering the lower back. No shoes were found.

He said the face was partly decomposed. The forehead and sides of the face were intact.

Jack Ruby During Three Years of Hearings

Ruby's Body Taken From Hospital

Plane Carries Ruby's Body Back to Chicago for Burial

CHICAGO (AP)—Jack Ruby, who grew up on Chicago's tough west side, returned home in death today after gaining international notoriety as the slayer of President Kennedy's accused assassin. He will be buried beside his parents.

The plane carrying Ruby's body landed at O'Hare International Airport shortly after midnight following a flight from Dallas, where he died Tuesday at Parkland Memorial Hospital —the same hospital in which Kennedy and Lee Harvey Oswald died.

His death from a blood clot in the lungs forever clouded the doubts surrounding the assassination of President Kennedy. Until the end, Ruby insisted he acted alone in fatally shooting Oswald.

The 53-year-old Ruby had extensive cancer, but Dr. Carl Rose, the Dallas County medical examiner, said it was a massive clot that would probably have killed him even if he had not been weakened by cancer. Rose said, however, that cancer would be listed on the death certificate as a contributing cause.

Rose, who performed an autopsy, said the blood clot apparently formed in Ruby's leg Tuesday morning and travelled through the heart to the lungs.

GUARDED COFFIN

Ruby's coffin was taken from the plane here as soon as the doors were opened. Twenty policemen quickly placed the coffin in a hearse for the drive to a north side funeral home.

Ruby's brother, Earl Ruby of Detroit, and two sisters, Eileen Kaminsky of Chicago and Eva Grant of Dallas, accompanied the body on the plane.

They appeared composed as they walked quickly and silently past a waiting crowd of some 50 reporters.

Hershey Weinstein, president of the Original Weinstein and Sons Chapel, said services and burial would be held Thursday afternoon or Friday morning.

Ruby's death prompted statements from various individuals connected with the case.

In New York, William Kunstler, one of Ruby's lawyers, said his death denied him the opportunity "to have a jury decide that he was guilty of nothing more than murder without malice, a crime that carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment."

Kunstler added in a statement that such a verdict—of murder without malice—"could have helped to establish that what Ruby did in Dallas on Nov. 24, 1963, was solely the result of spontaneous reaction to the president's assassination."

In Los Angeles, Joseph Ball, senior staff counsel to the Warren Commission, said he did not see how Ruby's death could have any effect on the validity of the commission's report on Kennedy's assassination.

Ball said he was sure that some persons who have been writing critical books about the report "will spread the word that there was something sinister about Ruby's death."

Ball said he saw no reason to reopen the Warren inquiry unless new evidence developed.

Hoffa, at Door of Jail, Busy Drafting Truckers' Pay Demands

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — James R. Hoffa, with time fast running out for his final legal efforts to stay out of prison, buries himself today in shaping nationwide trucking contract demands.

"I guess that's how he stays sane," said a close associate about the gruelling work pace maintained by the Teamsters Union president despite the eight-year jury tampering sentence hanging over him.

Hoffa kept aides working long hours wrapping up final details on wage demands he said will range from five to seven per cent for some 500,000 employees of 12,000 trucking firms.

Contract talks start in Washington Jan. 17, but unless he is successful in winning a new U.S. Supreme Court hearing or a new trial, Hoffa could be in prison before the March 31 contract deadline.

Some union sources expressed concern that the trucking negotiations might bog down if Hoffa is not around to complete them, but the 53-year-old union chief expressed confidence that a settlement will be reached without a strike. But Hoffa added that some trucking firms might have to raise their rates to pay the new labor costs.

One union source, predicting possible difficulties if Hoffa went to prison before negotiations were completed, said "Hoffa has been a one-man show, not because he is autocratic, but because he has been dealing with these employers for so long."

Hoffa told reporters he had talked to almost every carrier truck company in the country in preparing for the negotiations.

Union sources said no other Teamster official, including Hoffa's heir - apparent, Frank Fitzsimmons of Detroit, has that close a relationship with the trucking industry.

While Hoffa declined to reveal details of the trucking contract demands, he said they would be "between the elastic formula of five and seven per cent" that has been the pattern of other recent big labor settlements.

State Lottery Provides Funds For Sydney's New Opera House

By PHIL ADLER

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—If it moves, Australians will bet on it. Construction of the Sydney Opera House moves, albeit slowly, and it's being financed by gambling—a state lottery.

The lottery produced $6,000,000 for the Opera House in 1962 but there was no betting on the date the project will be completed.

The controversial building was started in 1959 after Danish architect Joern Utzon won an international competition with a far-out design to capture the spirit of billowing sails that cover Sydney's huge harbor during a weekend.

The original cost was estimated by the New South Wales state government at $7,000,000. The first completion date was 1963. The figure now is $50,000,000 and many won't be surprised if it goes beyond $70,000,000 by the time it is finished. The new target date is 1970.

Supporters say the unique design stirs the imagination; critics reply that the spectacular cost staggers it.

Proponents view the gigantic new landmark with its huge sail-like roof shells as another Taj Mahal. Sailors call it a scrum of suns. To others, it is a circus tent disintegrating in a gale.

The Opera House sits on Bennelong Point overlooking Sydney Cove, the hub of the city's development. The building covers 4½ acres of a seven-acre site ich juts into Sydney Harbor, Pacific waters tapping three sides.

Roof shells are nearing completion, the result of six years of engineering headaches and more than 2,500 hours of computer work.

Work on the interior is scheduled to start in July, 1967, when the building is waterproof.

Experts now are working on seating. The original plan called for 3,500 seats in the main hall but this likely will be scaled down to 2,800. A second hall will seat 1,100, an experimental theater 400 and a chamber music hall 300.

Opera House actually is a misnomer for the completed structure because it will be used more as a cultural centre for ballet and convention plac Providing it is finished in 1970, one of its first major bookings is the World Congress of Dairy Farmers.

In the meantime, Australians will continue to finance the project with lottery tickets of $6 each, hoping for a first prize of $200,000 when the draw is made every 12 days. When the Opera House is completed, the anticipated operational deficit will be made up by another lottery.

Costly Dream

Exterior work on the controversial opera house in Sydney, Australia, moves along. Interior work is expected to start next July. Started in 1959 when costs were estimated at $7,000,000, the opera house was originally scheduled for completion in 1963. Now completion target is 1970 and costs are expected to go beyond $70,000,000. (CP Photo)

Boy, 14, Is Talented Musician

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, (Canadian Press)—Clarence Ashare, Man. (CP)—Clarence Ashare, dumb since birth. He also is the victim of a neurological disease, which makes it impossible locked in a world of darkness for 14 years by four incurable ailments, has a rare musical talent.

But virtually self-taught, he has mastered two musical instruments, the piano and piano accordion, and can play any tune from Brahms's Lullaby to the Blue Danube from memory.

Dr. G. H. Lowther, medical director of the Manitoba School for Retardates here, said that until a short time ago all Clarence had learned to do was dress himself, eat and go to the toilet.

Then one day he sat down and began to pick out tunes on the piano.

"Because Clarence can't speak it is most difficult to communicate with him, but somehow I got across to him the fact that you need both hands to play the piano," Mr. Brazauskas said.

It wasn't long before Clarence began to play chords with his other hand and soon could play a song he had never heard before, regardless of length, if it was whistled to him.

Mr. Brazauskas later introduced him to the piano accordion.

"We were able to get an old instrument, and I fastened it on to the boy. I placed his hands on the keys, and it was literally fantastic because he played it the first day."

ANSWER: The airport charges $2 every 24 hours. For an inside garage the storage is from $8 to $10 per week; this is in Toronto. Cost of bus from Royal York to airport $2.

QUESTION: My husband and I are planning a two-week vacation in Florida in February. Could you please give me the average temperature in that month in Daytona Beach.

ANSWER: From December to February the maximum ranges from 60 to 71 with an average of 65 degrees.

QUESTION: Two friends and I plan to motor to Florida for two weeks. We want to make our stay as inexpensive as possible, and would like your advice as to how much we should expect to spend on a room or cottage — even the YMCA — in Miami Beach. We would certainly not go to Petersburg or any other spot with bathing and weather.

ANSWER: Accommodation in Miami Beach is usually at a premium during the cold months but you can still line up something if you act right away by writing the Chamber of Commerce there for a hotel and motel list. You might also write the Metro Miami Chamber of Commerce.

While resort type hotels will be loaded, there are a number of commercial hotels in Miami where a couple might stay for $10 a night, slightly more for a third person, and an efficiency hotel might be best. For the latter, it might run you $15 a day, but you could save a little by doing your own cooking.

QUESTION: We are visiting Toronto next weekend, and plan to visit some points of interest including the new airport. Could you please tell me how to get there from Toronto and a rundown of some of the facts concerning this airport?

ANSWER: Toronto International Airport's $24,000,000 terminal was opened to traffic January 11, 1964. The new terminal is south of the 11 to 1 airport. Follow 401 highway, and you will see it from the highway. Just follow the signs from there. It is considered one of the most modern air terminals in the world.

It has one of the largest indoor parking facilities in Canada, a dining lounge and cocktail bar, a small hotel and some of the finest works of Canadian and European artists and sculptors.

Zanuck Asserts His Authority

Following is the second of five articles on the revival of 20th Century-Fox under Darryl F. Zanuck.

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—Darryl F. Zanuck found himself up against the Wall Street-dominated board of directors of 20th Century-Fox when he was working in 1961 on his war epic, The Longest Day.

He had to present his script and budget for approval, and the directors were reluctant to okay his production estimate of $5,000,000, plus overhead that might add another million.

"I was in the army and I don't like war pictures," snapped one director.

The board finally approved the film but insisted that big-name stars be included in the cast for boxoffice insurance. Zanuck agreed.

By May, 1962, he had finished most of the photography on The Longest Day. He was pleased with it. He considered the movie as his one great chance to regain the $4,000,000 losses of his previous independent film and to redeem his reputation as a movie maker.

WORRIES ABOUT RELEASE

But he was worried about how 20th Century-Fox would release The Longest Day, which by now had cost $8,000,000. The company was still pouring millions into Cleopatra and was in the process of losing $50,000,000 in a two-year period. It was taking desperate measures to avoid insolvency.

"Fox is liable to sell off The Longest Day fast to get money coming in," Zanuck was told by his adviser, lawyer Arnold Grant. He suggested hiring of Zanuck's own salesmen to oversee 20th Fox's deals with theatres, so the company would get the long-range profits rather than a quick buck. Zanuck agreed.

In May of 1962, Spyros Skouras was re-elected president of 20th Century-Fox, though he had undergone surgery and appeared to be losing power to other board members. Samuel Rosenman, a major adviser to president Franklin D. Roosevelt, was chairman.

Zanuck went to Rosenman with his proposal for an independent production unit to make The Longest Day. Rosenman rejected the suggestion, and Zanuck resigned that he had another appointment.

As he left the meeting Zanuck's temper flared. He said to Grant: "I'm going back."

HURLS GAUNTLET

On June 28, 1962, Zanuck hurled the gauntlet. He issued a press statement declaring that the 20th Century-Fox board was "impotent" and its executive committee had taken over running the company and most members "have had no experience in the motion picture industry."

What the company needed, he said, was "a new president . . . new policy . . . complete reorganization of every department in it."

Zanuck concluded: "I have been inaudible for entirely too long. Now, as the largest single individual stockholder, I intend to make my position clear on all major matters."

Walter Gordon Back, Policy Breach Healed

Cabinet Colleagues Again

(CP Wirephoto)

OTTAWA (CP)—Walter Gordon, who thought of resigning his Commons seat last month, is back in the cabinet provoking speculation his nationalistic economic policies have gained new favor in the Liberal government.

Neither the 60-year-old former finance minister nor Prime Minister Pearson gave any indication of a government policy shift. However, Mr. Gordon's return may carry its own message.

Mr. Pearson, flanked by his former colleague, announced at a Wednesday news conference that Mr. Gordon has accepted an invitation to become a minister without portfolio. As such he will handle special projects for the prime minister.

The prime minister made it clear, however, that the portfolio—which carries no specific duties—is only a temporary spot for Mr. Gordon, who quit as finance minister following the Nov. 8, 1965, federal election.

Mr. Pearson indicated a more important post is in the offing in forthcoming cabinet changes. In his words, "there will be opportunity before long to add to Mr. Gordon's responsibilities in a ministerial way."

Both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Gordon said they see eye-to-eye on policies related to Canadian control of domestic industry, much of which now is U.S.-owned.

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Gordon has expressed his policy views clearly in personal discussions that included a recent Minister Sharp "and we found ourselves in accord as in the past."

For his part, Mr. Gordon told the reporters he, the prime minister and Mr. Sharp "are in complete agreement" on the "thorny problem" of Canadian control of domestic industry.

However, Mr. Gordon, a quiet-spoken chartered accountant, confirmed reports that he had recently been considering resigning from his Toronto Davenport Commons seat.

In connection with this, Mr. Gordon said he felt strongly on the question of Canadian control. However, he now is "delighted about the general approach the government is going to follow." His earlier misgivings had been cleared up in recent conversations.

The earlier resignation reports suggested Mr. Gordon was dissatisfied with the government's attitude on foreign control.

Mr. Gordon quit finance because of what he termed his own bad advice to Mr. Pearson, a close friend, to call the last federal election. The Liberals failed to win the parliamentary majority they sought. Mr. Gordon, an inner - circle - party strongman since the late 50s, was campaign chairman.

The finance department under the more orthodox Sharp has had relatively clear sailing compared with the storm years under Mr. Gordon who had held the job since 1963 when the Liberals regained power.

His nationalist policies provoked many businessmen and helped split his own party. His views were rebuffed by a majority segment at the party's November convention, which opted for free trade with the

Exports Key to Growth

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—J. M. McAvity, president of the Canadian Export Association, suggested today that a sign reading "Think Export" be placed over the Speaker's chair in the House of Commons as a reminder of the importance of export promotion.

Exporters have more reason than any other segment of Canada's population to be concerned over the frustrating political experience of the past years, together with the steady rise in government expenditures and the inability of leaders in government, industry and labor to control inflation more effectively."

He urged that political expediency and ambitions be put aside to enable restoration of the necessary sense of responsibility and businesslike decision-making.

Mr. McAvity said priority should be given to the preservation of the competitive position of Canadian industry, the maintenance of an economic and tax climate that will keep exports flowing in rising volume from Canadian plants and to step up the rate of economic growth through the early years of Canada's second century," he added.

He said Mr. Winters' objective—a gain of about 11 per cent over the anticipated 1966 total of $10,000,000,000—is realistic and can be achieved by a determined effort and bold effective action by top management.

restore Canada's image abroad as a responsible and efficient national entity.

The most important economic criterion for 1967 is the $11,250,000,000 export target set by Mr. Winters, Mr. McAvity told the Preston-Hespeler Rotary Club.

The ability of Canadian industry to respond to the challenge will largely determine "our success in sustaining a satisfactory

One Man Charged With Art Theft

LONDON (Reuters)—An unemployed man was charged in court today with stealing eight paintings worth $7,500,000 from a London gallery last weekend in Britain's biggest art robbery.

The man, Michael Hall, 22, pleaded not guilty and was remanded in custody to appear in court again on Jan. 25.

Hall was arrested Wednesday after police had kept him under surveillance for several days.

Police announced Wednesday they had recovered the paintings but did not disclose how they solved the mystery. The paintings were taken from the Dulwich College art gallery early Saturday morning.

Art experts said one of the paintings, Rubens' Santa Barbara, was slightly scratched and paint was flaking off another. Rembrandt's Girl in a Window.

Otherwise, these and six others were undamaged after their five-day absence.

It was believed an underworld informer put detectives on the trail of five of the paintings. They were found, wrapped in brown paper, lying near a holly bush on the frosty soil of a south London garden.

But a spokesman at Scotland Yard said they could not confirm reports that weapons and a substantial quantity of stolen goods were found with some of the pictures.

Three of the pictures were recovered Tuesday but police refused to allow the news to be published in case the other five were destroyed or damaged.

Police sources said it is unlikely anyone will claim the £1,000 ($3,000) reward offered by the gallery for the return of the paintings, as the recovery was entirely a police operation.

Police Strike Unlikely

MONTREAL (CP)—The possibility of a police strike and the question of police brutality were hot topics in Montreal Wednesday.

Lucien Saulnier, the city's executive committee chairman, said in an interview he believes there is little chance of the city's police walking out in support of pay demands April 27—the eve of Expo 67's opening day.

And he said he believes the provincial government Minister of Roland Perron, as assistant director and head of detectives, was connected with Mr. Perron's concern over recent charges of police brutality in the city.

Mr. Perron, meanwhile, lashed out at various human rights groups who, he felt, sought to protect the criminal and not the victims of the criminal.

Amateur-pro Hockey Tournament At Expo Suggested by Russians

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gordon Juckes, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Wednesday that a 1967 tournament among professional teams from the National Hockey League and national clubs from the Soviet Union and Canada is "an exciting idea."

But an idea is all it is, said Juckes, referring to speculation that has popped up at the Centennial world invitation tournament here.

The speculation is that Russia, defending world amateur champion, is eager to meet the NHL under any rules. Soviet sources are said to have suggested an autumn tournament complementing Expo '67 in Montreal.

"I haven't heard anything official about it," Juckes said in an interview, "but the Russians have been pressing the International Ice Hockey Federation for permission to play a professional club."

The IIHF has long frowned on international matches involving amateur and professional teams but relented slightly in 1966, indicating approval would be given for a Russia - professional game in the Soviet Union.

Sardinian Bandits Hunted

CAGLIARI (AP) — Six hundred armor - equipped riot police from mainland Italy have fanned out into the Sardinian highlands in open war on the banditry and feud slayings that terrorized the island last year.

After 24 vengeance killings and 10 kidnappings for ransom, 1966 ended in a New Year's Eve blast of machine-gun fire. This left three men dead and brought a nationwide manhunt to an end to slaughter in Sardinia.

The Celere, with jeeps and armored cars, reinforced 3,000 Italian troops and Carabinieri already massed in Nuoro province of central Sardinia in an effort to cope with the outlaws.

That province in the hill country had 500 slayings in a 1905-55 blood-bath of banditry and vendetta, and the violence flared up again last year.

It is an old shooting region. Kidnappings for ransom average almost one a month. Rustling of cows and sheep is a way of life. Police often are ignored and scores are settled under the ancient law of "sa giustizia"—justice is mine.

Beaten by Schoolmates, Boy, 9, Is Left Naked

TORONTO (CP) — A nine-year-old boy found naked and beaten on a downtown intersection Wednesday night told police he had been attacked by schoolmates.

Earlier, the boy had said he was stripped and beaten by a man.

Police said the boy had bruises on his back and legs. His mouth and cheek were swollen and he had been struck in the eye. His clothes were found in a lane near the place where he was found.

Jewish Families Dig Graves for Dead

NEW YORK (AP) — Several families dug graves for their dead Wednesday at Jewish cemeteries because of a strike of 1,700 union gravediggers. Jews customarily bury their dead within 24 hours.

Five families dug graves at Beth David Cemetery in Elmont, Long Island. Each family had to pay a $10 deposit for tools shoveled and a pick, but the money was refunded by the cemetery management when the tools were returned.

"We're not happy about it, but what can you do?" said Warren Rosen, office manager at Beth David.

The strike is in its third day today, and another round of bargaining sessions is scheduled.

The gravediggers strike Jewish, Roman Catholic and nonsectarian cemeteries in a demand for higher wages.

Bodies were placed in vaults at the 14 nonsectarian and 12 Catholic cemeteries to await burial.

A city health department spokesman said that the unburied bodies pose no immediate health hazard. He added that the situation would cause concern if the strike lasted more than a week.

Planes Hit 188 Barges

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — U.S. Navy pilots claimed today a two-day score of 188 North Vietnamese supply barges and junks destroyed or damaged and reported losing two carrier planes in their latest raids.

Plane Down On Mountain

FAIRPLAY, Colo. (AP)—Two U.S. Army helicopters carrying teams of mountain rescue specialists and paramedics joined today in a massive search for a chartered plane that crashed-landed on a Colorado mountainside in below-zero temperature and giant snowdrifts.

The rescue specialists were ready to attempt to defy the treacherous slopes of 14,027-foot Mount Sherman when the twin-engine Cessna carrying an Illinois family of three is sighted. The pilot and another man also were aboard.

Viet Cong Liked Their Singing Report Two Freed Civilians

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) Two U.S. civilians said today that although they were given bad food and almost killed by an American air raid they were not mistreated during seven months as prisoners of the Viet Cong.

"The Viet Cong were impressed by our cheerful attitude," said Thomas Scales, 46, of Mataminta, Pa. "We sang and whistled all the time. They asked us to sing and we sang Jingle Bells and My Wild Irish Rose. We're both lousy singers, but the Viet Cong seemed to like it."

Scales and Robert Monahan, 41, of Bellport, N.Y., were captured May 27 on a road near Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, where they were employed as a supervisors for Pacific Architects and Engineers, an American firm working in South Vietnam under military contract.

They appeared before a large group of reporters at a U.S. military hospital to which they were brought following their release Wednesday near Xuan Loc 40 miles northeast of Saigon.

Since their capture May 28, Scales had lost 55 pounds and now weighs 122. Monahan lost 75 pounds and now weighs 141. But except for malnutrition, they were pronounced in fair condition by army doctors.

The pair said the Viet Cong told them they were released because they finally had shown repentance.

"We don't know what we repented for," said Scales. "They told us if we didn't repent we would spend five years in prison."

He said they were blindfolded and bound and taken to the first of several different prisoner camps.

"For the first 14 days," Scales said, "We were tied with cables around our feet. But after that we were not bound or handcuffed. We were constantly guarded by at least two armed guards."

Scales said that at one camp they were caught in a U.S. air strike. They threw themselves on the ground, he said, but their guards made them get up and run in bare feet to an air raid shelter.

"The shelter was a hole in the ground covered with timbers," Scales said.

About two months after their capture, Scales said, the Viet Cong brought in a Philippine woman and her husband, also a Filipino.

They were Vincente Gaza, an employee of Air America, and his wife, Ophelia. Mrs. Gaza was released with Scales and Monahan and is under medical treatment at Xuan Loc. Her husband died a week ago while still in captivity.

At Christmas, Scales said, they were given a hut in which to hold a party. He and Monahan held a little prayer service and then a party.

He said the Viet Cong gave them molasses, peanuts and tobacco for the party.

Monahan said that although the food was bad, they were not mistreated.

"We ate mostly rice and fish," he said.

Exports Key to Growth

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—J. M. McAvity, president of the Canadian Export Association, suggested today that a sign reading "Think Export" be placed over the Speaker's chair in the House of Commons as a reminder of the importance of export promotion.

Exporters have more reason than any other segment of Canada's population to be concerned over the frustrating political experience of the past years, together with the steady rise in government expenditures and the inability of leaders in government, industry and labor to control inflation more effectively."

He urged that political expediency and ambitions be put aside to enable restoration of the necessary sense of responsibility and businesslike decision-making.

Mr. McAvity said priority should be given to the preservation of the competitive position of Canadian industry, the maintenance of an economic and tax climate that will keep exports flowing in rising volume from Canadian plants and to step up the rate of economic growth through the early years of Canada's second century," he added.

He said Mr. Winters' objective—a gain of about 11 per cent over the anticipated 1966 total of $10,000,000,000—is realistic and can be achieved by a determined effort and bold effective action by top management.

Temple Out of Leadership Race

Belleville lawyer, Robert Temple, will not contest the Ontario Liberal Party leadership.

His decision hinges on a desire to remain in federal politics — whose goals he has always pursued in public affairs.

Mr. Temple made his decision known late yesterday, following several weeks' speculation that he might be among contenders for the leadership at the Ontario party's convention in Toronto this weekend.

"I've had to make up my mind whether to remain in the federal field or enter political affairs for my own party," he said. "Ever since I've been involved in politics my primary interest has always been in national affairs and I have decided to remain in that arena."

His announcement indicated he likely will be a candidate once again in the next federal election in the Quinte district, where he already has fought three campaigns.

After an initial defeat in 1963 he won the seat for the Liberal party in South Hastings in 1965, but lost it in the 1965 election.

ONCE IN RUNNING

The fact he was first contemplating the Ontario leadership—left vacant with the resignation of Andrew Thompson — was revealed December 14 at an organization meeting of the provincial Quinte Liberal Association in Belleville at which he was guest speaker. At that time, Mr. Temple told reporters he was "seriously considering" the move.

Last night he said he had been approached even earlier in the year on the possibility of seeking the leadership and had been promised support from various sections of the provincial party organization if he made the bid.

The challenge would have placed him against Robert Nixon, the party's acting chief since Mr. Thompson's resignation.

NIXON ONLY CANDIDATE

So far, he is the only candidate, although nominations do not close until 7 p.m. tomorrow.

"No spontaneous demonstrations have been arranged because we don't expect anyone to run against Mr. Nixon," was the wry comment attributed to a party official in Toronto yesterday.

Federal cabinet ministers and provincial Liberal members will take up the gap in the convention program if there is no ballotting for the leadership and Mr. Nixon is returned unopposed.

Farquhar Oliver, who has represented Grey South in the Legislature for more than 40 years, will make the keynote address. Cabinet ministers who will deliver pep talks in the event of an acclamation are Paul Hellyer (Defence); Mitchell Sharp (Finance); J. J. Greene (Agriculture); Paul Martin (External Affairs); E. J. Benson (National Revenue); George Mcilraith (Works); Lawrence Pennell (Solicitor-General).

Mr. Temple said he finally made his decision to continue his commitment in the federal arena during the New Year's holiday.

However, he will be among the Quinte district delegations at the convention when it opens tomorrow to choose a party leader.

G.R. Cameron Named Head Of Authority

Belleville lawyer G. R. Cameron was elected chairman of the Belleville Retarded Children's Education Authority at the authority's inaugural meeting Wednesday. Mr. Cameron has been an authority member since its formation two years ago and succeeds F. Rolf Blackbourne whose appointment to the authority expired on December 31. Mr. Blackbourne, who served in the capacity of chairman from its inception in January 1965, was praised by members for his ability and devotion demonstrated while carrying out the responsibilities of his post.

E. J. Buckley and Bram Humphreys were appointed to the authority by city council and Mrs. Margaret Mydocks by the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children. All appointments are for a two-year term. Mr. Buckley and Mrs. Maddocks are commencing their second term of office and Mr. Humphreys is a new member.

Bruce M. Kerr was reappointed vice-chairman and chairman of finance committee. T. H. Stovell, chairman of property committee and Mrs. M. Maddocks chairman of the educational management committee.

At a brief business meeting following the inaugural meeting the authority learned that, with present enrolment at 32 pupils, school accommodation is becoming overcrowded and attention will have to be given to solving the situation in the event a number of additional children are admitted.

The School on John Street could comfortably accommodate 35 pupils, depending upon the number of children in half-day and full-day classes. Under existing legislation the authorities must depend upon local Associations for Retarded Children to provide school premises, but associations must raise the capital outlay through voluntary contributions.

At the conclusion of the meeting authority members were given a tour of the school by Mrs. Vivian Radford, principal, who explained current projects of the pupils and recommended a number of items required to further assist in the training of retarded children.

Graduating from a canoe attendants' school held by Canadian Pacific Airlines at Vancouver this month was Elaine Rasmussen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rasmussen, Belleville. She will continue her training flying as a stewardess on the airline's five-continent route.

U.S. and no curbs on foreign investment.

At the news conference, Mr. Pearson said the Liberal government had always made room from Canadian control of resources a primary objective. But this view has to be proven out with investment growth.

But foreign domination was "a vital issue" that will receive a great deal of attention and an announcement will be made in due course, he said. The long-promised Canada Development Corp. will be given high legislative priority.

CDC NOT FORGOTTEN

"It hasn't been forgotten," he said. The CDC is said to provide an avenue for channelling Canadian investment funds into domestic industry.

Mr. Pearson also alluded to Mr. Gordon's nationalistic views when he said the cabinet "will be happy to take advantage of Mr. Gordon's experience and his strong Canadian viewpoint."

What Mr. Gordon's specific new role will be is also in the realm of speculation. Mr. Pearson said he had not discussed consumer affairs with Mr. Gordon, but the government will be increasingly active in that field. The parliamentary prices committee recommended a consumer affairs department.

Another possibility for Mr. Gordon is the post of registrar general, nominally held by Guy Fauteux, who has been absent due to a long illness.

Although Mr. Pearson said he hoped Mr. Fauteux would be back next week, reports persist that he will not take on the cabinet reins again in favor of another appointment.

History Classes Made Easier

Thanks to the National Film Board of Canada history classes in Belleville Public Schools this year are going to be a lot easier to take.

As part of their Centennial year project, the film board yesterday presented the Belleville Public School Board with 12 reels of Canadian history films.

The film titles range all the way from the last voyage of explorer Henry Hudson to the life histories of William Lyon Mackenzie and Canada's first prime minister, Sir John A. Macdonald.

A total of 1,000 reels of his series films are being presented to 62 Canadian school board operating accredited audio-visual departments. The Belleville Public School Board has it's own film library.

There were three sets of films in the history making series presented to the Belleville school board. These include films on personalities in Canada's struggle for self government; another on the prelude to Confederation featuring John A. Macdonald, George Etienne Cartier, Alexander Galt and Charles Tupper; with a third set on early exploration.

The cost value of the 12 films, most of which run about one half hour, is approximately $1,400. The retail value would absorb about three times this amount.

James R. Skillings, National Film Board officer for Eastern Ontario, presented the history films to the local school board.

Anyway, It's A Little Cold Right Now

Swimming in the nude in the waters of the Moira River or the Bay of Quinte is prohibited during the daytime but is apparently permissable at night.

At least this seems to be indicated in a city of Belleville bylaw relating to public morals and the prevention of nuisances within the city.

But the bylaw is due soon for amendment.

The existing bylaw No. 476 was amended in 1942 at which time several other relating bylaws were consolidated.

Since that time, however, many items in the bylaw have been covered in the criminal code and the bylaw again is to be amended. First, however, council will ask for comment from the city solicitor and Police Chief J. B. McLauchlan.

The existing bylaw covers such matters as indecent exposure; the operation of gambling or bawdy houses, and the leaving of dead animals on the streets.

It also prohibits the operation of manufacturing operations which might be a nuisance within the city and says that no person shall encourage a dog fight.

About that section concerning swimming or bathing in the river or bay:

The bylaw says no person shall indecently expose his or her person while bathing in the bay or river "between the hours of six o'clock in the morning and nine o'clock in the evening."

Court Orders Sentence Served After Remand

A Deseronto man was remanded one week for sentencing by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in County Court today on a charge of impaired driving.

William Donald Young, 27, of Deseronto, was arrested by Deseronto police January 1, following a two-car accident at the corner of St. George and Thomas streets in the village.

Police testified Young failed to stop at a stop street and struck another car, causing $175 damage to his car and $600 damage to the other car.

The court was told that Young, at the time of the accident, was unsteady on his feet, his speech was slurred and he smelled strongly of alcoholic beverages.

Police said Young became belligerent while being locked in the cells.

Young claimed the brakes on his car failed and he couldn't stop at the stop sign.

Young has a previous conviction of impaired driving and another of failing to remain.

Magistrate Wills told him he would have to serve 14 days in the County Jail and gave him the week's remand to straighten out his affairs.

'Spring Thaw' Starts Tour Across Canada

My Country - What's It To You?

This is the title of a new Canadian show written especially for Canada's Centennial Celebration, but . . . . it has not received any Federal, Provincial or Municipal subsidy.

This is the show that will detail something of Canada's history, but . . . . it pokes fun at Canadian history.

This is the show that may not be the only show to tour Canada during 1967, but . . . . it is the only show to cross the country twice.

This is the show that has an independent, commercial producer, ready to stake his reputation on his own judgement, but . . . . he will be a financial loser if Canadians aren't ready to laugh at their own history.

This is the show that will tell visitors to Canada during 1967 about Canadian history, but . . . they will have to check our history books to separate the facts from the fun.

This is the show that has an original script, music and lyrics by Canadians, but . . . . these Canadians gained recognition below the border first.

This show will start its coast-to-coast tour on January 27th in Charlottetown, P.E.I., the cradle of Confederation.

This show will star Dinah Christie, Doug Chamberlain, Don Harron, Catherine McKinnon, Peter Mews, Diane Nyland, Dean Reagan, Ron Tanguay who assembled today for the first rehearsal from Montreal, England, Florida, Los Angeles, Halifax, Waterloo, Vancouver, Iowa and Barbara Hamilton no never left Toronto.

This show was titled by Don Harron who wrote the script. The original music and lyrics are by Marian Grudeff and Ray Jessel bo now live in New York.

This show is Spring Thaw '67.

Mayor Urges Orderly Development

TRENTON — Mayor D. James MacDonald continuing the theme of his inaugural address called for the elected officials of the town to expand the orderly development of the municipality and provide employment opportunities for the young people being educated and trained for future careers. Mayor MacDonald was addressing a luncheon meeting following the swearing ceremony at the town hall with members of the council, Board of Educating, Public Utilities Commission and Separate School Board present.

In his inaugural remarks earlier at the town hall the mayor outlined council's objectives for 1967. He listed them as follows. 1. To maintain and improve the services such as roads, sewers, watermains, street lighting and protection to persons and property; 2. To improve the housing standards by establishing minimum requirements to be met by all housing accommodations; 3. To examine and plan the replacement of housing which has dropped below a level where it is uneconomic to repair; 4. To induce, encourage and assist in the rehabilitation of the commercial area of the town with the assistance of private enterprise and governmental agencies. "The achievement of these targets is not something which will happen within a year. It will take many years," the mayor commented.

Mayor MacDonald reminded his audience that it was the first time in the history of municipal government in Trenton that all elected officials had participated in a swearing - in ceremony. He also reminded them that while hilary records Canada's Centennial year Trenton is observing its 114th birthday as an organized municipality, which also requires notice.

SUBJECT TO REVIEW

He said that while it was customary for mayors in the past to give some indication of the program for the year to follow it would be difficult to outline future plans since most of the projects undertaken last year were still in progress. He explained that the financial capacity of the town is limited and the capital budget established in 1966 for five years is subject to annual review.

In expanding his reference to a bylaw that would establish minimum standards of housing in Trenton the mayor noted that it had been said repeatedly that 45 per cent of the housing in Trenton is assessed for less than $2500. "This is not because all is improperly assessed but because the quality of the housing is less than in most towns. This is the heritage of a town over a hundred years old."

Noting that other developments are being considered the mayor mentioned the town's interest in acquiring the old post office. "Our attempts to purchase the post office have been delayed but we hope this is temporary, he pointed out. Let me assure every one we are not speculating with the taxpayers' money."

Mayor MacDonald stressed improvement was necessary for the commercial area. "The area must be made more attractive which means improved traffic patterns, increased off street parking facilities and the re-development of some of the business sections," he said. But traffic movement cannot be fairly evaluated until the new bridge is opened he observed. However, he did confirm that parking facilities will be expanded in the market area, when the new firehall is constructed.

In closing his address the mayor urged citizens get behind the Trenton Centennial committee under the chairmanship of Robert Carleton. He noted that the town's Centennial project, the Centennial Park, is taking shape under the chairmanship of Ken Couch a former mayor.

Museum Hours Discontinued Until May

As predicted last spring, Hastings County Museum will begin centennial year by closing its doors — but for a four-month period only.

Behind - the - scenes museum activities will boom during the first four months of 1967 as the staff catalogues and arranges the Paul Collection of Lighting Devices. Grand opening of the lighting display is scheduled for May 20.

Construction in the township of Thurlow totalled close to $1,000,000 during 1966, members of township council were told this week at their inaugural meeting.

Permits for the year numbered 83 with a construction value of $960,526. This compared with 77 permits in 1965 with a value of $700,276.

Housing construction in the township was down slightly, however with 23 permits as compared with 30 in 1965.

During the year there were 17 commercial and industrial permits with a value of $309,146 and school additions at Harmony School and the Immanuel Christian School on the Foxboro Road.

At the inaugural meeting councillors were sworn in by Clerk - Treasurer Earl Dafoe. Rev. J. W. Hobbs, United Church Minister at Cannifton pronounced invocation.

Area Around Marysville Gets Six Inch Snowfall

Snow fell over the Quinte district last night, with the Marysville and Shannonville areas being the hardest hit.

A total of six inches fell at Marysville and four inches at Shannonville. It was light, fluffy snow, the same as fell in Belleville.

Picton had about one inch of the white stuff, Wellington and Hillier two inches, and Trenton and Belleville one - half inch.

The Duty Forecaster at Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, said intermittent light snow flurries were expected in the district this morning, tapering off to the odd snow flurry this afternoon and tonight.

He said there was a weak disturbance a low moving one through the area from the Maritimes but it would be replaced by a high pressure area bomorrow bringing no snow, but cooler temperatures.

Villagers Side With Council Members Over News Reporting

FRANKFORD — Newspaper coverage of this village's council meetings has sparked some warm reactions from the councillors themselves.

"I don't think that little arguments should ever see the light of day in the paper," said Councillor Leonard Reid. "Friendly arguments aren't what people want to read about. Bylaws are. When the newspaper prints conversations from council it's pretty low."

"In a small community like Frankford," added Councillor Carman Miehl, "where people know you, such reports can lead to bad feeling. In a large town it doesn't matter.

Said Councillor William Rose: "People are interested in the bylaws. But let me eat my neighbor something and it's in the paper. In my view that's pretty small.

During the support for the councillors' attitudes came from storekeeper Mervin Dafoe, a former member of the village's fire department.

"I thought that what the councillors said was very near right," he said.

Mr. Dafoe said all newspapers emphasize sensationalism " . . . the part of the news that causes controversy — the smutty part of the news."

"I'll stand up for our council. In the past year a lot of friction was caused by the newspapers."

Another villager who declined to have his name published said the public was entitled to know the facts of its government but more discrimination could be used by newspapers.

"It's within the public interest to know what's going on. But it's up to the reporters to use a little discretion."

Village druggist Jack Madill said he agreed with Councillor Mikel that a smaller community imposes discretion.

"It's harder on council when personalities are discussed. But I think it's up to council too," he said.

"They can have closed meetings if they want. I think they're our representatives and we're entitled to know what's going on. But they are entitled to some closed meetings."

Into the Future

"If this vast, attractive land can hold out, then this could be their century, the time when they finally shake off Voltaire's inapposite sneer: "A few acres of snow."

This is The Sunday Times talking. The British publication recently published a supplement on Canada as it approached the Centennial Year upon which it is now embarked.

Others besides Voltaire have spoken in similar choleric vein. Like Wyndham Lewis, the British writer who spent some economically difficult years in this country and vent his feelings by dubbing it "A sanctimonious ice-box . . . a sort of worked out gold mine."

Well, it is always good to know what others think of us, past and present, and no matter how painful the barb. But times have changed since Voltaire and Lewis were around. Canada has not been standing still. It is a far bigger, brighter and more vibrant country than either of the two gentlemen ever knew, in terms of population, industrial growth and cultural awareness.

Today Canadians have every right to shake off, even ignore, any such sneering comment. We are not perfect, but in this we share the common failings of all mankind. This aside, there is much we may be proud of. The Expo project, for example, is the finest exposition of mankind's progress ever conceived and it is being unfolded right here in Canada.

At the political level it is true there are other barbs we might shake off before becoming more truly independent. Not the monarchy, because if this link were to go our very individuality as Canadians on the North American continent would quickly disappear.

But rather, the country could give further thought to the problem of what to do with the British North America Act which vests authority for any change in the Constitution in the British Parliament. With Centennial Year under way the continued existence of this edict is all the more anomalous. Parliament's own special project this year could well be an agreement with Britain to end this perplexing constitutional problem.

Established in colonial days the Act, in essence, is the guarantor of the existing status quo with regard to federal and provincial politics. And the irony of it is that proposals for its repeal have always foundered on the rocks of domestic opposition rather than on any objections Britain might have. Nevertheless, it is still a dubious distinction that Canada enjoys under this Act, and one that ultimately should be eliminated in favor of the transfer of full autonomy to the Canadian Parliament.

Construction Lag

As Council members have acknowledged, there can be no doubt that the federal sales tax on building materials is having a crippling effect on the home building industry.

At the national level the situation is no better, according to the Canadian Construction Association — industry fell short of its anticipated increase in business in 1966. It says that measures are needed in most parts of the country to stimulate further growth.

The association president, Armand Trottier, of Quebec City, recalls that the federal government last summer predicted all construction in 1966 would be worth $11,200,000,000. Instead, he estimates it will barely reach $11,000,000,000. And some sources say it will be under that figure, because of shortages of mortgage money and delays in the start of major engineering projects.

Sales tax, high mortgage rates, and tight money generally all have contributed to this situation.

The Government must now be aware, if it were not aware before, that sales tax, to name only one, is a drag on the construction industry as well as on individual purchasers. Ottawa sees its own estimates falling short of expectation. However, it has it in its power to eliminate, or at least reduce, this tax, and in so doing to create the stimulus that is required in this vital industry.

Donald Campbell

Donald Malcolm Campbell died as he lived — at the wheel of the last of a long succession of speedboats with which he had carried on the tradition of his father before him, in the quest of still higher speeds on both land and water.

His jet hydroplane came to grief in a high-powered dash across Lake Coniston, in England's Lake District. It blew up just after Campbell had radioed: "The water is not in good condition."

That Campbell had a premonition of death during a card game the previous evening gives the manner of his going all the greater poignancy.

The debonair Briton will be remembered for his single-minded devotion to what can only be regarded as to a dangerous pastime — one in which fate was the final victor.

Acid Tongues in Ottawa an Extravagance in Africa

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — . . .notes off the reportorial cuff . . .

Colin Cameron, the often shockingly plain - spoken New Democratic MP from Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands, is at it again.

His cutting tongue first came to the respectful attention of the Commons when he laid on Conservative Leader Diefenbaker the lacerating descriptive, uttered with an almost spitting contempt: "Prepostero ous mountebank."

The House when it heard him enlarged, although John Diefenbaker, his hide toughened in a lifetime of political give and take, the last 36 years of it in Parliament, shrugged it off as if he hadn't been listening.

Then, ripping into Prime Minister Pearson for indecision, Mr. Cameron blamed the PM's vacillation on the "impossibility of the man being an SOB."

Both the "preposterous mountebank" and the prime ministerial inability to play the "SOB" got into Hansard.

But just before the House recessed for Christmas, Mr. Cameron became too much even for Hansard's word-by-word report of Parliament.

He had been urging speed in the passage of the legislation providing needy old age pensioners with a guaranteed minimum monthly $105.

His admonition made the first rough transcription of the Hansard stenographic record and then Mr. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, wielding a seldom-used blue pencil, ordered it amended to: "Ask them if they will get off their rear-ends."

Or, to translate: "Ask them to show a little life."

Among the VIPs and assorted visiting firemen zipping into the National Capital in recent days has been Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda, one of the African leaders who has been threatening to leave the Commonwealth unless Britain uses force to crush the Rhodesian "rebellion" and impose black majority government on the minority white minority as industrial community.

President Kaunda jetted into Ottawa to solicit additional External Aid and to sound out the Federal Government on the use of "force if necessary" — possibly involving the despatch of Canadian troops in the guise of United Nations "peace-keepers" — in the Rhodesian situation.

While no announcements were made of any decision on either question, it can be taken for granted that Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin gave him a flat unqualified "no" on the troops suggestion.

For, questioned in the Commons on the Government's attitude towards the use of force, both the Prime Minister and Mr. Martin several times have said that Canada is opposed — as is Britain — to the involvement of the armed services, either on the ground or in the air.

In London, they're more plainspoken and have said that public opinion simply wouldn't stand for the use of British troops against Rhodesia's armed services, composed of a considerable degree of English kith and kin.

But what was the answer to President Kaunda's plea for more Foreign Aid?

Again there has been no firm announcement, just possibly because when President Kaunda arrived here, he had come from London where, it was belatedly revealed, he had bought himself a "personal" turbo-prop aircraft for precisely $1,050,000.

The plane is a Hawker-Siddeley 748 with lounge, galley, private cabins and room for a crew of four, similar to the two Royal aircraft used in the Queen's Flight.

But $1,050,000 it cost is nearly equal to the $1,272,000 Canada this past year spent on Foreign Aid for Zambia.

That assistance came in two forms, the External Aid Office of External Affairs has disclosed:

a. For the air-lifting of oil by the RCAF to Zambia.

b. For transport, salaries and living allowances of 19 Canadian teachers and advisers in Zambian schools.

Commenting on President Kaunda's spending of the $1,050,000 for a personal plane, an External Aid executive said, "Well, he has to get around the world, doesn't he?"

To Your Good Health

Glue-Sniffing Habit "Thoroughly Dangerous"

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have just discovered that our son has been indulging in "glue sniffing", and also that many of the teen-agers are doing it.

Does it cause brain damage? Does it do physical harm?

Is it habit forming? If not, then why is it almost impossible to get him to stop?

Who could tell me what damage he may have done to himself already? — Mrs. H. K.

The effect of sniffing as well as the damage is from the volatile hydro-carbons used as solvents in "airplane Glue" and similar cements. Some cleaning fluids have the same effect.

These hydrocarbon fumes are highly toxic, and permanent damage to the liver is one consequence. Changes also occur in the blood.

This is in addition to the young people who are hurt and even killed because of accidents resulting from their glue-intoxication. There are sometimes dozens or even hundreds of people falling from rooftops, getting in automobile accidents.

Glue-sniffing is actually intoxication, but with toxic fume instead of alcohol. The youth of the sniffers, their bravado and lack of mature judgment all contribute to the number of accidents and other kinds of trouble which result.

It appears to be habit-forming. I do not mean it causes an addiction, like narcotics. It just becomes a habit. Too often, I am told, glue-sniffers, in search of stronger "kicks" progress to taking narcotics.

Sniffing is a thoroughly dangerous practice, and the odd events involved are the same ones which require warnings on various products. When the directions say, "Use only in a well ventilated place" the warning is meant to avoid poisoning effects. Yet the glue - sniffers breathe the stuff full strength into their lungs.

I've warned about this before. So have others. It hasn't stopped the foolhardy practice.

Blood tests and liver function tests may give an indication of how much harm your son has incurred. That does not mean that the damage can be corrected.

If the liver has been damaged, it cannot be "cured." As with cirrhosis from any other cause, the important thing is to avoid any further poisoning, and then get adequate rest, and a sound diet.

Confirmed alcoholics who have ruined their lives by drinking too often refuse to accept the one truly useful piece of advice: Quit drinking. I hope the young glue-sniffers will have more sense. . . .

Dear Dr. Molner: I have arthritis and several people have told me I should never drink tea. Is this true? — Mrs. L. Z.

No, it is not true.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a problem with my hands. They are rough and red and cracked open most of the time, just as if they had been cut. Nothing I try seems to help. — L.

I suggest getting a dermatologist's advice. Do not be surprised if he says it may be sensitivity to soaps or detergents. He can give you medications to help, but he may also tell you to keep your hands out of water with soap or detergent until the skin heals entirely. Cotton-lined rubber gloves, or cotton gloves worn under rubber gloves, may be part of the answer.

Today in History

Sir Ernest Shackleton, the Antarctic explorer, died aboard ship 45 years ago today—in 1922—on his last expedition. In 1908 he led an expedition as near as possible to the South Pole by way of the Beardmore Glacier but had to turn back after 1,000 miles on foot, little more than 100 miles from his goal. A few years later his ship was crushed by the Antarctic ice and he died on an expedition to seek help before sailing 850 miles in an open 22 foot boat. Shackleton never reached the pole but he was one of the first scientific explorers.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1917 — the Russians launched an offensive against Riga; the Germans captured Braila, Roumania; Lloyd George and Lord Milner conferred with the Allies in Rome.

Second World War

Kennedy Family Ambitions

Orillia Packet and Times

The Kennedy hierarchy background is a peculiar one; despite its present patrician airs, it is only a generation removed from the vulgarity of low-brow Boston Irish ward-heeling politics.

The late John F. Kennedy was unquestionably one of the greatest presidents the United States has ever had, but his greatness tends to obscure a clear assessment of the other, and less gifted, members of the family. His father founded the vast family fortune by financing Hollywood movies, among other things, and made him-off notorious as U.S. ambassador to Britain in the dark days of World War Two by informing Roosevelt that the British were sore losers, and advising him to back the Germans. He made no bones about his intentions to use the family wealth to further the political fortunes of each of his sons, assuring them that "after John, it will be your turn next."

It is apparent today that the parents are beating for the Kennedy assault upon the highest positions of power within the land, and to further this assault, no detail is too small, no hinderance too great, to merit the fullest family attention. The wistful widow, the frolicking child, the austere grave with its eternal flame, even the snow-capped mountain named after the great president; all will play their part in the months ahead to help add new political laurels to the greatest family hierarchy since the Roosevelts.

Big Profit On Drugs

Brockville Recorder and Times

Some startling figures are coming out of the hearings of the Commons committee investigating the spread between the cost of manufacturing drugs and the retail price at the pharmacy counter. Perhaps the most glaring example was that given by Dr. Wilbur Wright, president of Empire Laboratories Ltd., of Toronto, who told the committee that a drug costing $68 in chemical ingredients under its generic name would end up costing the consumer $5,800 in final tablet form. That's a spread of 800 per cent.

Dr. Wright had some other interesting tidbits for the committee. He said another drug costing 55 cents to produce, would sell to the druggist, under its generic name, for $1.66 and $3.50 to the consumer. The same drug produced by two other firms and sold under brand names sold from $6.50 to $10.20.

A member of the committee, Bryce Mackasey, told fellow members he had taken a physician to three Ottawa drug stores and had been given three different prices, $12, $8 and $5. Yet all drug stores bought the drug at approximately the same price, between $2 and $2.50.

Strictly Personal

Simplicity and Complexity

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large—

Half the people in the world spend their time in making simple things much more complex than they need to be, and the other half spend their time in trying to persuade us that complex things are much more simple than they really are. . . .

It was not an idealist, or theoretician, but Napoleon himself who made the statement that it should be engraved upon the brow of every head of state: "Whatever is simple is true, and the more I am convinced of the inability of brute force to create anything durable."

One of the most hypocritical phrases in modern usage is "premarital sex," for the use of what we call "pre-marital" sex is actually "non-marital," and often "anti-marital."

It is a paradox of nature too little understood by most people that "normal" is often the rarest cause in any group of phenomena; it is "normal" for the human organism not to have a cold in the course of the world's history, but not for it to be without one for over one year.

A painter who paints only what everyone sees is a hack; talented though he may be, a painter who paints only what he sees is a narcissist without hope of immortality, talented though he may be. It is the painter who paints what everyone ought to see, but doesn't, until he makes it manifest. . . .

Children want to eat what they cannot until they are adult; too often try to undo by force what they cannot straighten out by patient persuasion; are always leaving the most glaring and malodorous example of this infantile residue in the human race. . . .

The most intolerable old people are those who are happy in themselves alive out of sheer habit and sense of survival; the most engaging are those who want to keep alive in order to find out what is going to happen in the world next week. . . .

Speaking of "what is going to happen," I am convinced that by the year 2000, if anyone is still around by then, we will be living without work as we understand it today; and the most serious challenge facing mankind will be learning to cope with "leisure" in a creative and constructive way, rather than boring ourselves to extinction with what we derisively call "leisure" today. . . .

The most dangerous man in the world is he who believes he is acting without prejudice, for nobody acts without prejudice — and the most we can do is admit that we harbor this sub-clinical infection of the mind and make allowances for its inevitable influence on our judgments, as a scientist weighs the "personal equation" in his laboratory activities.

Mutual Aid Group Protests Restrictions on Grants

TRENTON — The Hastings and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Asspciation meeting here last night decided to appeal to the attorney general's department to remove restrictions on grants for equipment called for by the Emergency Measures Organization.

Earlier the government agency established grants available to Ontario fire departments for acquiring pumpers and radio equipment. The grants covered 45 per cent of the cost of the purchase.

Correspondence from a department administrator advised the association that grants for fire pumpers had been set at $66,000 for the province and submissions for assistance had already exceeded the proposed allocations for the 1967-'68 periods. Grants for radio equipment had also been oversubscribed for 1967, the notice stated.

Batawa's fire chief John Aquino, in sponsoring the motion to seek the attorney general's attention in the matter, said "it didn't seem sensible for the department to approve the EMO plan and then move to discourage the purchase of equipment to develop it. The Frankford department is badly in need of a new pumper and now it looks like they'll wait another 10 years," he added.

Auto Firms Make It Official; 1966 Was Second Best Year

DETROIT (AP)—Final, official reports from auto companies confirmed today that 1966 was the second best year in automotive history for building cars.

The year's output came to 8,598,929 cars despite November and December product cuts in the face of an easing in the sales pace.

It was topped only by the 9,329,091 cars built in 1965—a figure that was eight per cent ahead of 1966.

The auto industry, a bit chagrined that its long services of production and sales climbs had been interrupted at least temporarily, got some satisfaction out of noting that 1966 marked only the second time it has topped the 8,000,000 mark in a calendar year.

Production in 1955, one of the golden years of the auto business, finished in the No. 3 spot as it just missed the 8,000,000 mark at 7,942,125 cars.

The production pace of all four U.S. auto companies was off in 1966 with American Motors showing the greatest percentage drop.

In 1966, General Motors produced 4,648,626 cars, compared with 4,949,395 in 1965; Ford turned out 2,423,462 cars in 1966, compared with 2,560,176 in 1965; Chrysler produced 1,443,616 cars in 1966 compared with 1,487,553 in 1965 while American Motors produced 279,225 cars in 1966, compared with 346,367 in 1965.

This represented a 10.1-percent drop for General Motors, a 5.5-per-cent drop for Ford, a 1.5-per-cent cut for Chrysler and a 19.4-per-cent drop for American Motors.

Two General Motors divisions —Cadillac and Pontiac — set new production highs last year as did two of Ford's line—Mustang and Lincoln Continental—and Chrysler Co.'s Chrysler line.

Pontiac's output of 890,363 topped the old division high of 860,562 set in 1963; Cadillac's new high of 205,001 edged the old record of 196,358 set in 1965.

Mustang, hottest item in Ford's stable, saw an output of 380,780 in 1966 compared with 580,187 in 1965. Lincoln Continental production lines accounted for 32,169 vehicles last year, easily topping the old high of 43,670 built in 1955.

Many Construction Bankruptcies Blamed On Inadequate Ontario Regulations

TORONTO (CP)—J. [illegible] Ruddell said the period the provisions of the bill were dell of the Chicken Farmers of Ontario Wednesday blamed inadequate, but Mr. Riddell said Hearing parties there are profit rather than federal regulations for the high percentage of bankruptcies in Ontario construction industry.

The accounting firm partner said the federal government's own bankruptcy act is inadequate and causes he "didn't see any reason why the provincial Bankruptcy Act, not the federal Bankruptcy Act.

The Mechanics' Lien Act, he said, is the "main reason for government intervention" and should be changed.

Mr. Ruddell told the commission, which was appointed in Bill 120, to study the reading in the Ontario legislature on Dec. 27, 1966, under pressure from contribution to the mounting number of bankruptcies in the construction industry.

He made the statement in support of a provision in the bill which requires the Ontario government to pay into the fund 10 per cent of the value of each project financed on a progress basis. The money would be refunded from the share of the last progress report, when the contractor has completed business.

should be scrapped and written anew.

Mr. Riddell said that under present regulations it is easy to get into the contracting business with little capital or experience."

It is difficult, however, to make a profit in the contracting business even with adequate capital and experience.

In 1962, Mr. Riddell said, 2,190 commercial firms failed. Their liabilities totalled $145,000,000. Of these, 573 were construction firms with liabilities totalling $28,000,000.

By 1965 the total was 3,295 commercial failures with liabilities of $393,000,000. The 630 construction firms involved had liabilities of $52,000,000.

"Construction failures were greater in number than any other category," he said.

He also said that almost every construction bankruptcy in that period "has shown that the contractor was insolvent for months prior to his bankruptcy and during that period has been bidding on new contracts at ridiculously low prices merely to obtain some cash flow."

Milk Board Changes Outlined

TORONTO (CP) — Outlines of a new policy for allotting milk producers can expect to quotas to supply milk to dairies, changes in the Ontario Milk Marketing Board's policies during 1967, George McLoughlin, board chairman, said Wednesday.

Speaking to the board's third annual meeting, Mr. McLoughlin outlined major changes the board hopes to implement.

Farmers in southern Ontario who ship bottling milk to dairies will begin receiving milk June 1, this will mean eliminating inequalities of payments.

—Beginning a data processing system so the board can pay farmers after it accepts the milk and markets it.

Effective Feb. 1, the fee collected by the board will be raised to 8¼ cents from 6½ cents a hundredweight for bottled milk producers and to 6½ cents from 3¼ centerfor producers who ship to plants making milk products.

TORONTO STOCKS TODAY

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials regained their composure from Wednesday's decline and moved sharply higher in light morning trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The index climbed .81 to 149.03 as Falconbridge gained 1¼ to 98, Massey - Ferguson ¾ to 23 and Texaco and Bank of Montreal ¾ each to 69 and 54¾.

Brokers have attributed the interest in oils to increased drilling activity in northwestern Alberta as well as anticipation of the sale of oil and natural gas leases slated later this month in the province.

Dome advanced 1¾ to 38¼. Scurry - Rainbow ¾ to 20½ and Banff and Canadian Superior ¼ each to 17 and 31.

Multi - Minerals, which rose 29 cents Wednesday, added 12 cents at 1.39 on 38,000 shares.

On index, golds fell .71 to 132.42 while base metals gained .42 to 86.92. Volume by 11 a.m. was 612,000 shares compared with 646,000 at the same time Wednesday.

For the first time this year there was a general decline along all fronts Wednesday in light trading.

The industrial index, the key indicator of the market's performance, closed down .12 to 148.22.

Trade volume was small. Only 2,432,000 shares were traded compared with 2,484,000 Tuesday.

Inco dropped 1 to 93, Falconbridge 1⅛ to 98¾ and Sielon to 20¾. CPR and Labatt gained each ½ to 56¾ and 20.

Dome retreated 2 to 45, Campbell Red Lake 1¼ to 23 and Kerr Addison ¼ to 12¼.

Western oils were the only major group to make the plus side of the ledger, although they were down for most of the session. Dome gained 1¾ to 38¼.

Multi - Minerals jumped 29 cents to 1.24 on 72,000 shares in speculative mines.

Advances on 0 to unnumbered declines 210 to 178 with 215 issues unchanged.

On index, base metals declined .27 to 86.50 while western oils moved up .34 to 131.85.

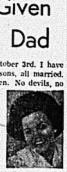
Ann Landers

Good Advice Given By 84-Year-old Dad

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was 84 on October 3rd. I have 13 living children, eight daughters and five sons, all married. They have blessed me with 39 grandchildren. No devils, no angels, just grandchildren.

We had a large home and it was reasonable harmonious most of the time, but with 13 children you can guess we had a variety of folks passing through. At times there were heated arguments about religion. Our children went with Mormons, Jews, Catholics, Jehovah's Witnesses, Buddhists and others. (Some married into these faiths.) One day when an argument about religion was in full swing, I took the group out to the front porch. I asked them to look at the wall just inside the door. "What is on the wall?" they asked.



ANN LANDERS

"Hooks," I replied.

"We don't see any hooks," they said.

"They are invisible," I explained. "And they are there for a purpose. Everyone who walks into this house must hang his religion on a hook when he enters, and take it with him when he leaves."

There hasn't been an argument about religion in our house since that day. And the folks present must have passed the word to others because those hooks have been in constant use ever since. — DAD M. OF SEATTLE.

DEAR DAD: What a perfect solution to a thorny problem! I'll bet that on this very day thousands of invisible hooks are going up in 675 cities!

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I liked your answer to the mother who was having trouble with her middle child. She felt she should treat all her children alike to avoid favoritism. You told her that each child should be dealt with according to his needs.

My psychology teacher believed as you do, and I will always remember the example she used. Here it is:

A certain mother thought she was being fair to her children by treating them all alike. One day she gave each of her three children exactly the same sized piece of chocolate cake — to avoid "favoritism."

The oldest child didn't care very much for sweets, but he ate the chocolate cake and said it was O.K. The second child was crazy about chocolate cake and asked for more — but his mother refused, saying, "No you all get the same." The third child hated chocolate cake and left his piece on the plate untouched.

If that mother had been wise she would have recognized the special needs of her children and dealt with them accordingly instead of treating them all alike. Please print this letter if you think it has merit. — GOOD MEMORY.

DEAR GOOD MEMORY: Love and affection, like chocolate cake, should be given not only to children but to adults according to the individual's special needs. Some people crave more tender, loving care than others. They wither without it. It is well worth the additional effort to make these insecure people feel loved and wanted.

Career Girls Near 40 Complain Of Too Few 'Respectable' Meeting Places

Dear Doris: Two friends of mine and myself are interested in obtaining information on marriage bureaus.

Two of us are secretaries, never been married and nearly 40. The other is a school teacher, widowed with two children. We are from middle-class homes and are considered fairly attractive gals. However, we find that at our ages the type of men we would like are all married off and there are few "respectable" places where we can go to meet the type of men we are looking for. — Unmatched.

Dear Unmatched: Good men are hard to find at 40; single, that is. Census figures notwithstanding.

The introduction service can try to meet the crying need — and I mean crying — of lonely people for suitable associations with the opposite sex. Yet marriage bureaus cannot guarantee their human commodities, and you'll be wise to proceed with caution if you are offered a date.

Humans need friends of both sexes. Hobbies and community activities which suit your talents are still a first class way of keeping in touch. You may meet your Fate that way; but career girls of 40 need to admit the prospect of single status — with its blessings (and there are some!) — for a lifetime.

Dear Doris: I am a young teen-ager (17). I left school at ninth grade and have no intention of going back. My mind is filled with poems and ideas for books, and although my ideas may be a bit naive I try to express them in poems.

You could be of great help if you could help me find someone who buys poems even if for just a small fee. I am sending you this poem in good faith that you will not steal it or anything because I cannot afford a copyright. I cannot tell you how deeply grateful I would be to you for any assistance you could be to me.

I left school three years ago. I have had a few jobs but cannot sit still long enough to hold a job. — Hopeful Poet.

Dear Hopeful: There's a mighty slim chance that your writings will ever see the light of day without more education for your brain. In the pocket bit you sent me there is the germ of an idea, and that's all.

Poetry calls for the skilled turn of a phrase, a sense of rhythm, a large vocabulary, a sense of shadings of meanings, as well as a knowledge of people and things that can scarcely be acquired without considerably more than grade nine.

I am returning your brainchild. Wouldn't steal it for the world. But do believe in yourself enough to get the necessary training.

Dear Doris: I am going with a boy who is very shy to ask for a girl at a door, but still he goes with me. What should I do — Sorryful

Dear Sorryful: Coax him by promising a glass of orange juice when he calls for you.

He compliments himself and you when he does things properly. Take your mother into your confidence and let them talk together while you get your purse and gloves.

Then hand him your coat to hold for you. If you show poise he'll find these awkward moments easier.

Longer, fuller replies went privately to those correspondents who enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Pineapple Cherry Squares

By MARY MOORE

"Meet Moore dree gu!i" said Clara our Yugoslavian helper. When Clara says it is "cute" that's the last word. But Shirley, my secretary, gets all the credit for testing them. The recipe was given to her and recommended by her 11-year-old cousin. Debbie said her pan was too small and suggested in her wise little way that Shirley make them in a larger pan. When Shirley first tried them the topping was too high and when the squares were cut they were razzed and crumbly. So together we adjusted the defects and she tried again and they are "gut". We should have given these to you for your Christmas baking, but testing took too long for that.

PINEAPPLE CHERRY SQUARES (Thanks to Debbie' Base

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 tsps. single-acting baking powder
½ cup melted butter
6 tbsps. light brown sugar

Topping:

One 9-oz. can crushed pineapple well drained
2 well beaten eggs
1 tbsp. melted butter
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup chopped or sliced maraschino cherries
2 cups flaked coconut (do not use desiccated)

To make Base, sift together flour and baking powder. Add beaten eggs, ¼ cup melted butter and brown sugar. Mix well. This mixture is crumbly. Press into well - buttered 13 x 9" pan. Spread evenly with well drained crushed pineapple.

To make Topping, to the well beaten eggs add the 1 tbsp. melted butter and granulated sugar. Mix well. Add cherries and coconut. Carefully spread over pineapple, coating it with spatula to prevent disturbing pineapple.

Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 45 min., turning pan around at half time.

While still warm mark into squares for dainty afternoon tea service cut into bars 2" x 1".

Novel Gift

Dear Susanna: To my amazement, some people actually love to sew, and appreciate immensely the gift of an apron pattern with a remnant of gay fabric.

Now, for a typical Susanna remark: "For me, it would be a sous presen!." — Mrs. R, Newport

Oh, come on, now! — Susanna

* * *

Hi Susanna: During these wintry days, I find it saves me a great deal of time to have a jar of thick, concentrated corn syrup, made with a little milk and sugar, all ready mixed in the refrigerator.

When the call goes out for hot chocolate, it is ready in the time it takes to heat the milk. I just add a few spoonsful of the mixture to taste.

This mixture also doubles as an excellent, economic sauce for ice cream. Sprinkle a few chopped nuts on top for instant sundaes. — Ella

Australian Textile Industry Planning Exports to Canada

MELBOURNE (CP) — The general manager of the Australian textile industry export division, Textile Export Corporation, said it can compete with about "Now I think there is a European goods. In proposing greater awareness of this market an export offensive for Canada, he [illegible]

Its selling point will be the Australia, world's prime producer. Young Australian look—[illegible] wool, has exported designs from the drawing boards of [illegible] and women's of designers in Australia, [illegible] to Canada. Part of the "Until now there has been a [illegible] in has that Australian manufacturers didn't make good [illegible] potential market that exists [illegible] the Canadian market, Mr. Canada," says F. W. Smith, [illegible] said in an interview.

"They believed that because it goes well in Australia, it must go well in Canada.

"Now we are trying to develop our own fashion trends and for export are trying to discourage copying U.S. styles. But it is okay to interpret Italian and other European trends."

Mr. Gluth said Australia can compete with the style, quality and value of European and British fashions but can't compete with the Japanese on price.

Transportation, tariffs and profit triple the Australian price of a garment. For example, a man's lambswool pullover that sells for $5 f.o.b. Australia will retail for $17.50 in Canada, he said.

At the outset the export corporation will aim its fashion pitch at Canadian specialty markets such as boutique shops and import salons.

Mr. Gluth said discussions now are taking place with a department store in Montreal but he declined to disclose details.

The corporation is doing its work through a special textile trade commissioner in New York. Another Australian commissioner is to be appointed soon to handle Vancouver, San Francisco and Los Angeles from a U.S. office.

Some overseas selling points came from 1967 winter fashions recently judged in Melbourne while it was early summer in the southern hemisphere.

The corporation hopes to attract Canadian buyers for the new winter line. The opposite seasons excite manufacturers who have their eye on a full year's production.

Crowley – Brennan

MR. AND MRS. TERENCE R. CROWLEY

Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, was the setting for the wedding ceremony on Monday, December 26, 1966, when Audrey Ann Brennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clare Brennan of Marysville was united in marriage to Terence Robert Crowley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Crowley of Peterborough. Rev. J. J. O'Neill officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a two-piece white faille bridal ensemble featuring a sleeveless dress trimmed with Alencon lace and a three-quarter length sleeved coat which swept into a slight train. A shoulder length bouffant veil was caught to a white satin bow encircled with lily-of-the-valley. She carried a bouquet consisting of a solitaire white orchid surrounded with red roses and white mums.

Miss Barbara Brennan, sister of the bride as maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Miss Kathleen Crowley, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Julie Powers were dressed alike in floor length gowns of vine green velvet bodices and mint green crepe skirts. All wore white maribou halo headdresses and matching maribou muffs adorned with green tinted 'mums. The little flower girl, Miss Leora Bradley, niece of the bride, was attired identically to the other bridal attendants.

Mr. Wayne Adams of Peterborough was groomsman, while Mr. David McDonald of Keswick and Mr. Adrian Brennan, brother of the bride, of Oshawa, were the ushers.

For the wedding reception at the Belleville Shrine Club, the bride's mother welcomed the guests wearing a jade green crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who was wearing a pale blue dress with matching hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Eastern Ontario and on to New York State, the bride donned a turquoise dress with matching hat, brown accessories, charcoal grey coat and a corsage of white carnations.

Upon return Mr. and Mrs. Crowley will reside at 314 Elgin Street W., Oshawa, Ontario.

Spring Styles Promise Four Fashion Freedoms

NEW YORK (AP)—The contemporary counterpart of the bloomer girl of the suffragette era is the pants girl, new symbol of feminine emancipation.

Pants costumes, long and short, with and without miniskirts or doublets, are a large part of the new freedoms promised for women this spring by American designers.

Freedom from restraint, conformity, care and roommates are the four freedoms built into the styles to be previewed by more than 200 members of the United States' fashion press.

Activities for the New York Couture Group's 48th presentation begin tonight and end Sunday.

Freedom from restraint: Begins in the undie world of style. Constricting, form-framing girdles and bras are out. Womanly figures will be softer and rounder in slinky silks and bouncy jersey outer costumes. Costumes themselves will be less constricting. Coats and dresses will flare leutlike from the shoulders. Skirts, too, will fly free from hipbones, thanks to pleats or gores.

Freedom from conformity: Includes crazy stockings with holes in them, fancy paste - on patches as a bathing suit or knicker pants under short skirts, clinky, kooky metallic dresses and battery - operated costumes that light up.

Freedom from care: Comes with throwaway paper clothes to be shortened with scissors and eventually tossed away, roll-proof fabrics, materials that require no ironing, permanent pleats and waterproof silks, satins and velveta that nearly never need the dry cleaners.

Freedom from roommates: Next spring's fashion plate no longer is dependent on a husband's or a girl friend's help with a stuck back zipper.

Designers are legating most closings—buttons or zippers—to reachable areas such as side shoulder or side seam.

Women Drivers Get Jobs

TORONTO (CP)—When male truck drivers were reluctant to take jobs in cold weather, refused to unload five-gallon oil drums and took too long to complete some jobs, Mrs. Muriel Derry turned to an alternative source of labor for the trucks she rents to companies on an hourly basis. She hired women drivers.

So far, the first women hired by M and C Drivers, Pat Smart, 23, and Georgina Fox, 26, are doing all right. They earn $1.65 an hour, the same rate paid to the 20 men employed by the company and about the rate an hour less than members of the Teamsters Union are paid in Toronto. And they are being trained to handle even tractor trailers eventually.

Next week the club will convene at 7:30 p.m. at Bailey's Bowling Alley.

Dr. Hogg Honored by Institute

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Rittenhouse Astronomical Society and the Franklin Institute honored Dr. Helen Sawyer Hogg of Toronto Wednesday night for outstanding contributions in the study of star formations known as globular clusters.

Dr. Hogg, awarded the Rittenhouse Silver Medal, was the first Canadian and second woman to receive it since it was first presented in 1955.

The Rittenhouse society was founded in 1888 and is one of the oldest such groups in North America. It honors annually one of the world's most noted astronomers at a joint meeting with the institute.

Dr. Hogg, professor of astronomy at the University of Toronto's David Dunlap Observatory, is a past president of the Royal Canadian Institute, and a member of the American Association of Variable Star Observers and Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

Photographic Evidence Supports Claim

MELBOURNE (CP)—Cruelty to children has shocked the people of Victoria State and compelled the state government to take action.

The disclosures, in two reports in the Medical Journal of Australia, erased the belief that Australian children are the best cared for in the world.

In one report, the Victoria State police surgeon, Dr. John Birrell, and his brother Robert, a senior doctor at Melbourne's Royal Children's Hospital, said cases of maltreated children occur with "alarming frequency."

In the other report, Dr. Dora Bialestock said a survey of babies admitted to a welfare centre had compelled her to demand that the situation be considered a "national emergency."

The report of the Birrell brothers was supported by photographic evidence. It told of a nine-months-old boy who had his legs immersed in boiling water and was then left to scream all day. A three-year-old girl was beaten daily until her cheeks were so bruised she could not chew. A nine-year-old girl was kept tied hand and foot in a shed for two days during hot weather and was strapped and fed on only bread and water.

Dr. John Birrell said: "People can't comprehend the cruelty parents can inflict on children. Doctors often have suspicions about injuries to children but they cannot do anything about it. As the law now stands, if a doctor reported parents to the police and a court found them not guilty, the parents could then sue the doctor for defamation."

Dr. Bialestock said some of the babies she saw were "like victims of a concentration camp."

Why do parents behave so cruelly? In the cases investigated by the Birrell brothers, they found disturbed family backgrounds, alcoholism, sexual promiscuity, financial difficulties and mental illness.

Publication of the doctors' reports caused such a stir in Victoria that the state government set up a three-man department al committee to inquire into all aspects of cruelty to children.

One immediate suggestion by Dr. John Birrell was that the law should make it mandatory for doctors to report suspected cases of maltreatment of children and that the doctors be given legal immunity. The report should be made to some prevention - of - cruelty organization.

Trustees Would Limit Pay Raises to 10 Pct.

TORONTO (CP) — A maximum 10-per-cent annual salary increase for Ontario teachers is recommended in a circular by the Ontario School Trustees' Council released today.

The circular, to be distributed to Ontario school boards, suggests a maximum salary of $10,200 for top secondary school teachers and starting salaries of between $3,600 and $4,300 for graduates of teachers' colleges.

In support of its recommendation, the council says average executive salaries increased 5.5 per cent in 1965 and 7.7 per cent in 1966 and that manufacturing salaries went up four per cent in 1965 and six to nine per cent in 1966.

The 10 per cent increase suggested, the council says, compares favorably with industry.

But secondary school teachers in Toronto are already on record as asking for a 23-per-cent increase in the coming year—and are prepared to strike to support the demand.

In an interview Wednesday night, he said:

"A 10 per cent increase will only serve to aggravate an already acute situation and will not enable us to attract the 4,000 additional teachers we need next year.

He said the suggested increase "will still leave us five per cent behind industrial salaries, assuming they don't increase this year."

Three Youths Plotted To Get Exam Papers

MONTREAL (CP)—A plot by three youths to obtain advance copies of pre-Christmas exams under threats of violence was described Wednesday at the preliminary hearing of Yves Nolet, 18.

Nolet, a resident of suburban Laval and a student at the Institut Alle, a Montreal commercial school, appeared in court on a charge of extortion.

Andre Lourin, 19, who was employed in the office of the school, testified that in mid-December anonymous telephone callers warned him they would "break both his legs" if he did not agree to hand over copies of the forthcoming exams.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 5, 1967

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander
Staff Sportswriter

"It's always tough to be a loser but sometimes the victory path is sadly lacking a gold surface as well.

Those in doubt can check with the Quinte McFarlands Junior "B" hockey club brass.

The Macs, officially a Belleville entry in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" circuit, are more or less a community effort linking this city and Picton.

Eight of the club's 15 home games are played in Picton and the other seven in Belleville.

And right now the Macs are involved in one of the best races for league honors you can find anywhere.

Five of the six clubs are in the running for first place. Only four points separate the top four clubs. Kingston Frontenacs, one of last season's group finalists, are in fifth spot but coming on strong after a shaky start.

Oshawa Crushmen, defending group champions, are atop the heap but just two points ahead of the rejuvenated Cobourg Cougars. The Macs are one point back in third place with Peterborough Don Byes one more point back in fourth.

The sudden success of the Cobourg entry, which up until this season had never won a game on the road in this league, likely explains the closeness of the race.

Always before, a sure two points for the opposition, games against Cobourg this season are providing life and death battles for each of the other clubs. The Cougars were "mute" last before. This year they led the loop until a week before Christmas and are still gunning for the pennant.

So, with five even clubs, you would think the old turnstiles would be spinning at a quick pace for the entire league, wouldn't you?

This isn't so.

Still, the club rates at least 500 or 600 fans in either centre on performance alone, not to mention the hot league race.

Home games in Picton are played Thursday nights at 8:30. Co-manager of the Macs is Picton's "Mr. Junior Hockey," Chris Lockyer. Chris has put uncountable hours and dollars, plus effort galore, into junior hockey in Picton for the past number of years.

Here in Belleville, Jim "Snipe" Matthews and Tom "Red" Mavety are shoving plenty into the sport — and getting damn little out of it except the satisfaction of keeping junior hockey alive.

They could have got out from under this year and when you walk into a junior "B" game here some Friday night and see a couple of hundred fans, mostly kids, you wonder why they didn't. They turned down a city individual's bid to buy the team.

The club has a big thing going for it in coach Fleri Goegan.

"Gogi" is experienced in a good brand of hockey; he knows how to get it across to the young players and he is the type of man tout any of us would be proud to have our sons associate with. And, as might be expected, he is popular with the players as well.

Bob Forrester, while he may score the goals off you with his wandering tactics, is strong in goal. He has a solid defence with the likes of Harold Townsend, Doug Potts, Bruce Neil, John Todd, Al Calver and Ted Winterfield.

After the first attacking unit, high-scoring forwards are hard to locate on the club but fellows like Larry Stewart, Ivan Stringer, Steve White, Pete Fleming, Ted Schwarze and Ray Summers are getting the job done. Some are capable of more goals than they are scoring but Goegan feels they will come through with and continued effort. Calver and Potts are also adding some work up front.

It may not add up to a championship club but it does total a good team to watch.

The Macs meet Peterborough in a big match for both clubs in Picton tonight. They travel to Oshawa Saturday afternoon, then to Cobourg Monday night.

Their next start in Belleville is also against Peterborough next Friday, January 13. Each and every one of these games is a "must" for both clubs involved.

Don't you think the club is deserving of solid fan support tonight and next Friday?

A Scholarly Scorer

He's A Rambling Wreck From Point Anne Tech

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull may be ailing this season, but he was a rambling wreck Wednesday night as his two goals kept Chicago Black Hawks in a first-place tie in the National Hockey League.

Hull's goals a minute and eight seconds apart gave the Hawks a come-from-behind 2-2 tie with Montreal Canadiens and kept Chicago abreast of New York Rangers, who tied 1-1 with Toronto Maple Leafs in the other NHL game.

The goals were the 16th and 17th of the season for Hull. Coming early in the third period, they wiped out a 2-0 Montreal lead.

He skated through the entire Montreal team at 5:41 and fired a 10-footer past Charlie Hodge. He took a pass from Chico Maki and scored from 20 feet out on his second effort, moving into eighth place in the individual scoring race.

Henri Richard and Dick Duff scored for Montreal.

The Chicago tie, coupled with New York's tie against the Leafs, left the Rangers and the Black Hawks with 41 points apiece.

The Hawks held a big edge in play, throughout the game as they fired 33 shots at Hodge. The Canadiens, in fourth place with 32 points, managed 24 shots at Glenn Hall.

Goyette scored at 17:43 of the third period when he deflected a shot by team-mate Bob Nevin into the Toronto net.

Ellis broke up a goaltending battle between Toronto's Bruce Gamble and New York's Ed Giacomin when he gave Toronto a 1-0 lead at 6:26 of the third period.

Giacomin, who had 38 shots fired at him by the third-place Maple Leafs, was trying for his fifth shutout of the season and stopped six consecutive shots before Ellis found the mark.

The Rangers had 33 shots at Gamble.

Both Giacomin and Gamble were injured in the game. The New York goaltender was unconscious for about two minutes in the second period when he stopped a Frank Mahovlich slapshot with the side of his face.

The game was held up while Gamble received medical attention for a cut on his nose in the second period. He bit his face on the corner of the pipes, but also came back to play the remainder of the game.

The Hawks get a chance to break their first-place deadlock with the Rangers when they clash with Detroit Red Wings tonight in the only scheduled NHL game.

The Men, Not Boys, Aid Hornets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's getting hard to separate the men from the boys.

One time the boys played in the minor hockey leagues until they proved they were worthy of the National Hockey League. Now the trend is reversed.

That was the impression one got after Pittsburgh Hornets whipped Hershey Bears, 7-1 in American Hockey League action Wednesday night.

Terry Gray, Ray Cullen and Garry Jarrett scored Hershey goals while Wayne Rivers tripled for the Bears.

Gamble's Hockey School Sparks Council Debate

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Bruce Gamble's summer hockey school at this Bowmanville town has sparked a heated council controversy.

Gamble, left winger with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, has operated the school since 1962.

The controversy stems from the decision last Dec. 12 of the town's arena board to lease hourly ice rentals to Gamble for from $15 to $25 during each month. Nicks called for a review of the decision, saying it is unfair to increase ice rental fees for the school and not to other users of the arena.

Councillor Kenneth Hooper, a member of the arena board, replied that Nicks was not on the board at the time a decision was made and claimed the committee met with members of minor hockey executive.

He said Nicks was mad about the Police said Mackell, 37, was shot during an argument with an unidentified woman in his car Wednesday. Mackell, the father of nine, was vacationing in Florida.

Howie Young First To Admit He's Drink Away From Minors

DETROIT (AP) — Howie Young, tough defenceman for Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, says that despite his recent strong play in the league he is always "just one drink" away from the minors.

Young, who set an NHL record of 273 minutes in the penalty box with Detroit during the 1962-63 season, is playing "real well," says Sid Abel, Detroit manager-coach.

"I'm very pleased," he said.

"He's played real well. He's a big help—a good skater and he moves the puck out of our end. He's getting used to the NHL and he is improving."

Young started playing organized hockey as a child around his native Toronto. He moved into the Western League on the 1958-59 season, joining the Red Wings in the 1960-61 season and winning the support of fans for his slam-bang play.

But he had troubles with drink, was known to skip practice and set the penalty record but goals against are down points and that's been pretty good up to now.

"That's my job, stopping them."

Young came to the Wings late last year in a complicated deal, since Chicago still had rights to him. The Wings, desperate for defensive help, were willing to take another chance.

The six - foot, 190 - pounder speaks easily of his troubles and says:

Young had trouble convincing himself he was back in the NHL.

"Being back is just fantastic. It's great just to be sober, let alone being in the NHL.

"I didn't do a thing. The only thing I've done is not take the first drink. I let the guy up stairs take care of the rest."

Soviet Upset 5-2

Czech With NHL Ambitions Bombs Russians With Three Goals

WINNIPEG (CP) — Czechoslovakia countered the Soviet Union's precise patterns and won a 5-2 upset victory in the Centennial world invitational hockey tournament Wednesday night.

The unexpected result which delighted 10,000 fans, left Canada's national team in first place. Canada has beaten Czechoslovakia 5-3 and the United States 7-1 in the round-robin tournament.

"We looked bad tonight," he said, "because the Czechs were so good."

Vaclav Nedomansky, Czechoslovakia's tall centre, put his club ahead with a power-play goal in the second minute of play and the Russians, world champions the last three years, never fully recovered.

The Soviet unit fell apart in the third period, firing only two shots on the Czech goal.

"If we get the lead we can usually beat them," said Nedomansky, who wrapped up a three-goal effort in the third period.

The Czechs face the U.S., 7-1 losers to both Canada and Russia tonight and Russia plays Canada in the tournament finale Friday night.

In the event of a three-team tie, positions will be determined by the goal-average system. Goals scored against will be deducted from goals scored by each club. If this doesn't break the tie, goals scored will be divided by goals against.

Czech coach Jaroslav Pitner said Nedomansky, who has National Hockey League ambitions, "played a good game as a forward" but not on defence.

His team-mates took care of that department. They constantly stayed on the heels of Soviet forwards, denying them the seconds needed to organize an attack.

The Russians, behind 3-1 after the first period, managed to break the Czech grip in the late stages of the second but ran into great goaltending by Vladimir Nadrchal.

Nedomansky, on New York Rangers protected list, administered the coup de grace early in the third period, putting Czechoslovakia beyond reach with a wristshot. The former NHL coach Red Sullivan said he is matched by only a few professional players.

The power of Nedomansky's shot was illustrated in the first period.

With his club ahead 2-1, and the Russians a man short, he fired a high, hard shot at the Soviet goal. Nedomansky started to make his handsabove the head salute for a goal, but the light didn't flash as the puck appeared to bounce off the top of the net.

But a few minutes later, two maintenance men were called to the ice to repair a hole in the Russian netting.

"That shot was definitely in," said Pitner, backing his forward's conclusion that it tore through the netting.

Soviet goaltender Victor Knowalenko, with 10 of his teammates taking the jaunt to the penalty box, had to face tough shots all night. He responded with a great 24-save effort highlighted by a spectacular second period as the Czechs pressed for a greater margin.

The extent of the Russian collapse was evident in the late stages of the game, when two Czechs were in the penalty box for more than a minute. The Russians took at least 10 shots, but most were wide of the net.

Canadians Stymie U.S. Development

WINNIPEG (CP) — The coach of the United States national team said Wednesday his country's amateur hockey program is constantly stymied by the availability of Canadian players in the U.S.

John Mariucci, the veteran head of the U.S. Nationals, said it will take several years before the United States is able to produce a national team similar to that of Canada.

"Canadians have been strangling our efforts to build a national team. They are available to us, so when our kids lack interest in hockey we just turn to Canada for the available talent."

Mariucci said seven members of his present national roster are Canadian-born players who have become naturalized American citizens.

"Our aim is to have a truly national team, kept together much the same way as the Canadian team," which was first organized by Father David Bauer. "But for us, this won't be possible for a number of years."

"How are you going to get kids in St. Louis excited about hockey when you have nothing there but ice cubes on which they could play . . .?"

CAHA Concerned Over Team Future

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's national team management committee today will try to decide "where do we go after 1968."

"We obviously can't expect players to sacrifice their whole life to the national team," said Gordon Juckes, CAHA secretary-manager.

So the committee will try to come up with adjustments that will keep the national team program moving smoothly should some current players decide it's time to concentrate on a career—say in the expanded National Hockey League.

Such players as Roger Bourbonnais, Ken Broderick, Paul Conlin, Marshall Johnston, Barry MacKenzie, Terry O'Malley have been with the national team since its inception in 1963.

Their commitment was to participate in the 1968 Winter Olympics and the CAHA won't argue if they want to depart after that.

This would of course, pose the replacement problem, Rev. David Bauer, the Roman Catholic priest who set up the first national team, already has talked to potential recruits for what Juckes said may become a two-team program.

Then there's the money problem. In 1965-66, national team expenses exceeded $150,000. The federal government's fitness director here helped with a substantial grant but Juckes wants a more permanent source of revenue.

He hopes this is where the Canadian Hockey Foundation will come in. The CHF, with Father Bauer in on the planning, was formed last year.

Its purpose, Juckes said, is to exert influence on large concerns to participate in a hockey scholarship program. The object is 100 scholarships, which would keep good Canadian players from accepting American college offers.

Juckes stressed the CAHA is happy with the national team's progress, it's just that safeguards are needed to maintain continuity. Committee recommendations will be submitted to the CAHA semi-annual meeting in Winnipeg Jan. 21.

The Canadian team holds first place in the centennial world invitational tournament now being held after defeating Czechoslovakia 5 - 3 and the United States 7-1. All it has to do to win the gold medal is beat the Soviet Union, defending world champions, in the windup game Friday night.

Mariucci Evaluates Personnel

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian talent hasn't helped the United States national team in the Centennial world invitational hockey tournament here.

The weak U.S. club, with seven Canadian-born players in the lineup, was throttled 7-1 by both the Soviet Union and Canada.

Obviously below peak condition, the Americans lacked puck control and passed inaccurately in the face of tough Soviet and Canadian checking. they managed only 9 shots on goal in the two games.

The U.S. defence, which includes three Canadians, couldn't cope with skilful opposition attacks and goaltender Carl Wetzel fared 94 shots.

Masterton, who played minor professional hockey for two seasons, scored the U.S. goal against Canada and raved as the best American forward in both games.

Minor Hockey

Wings put the Bruins "over and out" 10-4 in one BMHA midget section game last night but Leafs had a harder time getting a victory. They nipped the Rangers 6-5.

In novice division games, Amerks shaded the Bears 3-2. Top Top Canadiens whipped the Police Rangers 8-1 while Bruins and Leafs tied 4-4.

Three goals by Mitchell and two by Mulvihill accounted for half the Wing goals. Allore, James, Huffman, Beecher and Latchford scored the others. Clark, Newton, Drummond, Mitchell, Mulvihill, Huffman and James split assists. Wayne Irgens fired three Bruin goals and Yearsmood had one, with Pope and Fobert getting assists.

Farrell scored the midget Leafs' winning goal after Royea notched two. Kemp, McGilvery and Cochrane one each in the earlier going. Generaux had two helpers, Royea, Inwood, Caughey, Thomson, Stewart and Johnson one each. Murray and Hall scored two each and Sled had one plus two assists, for the Rangers.

John McAuley scored the novice Amerks' winning goal and helped on one other. Mike Whalen and Ralph Kellar also had scored and Scott Tiessen had an assist. John Gibson and Richard Hanley were the Bears' scorers.

Ricky Barbeau and Gordon Forgie banged home three goals each. Martin Brain and Glenn Woodley loners, for Canadiens. Glen Watson, Pat Wright and Forgie each had an assist. Ron Graham from S. Soucy was the lone Ranger scoring play.

Glen Ross Awarded Protest Win

Glen Ross Rebels were awarded a protest victory over Ivanhoe Knights at a meeting of the Centre Hastings Hockey League last night.

The protest was lodged because of Ivanhoe's use of an ineligible player in a game against Glen Ross. The Ivanhoe goalie was also fined for the offence.

A current league standing shows Glen Ross with 21 points, followed by Ivanhoe with 18, Wallbridge 11, Frankford and Foxboro, with nine points each, Plainfield with eight and Thomasburg with four.

The race also exists for the individual scoring leadership. Frankford's Bob Chesher holds the lead with 22 points, followed by Glen Ross' Andy Faulkner, with 32. Ken McConnell, Glen Ross, has 20, while Bill Chesher of Frankford, Ken McConnell, of Glen Ross, and Warren Reid, of Ivanhoe, are tied, with 27 each.

Foxboro player Brian Skinner has been given a one-game suspension for molesting an official. He will sit out tonight's game against Glen Ross.

It was also decided to assess fines and suspensions for major and misconduct penalties, depending on the offence and the number of penalties assessed to any individual player.

A committee was also set up to look after league awards and trophies.

Divers Probing Depths of Lake Coniston Expect to Find Body Strapped in Seat

By GRANVILLE WATTS

CONISTON, England (AP)—A team of eight Royal Navy divers today began probing the depths of Lake Coniston for the body of British speed ace Donald Campbell.

Campbell, 45, crashed in his jet boat, Bluebird, while topping 300 miles an hour in a world water speed record attempt on the lake Wednesday.

The frogmen dived at 30-minute intervals in bitterly cold conditions.

They had first to locate the jetboat, which somersaulted and sank in 120 feet of water.

Lt.-Cmdr. John Futcher said: "120 feet is no problem for us. But we first have to find the boat."

Kenneth Norris, designer of the 12-year-old jetboat, today was studying film of the spectacular crash in an effort to find out what caused the tragedy.

"The boat could have reached 350 miles an hour if the conditions were right," Norris said. "But even a small wave can be dangerous at these speeds. We have to find out Campbell's exact speed and the exact conditions of the water before we can say definitely what happened."

General opinion among eyewitnesses is that the jetcraft went too fast and literally became airborne before it flipped over on to its back.

A Royal Air Force Vulcan nuclear bomber flew low over the lake in the early morning sun and dipped its wings in salute to the dead speed ace.

Divers were using powerful underwater lights to search the chilly waters of Coniston in the mountainous lake district immediately after the crash, they found it too dark to see below 70 feet but nevertheless found Campbell's helmet, shoes and oxygen mask amid pieces of his 12 year-old jetboat. His teddy bear mascot was picked up, too.

"Campbell was firmly strapped to his seat and we expect to find him still in the cockpit," said Norman Buckley, chief official observer of the record attempt.

"Campbell always said that if something serious happened he didn't stand a chance," Buckley added.

Although the 45-year-old British daredevil had a jet engine behind him, he had no ejector seat for use if things went wrong.

In a way, this was typical of an ardently - patriotic Englishman who courted death to emulate a famous father—Sir Malcolm Campbell, who set up world land and water speed records in the 1930's.

In 1964, he reached 403.1 m.p.h. in his gas turbine-engined car, Bluebird, and hit 276.33 m.p.h. on water in the speedboat of the same name. It was in an effort to beat his own water record that Campbell perished.

Why did he do it?

"I think he did it for Britain," said Leo Villa, Campbell's chief engineer. "You can laugh at that, but Campbell was really proud of this record. He wanted to extend it so that it would be more difficult for anyone to beat it."

Friends said Campbell was worried that Americans were planning an assault on his record.

Film of the fatal run showed that the curiously-shaped Bluebird rose nose-first, then literally flew into the air as Campbell gunned it past the 300 m.p.h. mark.

"The boat took off like a plane," said one official. "Campbell always said that if the nose rose above an angle of three degrees off the water it would turn over backwards. That's just what happened."

Campbell was only 150 yards from the end of the measured kilometre when disaster struck. He had already safely completed one run at 297 m.p.h.—the fastest time record on water by a man-driven boat.

As Bluebird hurtled down the lake in a plume of spray just before somersaulting, Campbell's last words came over the radio:

Rule Violations to Cost $1,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Kansas City Chiefs' star linebacker Bobby Bell will be automatically fined $1,000 if he is involved in any rule violations during the National Football League game with the Green Bay Packers in the Los Angeles Coliseum Sunday.

Bell, 31-7 for the AFL title game, has defense ideas about beating National Football League champion Green Bay in the first game of its kind in Memorial Coliseum.

The Packers, who edged Dallas Cowboys 34-27 for NFL honors, will train at Santa Barbara, about 90 miles north of Los Angeles. They will leave Green Bay next Sunday.

Meanwhile, just how many fans will turn out is causing some controversy. NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle and Bill Sidebotham, executive director of the Coliseum, said the crowd will fill the 93,000-seat stadium.

But 43,000 seats go on sale today in the Southern California area. It was reported that 27,000 seats have been sold and 18,000 have been allocated to teams in the respective leagues.

Rozelle granted a deposition Wednesday in a federal court suit to prevent National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting System from blacking out the game.

The suit has been filed by businessman Alan Minter, by attorney Arthur Toll.

Namath Sure Knee OK After Tendon Operation

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Namath did the same about the operated knee on his right knee, and pronounced that while it was coming along faster than anyone expected there was no way to set what the end result would be.

"It's coming along faster than expected and it looks good but you don't really know until you start running."

BC Cabinet Orders Resumption Of Probe of Bugging Incident

VANCOUVER (CP) — Commissioner R. A. Sargent and Commission Counsel George Murray were expected to meet today to discuss resumption of the on-and-off royal commission investigating the electronic bugging of a union convention in Vancouver.

Mr. Murray said it likely will be 10 days or two weeks before the commission resumes sittings.

The royal commission was reconstituted Tuesday at a special sitting of the British Columbia cabinet, after it had been ruled invalid last week by Chief Justice J. O. Wilson of the B.C. Supreme Court. He ruled that the original terms of reference were too vague and did not connect the inquiry to the need for good government of the province, as required by the Public Inquiries Act.

The Supreme Court action was launched by Angus MacPhee, vice-president of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, who touched off the inquiry originally by charging his union's convention in November was bugged on orders of Pat O'Neal, western regional organizer of the rival International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

TELLS OF BUGGING

Private investigator W. S. Graham told the commission at its earlier sitting that he had bugged the PPWC convention for Mr. O'Neal.

Tapes recorded by Mr. Graham have been a focal point of the inquiry, and the Canadian union took further steps Wednesday to see that they are not made public.

In a writ filed in B.C. Supreme Court, the union asked for a declaration that it is entitled to possession of all the tape recordings made by or on behalf of Mr. O'Neal.

It also asked damages for nuisance and for invasion of privacy.

Commissioner Sargent said Wednesday the question of playing the tapes before the commission, which is public, is under study.

He said the situation would be discussed with commission lawyers.

John Laxton, lawyer for the Canadian union, said he opposed the playing of the tapes "under any circumstances."

"In our view there was no possible justification for playing them by the old commission and there still is no possible justification for playing them by the new commission."

Press Has No Right To Give Freedom Away

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Newspaper Publishers Association said Wednesday the people's right to a free press is one of the most fundamental "and neither the press nor the bar has the right to sit down and bargain it away."

A report by a 12-man ANPA committee under the chairmanship of D. Tennant Bryan, publisher of the Richmond (Va.) Times - Dispatch and News Leader, said it could not recommend "any covenants of control or restrictions on the accurate reporting of criminal matters or anything which would impair such reporting."

"The committee does recommend that the press stand at any time ready to discuss these problems with any appropriate individuals or groups," the report said.

"The freedom of the press is a fundamental right and it cannot be abridged. The press shares with the bench, bar and law enforcement officials the responsibility for preservation of American liberties embodied in the first and sixth amendments."

The first amendment to the U.S. Constitution guarantees a free press. The sixth amendment assures a fair trial.

The ANPA study was spurred by the Warren commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The report charged the American press with "irresponsibility and lack of self-discipline."

The ANPA study called the charge unwarranted and said the American press "should have been commended rather than censured for its performance."

The study reached 10 conclusions. They are:

1. There is no real conflict between the first amendment guaranteeing a free press and the sixth amendment which guarantees a speedy and public trail, by an impartial jury.

2. The presumption of some members of the bar that pretrial news is intrinsically prejudicial is based on conjecture and not on fact.

3. To fulfil its functions, a free press requires not only freedom to print without prior restraint but also free and uninhibited access to information that should be public.

4. There are grave inherent dangers to the public in the restriction or censorship at the source of news, among them secret arrest and ultimately secret trial.

5. The press is a positive influence in assuring fair trial.

6. The press has a responsibility to allay public fears and dispel rumors by the disclosure of fact.

7. No rare and isolated case should serve as cause for censorship and violation of constitutional guarantees.

8. Rules of court and other orders which restrict the release of information by law-enforcement officers are an unwarranted judicial invasion of the executive branch of government.

9. There can be no codes or covenants which compromise the principles of the Constitution.

10. The people's right to a free press, which inherently embodies the right of the people to know, is one of our most fundamental rights and neither the press nor the bar has the right to sit down and bargain it away.

Walter Gordon Is A Gambler

OTTAWA (CP) — Walter Gordon once advised an audience to disregard men willing to play it safe and settle for second best. He wasn't talking about himself.

The record proves it. The former finance minister has tended to gamble for the big win and damn the political torpedoes. Unfortunately a few have hit the powder magazine, producing spectacular explosions.

His return to the cabinet Wednesday comes a little more than a year after he left it because of what he termed bad advice he gave to Prime Minister Pearson to call the 1965 election. Mr. Gordon, 69, was campaign chairman.

The party failed to get the parliamentary majority it sought. The gamble, it seemed, had failed.

Mr. Gordon continued to sit as the private member for Toronto Davenport, but was seen little in the Commons. Instead of sinking his wounds, the former chartered accountant wrote a book, A Choice for Canada, in praise of economic nationalism.

His stern non-principle stand for greater Canadian control of the domestic economy helped land him in hot water when he brought down his first budget as finance minister in 1963.

The opposition picked both him and his unorthodox budget apart. It had hardly been introduced when he was forced under fire to withdraw a 50-per-cent tax on foreign takeover purchases of stock in Canadian companies.

Other backtracking followed. It was complicated by opposition claims that outside financial advisers on the budget had greater knowledge of its contents. Resignation talk flowered, but Mr. Gordon survived.

The disaster was magnified by the top-flight reputation he had gained as an author and as chairman of the 1956 royal commission on Canada's economic prospects. Big people have a long way to fall.

In the late 50s, he became part of the top echelon of the out-of-power Liberal party. In his quiet but decisive way, he helped chart the way back to power, achieved in 1963.

He made it to the Commons the year before. As the man who had discussed Canada's economic ills in the book, Troubled Canada, and as a confidante of Mr. Pearson, he was the natural choice for finance minister when the Conservatives were ousted.

No ringing orator, his personal warmth, evident to anybody who approached him, often failed to carry to the opposition benches in the Commons. Rather he presented an alternative image as a thin, slightly stooped, throaty - roaring reformer.

The name of the wealthy investor and shaker has been unalterably linked with the movement to curtail U.S. investment in Canada. His views tend to upset North American businessmen and a great many in his own party.

The party split was never more evident than at the November Liberal convention where the bolstest voices opted for free trade with the U.S. and no curbs on foreign investment. The Gordon nationalists were outnumbered by the continentalists.

Mr. Gordon had delivered his answer before the question was put. In a series of pre-convention speeches, he said there must be sell-out of Canadian resources and business to the U.S.

There's no indication now that the brawdy, bespectacled former partner in a Toronto firm of management consultants repents of his bonefield views so lately put.

Now that he's back near the top, it appears sometime future that the latest anti-national tiff between Canada and the U.S. is a hallmower from the Gordon era.

The U.S. government has stiffly protested Canada's intention to halt the growth of the U.S.-owned Mercantile Bank in Canada.

But the First National City Bank of New York was warned away back in 1963 of what was in store if it took over Mercantile. And it was Walter Gordon who held them. The principled risk-player.

CFRB Report Is Hit

TORONTO (CP) — The preliminary hearing of 20-year-old Wayne Ford, charged with the capital murder of his mother, wound up its second day Wednesday with cross-examination of a prosecution witness amid a welter of legalities.

Ronald Walter Wall, 21, of Toronto, who said he considered himself Ford's best friend when they were in high school, had been cross-examined for two hours when the hearing before Magistrate Norman Glazetti adjourned. Wall resumes to the witness box today.

The hearing was interrupted Wednesday when defence counsel G. W. Brigden said a newscast by radio station CFRB Toronto of testimony given at the opening day of the hearing violated court procedure.

Magistrate Glazetti ordered Tuesday that witnesses who had not yet testified be kept out of court and not be allowed to communicate with witnesses who had given evidence. Mr. Brigden said CFRB's detailed coverage violated that ruling.

TESTIFY ABOUT BODY

CFRB said Wall testified he helped carry a body in a plywood box from the Ford home in suburban Willowdale, and later threw the box into Lake Couchiching near the Ford summer cottage.

Wall testified under the Canada Evidence Act which protects him from having his evidence used against him in subsequent proceedings.

The magistrate ordered Crown Attorney Lloyd Graburd to investigate the CFRB broadcast.

At the preliminary hearing, medical witnesses have testified they were unable to determine what killed a woman who the Crown contends, was 56-year-old Minnie Ford, a widow who disappeared during the Victoria Day weekend in 1963.

Examination of the body, washed ashore Oct. 13 in Lake Couchiching 90 miles north of Toronto, indicates death could have occurred in several ways, these witnesses have testified.

Algoma Talks Stalled

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP)— Negotiations between Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd. and striking bricklayers broke down Wednesday and a company spokesman said no further meetings are scheduled.

Samuel Sasso, Canadian vice-president of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union, representing the 80 members of Local 29, said following the meeting the company offered the same package the union's negotiating committee and general membership had rejected earlier.

He said a union demand for double time for weekend work seemed to be the stumbling block in the way of a settlement.

Joseph Reed, president of Local 29, said the union had come within 7½ cents of a company offer for a three-year agreement.

The union originally wanted 50 cents an hour added to the basic hourly rate of $3.28 in a one-year contract. Algoma offered 60.2 cents an hour over three years.

MADE NO CHANGE

Mr. Sasso said the company had not changed the amount of its original offer but had added a few cents to one of the five outstanding monetary issues and subtracted the same amount from another.

The bricklayers strike has forced closure of the company, second largest steel mill in Canada, and layoff of its 7,000 employees.

Meanwhile, two other unions that became embroiled in the bricklayers' dispute were granted conciliation services Wednesday in their own labor negotiations with Algoma Steel. Local 606, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and Local 611, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, are seeking a contract to replace one that expired last July 31.

Bombings Must End First

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Chester Bonning, Canada's peace emissary to Vietnam says United States bombing of North Vietnam must cease before any peace talks can be initiated.

He says the North Vietnamese will not entertain any preliminary negotiations for peace talks while American bombing continue.

At a press conference Wednesday prior to delivering the first lecture in Waterloo Lutheran University's centennial series, Mr. Bonning, former Canadian high commissioner to India, added that the U.S. bombings have not proven plished much.

"If their purpose was to disrupt the supply routes from the north, they have failed. If the purpose is to bring the North Vietnamese to their knees, the bombings have failed and will continue to fail."

If the bombings cease the Vietnamese would be willing to enter into direct talks with the Americans and "the United States has stated a willingness to negotiate a settlement," Mr. Bonning said.

U.S. RUNS RISK

Mr. Bonning warned that the United States, by continuing to escalate the bombings, runs the risk of having China interpret them at some point as a threat to her national security.

Quebec Prevents Fleecing of Expo Visitors

MONTREAL (CP)—Fears of unscrupulous gouging of visitors during the Montreal world's fair this year have prompted the Quebec government and Expo 67 authorities to take preventive action on accommodation rates.

The government last month introduced the comprehensive Expo 67 Lodging Price Control bill, designed to assure suitable lodging at reasonable rates for the 30,000,000 visitors expected at the fair. The bill is expected to become law later this month and will remain in force until Dec. 31, 1967.

Already, it may have had some of its desired effect in parts of the city where landlords were looking for yard to cashing in on the fair, terminating leases and evicting them only on a monthly and even weekly basis.

Toward the end of 1966 apartment rents in areas from which the fair site is easily accessible rose noticeably and the only explanation was the approach of Expo.

The price control bill provides stiff penalties for hoteliers and landlords who try to freeze visitors and makes special judges available with power to issue summonses to compel alleged offenders to appear before them forthwith." It forbids intimidative proceedings that could draw out an appeal until after Expo.

The new law formally will recognize the creation of an agency, known as the Provincial Lodging Service for Expo 67. Its functions are to make a survey of all accommodations available in the Montreal area, to set maximum rates, and to co-operate with Expo in making available the greatest possible number of lodgings at suitable cost.

The service will issue certificates fixing the maximum rental for each lodging. Hotelkeepers and landlords who fail to keep these certificates posted at all times in a conspicuous spot in rooms and other lodgings or at the entrance to camping grounds, will be liable, on conviction, to fines and penalties ranging from $200 or one month's imprisonment for first offenders to $2,000 or two months imprisonment for repeaters. The same penalties will apply to operators convicted of charging higher rates than the fixed maximum.

There now are 31,351 hotel and motel rooms available in the Montreal area and another 6,000 motel rooms will be ready before the fair opens.

An average 2.5 beds a room, those 37,358 rooms will provide daily accommodation for 93,395 persons. The controlled rates range from $10 to $40 a day, depending on the size of the room, number of occupants and type of service offered.

So far, 5,000 fully furnished apartments—15 to 40 a condominium—in apartment buildings have been inspected and approved. Most have kitchenettes and the buildings provide hotel facilities such as maid service, bellboys and linen. Some have restaurants and drugstores on the premises.

These apartments will accommodate 15,000 visitors daily at fixed rates from $15 to $42 a day, depending on the number of persons—up to a maximum of six adults—occupying each apartment. The average daily cost to each visitor will be between $6 and $10.

To date, 10,000 rooms in private homes have been listed and most already have been inspected, approved and classified. Total available during the fair is expected to be 20,000.

These will provide lodging for 40,000 persons at daily rates of $5 to $10 for singles; $8 to $14 for doubles; $10 to $18 for three persons and $12 to $22 for four persons.

About 10,000 beds in institutions now have been listed and another 5,000 are expected to be available during Expo. Daily rates will be $2.50 for dormitory space; $3 to $5 for singles, and $4 to $8 for doubles.

About 20,000 camping and trailer sites—private and provincial—in and around Montreal will have been inspected, approved and classified by the time Expo opens April 28.

These facilities—expected to accommodate 50,000 visitors daily—will be within a short drive of the world's fair site. The controlled rates vary from $2 to $5 a night with an average charge of $2.50 and $3.50 for camp sites and $3.50 and $5 for trailer sites.

All these facilities will provide daily accommodation for 200,000. Of the expected average of 165,000 daily visitors to Expo it has been estimated that 25 per cent will be residents of the Montreal area and that 30 per cent of out-of-towners will stay with friends and relatives. Only 45 per cent of 74,250 will need daily lodgings.

Logexpo officials say that even on peak days when 350,000 visitors are expected, there will be ample accommodation for the 125,000 needing it.

BC Ban on Overtime Quickly Runs Into Knotty Problems

VANCOUVER (CP) — After two working days, Premier W. A. C. Bennett's ban on overtime in British Columbia has run into knotty problems and strenuous opposition.

The ban deterred nearly half the workers from returning after New Year's to the mammoth $700,000,000 Peace River power project in central B.C., an undertaking of the Crown-owned B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

E. R. Peck, general manager of Peace Power Constructors Consortium, said: "The overtime ban apparently discouraged a large segment of our labor force from returning to work."

Peace Power Constructors officials made a strong plea to the industrial relations board, saying the depleted force implied the project could not be maintained if the overtime ban was to be enforced. They said completion schedules would be impossible to meet because project bids were made on an overtime basis.

Peace River project contractors found Wednesday that only 57 per cent of their work force was on hand at the project following the Christmas - New Year's holiday. They had expected 2,345 workers on the site but were short 1,239 men.

On the Peace River project 100 miles north of Prince George and 60 miles from Fort St. John, the nearest large settlement, a laborer could make $1,000 a month or more before the overtime ban. B.C. Hydro figures showed skilled operators earned up to $1,200 a month and a few general foremen $2,100.

Many workers said that without overtime, the job was just too far out of town.

B.C. Hydro reacted Wednesday by asking the government for overtime permits allowing six eight-hour days a week—not as much overtime as paid previously, but still an incentive. The government agreed.

Almost immediately, the construction industry, through Brig. J. W. Bishop, executive director of the Amalgamated Construction Association, complained.

"The report that the board (of industrial relations) has given a permit for the Peace project is extremely disturbing," he said.

"This news . . . appears to indicate a tendency on the part of the government to give more favorable treatment to its own projects than those of industry."

Some construction officials now expect a deluge of overtime applications and inquiries from other construction companies to flood the board's offices.

The danger, they say, is that the Peace project will skim the cream off other northern construction projects which cannot offer the attraction of overtime pay.

Contractors said an application for an overtime permit for the provincial government's other major power project, the $500,000,000 three-dam Columbia River plan, will not be made "at this time."

"I am hopeful that Hydro will try to get along without overtime on the Columbia," said Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

Ray Haynes, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, which had earlier joined with management in supporting the overtime ban idea, Wednesday called the ban and the Peace project decision "a great schmozzle."

Meanwhile, 600 men building a $60,000,000 pulp mill at Gold River, on Vancouver Island, went on a wildcat strike Wednesday.

The main reason they gave was that food at the Tahsis Co. site is terrible.

But they also complained about the overtime ban.

Mr. Peterson said: "Some overtime can't be avoided, apparently, and our policies have to be made flexible enough to accommodate this."

He added: "Private companies can expect the same analysis and assessment of their cases as hydro received—each application will be dealt with on merit."

HERE ARE THE FACTS ABOUT BENEFITS UNDER THE NEW GUARANTEED INCOME SUPPLEMENT
TO THE OLD AGE SECURITY PENSION

The new guaranteed income supplement is a monthly payment of $30 which will be added to the present $75 Old Age Security Pension if the pensioner has no other income.

However, if the pensioner has other income but it is less than $720 a year ($60 a month) the pensioner still qualifies for a supplement but on a reduced scale depending on his other income.

Every Old Age Security Pensioner is thus guaranteed a minimum income of $105 a month.

Married Pensioners:

If both husband and wife receive the Old Age Security Pension, and have no other income, both qualify for the $30 a month supplement, assuring them a minimum of $210 a month. If married pensioners have a combined income of less than $1440 a year, not including their Old Age Security pensions, each may qualify for a supplement at a reduced rate.

Application Forms:

An application form and a booklet containing details of the guaranteed income supplement will be mailed to all Old Age Security pensioners during February. They will be asked to read the booklet carefully and fill in the application form at once. Married pensioners are asked that each fill in an application form and mail the two in the same envelope.

Income does not include war service pensions, gifts from relatives and money from a number of other sources. A list of items not considered as income is shown on the application form and in the information booklet.

Pensioners may receive help in preparing applications by contacting the Old Age Security, Canada Pension Plan or Income Tax offices. Addresses are available in the booklet.

Payment Dates:

At least two months are required to deal with applications. Some pensioners will receive their supplementary payments combined with their Old Age Security pension cheques in March. Others will receive their combined payments in April. Pensioners entitled to a supplement as of January 1967 will have their payments back-dated to January.

Tax Forms Simplified

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian taxpayer will fill out a new income tax form this year and send it back in a jazzy colored envelope to the federal revenue department.

For Marltimers, it will be a brown envelope. For Quebecers, it's green. Returns from Ontario will come in orange. Westerners are crimson.

The color-coding makes for a quick sorting at the taxation data centre in Ottawa before the computer takes over.

Revenue Minister Benson unveiled the new series of forms Wednesday. He didn't claim that they will be simpler, but said they will come with simpler instructions.

Among average taxpayers, who complete T1 Short forms, only one in 10 will face making a detailed calculation of his taxes, Mr. Benson said.

The table-filling out respective federal and provincial rates will give a breakdown up to a taxable income of $8,000, compared with the $5,000 maximum in earlier years.

Committee Chairmen Are Appointed

DESERONTO — All members were present for the inaugural meeting and meetings of the Deseronto Town Council, Tuesday evening. Newly elected members Hugh Hiscox and Mrs. Dorothy McCullough, Deseronto's first woman councillor, are without municipal experience in municipal affairs. Robert Huffman has previously served as councillor for three years. Their term of office is for two years. Mayor Gerald Lott, Reeve Donald Hagerman and councillors Clayton Brooks, Edward Gardanier, and James Sharpe will serve one more year.

In his inaugural address, Mayor Lott spoke of the significance of Centennial Year to Canada as a whole, and of the part Deseronto must play in that development, and in the development of the town during the year. He voiced his pride in the development that Deseronto Park the past year, giving credit to everyone who had played an active part. The work was far from complete, he pointed out and urged members of the council to support it.

PROPOSED PLANS

The proposed plan for the Soldiers' Memorial project would be forthcoming in the near future, and would require careful study of council. Also for their consideration was the proposed plan for a new supply yards at the rear of the Napanee River, and, eventually from Lake Ontario. He expressed a hope that the established program of re-surfacing streets and sidewalks of the town would be continued by the council for 1967.

Committees for the year were appointed, a check of the name first given is that of the chairman and these are as follows: Finance, Sharpe; Huffman, Gordanier; property, Hagerman, Brooks, Sharpe; Streets, Sharpe, Brooks, Higgins; fire and police, Brooks, Gardanier, McCullough; by-laws and printing, McCullough, Huffman, Higgins, wellare, Gordanier, Armitage, McCullough; industry and printing, Higgins, Armitage, McCullough.

Several appointments were made, Mrs. Ross Sexsmith and Leonard Wilson were re-appointed to the Library Board. Mayor Gerald Lott will again represent Deseronto in the Napanee Region Conservation Authority. Representatives on the Cemetary Board are Mrs. Madeline Brooks and Leonard Wilson.

A by-law was passed authorizing Council to borrow the necessary funds.

Performances of Stars Gives Story Big Lift

NEW YORK (AP) — That widely condemned and popular occupation, status-seeking, was the subject of Wednesday night's Stage 67 series on ABC. It was interesting, despite flaws in the story and a trifle-ap. proach.

The Trap of Solid Gold under. took to explain the plight of Ben Weldon, an ambitious young executive of a Madison Avenue firm, who was going broke on $23,500 a year.

Because Ben wanted to become president some day, he had to go along with something called "executive conformity," and as a result was destroying a good marriage, neglecting his children, cracking up and facing bankruptcy.

He had bought a too-expensive and heavily - mortgaged home in eye of those "fashionable suburbs so despised by writers who live in Manhattan or Beverly Hills.

But basically Ben's financial problems seemed more the result of extremely bad luck. He had to support his widowed mother, his child needed expensive medical treatment, his car developed a fatal, internal malady.

Finally, of course, Ben saw the error of his ways. He lowered his professional sights and when last seen was en route to a $30,000-a-year job in Denver, where presumably there lurks neither deadly conformity, status seeking nor fashionable suburbs.

The performances of Cliff Robertson and Dina Merrill as the couple were almost enough to make one overlook the basic silliness of the story and the big holes in the logic of the premise.

ABC, still happy over the extraordinarily large audience it received for its Bridge on the River Kwai broadcast last fall, now has acquired rights for two broadcasts of the 1952 film, The Robe. It will be shown Easter Sunday this year and next.

The deal is reported to have cost ABC $2,000,000, and the 2½-hour feature will be shown uncut and interrupted only once for commercials by its automobile sponsor.

ANAF News

1966, the last year of the first century of the Confederation of the provinces and territories of Canada has bowed out and a brand new year and start of the second century has begun. It is beyond the realms of the ordinary intelligence to imagine what progress will be made in the next 100 years but, from all accounts this Centennial Year will be amongst the busiest one of them all. The fervent hope of all veterans is that there may be no more of Canada's young people have to become veterans the hard way as have their forefathers. The Duke of Edinburgh Unit of Belleville join the hundreds of other veterans organizations in saluting Canada and renewing their oath to do their utmost to make this grand country of ours a better and happier place for everyone no matter their creed, color or origin.

The President and executive are all smiles since the New Year's Ball which repaid all their hard work an dextra efforts by being voted as just about the best one ever held and upwards of 50 couples are ready to back this statement up. On all sides it can be heard that a really wonderful time was had and a jolly good start made for the New Year.

The next important event will be the election of officers on Thursday, Jan. 12, 1967 and it is hoped that a number of parades will exat their votes for the members of their choice. There will be an advance bars held on Wednesday, Jan. 11th for those whose duties may cause them to be out of town. It is quite possible that the Dominion President will be on hand to conduct the election and installation of the new executive in his usual efficient manner. So once again, vote for who you like but be sure and vote.

The slick chairman reports the following comrades are still in Belleville General Hospit a l: Cdes. Bert Herrington, A. E. Morris and Jack Cunningham. Cde. W. Inchan has returned to the Hastings Manor Hospital wing. All are resting comfortably and doing as well as possible.

Activities, except for the Friday and Saturday socials, are cancelled, to which all members and their guests are invited, will be in abeyance until after the new executive takes over.

May the New Year be good to all of you.

STOLE FROM WIDOW

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Former Oakland mayor John C. Houlihan was sentenced Wednesday to one to 10 years in prison for embezzling $29,000 from a widow's estate. Houlihan, 56, was convicted of the embezzling charge last year.

Festival Canada Makes Debut

OTTAWA (CP) — When Les Feux-Follets begin their first national tour Thursday night in Fort William, the curtain also rises on a centennial program called Festival Canada.

Through about $1,200,000 in grants, the program is sending more than a dozen top companies on tour in the next 10 months.

Les Feux-Follets, a spectacular Montreal folk troupe, will sing and dance in 65 cities in all provinces.

Les Feux-Follets is to perform in Belleville on Feb. 28.

National tours also are being made by:

—TV favorite Don Messer and his Islanders, whose summer excursion may extend into the northern territories.

—Vancouver's Holiday Theatre, which is even being booked for morning performances before young audiences next fall.

—The Ballet Roland Petit of France, which will visit all provinces in October and November.

—British Columbia's rousing Barkerville gold rush days variety show, which can be done with equal success anywhere from an opera house to a saloon.

The Festival Canada agency pays travel costs. An arrangement with the provinces also provides for box office subsidies to keep ticket prices down.

"If we didn't pay the transportation costs, many couldn't go on tour," said an official of the federal agency. "And if they did, the ticket costs would be prohibitive."

As it is, there will be $1 seats galore. .

In Fort William, residents will pay a $2 top to see Les Feux-Follets.

It will cost children only 50 cents to see the Holiday Theatre, a top-flight troupe that is taking on the road two new plays for children.

The New York Philharmonic will perform in Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia next fall. . .

OLIVIER WILL PERFORM

The National Theatre, with Sir Laurence Olivier acting, has an engagement in Toronto outside the Festival Canada program.

The Stratford Shakespearean Festival takes new productions of two plays—Gogol's The Government Inspector and Shakespeare's Twelfth Night — to eight provinces between Feb. 13 and May 8.

The National Ballet tours Quebec and the Maritimes in the winter and Ontario and the Prairies in the summer.

The Neptune Theatre of Halifax goes to Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan this spring.

Opera Singer Mary Garden Dies at 92

In her old age she returned to Aberdeen, where she was born.

In the first three decades of this century she was the toast of the continents. Even those who could find fault with her voice could recognize in Mary Garden a brilliant personality with an outstanding gift as an actress.

Mary was born in Aberdeen and lived here until age 6. Her family then moved to the U.S. As a girl, Mary first studied piano and the violin. The wife of a wealthy merchant provided funds for voice training and Mary went to Paris to study. She never married.

Her debut in Paris on an April evening in 1900 was as dramatic as any in the history of opera.

GOT UNEXPECTED BREAK

She was in the audience of the Opera Comique at a performance of Charpentier's Louise when the star became ill. The director got Mary, then an unknown singer, to take over.

He took her to the footlights, hoisting her hand and saidd: "Ladies and gentlemen, this is Mary Garden, who will finish the performance."

She had never sung with an orchestra before, but with the first note ringing out the orchestra Mary Garden was on the path to fame.

In 1934 she retired from the opera stage and came back to Aberdeen to live with her sister.

Lots of Help Zanuck Wins Friends in Fight

The following is the third of five articles on the revival of 20th Century-Fox under Darryl F. Zanuck.

NEW YORK (AP)—Characteristically, the telephone call came in the middle of the night.

"Darryl, this is Howard."

"If you're going to be president of Fox, I'll be glad to help," said Hughes. "I'll buy as much stock as you want me to."

"Thanks, Howard," replied Zanuck. "I'll let you know if I need you."

As it turned out Zanuck never required the financial aid of Hughes after deciding that Howard the reins of ailing 20th Century-Fox. But the fact that the billionaire was in the market to doubt greatly aided his cause.

Returning to the corporative fray at age 59, Zanuck found opposition to his proposed leadership came largely from two 20th-Fox board members, stockbrokers Milton S. Gould and John Loeb. They found Peter G. Levathres, who had been in charge of production, for president.

Lehman's intentions were still unknown as the board met July 6, 1962, to interview candidates for president.

When Zanuck was called on to speak, he began by citing his record, then shook off after a minute and a half.

"Aw, the hell with it," he grunted, "Why am I going on like this? The record speaks for itself." He sat down.

Lehman came over to the Zanuck side, and July 27, 1962, the board elected Darryl F. Zanuck president of 20th Century-Fox. Opposition board members resigned.

Zanuck was clearly in control, but of what? At that time, 20th Century - Fox had suffered greater losses than any film company in history. It had $34,000,000 tied up in a single film, Cleopatra. The film's entertainment value was unknown, and the Elizabeth Taylor - Richard Burton romance threatened the investment.

The studio's television production had dropped from 4½ hours of weekly shows to one half-hour, Dobie Gillis. The entire organization was rife with fear.

"The corporation is not in a healthy condition," Zanuck said in his first report to directors.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's weather picture was white today as a howling storm continued to dump snow on southwestern Saskatchewan and Ontario braced for a new blizzard tonight.

Six inches of snow fell in the Swift Current area of Saskatchewan Thursday and visibility fell to zero several times during the day as winds gusted to 45 miles an hour.

Ontario recorded almost no snow Thursday, but the weather office in Toronto predicts skies will become cloudy this after noon as a storm moves into the province from Kansas. Snow will start after dark in the southern regions.

The storm plaguing parts of Saskatchewan hit southern Alberta earlier and left 10 inches of snow in Calgary by early morning. Rural roads were blocked and schools closed in several communities.

The snowfall followed a line across the centre of Alberta from Hinton, 175 miles west of Edmonton, and some scheduled airline flights to and from Calgary were cancelled.

In Red Deer, two teen-age girls found Wednesday afternoon after four days without food on an isolated stretch of highway in western Alberta, were reported today in good condition.

The girls, Roseann Gaume, 18, and Phyllis Young, 17, were found by a federal park warden at Saskatchewan Crossing Point, about 130 miles west of Rocky Mountain House.

The girls became stranded after a rock punctured the gas tank of their car while they were returning home from visiting a friend in Rocky Mountain House during the New Year's weekend. They said they had eaten nothing since Sunday.

The weather office says the storm in Saskatchewan will abate overnight as it moves eastward through North Dakota.

In the Maritimes, meanwhile, residents were bombarded with everything from snow to rain to freezing drizzle Thursday after digging out from a storm which delivered up to 10 inches of snow in some areas.

At least two deaths were attributed to the blizzard which eased early Thursday.

Snowflurries of decreasing frequency are forecast for today, with temperatures ranging from the mid-20s to the low 30s.

British Columbia had cloudy skies Thursday and a high of 40 was recorded in Vancouver. Some snow was reported along the coast and light snow is expected today.

Montreal had only one-third of an inch of snow Thursday and the high reading was 32. Mild weather continued across other areas of the province.

Robert Nixon Seems Certain To Be Leader

TORONTO (CP) — Tonight's Ontario Liberal convention, which will unanimously elect Robert Nixon leader unless other candidates enter the race at the last moment, should provide a sharp contrast to the hard-fought 1964 battle.

Andrew Thompson, the legislature member for Toronto Dovercourt, won that one on the sixth ballot following a long and sometimes bitter campaign involving seven candidates.

Mr. Thompson defeated Charles Templeton, a Toronto businessman and broadcasting personality, 772 to 540 on the final ballot.

Eliminated on the fifth ballot was Mr. Nixon, 38, a St. George, Ont., farmer whose father in 1943 was Ontario's last Liberal premier.

The party caucus named Mr. Nixon house leader the day after Mr. Thompson's resignation.

Then only Mr. Templeton, 51, posed a serious threat to Mr. Nixon's leadership aspirations. But the former evangelist supplied speculation last Nov. 21 by announcing he would not run.

Nominations close at 7 p.m. tonight. If the leadership is contested, voting will take place at 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

Pope Woos China

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope Paul said today he would like to discuss peace with mainland Chinese leaders, and stressed the immense sympathy of the Roman Catholic church for China.

He spoke at a colorful Epiphany mass in which the lessons from the gospels were read in Chinese—the first time this has ever happened in St. Peter's Basilica, heart of Christendom for 500,000,000 Roman Catholics.

After expressing the church's desire to re-open contacts with the people of China, Pope Paul said:

"We would also like to discuss peace with those who preside over current Chinese life on the mainland, knowing how this supreme human and civilized ideal is in intimate harmony with the spirit of the Chinese people."

He said the Roman Catholic church would never forget those from whom it was completely cut off in mainland China and would never renounce the hope of a rebirth and development of the church among them.

The liberty of the church in China was meeting grave obstacles, he said. Communications had been cut, no Chinese were present at the recent Vatican council, and all missionaries had been expelled.

The Pope said there was no reason to think that the church was opposed to the Chinese people.

"The church has always regarded China with immense sympathy," he said.

The church looked on China with esteem and a spirit of dedication, without temporal interests, and had always desired to help China in its development. It had completely renounced being a "para-colonial phenomenon."

The church, the pontiff said, has always loved and admired China, and still is in a position to understand the travail of China's transformation from the antiquated and static forms of tradition to the new forms of a more industrialized society.

Toronto Man Slain By Gunman

TORONTO (CP) — A 45-year-old father of four was gunned down today in front of his suburban North York home by an assailant whom police believe was hiding in a carport beside the home.

Salvatore (Sammy) Triumbari, a soft drink manufacturer, had just left for work when he was shot three times in the head. Police believe his assailant was hiding behind Mr. Triumbari's car which was in the carport.

Mr. Triumbari was the father of two boys and two girls ranging in age from one to eight years.

U.S. Congress May Hit UN Stand on Rhodesia

WASHINGTON (CP)— British officials are bracing for a rough time on Rhodesia when Congress reconvenes Jan. 10.

For a variety of reasons, it appears, the Rhodesian issue is going to be used to deliver some pointed—even harsh—words.

Officially, the U.S. stands behind the UN sanctions. President Johnson Thursday signed an executive order implementing the Dec. 16 Security Council sanctions resolution. The order will cut U.S. imports from Rhodesia by 80 per cent or more but will have little or no effect on exports to that country. Exports were virtually halted to Rhodesia last spring under the U.S. Export Control Act.

But there is opposition within the U.S. to getting involved over Rhodesia. Observers here cite these reasons for the opposition:

—A basic non-interest in the crisis, coupled with preoccupation about Vietnam and other global worries.

—Latent anti - British sentiment, compounded by sympathy for white Rhodesians as 20th-century colonials conducting their own American-style revolt from British rule and strongly anti - Communist to boot.

—Legitimate fears that the UN may have been asked to bite off too much since economic sanctions have yet to prove successful anywhere.

Quebec Ministers Differ on Slogans

QUEBEC (CP)—Justice Minister Jean - Jacques Bertrand said Thursday Quebec drivers who attach unofficial slogans to their licence plates are acting illegally and will be summoned for the offence.

His statement followed remarks made Wednesday by Transport Minister Fernand Lizotte, who recommended that provincial police shut their eyes when they see slogans as long as provided the licence numbers are not obscured.

Meantime Mrs. Guy Pouliot, regional vice-president for the separatist Rassemblement pour l'Independance nationale, whose anti-Confederation plaques for licence plates started the dispute, said the slogans always go like hot cakes."

Her party had been selling small plaques to be attached to the official licence plates for several days. They cost 50 cents each and carry the inscription "Fin d'injustice—100 years of injustice.

Mr. Bertrand said orders have been out to provincial police since Jan. 3 that they should remove all licence plates altered after issuance and serve summonses on their owners.

But when she was told drivers buying the slogans would be liable to penalties, Mrs. Pouliot said she would put the government in the ridiculous position of having to serve summonses on thousands of citizens and bring them before the courts.

Chides Colleagues

LaMarsh Asserts Young Overlooked

OTTAWA (CP)—State Secretary LaMarsh, outspoken as ever, took pot shots at her cabinet colleagues, the Quebec government and the CBC in a television interview Thursday night.

She hailed Walter Gordon and suggested she's looking for a young, "brilliant rising star" as the CBC's next president. CBC sources said privately one candidate she has in mind is Patrick Watson, star of last year's Seven Days program hassle.

Appearing on the CBC program Twenty Million Questions, she gently chided her colleagues for allegedly forgetting about half the population of Canada—those under 25.

"You have to keep hammering and say, 'half of the country is under 25; that's where the problems of the immediate future are. . . .'

"I have to deal with my colleagues and with the public, who don't know it and who forget.

"The y're concentrating on what we do for the aged and the sick. What do we do for these kids? What do we do for all these new families they are going to be created by the housing needs and everything else?"

Turning to the CBC, for which she reports to Parliament, the minister said CBC entertainment programs often are amateur and "embarrassing country cousins" of big-budget American shows.

Many able, young CBC personalities would leave for the U.S. or private broadcasting unless the right person was named to head the corporation. She was looking for a national figure who was "with it."

"Bright young people—for instance one of the people with has worked in the CBC for quite a long time and recently come back, who is in his 30s and has been suggested as the president for CBC.

"I have a very mixed mind about this, which has nothing to do with his age at all. There are an awful lot of sorts of power around this country that would shake in their shoes if they thought the CBC was headed up by a man of 36 or 38 or thereabouts."

CBC informants said the cabinet objected to Miss LaMarsh's suggestion that Mr. Watson be named CBC president, at $40,000 a year.

'Wally' Is With It

Miss LaMarsh welcomed Mr. Gordon's return to the cabinet as minister without portfolio.

"Walter Gordon is more 'with it' than anybody else in the cabinet, I think. He has a better understanding, heart and mind, for young people, for people who have got new ideas, new visions than anybody else we've ever had in the cabinet."

She said that former Mr. Gordon, 60, resigned as finance minister in November, 1965, "I to public affairs."

Winters Hedges

Walter Gordon's Return Leaves Policy Unchanged

TORONTO (CP) — Former finance minister Walter Gordon's re - appointment to the cabinet will not mean a switch in the government's policy on economic nationalism so far as he is aware, Trade Minister Robert Winters said Thursday.

Interviewed after a speech to the Empire Club where he called for a greater export drive both by Canadian firms and foreign - controlled subsidiaries, Mr. Winters said Canada must have foreign capital if it is to succeed.

"There is no switch in the government's policy on economic nationalism because Mr. Gordon has rejoined the cabinet."

Asked if his views clashed with those of Mr. Gordon, a leading critic of the amount of foreign ownership of Canadian industry, Mr. Winters hedged.

He said the significance of Mr. Gordon's re-entrance to the cabinet, from which he resigned a year ago, would be for the prime minister to state.

Interviewed after a speech in his speech, Mr. Winters said he had written a large number of foreign-owned companies both by Canadian firms and foreign - controlled subsidiaries, Mr. Winters said Canada must have foreign capital if it is to succeed.

"There is no switch in the government's policy on economic nationalism because Mr. Gordon has rejoined the cabinet."

Asked if his views clashed with those of Mr. Gordon, a

Colorful Scenes of U.S. Viewed at Travelogue

By A. HENDERSON

Something new, unique and jittel; saw the snow-white Lincompletely different was surpassingly beautiful was presented last evening to Belleville travelogue fans by the Kiwanis Club in the showing of Robert Brouwer's "America — Three I Sing," at the Collegiate auditorium.

Mr. Brouwer was born in Grand Rapids, Michigan, and early in life began his interest in photography, and his selection of subject matter as he matured. Today, he uses a finished slide program in which three screens and four projectors are used incorporating stereophonic music and music recorded on the spot. He is also his own technician.

MIGHTY NIAGARA

Among the many lovely and beautiful scenes presented of the United States of America, was that of the mighty Niagara Falls, in all its changing moods, in sunlight and in mists, and over all the arching colors, and the roar of falling waters on their way to the sea. The autumn scenes in Vermont were idyls of quiet beauty, rich in coppers and golden tints, blending their reflections into quiet blue waters and in spring, their mirrored cherry blossoms.

Places visited were Washington, D.C. with its imposing Capcoln memorial with its Doric columns, Lincoln's monument, depicting the kindly features and strong hands of the great emancipator; and many others too numerous to mention.

FISHING HAVENS

There were fishing havens with vessels at rest, and the shrill call of the hungry, gulls in search of food; Colonial Williamsburg with the booming of cannon, and the tramp of military feet; the renowned Gettysburg with its historical memories; and the Grand Canyon, one of the wonders of the ages.

Watkins Glen was also shown with its limestone split forming a deep chasm through which a stream flowed silent and slow; and little rivulets cascaded down the steep sides.

DISNEYLAND

Disneyland was ushered in amid a shower of bursting fireworks, revealing the fairylike interior of the land. Views of the Yosemite followed, along with Crater Lake with its boiling caldron in the centre of blue waters.

In a presentation of sheer beauty, the outstanding picture included the fine composition of each scene; its natural beauty, the great variety of the birds; the awe-inspiring waterfalls; surpassingly lovely colorings, and changing moods of nature.

Seven Tweed Area Youths Pay $20 Fines

TWEED (Special) — Fines of $20 were imposed on seven youths here yesterday for an incident of rowdyism here last summer.

The seven pleaded not guilty before Magistrate R. C. Jackson after they were charged with disturbing the peace last July at Tweed Memorial Park.

Police Chief Angus Paquette alleged picnic tables were overturned and tourists in nearby trailers and cabins awakened during the disturbance.

Two guests checked out of a nearby motel because of the noise, he said.

Magistrate R. C. Jackson added court costs of $13 to each fine.

Convicted were Leo Joseph Lesage, Harold Joseph Raven, Michael Bosley, Ralph Woodcock, James Young, Michael Leveck and Edward Bosley.

All the youths live in Tweed or its immediate vicinity.

Stelco Hike Not Vetoed By Sharp

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will not make a second demand for a rollback on price increases by the Steel Company of Canada Ltd., Finance Minister Sharp said Thursday. He said in a statement that Stelco had informed him in advance of increases announced Thursday on the sale of steel. The government had decided not to interfere.

Mr. Sharp asked Stelco in September to suspend planned increases. Stelco had agreed, and the freeze helped the economy at a crucial time, Mr. Sharp said.

"This action with respect to this basic industrial material made a useful contribution to the reduction of inflationary pressures during recent months."

Another deferment now would not be justified, said the statement.

Notices went out to Stelco's customers Wednesday listing new prices for more than 70 specifications and qualities on bars and rods. The selling price of bars went up two per cent. Adjustments on rods balanced one another out.

Behind the "Glass"

By C.D.T.

The third annual Curling Bonspiel will be held at the Quinte Curling Club on Saturday. There will be three eight-end games starting at nine o'clock and the spiel will be played off with a dinner and distribution of five sets of prizes for the winner. Bill McPherson and John Woodcock are in charge but they have an executive committee behind them and this book-like one of the better spiels that will be played at the club this season. There are a number of outside rinks competing, in fact, more than are entered from the local club.

On the nine o'clock draw Jack Ellis of the Campbellford Club, Kingston, will meet "Doc" Bichock of the Air Base, Bill Miller of Lakefield will tangle with Hal Emerson of the Quinte Club, Jack Dingle of Brighton will engage Ernie Wilkinson of Napanee and Newell Burrows of Quinte will meet Gordon Pinder of Ottawa Carleton Curling Club, Kingston.

At eleven o'clock "Skip" Skuse of the Air Base will meet Jim Seberry of Peterborough, while Frank Waite of Picton will take on Ross Betts of R.M.C. of Kingston. Everett Ellis of Tweed will tangle with Bill Burns of Napanee while Wes Andrews of the Kingston club will meet Bill Spotsella of the local club.

Some of the best curlers in Ontario will be seen at the Quinte Curling Club when invitation Centennial Bonspiel is held on January 20th and 21st. The list will be headed by a rink from the Ontario Curling Association executive and will include in it's personnel, Ross Tarlton, president of that body. Also will be on hand E. J. Parkhill, past president of the O.C.A. and three other boys who claim Belleville as their home or have close ties. Joe Sherooka of Dixie will have a strong rink and there will be a couple from Kingston that will have some beating. The new local rinks to be entered will have the cream of the brown and stone brigade of the club and if all adds up to a wonderful two days of expert curling. The public is cordially invited to witness these matches.

For entertainment for the visitors a wonderful night has been laid out for the Shrine Club. There will be a cocktail hour followed by smorgasbord and an hour of entertainment. There will be a few short addresses and then the whole party will move back to the club for a social hour.

The whole centennial program is to be opened by a Church service on Sunday, January 15th. This service will be held at St. Thomas' Church with the rector, Archdeacon A. S. McConnell in charge, assisted by Rev. Davie Sinclair. It is the wish of the committee that members of all religious faiths in the club will try and be on hand for this service. The committee feels that the Centennial Week of curling should be opened with this service and have so placed on the top of the agenda.

Century Old Church Being Torn Down

Century old Wesley United Church on No. 2 highway east of Bayside has almost disappeared.

Purchased by the Ontario Highways Department last fall for road widening purposes, the church is now under the wreck er's hammer and today is almost completely razed.

One of three churches on the Bayside circuit, the Wesley Church was built back in 1866 but declining numbers forced its closing just over a year ago.

At the time of closing there were only about four families attending.

"Four families cannot keep a church going, so we had no choice," said Mr. Fred Denyes.

Families formerly attending the church now go to White's at Bayside, to Centenary and to Belleville.

Bus Crash Kills 83

MANILA (AP) — Two buses loaded with Roman Catholic pilgrims collided today on a mountain road and hurtled into a ravine, killing at least 83 and injuring about 60, officials reported.

The Philippine constabulary said many dead had been counted at four medical centres and that many of the injured were in serious condition. They expected the toll to rise.

Reports from army paramedic teams sent to the scene earlier said there appeared to be only 25 survivors among the 120 or more persons thought to have been on the buses.

March of Dimes Campaign Has Objective of $38,000

The objective of the 1967 March of Dimes campaign in the Southeastern Ontario Branch area will be $38,000. This was announced by Mrs. Deverde Powell of Napanee, branch campaign chairman of the Rehabilitation Foundation for the Disabled. The total Ontario goal is $820,000.

While preparing a year - end report about the Branch's finances, Mrs. Powell told board members that in the first 11 months of 1966 about $36,127 was spent and the anticipated total for the year should be about $39,422.

About $36,000 was raised in the 1966 campaign to cover costs of providing physical, psychological and vocational rehabilitation services for about 269 physically disabled people in more than 19 years old in this Branch' area.. They are persons disabled by any disease or accident who are not eligible for aid by the various government departments or agencies.

The Branch covers the Counties of Prince Edward, Frontenac, Hastings, Leeds and Grenville, Lennox and Addington.

During January, volunteer March of Dimes committees are busy preparing for their annual Mothers' Marches in which about 1,500 women will blitz 16,000 homes on the night of January 30 in every community except those in which the organization is a member of the United Appeal.

"We are constantly re - examining, developing and expanding our programs to try to keep up with the growing need for our services in this area and throughout the province," Mrs. Powell said.

"Despite the very sophisticated channels this work, sometimes, leads us along — particularly in the medical research and psychological assessment fields — we do not lose sight of our primary objective," Mrs. Powell told her fellow volunteers.

"These are helping disabled individuals to help themselves, restoring their dignity and self-confidence and educating people to judge their fellows by their abilities, not their disabilities.

Camera Club Gives Awards In Contest

The Belleville Camera Club hosted a full house at the Kiwanis Centre on Wednesday night as Quinte residents took advantage of the opportunity to improve their photographic facility to enable them to have a lasting record of this year's centennial sights and events, which are soon to commence.

John Fleit, presided over the evening's events with the business portion of the meeting taking only a small part of the members' time.

Mike Last reported on the club's centennial project, which is amalgamated with the arts and crafts groups of the district, are combining to provide a four-day display of the local talents to the public. And our hopes are for this to take place during the month of April, and possibly utilizing one of the local schools to show the displays in.

Ray Godfrey presented an invitation from the Bellville district centennial group, inviting all members to participate in the group's first district Centennial Photographic Contest," in which they hope to obtain a collection of interesting features of this area in 1967 — for public record and display.

The evening became quite lively when a panel of judges, consisting of Fred Elliott, Earl Yateman and Dick Hughes combined their talents to choose the winners of the monthly contest which utilized the Belleville area as a theme for the contest.

The women members of the club, again outdid the men, with Molly Bramley tying for first place with a scenic and a pictorial scene of Bridge Street East, and also taking third prize with a scene of the old white house in Belleville. Ray Godfrey shared first place with a color slide of local harbour and Gord Byers placed second with an attractive night time shot of the Bay Bridge.

An intermission was taken with refreshments being served and the members received a chance to socialize.

The Kodak Company provided us with the interesting portion of the evenings entertainment with a slide program with comments on the work by Ray Godfrey which dealt with filters for sky and haze control and the purpose of this was to acquaint beginners with the reasons for using filters and how to select them to achieve desired results.

The evening was concluded with all members being invited to bring a guest to the next meeting, January 18th.

Another Attempt in Offing

Will Reform Hasty Pee Band

Lt. Col K. D. H. Willcocks, CD, Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment announced today that the famous Hasty Pee Band was being re - formed.

"After several months of planning" he said "Mr. Douglas Aseltine and I have managed to form what we hope will be the nucleus of a really excellent new Band."

There have been several meetings between local professional musicians and the Military during the last months. Very recently Lieutenant D Swanick, Band Officer of the Royal Canadian Signals Band in Kingston listened to the group rehearse and was very impressed. He mentioned that if formed the band should be a brass and reed rather than the previous bugle band.

So far some 25 experienced musicians have indicated their willingness to start a Regimental Band, Lt. Swanick stated that at least 35 members would be required before he would authorize the re - formation of the band. Interested musicians are asked to contact Mr. D Aseltine as soon as possible for an audition.

Already several requests have come to the regiment from local towns and cities for the Band to appear in Ceremonial events. As Colonel Willcocks said "we have the uniforms and instruments, the Army pays for practices and parades and the Quinte District needs a Military Band. All we need now is some more musicians". Regular band practices will be held every Monday night.

Smart Work by Mounties Kept Fascists Under Control

OTTAWA — An R.C.M.P. intelligent agent posing as German spy controlled the activities of Canadian Fascists during World War II and made them harmless, former R.C.M.P. Commissioner C. W. Harvison has revealed.

Harvison tells how the agent took the place of a German spy, who had been captured soon after landing in Canada from a submarine in an article in Weekend Magazine Jan. 7. The material is from Harvison's autobiography to be published this year.

The German spy had been ordered to get help from Adrian Arcands' Canadian Fascist Party. Canadian intelligence decided to carry out this mission with its own agent, an R.C.M.P. German interpreter identified only as "Johnny."

Johnny took on the role of a top-level spy sent to Canada to help Canadian Nazis and Fascists whose leaders were interned at the outbreak of war.

Johnny kept the Fascists busy collecting information on war production from their places of employment, on trescher traffic on the St. Lawrence River and of shoulder flashes worn by service men. He told them he was sending this information back to Germany. "Some of these reports showed a considerable intelligence flair and would have been most helpful if they had ever reached Germany," Harvison writes.

Later some of the Fascists became restless and wanted some action. So the R.C.M.P. brought in a second man who posed as Hitler's own envoy as head of the North American intelligence network. He asked the Fascists for wanting to disrupt Hitler's plans and told them that until they were called upon to act there would be no more foolish talk of sabotage. This ended the budding revolt.

Harvison writes that as a result the Fascists were kept in check to the end of the war and not a single act of sabotage was carried out in Canada.

Employment Key Factor in Depressed Area Designation

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Would the Bay of Quinte district stand to benefit through the attraction of new industry if it was declared a designated area by the department of industry at Ottawa?

Area municipal officials feel that it would. And despite the fact separate applications by three municipalities have been turned down, there is hope a joint application might be successful.

A request for such a joint application was made in Belleville city council some weeks ago and Mayor James MacDonald of Trenton is now compiling information from the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward and Belleville and Trenton with the view of making a joint application to Ottawa.

Just what is a designated area and how can it benefit a municipality?

Firstly a designated area is one in which the Federal government, through its area development program of the department of industry, gives tax incentives and other benefits with the hope of attracting industries to such areas.

But to qualify under the program designated areas must have high and chronic unemployment together with slow economic growth. The Ottawa attitude is that the Quinte district is not eligible.

Twice since the area development program went into effect in 1963, the city of Belleville has had applications turned down. Hastings county and also Prince Edward county have received the same answers.

Under the designated area program incentives for industry can be substantial.

First there can be income tax exemptions for industries locating in designated areas.

These can be income tax exemptions for industries locating in designated areas although this phase of the incentive program is soon to be dropped in favor of cash grants.

Then there are special allowances for new machinery and equipment and also special allowances on new buildings.

These new development grants are in the form of a cash grant for a new manufacturing facility based on 33 1/3 per cent of the first $250,000 cost of the new machinery, equipment and buildings, 25 per cent on the next $750,000 of such cost, plus 20 per cent of costs thereafter up to a maximum grant of $5,000,000.

Firms qualifying for development grants also may be eligible for accelerated capital cost allowances on much of their assets eligible for the grant.

To qualify as a designated area, a city or municipality must have severe under-employment substantially above the national average and also have a rate of increase in employment substantially lower than the national average.

The Quinte area does not qualify under the above criteria.

Mayor J. R. Ellis told council some weeks ago that Belleville's employment figure was far above that which would allow it to qualify as a designated area. However, many cities across Ontario have benefited by becoming designated areas. Among centres qualifying have been Brantford, Cornwall and Collingwood.

No Magic Solution

How to attract more industry to Belleville? That is the perennial question exercising minds in this community.

Clearly, there is no magic solution. The decision of an industry to locate in a community is a combination of a number of factors, including proximity to markets, availability of essential services in the area of the site, and good communications by road and rail.

Other, more intangible elements, such as timing and luck play their part, and as any industrialist knows negotiations can extend over a period of weeks or even months depending on the complexity of the undertaking.

Belleville fulfills most of the requirements essential to the location of new industries here. On the debit side, perhaps, is its location. True, it is not far from Toronto or Montreal, and is well served by road and rail with these big centres and their hinterlands. However, it does not enjoy the geographic intimacy with the larger centres that can make all the difference in the ultimate location of an industry.

Thus, as far as Belleville is concerned, it is going to take more patient work by the Industrial Commission — a body which has been the target of frequent criticism, most recently in the last few days.

Alderman Arthur Keegan thinks the Commission should be replaced by a group of six aldermen. In our opinion this proposal offers no solution to the problem. There is scant support for it, on the valid grounds that the city representatives already have a job without undertaking the work of the Commission as well, and because industrialists prefer to talk with people familiar with the local industrial scene.

The city does have two representatives on the Commission, in the persons of Mayor Ellis and Alderman Carruthers. Their presence, moreover, serves to place the Commission on a more democratic basis than its composition as a corporation appointed body suggests. In other words the public is represented by two members who are also members of Council.

Meanwhile, the efforts to attract industry must continue. Patience and determination, ultimately should be rewarded. Fortunately, however, there are also other, more concrete signs suggesting that the city's fortunes will change before too long — and for the better.

Council had before it letters sent to a local realtor, outlining plans by the Ontario Department of Economics and Development to encourage uniform development across the province. One letter was from Premier Robarts and he noted the department was seeking to dispense industry outside Toronto.

That is all to the good, but Belleville must play its part by continuing to keep the city's name and attractions before industrialists. It must also maintain its state of preparedness with regard to the reception of new industries. The services must be available and city and industrial commission representatives alert to the needs of companies which may indicate their interest in locating here.

Beatnik Phenomenon

The phenomenon of the beatniks of our day is one that may arouse the curiosity, if not the admiration of conventional folk who work hard to earn a living and support a family and home — and have something over to enjoy a change of scene at vacation time.

The majority of Canadian families do not stray too far from home, even if they can afford it. Yet the beatniks, living on practically nothing and spending whatever little they have on drugs rather than on food, have been turning up in such widely-separated places as Tangier, Bombay, the coastal villages of Mexico and — believe it or not — Katmandu, in Nepal.

These people, most in their early twenties, have earned the contempt of the population in virtually all the places they have settled, and they are usually sent packing as quickly as possible. Local authorities are naturally sensitive about their effect on legitimate tourist traffic in their respective countries.

An encounter with any of these dropouts from society is likely to encounter anyone contemplating such an existence that the conventional life — mortgage, suburban boredom and all — is infinitely more preferable to the decadence into which the beatnik life has led some young people.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh had some good advice for young people in this category when she addressed an Ottawa high school gathering the other day. Urging young people to play a positive rather than a negative role in life she said that while it was a good thing to be part of the "in crowd," it was also good to make sure the crowd really was in something.

Brisk Exercise Helps Keep the Weight Down

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am fat. I am 5 feet, 5, 186 pounds and 51 years old. The size of my hips and stomach is unbelievable.

I am on a diet and have been losing a few pounds in the past weeks but it seems that I get flabbier. Tell me a few exercises I can do to help my muscles get firmer.

How much should I really eat? How many slices of bread? How much meat? How much should I weigh? — R. H.

I can't tell whether you are a girl or a boy, but I'm glad you are tackling your weight problem now. At 14 you have excellent prospects of getting yourself down to normal weight. For age and height, if a boy, you should weigh about 118 to 120 pounds.

Your best exercises? Any that use the muscles in places where you are flabby. The exercise programs on TV are excellent for either sex. Any brisk exercise will help, whether it is running, tennis, chopping wood, riding a bicycle, skiing, doing pushups, or sit-ups, rowing, or just simple calisthenics — deep knee bends, bending, twisting your trunk. You don't need special exercises. What you need is strenuous exercise of any kind. And daily.

Since you are losing some weight on your present diet, stick to it. I can't tell you how many slices of bread or how much meat you should eat. The exact amount depends on your metabolism and on the number of calories you burn up in exercise. The important thing is to watch the scales. If your weight rises, you are eating more than you should. So long as you keep on going down gradually, you are making progress.

For a rule of thumb, let's say that two slices of bread a day (or its equivalent in other breadstuff) is enough. You should have meat or other protein food (eggs, fish, cheese) in at least two meals a day, because protein contains essential body-building nutrients and keeps necessary tissues.

Avoid all sweet things, and be very careful of fried foods or other forms of fat, because ounce for ounce fat has more calories than sugar. Butter and margarine are fats. Spread them thinly.

Be sure to get some fruit or tomato juice daily for its vitamin C content. Get some green, leafy vegetables, but avoid creamy or oily salad dressing. Salt, pepper and vinegar can spark up the flavor without the oils (fats) of other dressings.

Have at least two servings of vegetables a day, but avoid cream sauces or gravies because they contribute too many calories. The yellow vegetables (squash, carrots, etc.) are rich in Vitamin A.

Since you are still growing, be sure to have at least a couple of glasses of milk per day, but low-fat or skim milk will give you your necessary calcium without too many calories.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are diabetics permitted to anyone not having that disease? My neighbor says I shouldn't eat them, but I like them because they aren't so sweet. — L.

There is no such thing as foods that diabetics may eat which can eat whatever the rest of us eat — but in restricted amounts only. Even artificial sweetening agents, such as sugar, honey, or others which contain sugar.

If by "diabetic foods" you mean foods or beverages sweetened with artificial, non-calorie sweeteners and without sugar, they won't harm you, and if you like them, eat them, although this is true of the many low-calorie soft drinks now on the market.

Note to R. M. N.: Blood transfusions are given for patients with leukemia, and it helps for a time. It does not cure the basic disease, unfortunately, but tends to correct an associated anemia.

Zoning Issue

A Reply to Dr. Harold Williamson

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I feel I must reply to the letter to The Editor, appearing in The Intelligencer, December 30, 1966. It appears Dr. Williamson wants to keep an old sore bleeding but I agree with his statement "that some questions remain that warrant consideration." The only thing Dr. Williamson is about two years too late in recognizing is that there was any question that warranted consideration.

A parcel of land which was the back part of lot 9128 McDonald Avenue was purchased to deepen the Dundas Street lot for the purpose of making a parking lot. The earth from the excavation of the building erected on Dundas was dumped on this lot, raising the level of the property from two to three feet at the line three of 129 Dufferin. In the spring of 1965 this caused flooding on my property, running into my garage and cellar causing considerable damage. I endeavored to contact Dr. Williamson, but he evidently had nothing to talk to me about so there was no alternative but to fight every move that was made. If the Planning Board ever open the door to allow the parking lot back across all lots on Dufferin Ave. or McDonald Ave. to deepen Dundas Street, No. 1, I and other than residential "A" it could nicely extend from Dundas to Bridge.

Dr. Williamson stated: "It have not erected a clinic, neither have I made complete opinions to the contrary, in any way contrary to building or zoning bylaws". I certainly would not pass judgement on that subject but I would like to quote parts of the Ontario Municipal Boards report dated May 3rd, 1966, which speaks for itself today—in 1967.

"It is the expressed intention of Dr. Williamson to use the property for a medical clinic. Subsequent to the purchase, a second building has been erected on the southerly parcel to the east of the non-conforming 4-unit apartment building, and the northerly parcel has been graded and levelled for use as a parking lot in connection with the proposed clinic. The application applied for rezoning the lands in July, 1965, and it was referred by council to the planning board on September 7, 1965. At its meeting in October 4, 1965, council rejected the recommendation of the planning board that the rezoning be not approved and that the same meeting approved the request of Dr. Williamson".

There was a lot of discussion at the hearings of the Planning Board and Council, which I attended, and I am of the opinion could have been fruitful, if the proper attitude had been shown.

The report continues:

"There appears to be considerable doubt that the construction of the second building on the southerly parcel is properly authorized, and also that the owner is entitled to use it for a medical clinic and the northerly parcel for a parking lot.

"The evidence of Dr. Williamson and others on his behalf was to the effect that the rezoning would be compatible with the strip commercial zoning along Dundas Street East and No. 2, which abuts the easterly boundary of the southerly p rcel, and a clinic in this location with the hospital opposite on the south side of Dundas would be convenient to the residents and his patients. Use of the northerly parcel for parking is considered necessary because of traffic and parking problems generated to a large extent by the hospital.

"Objections to the application were well presented by council and by individuals not represented by counsel. It is argued that the southerly parcel was the buffer between the strip commercial zone and the residential zone and the commercial aspect of the intended use would remove that buffer and bring its depreciating effect one step closer. It is claimed that this is spot zoning which should establish a precedent for re-zoning, one step at a time, other properties which in turn become the "buffer". Rezoning of the northerly parcel to permit a parking lot would be an incompatible projection of a dissimilar use surrounded on three sides by a single family residential area. Notwithstanding the strip commercial development to the north and east of the subject parcels, particularly on Dufferin Avenue, are above average in value and well maintained.

"It appears to me that the present owner of the subject lands has been the author of his own misfortune in that at the residential properties to the north and west of the subject parcels, particularly on Dufferin Avenue, are above average in value and well maintained.

"It appears to me that the present owner of the subject lands has been the author of his own misfortune in that at the recent meeting of the club.

Society in Evolution

Peterborough Examiner

In a society which is as highly developed as Western society is now becoming, traditional masculine and feminine roles are becoming increasingly blurred. Evidence that this subtle, but nevertheless rapid, change in our contemporary lives, has brought trouble in its wake, is the so-called crisis of identity that has recently been recognized as a profound psychological disturbance of young adults. Western man requires its young men to suppress their feminine traits — particularly in North America — simply because the cult of the frontier era dictated that they should do so. Conversely women are required to adopt a timid role in public affairs, though they may well continue to play a fiercely dominant role in family life.

But the unmistakable change in occupation has been fundamental. Modern technology — from the pre-preparation of baby milk to other foods, to the perfection of the vacuum cleaner — has not freed women from domestic preoccupations, but has put them on a par with men. Mothers therefore develop their intellectual aptitudes in a way which their mothers could not, and, indeed, frequently resent. Thus in our universities we find young women in numbers out of which hitherto have been regarded as the preserve of men. The cheerful, undemanding yield to women in the pulpit, for example, and politics, law, medicine, and business have yielded long ago.

Men, on the other hand, no longer find it necessary to develop masculinity as assiduously as in the past. Again in North America, men are turning to jobs which would be quite traditionally regarded as feminine preoccupations, the arts, decoration, embellishment, design and solitary occupations of the mind. That this change has not been successfully met by all hands is demonstrated by the increasing uncertainty in young people of their attitudes to traditional matters of family life, marriage, sexual customs, and even to warfare as shown by an increasing number of young men who conscientiously object to fighting pitched international battles for ill-defined ends.

HMS Bramble arrived at Annapolis, N.S., 153 years ago today—in 1814—bringing Britain's peace terms for settling the War of 1812. However peace was not signed until Christmas Eve of the same year and even then the battle of New Orleans was fought before the news reached either side. In 1814 the Americans raided the Niagara peninsula and were turned back at Lundy's Lane and the British attacked south by way of Lake Champlain, where U.S. naval successes wrecked the armada.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

"Who needs it?" is enjoying a current vogue second only perhaps to James Bond, and frankly we are running across it more often than we need it. In fugue and variations it appears on two facing advertisements (a recent) Time magazine: "With a card like this," says a credit card company, "who needs cash?" I could hit it big with beavers," says a life insurance company. "Who needs life insurance?" At the back of the magazine an advertisement for college educations shows a picture of a youth with the line: "Born to lead . . . who needs him?" And in the cinema section . . . a review of "Hawaii" with the same original thought: "Who needs Hawaii like I do." A 10-ton mouse: "Who needs it?"

Wellington, every period has its standard phrase guaranteed to dispense sparkle and wit, command attention, evoke surprise and end discussion. We mind us when it was a crushing "Get out" and again when it was a sneering "So's your old man." (More recently . . . "Sorry about that.") Our own all-time favorite, when we want to say something both clever and exhilarating, is the Manassa mauler of them all: Twenty-three skidoo! Anybody want to try to top that for fun and games?

It Is War In Any Language

Bruce West in The Globe and Mail

The peculiar thing about the war the United States is now carrying on in Vietnam is the almost psychotic U.S. preoccupation with the sins the enemy is alleged to be committing. So thoroughly has the U.S. public media hypnotized itself over the real country that they can no longer look upon the ugly fact of war in reality and truth.

In the midst of a vastly important struggle, there is great debate among the press apartment house was hit in exactly which area. Was it 500 yards away or 1,000 yards outside the precise borders of Hanoi? Was it indeed near some military installation. Was the damage caused by a U.S. bomb or was it caused by a faulty missile which returned to earth after being fired by the North Vietnamese?

Whatever it was, innocent people were undoubtedly killed, and this is the horror of every war. But they are no more dead than the innocent ones who have been killed lopped and diced darkness of night by the Viet Cong. As I said, you cannot get into a war without getting killed on your hands — no matter what side you happen to be on. And if you remain pro-verbal forever, in some way.

Why should we expect a courteous reply to an insulting letter? Or a charming response from a customer we have treated with unwitting rudeness? If we learned to "hear" ourselves talking, we would hear a sweet tones from others more frequently.

Strictly Personal

Courtesy—A One-Way Street?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A colleague of mine remarked the other day that people don't seem to know what they are saying — they know the words they are using, but they don't hear the music, as it were.

"Here's what I mean," he said, "I got a letter from a reader that's as insulting and scurrilous as you could imagine — but it's written with such dignity it with an answer. Then, a few days later I'll get a follow-up letter from the same person, indignantly wanting to know why I didn't give him the courtesy of a reply."

This has been my own experience, too. The people who write the ugliest letters are the ones who are most quickly insulted when I don't favor them with the courtesy of a reply." As far as they're concerned, courtesy is a one-way street.

It's possible that some people don't hear themselves. I was in a shop recently, when a lady and her teen-age daughter asked to look at some merchandise. The clerk was a happy about showing it, and the lady gently rebuked her in the most polite terms, as she walked off with her daughter.

The clerk called to a friend at the other end of the counter, "Did you hear how she talked to me? Some nerve, huh?"

If I didn't make it a point never to interfere in an altercation between women, I would have leaned over and said, "You were the one who was rude; my little friend, but you're old enough to know better than it. The customer was much more of a lady toward you than I would have been a gentleman!"

We all know that we can't really hear the way our voices sound physically — just listen to your voice played back on a tape-recorder and you will shock you to incredulity. What we don't know is that often we don't hear the mental tone of our voices, either, and that we have a tendency to project consideration in the one of others' than we ourselves give to them.

This is especially true as to parents and children. What the child listens for is the tone of voice, not so much the words. And if he "hears" boredom, irritation, impatience, hostility, or carelessness in the asteria, he will respond to the emotional affect, not to the words themselves. Which is why, in this sense, remain pro-verbal for a long time; and all of us remain pro-verbal forever, in some way.

Austerity Showing Results But Britain Leery of Next 6 Months

LONDON (AP)—With Britain halfway through its year of austerity, changes are beginning to appear in the easy-money attitude that forced the country to pull in its belt last summer.

The new year ended the first period of total freeze on wages, prices and incomes. The next six months of credit squeeze and "severe restraint" may be harder for Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government to enforce.

Unions, growing restive, talk of refusing to co-operate when the time is due to begin in July. Business is afraid the economy may be permanently squeezed out of shape by lack of investment. The government still has not worked out its policy of getting the economy moving again.

Wilson's economic measures succeeded in its short-run objective of stabilizing the pound sterling, boosting the gold reserves and pulling the trade balance out of the red. A surplus of more than $500,000,000 is predicted this year, enough to pay off the first instalment on loans that supported the pound during two years of crisis.

But will the year complete the job of shocking the nation into a new outlook? First results suggest it will. Industry is reorganizing into large units for international competition. Management is getting tougher. Some unions accept the view that fatter pay envelopes are only come from higher productivity.

The government has set the pace in reshaping the steel industry, aircraft and shipbuilding. Even before impending nationalization, three big steel companies combined to produce steel pipe needed to bring in natural gas discovered in the North Sea.

The machine tool industry, one of the weak spots of Britain's industrial power but lately living on past glories, has begun combining into larger units. Some companies have reached into West Germany and the United States to buy firms that will strengthen their sales lines.

The electrical industry is being linked under the force of electric power board's decision to buy in Britain.

In the grip of the economic squeeze, management in many fields has begun cutting deadwood. Almost unnoticed in the unemployment figures — now heading toward 600,000 and more than twice last year's—is the number of junior executives looking for work. The Times review of management and technology estimated them at 20,000.

On union attitudes, the effect is more difficult to judge. Eighty wage agreements submitted to the ministry of labor for approval are labelled "productivity agreements." But officials suspect most are simply coverups for inflationary settlements, with management yielding higher wages simply to buy industrial peace.

George Woodcock, secretary-general of the Trades Union Congress, says workers can no longer expect full employment without following some kind of wage guidelines.

But Jack Jones, executive secretary of the nation's largest union, the Transport and General Workers, chafes under governmental attempts to balance pay and production.

"We are being enslaved by academic economists," he says.

Provinces and Industry Zero in on Expo Visitors

MONTREAL (CP)—With the Montreal world's fair little more than three months away, provincial agencies, commercial organizations and individual industries already are well-geared to exploit the external business development opportunities the fair will present.

This will mainly be done through direct communication with the 20,000 or so foreign businessmen known to have plans to visit the fair.

A master list of likely business prospects intending to visit Expo is presently being compiled by the fair's business development bureau, an offshoot of the International Trade Centre, it includes prospects ranging from a Turkish industrialist with a reputed personal fortune of $1,200,000,000 to an Indian umbrella-maker.

The list is there for all who are interested and most interested are the agencies of the various provincial governments operating in a degree of competition.

Individual industries and companies are preparing self-reception programs, while the provinces, particularly Ontario and Quebec, are taking a harder line.

Ontario's campaign already is in full swing. In the next few days personally written letters will be mailed by the province's department of economics and development to 100,000 selected businessmen in the United States and Europe.

Each businessman who intimates that interest visiting the fair will be issued with a gold VIP card assuring him of top priority hospitality.

Ontario is setting up an elaborate information centre in Toronto. The centre, staffed by department information officers and hostesses, will be geared to handle all import, export or investment inquiries from the 6,000,000 Expo visitors expected to travel through Toronto.

Quebec, however, Ontario's natural competitor, does not plan to be outdone.

The Quebec department of industry and commerce is working with Expo's trade centre to attract industrialists, though the department will not extend invitations.

The department is interested in establishing or expanding secondary industries in such fields as electrical and electrical cals, though basic industries such as textiles are not ruled out.

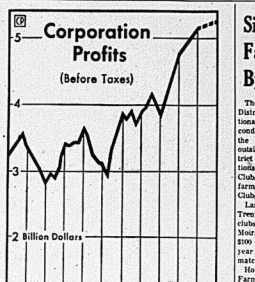
Meanwhile, some 100 Quebec-based companies will be extolling their individual economic virtues in the Quebec industries pavilion.

Pavilion director Maurice de Gounnois plans to send out 30,000 personally addressed letters to potential business prospects in Europe and the United States.



Corporate Profits Off

Profits before taxes made by Canada's companies went up an estimated $100,000,000 in 1966, about a quarter of the figure for 1965 when corporate profits rose by nearly $400,000,000. Estimated $5,300,000,000 profit for 1966 was obtained after doubling the seasonally-adjusted figures for the first half-year.

Silver Spring Farms Aided By Key Clubs

The Ontario Quebec Maritime District of Key Club International has chosen the second year in a row, to support the Silver Spring Farm just outside of Orangeville as their District Project. Last year donations from individual Key Clubs raised enough funds to farm and this year the Key Clubs are aiming for $10,000.

Last year students of the Club of Trenton High School and the clubs of B.C.I.V.S., Quinte, and Moira at Belleville all donated $100 each to the project. This year the clubs are hoping to match and even surpass this.

Homes such as Silver Spring Farm are a very new concept in providing care and training for the mentally handicapped, and as such it is difficult to present any immediate statistics at this time. However, it is believed that for those with a potential for even limited employment in the competitive world, a community residence offering as close to a family setting as possible, will give the trainee a much better opportunity for rehabilitation than even the finest institution or hospital school. When persons is moved from their community to an institution, they are immediately set apart. They lose touch with friends and home like behavior. They become less of an individual and more of a large group that must conform. They go to meals in a line, to chapel in a line, they go for walks in a line. They don't go out to a movie or to the corner store for a "coke" — they are shown movies in the institution's auditorium and treats are brought to them from the canteen en masse. When they return home for a visit the abnormal way of life they become accustomed to and impersonal atmosphere. A community home such as Silver Spring Farm is specifically planned to provide as nearly as possible a family setting, complete with mother, father, siblings, pets, etc.

Are the mentally retarded always a burden to society? Certainly not! They are only a burden if society makes them so by refusing to accept them as human beings, by denying them opportunities for training and education compatible with their abilities and limitations and thereby making them fully dependent, instead of enabled them to become as self-sufficient as possible.

It is the aim of Silver Spring Farm and other worthwhile projects, the Key Clubs service in various money-raising activities in the school and community. But what is needed is public support. These teenage boys put a lot of time and energy into projects that benefit their school and community. Therefore support Key Clubbing. It deserves it.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate

"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

It is good business practice in real estate investments in mortgage to the maximum amount. This is the usual policy followed by sophisticated investors. This may sound appealing to the layman,but the reply below will explain why often it is a prudent course of action.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Last month I had the pleasure of being a member of the audience where you were the guest speaker. You made one statement that has been running on my mind ever since. You stated the sophisticated investor in real estate always borrows to the "hilt" and thus maximizes his investment return.

I was raised in an atmosphere where we believed that you secured as small a mortgage as your financial resources would allow, and you paid it off as fast as possible. Being debt-free was considered the mark of a prudent person. Is it possible that things have changed to that now the maximum debt is good business practice? — Mr. O.S.

ANSWER: There are two general types of real estate — the home and investment type real estate. In the case of the individual's home, it is still prudent to achieve debt-free status as soon as possible. In the case of investment - type real estate, mortgaging to the maximum amount usually makes sense and also maximizes investment return.

The above arises because the percentage return on real estate is usually greater than the cost of carrying the mortgage. For example, a property may be priced at $100,000 and yields a net income of $10,000. If bought on a cash basis the yield is 10 per cent.

Assuming the property is mortgaged for 50 per cent, for 25 years at 6 per cent, then the annual cost for the mortgage including interest and amortization is 7.74 per cent. Therefore, on a $50,000 equity, the return now becomes 12.2 per cent.

If the same property is mortgaged for 80 per cent, the return rises to 19 per cent on the $20,000 cash investment. If the property is to be mortgaged for 90 per cent, the return on the $10,000 cash invested, now becomes 30 per cent.

In the last example, $100,000 cash would now buy $1,000,000 worth of property. Therefore, the investor would be getting a very large return on his money, a large growth of equity through mortgage reduction, very large depreciation allowances, and even a small rise in the market would give him a large capital gain.

The above is known as "leverage." This is the basis on which fortunes have been made in real estate starting from relatively small funds. High leverage ordinarily carries large risks. But this is not always true. As can be seen from the example, the greater the leverage the investor back almost all of his money and frmm then on loan money and from the people's money.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: All I'm trying to do is to sell my house to my nephew for $20,000. The bright idea occurred to me the other day that he will pay me out at the rate of $2,000 per year. I like the idea because for the next 10 years, I'll have a steady annuity of $2,000 per year.

My attorney doesn't want me to accept the deal and claims I'm being cheated. He says that it is impossible to work out the mathematics of finance — a subject he knew twenty years ago but has forgotten. Since you are the genius, he suggests that I write to you and you would explain. — Mrs. G. A.

ANSWER: I'm flattered by your attorney's image of me, but I wish people who know me best — my wife, for example, felt the same way. However, I have enough real estate mathematics to tell you that you're right.

If you accept your nephew's deal, you will not be receiving $20,000 by the household about $15,000. With an applicable interest rate of 5 per cent such as is obtainable today on savings accounts, the present value of 10 yearly payments of $2,000 per year is $15,442 and not $20,000. Reversing it, if an annuity is what you desire, you can take

Film, actress Beverly Lunsford illustrates proper procedure for proportion analysis of countenance.

Ideal Shaped Face Via Cosmetics

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

1. Only one girl in 100 has the perfect oval face. To see if you're that lucky exception, measure a professional photograph of yourself. A full-face 8 x 10 picture is ideal for this proportion analysis. As film actress Beverly Lunsford illustrates, place a ruler alongside the photo. The preferred countenance is divided into three equal sections — from hairline to inner tip of brow, brow to tip of nose and from nostrils to chin. Width-wise, the forehead should be slightly broader than the chinline, with the width of the cheeks generally two-thirds the length from hairline to chin. Do your findings agree?

2. If your facial "arithmetic" reveals the need to subtract or add to measurements, don't despair. An alert beauty can give the illusion of having a perfectly shaped countenance via cosmetic camouflage. The rule for such contouring is to blend corrections so deftly, they seem to be merely highlight and shadow on the skin. To achieve this subtle appearance, creme on make-up with fingertips or, as Beverly illustrates, a lightweight hand roller. When cylinder is warmed under water and stroked over made-up face, cosmetics liquefy and there are no telltale lines.

3. The secret of such application is to select light foundation base or highlighter stick to emphasize and broaden dark tones, supplied by a deeper than normal base or bronzy rouge, minimize. The pale colors are worn under foundation make-up, the darker ones over it. The result is one simply rolls away a heavy chin, puffy cheeks, chubby jowls, or rolls on a wider forehead, broader jaw, more dominate chin. Always use translucent powder to set cosmetic corrections. The rest is just a matter of knowing your beauty math and practicing it!"

Mr., Mrs V. Rompen Wed 50 Years

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Rompen, Lemoine Street, was beautifully decorated for the occasion when an "at home" was held in honor of Mr. Rompen's parents Mr. and Mrs. Victor Rompen, who were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

The event was held on the Monday for the honored guests who were married December 25, 1916 in Houghton LeSpring Church, County Durham, England. They came to Canada in 1949 and have resided in Belleville since that time. Mr. Rompen was employed by the J. J. Cash Company until his retirement three years ago. There were three children, Ron, of Belleville, a daughter Doris of Sutton, Montreal, (who was unable to attend due to inclement weather conditions there), and a son Leonard who was killed in action in World War 2. There are also eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Many congratulatory messages were received during the day and included were those from Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, John Diefenbaker, and from His Worship Mayor J. Ellis. A scroll was also presented to the honored couple by Mr. Elmer Sandercock, MLA. They were also recipients of numerous floral arrangements.

Guests were present from Ottawa and Kingston as well as a large number from the surrounding area.

Tea was poured at an attractively appointed tea table with damask cloth and centred with an appropriately decorated anniversary cake flanked with golden candles. Pouring tea in the afternoon were Mrs. Reardon and Mrs. Swandon, and in the evening, Mrs. Coulson.

Successful Living

Quiet Boy's Way of Life Envy Of Mothers With Lively Sons

DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: "Indign a n t" seems to be worried about what people say about her son's way of life. But I think she should thank God every day that she has such a good living son. You see, when she described her son she also described my boy.

My son is different in his ways from other boys. But I know that he is happy this way and that he is a good Christian. He is very quiet, he doesn't smoke nor swear, he goes to church regularly, so what more could a mother ask?

As you said, Doris, it would be a dull world to live in if everyone was the same. So to you, Indignant, I say thank God for what sounds to me to be a wonderful boy, and don't worry about what others have to say. As Doris says they are more than likely envious.—A Proud and Thankful Mother.

Dear Mother: Not only that, but his skill with a needle may well lead him into delightful hobbies and make him a great favorite with his kiddies when he gets some!

* * *

Dear Doris: Seeing that our Humane Society is going to the dogs, would someone miss going once to the theatre or hairdresser and donate some money to them? It is too bad, when one sees how much waste and extravagance there is, but people seldom think of dumb animals. — M. K.

Dear M.K.: "Going to the dogs"? But there are many organizations devoted to the prevention of cruelty to animals. Did you read my letter about The Kindness Club, started in New Brunswick? Now has members in many cities in Canada and 13 other countries.

* * *

To Dateless and Hopeless!: Perhaps you give up too easily. Letting yourself go not only makes sure of datelessness, but ruins your own morale. And advertising for a date is a risky way to find friends.

Spruce up, take up a good hobby which involves both men and women; express your love of children in volunteer work with them. You can have men in your life without marrying them.

You are no teen-ager now and can't get away with a sloppy approach to life.

* * *

Confidential to Members of HYCH: Your letter arrived far too late for me to put an answer in the column before Christmas. If you had included a name and address, I could have written you privately. Too bad!

* * *

To Mother of Deaf Child: Patient encouragement is a tremendous part of success in helping a child who is learning to lipread.

He must be praised extravagantly when he takes the right and correct step, he must not mind being wrong, he must know that others will repeat what they have said without any penalty to him. And he must be terribly sorry noticed in what is being talked about.

His mates know all his interests and making them the basis of conversation.

* * *

Doris cannot bear to answer all your questions in the column. To make sure of your reply, remember to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers'

Homosexuals Made; Not Born With Trait

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: On a recent visit to my home town I learned that my oldest brother's son is a homosexual. I discussed this with another brother and he said it was "unavoidable" — that homosexuality is an inherited trait. This made sense to me because two of my sisters have sons who are extremely effeminate.

I know very little about the subject, but I have read magazine articles which said homosexuality is not inherited — that it is the result of environment.

My husband and I have been married only a few months and we want a family, but the thought that I might have a homosexual child frightens me to death. Please tell me if homosexuality is inherited. — IMMOBILIZED.

* * *

DEAR IMMOBILIZED: Most experts say homosexuality is not inherited — that it is a psychological disorder and that the roots of the difficulty go back to the early childhood. The youngsters' feelers about one or both parents is usually the key factor.

To deny yourself a family because you are afraid of producing a homosexual child is poor thinking.

P.S.: About those "Effeminate" nephews — don't jump to conclusions. They may be perfectly normal. A high-pitched voice, flattery hands and traits often associated with girlishness are not proof of homosexuality. Outward appearances can be woefully misleading.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When a person stops to tell a joke and says, "I'll bet you a on this before, please stop me" — should I be honest and stop him or should I allow him to go ahead and repeat a long, drawn-out yarn that wasn't very funny the first time?

Please settle this once and for all — HEARD IT ALL BEFORE.

* * *

DEAR HEARD: If you are the only one in the audience, it is best to say: "Yes, you told me that one." If others are present, allow him to repeat, which is what he really wants to do. (The author does not apply if "the person is your husband. A good wife should listen to the same joke 500 times if necessary — and laugh every time.)

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope you will print this letter because my husband reads your column. He is one of those people who knows everything. If I try to tell him something, he says I am making a mountain out of a molehill.

How should a wife feel when her husband takes her out on the dance floor and after a few turns pushes her into another man's arms and grabs his partner?

I always end up with a character who is two heads shorter than I am — or a half-smashed, left-footed klunk. I feel sorry for some of the men I get pushed on, because I'm sure they would rather dance with women they had before my husband horned in and threw me at them.

I have told my husband a hund ed times if he wants to dance with another woman, it is OK with me, but please ask her before the music starts and spare me the pot luck. Am I unreasonable? — MOUNTAIN OR MOLEHILL.

* * *

DEAR M OR M: A husband shows no regard for his wife's feelings when he throws her at another man and grabs a new partner. I hope you'll tell him so. Or better still — show him this column and let me tell him.

MR. AND MRS. RALPH E. REYNOLDS

Reynolds — White

Sharon Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. White of Belleville and Ralph Edward Reynolds, of Huntsville, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Reynolds of London, England, were married by Rev. A. S. McConnell in St. Thomas' Church on Dec. 28, 1966, at 2:30 p.m. D. W. Davenport was organist and six choir boys sang at the service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length gown of nylon organza and taffeta accented with Guipure lace daisies at the bodice, edges of the three-quarter length sleeves and the train. Her five-tier veil of illusion was held by a wedding—ring headdress of matching daisies and she carried a cascade bouquet of white glamellias.

Miss Carol Reynolds of London, England, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Phylis Gabel, cousin of the bride and Mrs. Sandra Parsons of Ottawa. They wore full length gowns of celestial blue crepe with short sleeves and Guipure lace daisy accents at the bodice and slightly gathered backs. Their headpieces were matching wedding ring bands with Guipure daisy trim and they carried cascade bouquets of white carnations.

Deborah Brinkman of Montreal, flower girl, wore a full length dress of nylon over taffeta with a blue velvet sash and a headband of white 'mums. She carried a basket of pink and white 'mums.

Douglas J. White, brother of the bride, was groomsman and the ushers were Gary Reynolds, brother of the bridegroom and John Parsons of Ottawa.

At a wedding reception in the Pinnacle Room, Hotel Quinte, the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a pastel green and gold brocaded suit with brown accessories and a corsage of amber gold roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a green raw silk dress and jacket with matching hat, black accessories and a corsage of gold roses.

For her wedding trip to Montreal and the Laurentian area the bride chose an Atlantic blue mohmere suit, grey Persian lamb coat, grey mink hat and a corsage of garfelias and pink sweetheart roses.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will live in Huntsville.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Rice Pudding Still Popular

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would you please give me a recipe for a good old-fashioned baked milk rice pudding, and quick rice? I had whole grain rice cooked. Also a baked tapioca pudding — whose tapioca (not quick or minute kind). My mother used to make these and they were good and filling and tasted so much better than the quick minute kind. — Tilly.

ANSWER:

OLD - FASHIONED BAKED RICE PUDING—(no eggs — repeated from January, 1964)

4 cups milk
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ cup raw white rice
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. vanilla
Combine all ingredients and pour into a buttered medium-large baking dish. Bake uncovered, at 325 deg. Fahr. for 2½ hrs., or until rice is tender, stirring frequently. Chill until slightly warm or cold. Serve with or without cream. Serves 4 to 6. As it cools, this pudding becomes delicously creamy. For a thicker pudding, the rice may be increased to 6 to 8 tbsps. Also ½ cup seeded raisins may be stirred in 1½ hrs. before pudding is done.

¼ cup pearl tapioca
2½ cups milk
2 eggs
⅓ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
½ tsp. vanilla

Wash tapioca; soak overnight in cold water. Drain and add milk; cook over boiling water in double boiler until tapioca is clear (about 1 hr). Beat eggs, add sugar, salt and pour hot milk mixture over slowly. Return to double boiler; cook until egg thickens, about 5 min., stirring. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Serve with pouring cream or brown sugar hard sauce.

Note: Whites and yolks of eggs may be separated and yolks stirred into pudding mixture, whites beaten stiff and folded in last but while pudding is hot. Instead of returning to double boiler, pudding may be turned into baking dish and baked at 325 deg. Fahr. for 25 or 30 min.

SUGAR FOR ONE

"Dear Susanna: I have one fully grown son, whom I still consider a baby. — Pamper.

But that as it may, he does enjoy brown sugar on his cereal — which my husband and I don't like at the moment.

So that the table looks attractive, I keep the sugar in a pretty bowl, with a fairly elbow fitting lid. This barely holds a cupful, but even at that the contents are encased to stay out, so probably stay before I put the bowl away in the cupboard. I let the water from the tap run over the inside of the lid. Then I give it a shake and replace it.

This bit of moisture keeps the remainder of the sugar fresh and soft. — Mrs. Pepper

* * *

Dear Susanna: Since so many people these days ask for hot chocolate, here is how I help to keep the saucepan from becoming scorched.

I first rinse the bottom of the pot with nearly half an inch of water, which I bring to a boil before adding the milk.

Then, when the whole thing is heated, I drop in the chocolate mixture. — S

Lessons Learned at Expo May Benefit Every Major Port City

OTTAWA (CP)—Expo 67 may confer a hidden benefit on every major port city in Canada—a tested program to eradicate air and water pollution and other serious health hazards such as rats.

The costly program to prepare the Montreal harbor area for the world's fair, which opens April 28, already shows signs of spreading environmental health benefits in surrounding municipalities.

Representatives of the entire region surrounding Montreal are to meet with provincial and federal health officials next week to discuss applying some of the lessons learned in Montreal harbor to their communities, a federal official said Thursday.

And interest in applying the Montreal harbor environmental health program elsewhere is being shown by other Canadian port cities and the national harbors board.

Federal, provincial, municipal and port authorities have been working for months on a step-by-step plan to clean up Montreal harbor.

One noticeable benefit—fewer harbor rats, the essential hosts of flea-born bubonic and pneumonic plague.

December was rat-killing month on the miles of docks and warehouses opposite the island site of Expo 67. An estimated 300,000 visitors will pass through the dock area daily en route to the fair.

Every inch of wharf and storage space was surveyed and by February will have been visited by rubbish collectors and rat exterminators. The latter keep records of kills which have been in the order of 150 rats to a nest. There are thousands of rat nests.

Dr. J. B. Nundock, chief of the federal health department's special projects division, has co-ordinated the work in the harbor and figures they'll have the rat problem licked by February.

WILL DIVERT WASTES

Work started this month on the three-month, $400,000 project to plug and divert a major sewer outlet which has been dumping 9,000,000 gallons daily of polluted water into the harbor right where visitors will pass.

The sewage will be carried across the city and enter the St. Lawrence River well downstream from the Expo site.

Dr. Bundock says that eventually a sewage treatment plant will remove the pollutants before the water is dumped into the river.

Another pollution - control measure involves planting a forest of air-pumping devices on the harbor bottom. They will pump oxygen into the water in the vicinity of the mooring dock where vessels of many nations will tie up during the fair.

Smoke abatement is another pollution problem being tackled on a systematic plan aimed at providing clear skies around Expo.

"There's no other approach but total, total war," says Dr Bundock who feels that industrial society is building gigantic health hazards.

Schools Closed After Rioting

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Indian government closed all schools and colleges in the eastern state of Bihar today for an indefinite period after three days of riots that took at least nine lives.

Agitation reached a peak Thursday when several thousand students paralyzed Patna, the state capital, with three hours of looting, arson and attacks on police.

Police finally opened fire, killing at least nine persons and wounding 54. More than 100 policemen and local officials also were injured by the brick-throwing mob.

Press reports from Patna, 30 miles east of New Delhi, said the army was patrolling parts of the city and that a dusk-to-dawn curfew had been imposed.

Collingwood's league-leading Georgians will be out to increase their margin at the top of the OHA Senior "A" circuit here tonight at the expence of the Mo-Hawks.

But, according to the Crawfordmen, the Mo-Hawks will have none of that.

"We should have won tonight, we had enough chances to score to win two games," said coach Floyd Crawford following Tuesday's 4-1 loss in Orillia, "but there is no point in crying over spilled milk.

"Friday is another night and another game. We are in a position where we have to win to stay ahead of clubs like Orillia and Toronto.

"You can't win hockey games on two goals but we are due for more and I am convinced we can beat Collingwood."

Everybody keeps saying they can beat Collingwood but not one many clubs are doing it. The Georgians have lost four games this season and three of them have been to Woodstock and the other one to Galt, the clubs that are running two-three in the league. Maybe that explains why.

Dave McComb and Hec Brainard tend to most of the Georgians' scoring, aided by Dave Fliter and little Fern St. Onge. McComb and Brainard have been one-two in league scoring all season but Chuck Jewell gives the club strong goaltending; Garry Collins, Mickey Kay, Ron Taylor and Ted Henderson provide a sturdy defence.

The Mo-Hawks played as well as the Georgians in Collingwood but dropped a 6-5 up there in their last meeting.

It's a busy schedule tonight, with Toronto at Barrie, Oakville at Woodstock and Galt at Guelph, where the Rexals will be bidding to take over fifth place ahead of the Mo-Hawks.

Our side needs a big effort tonight and another Sunday in North York, where the Varsity Grads will be out for revenge for what many people feel was a raw deal in that 4-4 tie here last Friday.

It could be fifth or seventh place for the Mo-Hawks by Monday.

We look for attendance to reach the 2,000 mark tonight. And by the way, can the Mo-Hawk executive tell us why official gate figures are not announced here, as they are in most other league centres?

We were taken to task by Claude D. Tice the other day for failing to mention the Quinte Curling Club in our New Year wishes column. Our apologies, gentlemen, for the overslight. May you have ice and many successful bonspiels for years to come. And while we're at it, the best of smooth greens for the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club, too. How's that, Claude?

ODDS AND ENDS

Remember Ron Muir of our old Senior "A" Mees? He was honored in Greensboro last week upon playing his 500th game with that club since leaving Belleville ... The Belleville Minor Hockey Association has a general meeting slated for Monday next, 7:00 p.m. at the Recreation Centre . . . A check of official records shows that Bobby Taylor was later credited with an assist on Eddie Marineau's goal in Orillia Tuesday night . . . Doctors have ordered ex-senior "A" defenceman Alfie Treen to hang up the skates for good after he suffered a back injury, with the Jacksonville Rockets, a couple of weeks ago . . . Another sucee-ful "Sportsmen's Night" is coming up shortly at the Quinte Curling Club.

The Junior Macs' Ron Riley is getting plenty of opposition from Oshawa's Phil Solomon and Cobourg's Gord Kelly and Brydon Ellerskay for the scoring derby . . . Gerry Goyer is enjoying another fine season with the WHL's Portland Buckaroos and is well up among league scorers . . . Best of luck to V. and G.'s Rod Trill in his new position in Kingston. He will be missed around the Bay of Quinte Golf Club . . . Despite Stan Mikita's comparative small stature and the tough style of hockey he plays, the starry Hawk centre has missed only 16 games in seven seasons plus. He is low man on the totem pole of the 200-goal club . . . Lou Smrke, one of the best minor hockey coaches available, bar none, is working with the Western Tire Juvenilles this season after being forced out of his midget position . . . How can one of the truly fine coaches in the NHL, Bobby Pulford, have such a miserable year as he has had to date?

No. 700 For Gordie ★★★★★ ★★★★★ Two More For Bob

Howe Now, Brown Black Hawks

By The Canadian Press

Gordie Howe has set so many records and passed so many milestones in his 21 years in the National Hockey League that finding another one would seem tough.

But Howe managed it Thursday night, scoring the 700th goal of his NHL career as Detroit Red Wings defeated Chicago Black Hawks 6-4 in Detroit.

The 38-year-old right winger scored twice to pace the Wings, bringing his goal total for regular-season play to 635. He has 65 in playoffs.

Holder of the records for most games played, most points, most assists and most points, Howe suffered a knee injury in training camp this year and made a slow start. But now he has 11 goals and 30 points and ranks within the top 10 in the individual scoring race.

Dean Prentice also scored two goals, including the decisive marker, and Norm Ullman and Bruce MacGregor added the others for Detroit.

Esposito gave the Hawks a 1-0 lead early in the first period but Howe tied it with his 699th goal before Hull scored the first of his two goals to put the Hawks back on top 2-1.

Mikita made it 3-1 for the Black Hawks early in the second period. The Chicago centre also picked up a assist in the game to increase his points total to 81 so far this season. Included in his total is a league-leading 34 assists.

Ullman narrowed the margin to 3-2 when he scored on a penalty shot, the fourth called this season. Ullman was breaking in on Denis DeJordy, the Chicago goalie, when he was grabbed from behind by Black Hawks defenceman Pierre Pilote.

Referee Art Skov signalled a penalty shot and Glenn Hall, the other Chicago netminder, was brought into the game for the shot. Hall has been in nets for two penalty shots this year.

DEAN PRENTICE

On Nov. 23 in Toronto, Hull replaced DeJordy in nets when the Maple Leafs were awarded a shot. However, the move backfired then, as it did Thursday night.

Howe evened the score at 3-3 with No. 700 in the second period. He scored on DeJordy, who had gone back into the game following the penalty shot.

Prentice scored twice in the third period and MacGregor added another before Hull closed out the scoring with his 19th goal of the season.

The loss left the Hawks deadlocked for first place in the standings with New York Rangers, both with 41 points. The win left the Red Wings in fifth place with 25 points, seven fewer than fourth-place Montreal Canadiens.

Each team had 33 shots. Roger Crozier was in goal for Detroit.

Saturday's action has Detroit visiting Montreal for a game with the Canadiens and Boston Bruins at Toronto to meet the Maple Leafs. On Sunday, Montreal is at New York, Toronto is at Detroit and Boston is at Chicago.

The Maple Leafs will be without veteran Red Kelly, who suffered stretched ligaments in the inside of his left knee. Kelly suffered the injury when checked by defenceman Harry Howell of New York in Wednesday's 1-1 deadlock between Toronto and the Rangers.

Kelly is expected to be out for two to four weeks.

BILL "RED" HAY

Ivan Wins Hay To Rejoin Hawks

CHICAGO (AP) — Veteran centre Bill (Red) Hay is coming out of retirement to rejoin Chicago Black Hawks in a drive for their first National Hockey League Championship in 40 years, the Chicago Tribune said Thursday night.

It said general manager Tommy Ivan has persuaded Hay, a chemical engineer in Calgary, to return to the Hawks.

Ivan told the Tribune: "I've been working on him for about four months. I convinced him finally that he would be a very valuable asset to the club and that we needed him. That was his big concern — whether he could help the club. Money was no problem."

Ivan said that Hay, who was left last month, probably would report to the Hawks by Saturday.

A native of Saskatoon, Hay joined the Hawks during the 1959-60 season and won the Calder Memorial Trophy as the outstanding rookie of the season. He scored 18 goals and added 37 assists in 70 regular season games that season and added another goal and two assists in four Stanley Cup playoff games.

During his 470 regular-season games, Hay scored 106 goals and assisted on 200. He also scored 15 goals and added 29 assists in 61 playoff games.

Marlboros' Late Goal Gives Them 6-6 Tie

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Marlboros picked up one point in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series to maintain their first place lead Thursday night, but there are three other teams breathing down their necks.

The Marlboros came from behind to tie Peterborough Petes 6-6, while Hamilton Red Wings moved from fourth to second place by defeating London Nationals 3-2.

The Red Wings are only two points behind the Marlboros, while tied for third place, another point back, are London and Kitchener Rangers.

Defenceman Chris Evans scored on a screened shot from the blueline with only 11 seconds left in the third period to give the Marlboros the tie.

Gerry Meehan had two goals for Toronto, while single goals were by Evans, Richie Hayes, Frank Hamill and Cam Crosby.

Mickey Redmond scored twice to raise his season's total to a league-leading 25. John Vanderburg also scored twice with single goals going to Gord Tucker and Paul Gamsby.

Hamilton goaltender Gerry Gray was outstanding in holding London to two goals. Hamilton scored twice in the second period after a scoreless first period.

Jim Adair, Kevin Pettit and Doug Giercksreth scored for the Red Wings.

Mustangs Tie Comets; Sunoco Beaten 6-3

Marysville B.A. trimmed Mulroney's Sunoco 6-3 in one half of last night's Gas House Hockey League double header.

Mustangs and Comets battled to a 1-1 stalemate in the other game.

Frank Wiles completed a play with Lee McBrien for the Comets. Tom Meeker tied it for the Mustangs, assisted by George Ferguson. Both goals were scored in the first period and the clubs played well in an effort to snap the tie over the remainder.

Jim Woodcock scored two Marysville markers while Fred Abrams, Terry Flynn, Carm Milligan and Doug Grant also scored. Milligan had three assists. Doug Olsen, Grant, and Bruce Parcoe two each.

Doug Bole triggered two goals and Stu Craig one for Sunoco. Bob Lambert, Claude Carr, Craig and Bolte divided assists.

It's Just Those International Rules But Canada Can Lose Game, Win Tourney

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada can win the Centennial world hockey tournament even if the national team loses to Russia tonight in the final game.

This is possible under complicated international hockey rules as a result of Czechoslovakia's 8-2 win Thursday night over the U.S. Nationals, who earlier suffered 7-1 losses at the hands of the Russians and Canadians.

Although U.S. coach Johnny Mariucci described his team's losses as "magnificent beatings," the fact that the Americans kept the score as close as they did agaisnt the Czechs helped Canada.

With a 5-3 win over the Czechs and their six - goal margin over the U.S., the Canadians can wrap up first place with a win or a draw against the Russians. But they could lose by no more than one goal and still take the title.

A Soviet win, which would give three teams an equal number of points, would bring International Ice Hockey Federation rules into force.

Tournament commissioner Jimmy Dunn of Winnipeg, referring to the IIHF formula, explained it this way:

A one-goal Soviet win would put Canada even with Czechoslovakia on goal average but the Canadians would get first place because they beat the Czechs 5-3.

If it's Russia by two goals, but fewer than five, Czechoslovakia is first with a goal average superior to Canada and Russia. A Canadian loss by five or more goals would put Russia first, again on superior goal average.

The Americans, lacking physical conditioning, were no match for the tough Czechs but they didn't stop trying.

Lou Nanne, the defenceman who got the first U.S. goal in the second period, lipped through regular third - period shifts after apparently pulling a leg muscle.

Len Kilpholm, robbed by Vladimir Nadrchal on a second-period breakaway with Czechoslovakia ahead 3-0, came back to set up Don Ross for the second American goal.

Rod Blackburn, who went into the U.S. goal cold after Carl Wetzel abruptly departed in the second period with a back injury compensated for three Czech goals in two minutes and 47 seconds with 21 saves in the last 20 minutes.

But the American struggles caused only occasional sputters by the Czech machine, which shifted for three goals by Stanislaw Pryl, two each by Vaclav Nedomansky and Jaroslav Holik and one Jaroslav Jirik.

Nedomansky, a big centre on the National Hockey League ngotiation list of New York Rangers, also banged three shots off a goal post as he became the tournament's top goal scorer with six. Canada's Jean Cusson has five.

Wetzel, who had made 97 saves in 130 minutes, left because of a back injury and Blackburn stepped in without the warmup allowed under international rules.

He stopped the first Czech shot, but the next two trickled by him.

Mariucci dug deep for one bright point in his team's disaster, saying at a post-game press conference: "After these magnificent beatings, we've got one problem licked and that is complacency."

Explaining his team's failure to run up the score on the U.S., Czech coach Jaroslav Pitner noted that his team had a tough game in beating the Russians 5-2 Wednesday and "I don't think there is a team that can come up with two excellent performances in succession."

Gilmour Questioned By Harness Group

NEW YORK (AP) — Buddy Gilmour, a leading harness racing driver, was questioned for four hours at a closed meeting at the New York Harness Racing Commission office Thursday.

Afterwards his lawyer, George Marfeo, said he would go into State Supreme Court today and ask for a show-cause order why the Ontario-born Gilmour should not be granted a 1967 licence to drive for the commission.

A spokesman for the commission emphasized that the meeting was not a hearing, but that Gilmour was merely questioned. He declined to say what the questions were.

Marfeo, after the meeting broke up, said some of the questions concerned the race of last Jan. 22 at Roosevelt Raceway, which Gilmour won with Skeeter Brooke, and whether Gilmour knew why he was declared sick at Yonkers Raceway last March.

It was announced Tuesday that the granting of licences to Gilmour and two other drivers was being delayed by the commission.

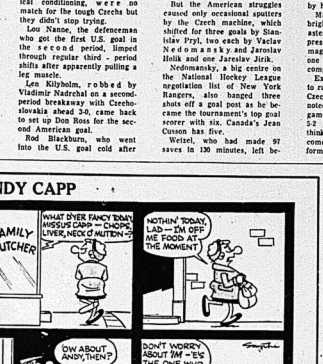
Gilmour was born in Lucan, Ont., and now lives in New York State. He has been a leading driver for some years.

Chuvalo Awaits Terms

TORONTO (CP)— George Chuvalo of Toronto may meet Karl Mildenberger of Germany in New York early this year if the terms of the contract are right, the Canadian heavyweight boxing champion's manager said Thursday night.

Irv Ungerman said he was informed earlier in the day that Mildenberger has agreed to terms as set out by promoters who hope to stage the fight at Madison Square Garden.

"We'll wait until we are a hundred per cent sure before we make any decision," said Ungerman.



Dawson Must Match Starr If Chiefs To Win Super Bowl

NEW YORK (AP) — Vince Lombardi hit it right on the nose last week when he said, "If Bart Starr has a real bad day, we are going to win."

Starr had a four-touchdown passer and Lombardi's Green Bay Packers beat Dallas 34-27, turning back the Cowboys with a great goal line stand in the final minutes.

The Super Bowl game in the Los Angeles Coliseum Jan. 15 figures to go the same way. The performances of Starr of the Packers and Len Dawson of Kansas City Chiefs probably will determine the winner of the first meeting of NFL and AFL champions.

Dawson, 31, is a 10-year veteran who spent the first five in the NFL with Pittsburgh Steelers and Cleveland Browns. When he was cut by the Browns he called Hank Stram, his old backfield coach at Purdue, and joined the Dallas Texans, later to become Kansas City Chiefs.

While leading the Chiefs to the title, Dawson had one of his better years. He wound up the regular season with 29 touchdown passes and was intercepted only 10 times. Len threw two more touchdowns last Sunday against Buffalo Bills in the Chiefs' 31-7 romp.

Starr, in his 11th year as a pro, is 32. Starr threw 14 touchdown passes in the regular season and four more in the Dallas game. He has been intercepted only three times all year.

SITUATION REVEALING

Although it is generally believed that Dawson goes for the long ball in the Chiefs' high-powered attack, while Starr features the short pitch and ball control, the statistics do not bear this out.

Of Dawson's 28 touchdown passes, including the title game, 22 have covered 35 yards or less. The others gained 45, 71, 74 and 80 yards. Otis Taylor took the three long bombs.

Starr, the control artist, has 18, including the Dallas game. Ten have covered more than 35 yards, including an 80 - yard gainer to Elijah Pitts and 78-and 83-yard plays to Carroll Dale.

When he is throwing for the touchdown, Dawson is most likely to go to flanker Taylor, a 211-pound second year speedster, or Chris Burford, 210-pound split end who runs fine patterns.

Taylor caught eight touchdown passes from Dawson, Burford seven. Taylor also got one from Pete Beathard and Burford one from halfback Bert Coan.

Split end Dale had five and halfback Pitts four of Starr's 18 touchdown tosses. Three went to Paul Hornung, who saw little service in the second half of the season due to a pinched nerve in his back but who just might turn out to be an important factor in the warm California sunshine.

Parker Coaching Candidate

STARKVILLE, Miss. (CP)— Jackie Parker, former Canadian Football League star, has been mentioned as a possible successor to head football coach Paul Davis at Mississippi State University.

The university announced Davis was being fired Dec. 10.

Parker, who retired from Toronto Argonauts at the end of the 1963 season, was named the most valuable player in the Western Football Conference seven times while a member of Edmonton Eskimos. He was named to the WFC all-star team eight years in a row.

He came to Toronto in a trade with the Eskimos in 1962 and played the next two seasons with the Argonauts of the Eastern Conference.

Roger Maris Expected To Report

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Officials of St. Louis Cardinals expect Roger Maris to report for spring training although some feel the former New York Yankee home run specialist may have considered retirement.

Cardinal general manager Bob Howsam said Thursday that he visited Maris in Kansas City last weekend and felt Maris had considered retirement, but has changed his mind.

Maris was traded to the Cardinals last month by New York for third baseman Charlie Smith. In 1961, Maris hit a record 61 home runs for the Yankees.

Giants Allie Sherman Has Pick of Crop

HONOLULU (AP)—He won't be involved in professional football's championship showdown, but Allie Sherman will have a super time tonight.

Sherman, coach of the beaten New York Giants of the National Football League, is in Honolulu for tonight's Hula Bowl game between pick-of-college football's top quarterbacks—Florida's Steve Spurrier and Purdue's Bob Griese.

And the beautiful part is that Sherman can choose either one for his very own, or so it's reported.

The Giants are said to have received an option to choose the first quarterback selected in pro football's draft as part of the American and National League merger agreement.

Faced with the problem of choosing between Spurrier and Griese, Sherman may solve it by selecting neither. "They are the top college quarterbacks of the year," he said. "But we haven't definitely decided that the man we'll go for on our first choice."

If Sherman is interested in a former quarterback in the Hula Bowl has other talent on view.

One possibility that Sherman will go after a position other than quarterback is bolstered by the fact that several NFL clubs have unhappy second string signal callers, who might fill the bill in New York.

Tackling Rougher

Menzies Compares U.S., Australian Games

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Is Australian football a more rugged game than the type played in the United States?

Sir Robert Menzies, former prime minister of Australia, thinks it is, but it took a special film showing of an Australian game to convince him.

"When I saw my first American football game in October I remarked we would never tackle in that ungentlemanly fashion in Australian football," Menzies said Thursday. "I now wish to withdraw that statement."

Menzies, who now is Australian ambassador to the U.S., was forced to change his mind about the Australian game after viewing the 55 - minute film showing the last half of last fall's Victoria Football League championship game in which St. Kilda downed Collingwood 76-73 in overtime.

The movies, shown at the University of Virginia where Menzies was scholar - in - residence, showed football, Aussie style, to be an exciting, nonstop, rough-and-tumble exercise in organized mayhem that makes the American college game pale by comparison.

Menzies, who at 72 still seems sufficiently agile to play a spot of football himself, saw his first American football game when Virginia lost to Tulane here Oct. 8.

The roughness of the tackling caught his attention and he told a companion: "In Australia, we can't tackle a man the way you do."

He wrote home for the measurements of the Aussie football and was sent one football, one jersey and the championship playoff film.

It was the showing of this film that caused Menzies to do a flipflop on the relative gentlemanliness" of the Aussie and American games.

But it all at him was to demonstrate the rugged nature of the game as played in Australia, he made his point.

On an oversized oval field, for more than two hours, the superbly conditioned St. Kilda and Collingwood teams kicked the ball and each other, butted heads, ripped jerseys and generally committed legalities as a result and battery at breakneck speed.

The speed and roughness of the Aussie game left the contingent of Virginia football players, viewing the films, shaking their heads in disbelief.

"It's a great game but the Lord save me from getting mixed up in it," said one of them. "I don't see how anybody ever wins, because I don't see how anybody survives."

Billy Hopkins' Four Goals Not Enough to Save Quinte Macs

BILLY HOPKINS

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

PICTON — It was a great night for centres but a sad one for goalies in last night's OHA Eastern Junior "B" game here.

Rick McLeish, centring the Don Byes' first line, scored five goals and assisted on two more in leading his line to a 16-point night. Perry Chittick scored twice and brother Ron once while each collected three assists.

The performance overshadowed a fine effort by Mac centre Billy Hopkins, who scored four consecutive first-period goals to build his club a 5-3 lead.

Peterborough moved into a second-place tie with the six Petes and Cobourg, who meet tonight, have 19 points each. Oshawa has 21 and Quinte 18. The Macs visit Oshawa Saturday afternoon and Cobourg Monday. Meanwhile, Oshawa is in Kingston tonight and in Trenton Sunday.

Quinte fell apart completely in the second period when the Don Byes outscored them 6-1 for a 10-6 lead. A loner in the third was the best the Macs could get back.

Peterborough replaced starting goalie Randy Reid with Gary Holbrook at the start of the second period. He played well.

Quinte, with Bob Forrester the club's only goalie, couldn't do the same and the wandering netminder had a bad night. He appeared to lose the puck frequently, missed a couple of easy shots and spent more time jabbing at opposing forwards with his stick than attempting to stop pucks.

In all, Quinte outshot the visitors 42-27 before about 275 fans, after holding a wide 19-9 spread in the first period.

Jim Glynn got the only two Don Bye goals that McLeish's line did not score.

Doug Potts, moved up to centre Pete Fleming and Steve White, had two goals and an assist to back Hopkins' performance. Fleming also scored, Ernie Sharpe assisted on all four of his linemate's goals and Ron Riley helped on three. Riley's points boosted him into a one-point league scoring lead, with 32 points, over Oshawa's Phil Solomon. Al Calver, Harold Townsend and Steve White also drew Quinte assists.

The winners took four minor penalties to Quinte's pair. Fleming and Holbrook fought for majors in the second period. Forrester and Ron Chittick did the same in the third and Perry Chittick drew a misconduct at the same time.

Hopkins' first two goals came 22 seconds apart to tie the game 3-3 and his second pair just 15 seconds apart, for a 5-3 lead. Then McLeish took over and Holbrook slammed the door on the Macs.

Thunderbirds Top 'Cousins'; Rebels Win

Thomasburg Thunderbirds may not win many games in the Centre Hastings Hockey League but you can't convince Plainfield of that.

The Thunderbirds tripped Plainfield 4-1 last night. It gave the winners six points for the season and five of them have come against Plainfield.

In another game, league-leading Glen Ross came from behind to edge Foxboro Lumber Kings 6-5.

Don Henderson scored two Thomasburg goals and helped on another while linemate Bob Bancroft scored one and assisted on two. Dick Nadeau scored the other goal.

Bill Hunter was the Plainfield marksman, spoiling Bill Curtis' shutout bid, late in the third period.

Foxboro led the Rebels 4-1 at one time in the second period and 5-4 going into the third but couldn't stop the leaders' big scoring line.

Andy Faulkner and Ken McConnell scored two goals each and the third man on the line, Jack Wright, notched the winner. Gary Mason was the other Glen Ross scorer.

Barry Dafoe scored two, John Hill, Dave Lush and Wayne Tunmon one each for Foxboro. Dennis Ray drew four assists.

Glen Ross' win gave the club 23 points, five more than Ivanhoe, but Thomasburg's victory left that team in the cellar, two points behind Plainfield.

It was learned that Frankford's Glenn Houlden suffered a broken jaw in a player collision the other night and will be out indefinitely.

Apollos Drub Memphis 8-2

HOUSTON (AP) — Paced by Andre Boudrias, who scored in each period, Houston Apollos drubbed Memphis Wings 8-2 Thursday night and kept breathing on the neck of first-place Oklahoma City in the Central Hockey League.

Only three points separate Oklahoma City and second-place Houston in the standings.

Rick McCann and Real Lemieux scored the Wings' goals.

Bob Charlebois, Norm Dennis, Gary Peters, Bill Grant and Bob Inglis scored the other goals.

Mel Wakabayashi, in his first pro game for Memphis, played the right wing on the second line and although coming up scoreless showed speed. His lone shot at the net went wide in the second period.

Czech Ace Adds Two More Goals

WINNIPEG (CP) — Czechoslovakia's sparkling centre, Vaclav Nedomansky, moved into sole possession of first place among the scoring leaders with six goals at the Centennial world hockey tournament Thursday.

Nedomansky's fifth and sixth goals, which came in his team's 8-2 victory over the United States, give him six points in three games.

Tied in second place are three Canadian players — Jean Cusson, Gary Dineen and Bill MacMillan, each with five points. Cusson has five goals, while MacMillan and Dineen each have one goal and four assists.

Three players are also tied for fifth place, each with four points. They are Yuri Moiseyev of Russia and Stanislav Pryl, each with three goals and one assist, and Josef Cerny, also of Czechoslovakia, who has four assists.

Two Canadians, a Russian and a Czech follow with three points each.

The Canadians and Russians have a last chance to improve their positions on the scoring ledger when they meet tonight in the final game of the six-day tournament.

Armed Robbery Suspect Arrested Within Minutes

NAPANEE — The coolness of a Napanee woman under difficult circumstances, and the speed with which the Napanee Police Detachment worked, resulted in the arrest within minutes of a man who was alleged to have committed armed robbery.

Mrs. Geraldine Bush was alone in the office of Perry Fuels on Centre St. at 3.30 Wednesday afternoon when a man close to six feet tall threatened her life unless she handed over the money in the till. As he was armed with a billy, she wisely complied with his demand. But she used her eyes and kept her head, and immediately called the police station half a block away.

Chief of Police Cecil Bowyer and Constable John Henderson obtained an excellent description of the man, and within a short time had taken into custody Louis Joseph Cabana, 20, of the Ottawa district, on Dundas St. not far from the scene of the crime. He was still armed with the billy and the $110 he had taken was in crumpled bills in his pocket.

Cabana appeared before Magistrate P. E. D. Baker on Thursday and was remanded until January 11. He indicated that he would plead guilty.

DIEF NOT SURPRISED

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the return of Walter Gordon to the federal cabinet as minister without portfolio is not a surprise to him. He said in a statement from his office that he never ceases to be amazed at the government's capacity for unashamedly swallowing itself as a whole.

Van, Transport Involved in Traffic Mishap

NAPANEE — An accident occurred near Napanee Wednesday which resulted in an estimated total damage of $6,000. A loaded car transport owned by Roadway Transport Ltd., of Scarborough had been parked beside Highway 401 about seven miles east of the town, when it apparently sideswiped a loaded van as it was coming back on to the highway.

The van, loaded partly with cigarettes and owned by Tagart Services, Ltd., of Ottawa, was driven by Lawrence Hudson of Lyndhurst. Driver of the transport was Richard Kelton of R.R. 2, Brockville. Neither driver was injured. Both vehicles were eastbound.

Troupe in Belleville Feb. 28

Les Feux-Follets Raises Centennial Curtain

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Les Feux-Follets raised the curtain on the centennial program at Festival Canada here Thursday night and the Montreal folk troupe drew a standing ovation from the capacity audience.

The 65 - member ensemble traced the history of Canada through dance and song from the time of the Plains Indians to the 1967 discotheque. It was the premiere performance of the centennial production directed by Michael Cartier.

Watching the first of the performances which will be staged in 65 cities in all provinces was Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh and other federal, provincial and municipal officials.

Miss LaMarsh told the audience that if Canadians are to build a stronger nation, they must learn more of the various cultural traditions that make up Canada.

"What better source of enlightenment than this fabled company which has developed such an impressive repertoire of our ethnic heritage?" she asked.

The authentically - costumed dancers portrayed, in a swirl of color and unusual rhythms, a betrothal ceremony of the Plains Indians, the Klondike gold rush days, and the Zapper and jitterbug era before moving into the present decade.

Rituals of the West Coast Indians, performed with carved masks and elaborate costumes, contrasted sharply with the lone piper in the next scene playing the Skye boat song and a comic French-Canadian dance step.

Square dances, Scottish reels, an Indian hoop dance with flaming hoops, Acadian collections and dances of European settlers were all woven into the view of Canada's culture.

Les Feux-Follets is one of a dozen top companies on tour in the next 12 months, supported by $1,500,000 in grants, as part of Festival Canada.

The Festival Canada agency pays travel costs and has an arrangement with the provinces to subsidize box office receipts to keep prices of tickets down.

Among the other companies going on tour are Don Messer and his Islanders, Vancouver's Holiday Theatre and British Columbia's Barkerville gold rush days variety show.

Producer Will Tackle Another Knotty Problem

NEW YORK (AP)—If Irving Gitlin operated in another field, he probably would be called an experimenter. As it is, he is an independent producer of television documentaries who recently has been trying out other forms, notably drama.

Gitlin, in four years as an NBC news documentary producer, turned out some exciting and unusual actuality programs —among them a report on activities in a hospital emergency ward, a controversial public relief situation and a reprise on the wartime decision to drop the atom bomb.

Two years ago he moved out on his own and his first network effort was not a documentary but a hard-hitting, brutal police story on ABC's Stage 67 called The Confession. It drew mixed reviews, but Gitlin says he was experimenting with the form — "using other techniques to get at reality," he calls it.

FIRST IN FIELD

The documentary forms which once were novel and exciting to viewers now are common place. Gitlin was one of the first to use the free hand style of examining a broad subject in microcosm — military life in terms of one soldier; a hospital in terms of one doctor or one patient.

Another now over-used technique involves taping a series of long interviews, pro and con, on a single subject and then chopping them up and using them in bits and pieces to produce the effect of a debate.

Next Thursday night, again on Stage 67, Gitlin will tackle another knotty, delicate subject —Sex in the Sixties. But this time he will fall back on his familiar documentary technique — interviewing young people and the experts.

To the surprise of practically no one, Jackie Gleason and his TV pitchmen troupe—Art Garney, Shirla MacRae and Jane Kean, have signed for another season with CBS.

CBC Sells Abroad

CBC-TV has sold nearly 300 episodes of the children's series The Friendly Giant and Misterogers to U.S. networks in two years.

Theatrical Doubts Raised by "Play"

OTTAWA (CP)—The Centennial Play, which opens here next Wednesday night, has some of the stickier aspects of a federal-provincial conference.

Written for the federal centennial commission by four authors from across Canada, it appears to be divided into regions rather than acts.

One result is that the cast has been quarrelling over whether it recognizes fully Quebec's legitimate aspirations.

A play commissioned by a commission, written by a committee and backed by the public treasury was bound to raise theatrical doubts.

Director Peter Boretski even denies that it is a play.

"It's a revue," he insisted Thursday. "Other revues don't have to be called a revue and written by a committee, and that's impossible."

What about the title?

"The centennial commission made a bad mistake when it named it Canada. Between Friends," he said.

His cast of 55 was assembled in December for the 15 performances that will be staged at the Ottawa Little Theatre.

The centennial commission assigned the play to Toronto surgeon Arthur Maloney, a real playwright. Yves Thériault, Peterborough author Catherine Robertson, Dr. Peter Stevens, Muriel W. O. Mitchell and Vancouver's Eric Nicol.

"I've been left to interpret," said Mr. Boretski, who has also tried to write out some of the lumpiness.

Quebec is outnumbered 4 to 1 in the play's regional set up and this has worried centennial officials.

Mr. Boretski said Quebec can disagree among themselves about the province's place in anything. He says that even the cast has been fighting over this section.

Opening night will find Centennial Commissioner John Fisher and Prime Minister Pearson out of musket range, in Kingston, Ont.

They're going there for Sir John A. Macdonald Day celebrations.

However, Maxwell Henderson, the watchdog of federal spending, expects to be in the audience.

The play thus may become the first in history to be reviewed by an auditor-general.

Mr. Boretski said everything is going beautifully.

"I have kept a very positive attitude," he added. "I went into this thing with my eyes wide open."

Would he do it again?

"Never," said the director.

Zanuck Forced to Clean House

Following is the fourth of five articles on the revival of 20th Century-Fox.

NEW YORK (AP) — When Darryl F. Zanuck became president of 20th Century-Fox he found the film company "hopelessly in the red, with bank credit extended to its limit."

He decided he had to act fast but to stem the outflow by closing the studio and reorganizing from top to bottom.

Zanuck asked department heads for suggestions on how to streamline operations and the entire company. He found no new ideas. The organization was riddled with cliques more intent on fighting each other than selling movies.

"I was faced with the unpleasant task of changing all key personnel," Zanuck recalls. "When a crew has run the shakeground, you get rid of the crew."

All except the financial executives were swept away.

Next he turned his attention to the studio.

At first Richard, then 28, was reluctant because of the expected cry of nepotism.

But the senior Zanuck was insistent. He named his son president's production representative. Richard and associate Stanley Hough performed the dismal task of firing most of the 250 or so employees, including scores of people Richard had had known all his life. The payroll shrank to 200 from 450, mostly police and janitors required for insurance purposes.

Then Zanuck started his attention to the project that helped bring 20th back to its feet — Cleopatra. He screened the finished film in Paris, where he was completing his own film, The Longest Day.

"I never had such a shock in my life," he recalls. "I saw many story links missing, a sea battle one-third finished, and a desert battle so fragmentary as to be incomprehensible."

Zanuck consulted director Joseph L. Mankiewicz who admitted the gaps but said the previous administration ordered him to finish shooting on certain date or key scenes would be taken from him. Zanuck let Mankiewicz supply the missing scenes, who added another $1,000,000 to the cost.

All future films were cancelled except Cleopatra. The company had an inescapable contract with Ingrid Bergman. Zanuck made the "terrible decision", since The Visit lost more money than the full studio required to pay off Bergman.

With 20th Fox at a virtual standstill, Darryl Zanuck retired to a villa in the south of France to study all of the studio's literary properties. Among them was the Rodgers-Hammerstein musical The Sound of Music. He has seen the Broadway version a year and a half before and found it "pretty hokey." But he saw possibilities in it as a film.

Canada's Defence Experts Devise Way To Provide Convenient Portable Power

OTTAWA (CP)—Housewives' How about a battery-operated vacuum cleaner, minus all that electrical cord, which could be recharged from any floor plug while you recess for coffee ?

Canadian defence scientists have invented and developed a device which may make possible in a few years battery operation of portable household appliances.

The device, known as a coulometer and invented by Dr. Ian Henderson of Halifax, permits fast and safe recharge of long-life nickel-cadmium batteries.

Dr. Harry Sheffer, chief superintendent of the defence research boards chemical laboratories which carried out the development, says the coulometer-equipped battery opens up fascinating possibilities in the household appliance and other civilian fields.

Besides the battery - driven vacuum cleaner, Dr. Sheffer suggested these other uses in an interview:

Battery-operated power drills for the construction and other industries, with the operator carrying the battery on his belt like other tools;

Emergency power sources for hospitals, airports, ships, penitentiaries—and even cities.

The federal health department already is using the coulometer - equipped nickel - cadmium battery for its survey of radioactive strontium-90 among the Eskimo population.

The transport department has asked for similar batteries for use as an emergency power system on its icebreakers to operate radio transmitters, lights and the like.

Nickel-cadmium batteries can take a high rate of charge. They are more expensive than the everyday lead-acid battery but last much longer. Cost of the former already has dropped to about $250 from $600 a couple of years ago.

The coulometer makes it possible to recharge a nickel-cadmium battery in 15 minutes instead of 16 hours. The patent is in the name of Dr. Henderson, now at the University of Southampton in England.

How long does a nickel-cadmium battery last?

"We don't know yet," said R. L. Haines of Fredericton, another scientist associated with the project. "We've had one for 10 years and it's still going strong."

He suggested that such coulometer - equipped batteries—there is as yet no Canadian commercial manufacturer—would be ideal for trucking firms and bus companies.

Dr. Sheffer said he doubts they will replace lead-acid batteries in cars in the near future because of higher cost. And the nickel-cadmium battery is so durable, a car owner would have to transfer it each time he bought a new car.

The RCAF has switched entirely to nickel-cadmium batteries. Ones with coulometers will go into the CF-104 nuclear jet bomber this month.

Airlines are looking at coulometer - regulated nickel cadmium batteries because, in the long run, they are more economical and take a much faster recharge.

A U.S. battery manufacturer is negotiating for the Canadian patent on the coulometer. Inquires also have been received from France.

Mobile Command's Control Worries Other Service Commands

OTTAWA (CP)—Some members of the defence staff are reported worried that Mobile Command may become an army within an army and, in effect, take over the whole defence show.

Informants say the situation is somewhat analagous to that in the Second World War when army headquarters here found its control over the army overseas getting weaker and weaker.

The 20,000-man Mobile Command, with headquarters at St. Hubert, Que., was established last year. It comprises three infantry brigades in Canada and will later include four squadrons of CF-5 jet attack planes as well as Buffalo transport aircraft and heavy and light helicopters. It has administrative control over the infantry brigade in Europe.

Informants said Mobile Command plans to take control—if it can—of Maritime Command's fleet replenishment vessel, the Provider, as a troopship, and two similar ships for which contracts were recently let.

Maritime Command, primarily naval, is said to be disturbed about this projected move.

At the same time, the RCAF component of Maritime Command—four squadrons of patrol planes — is reported unhappy about being swallowed by the navy.

And many airmen are said to fear that Mobile Command will try to get its hands on Air Transport Command.

This would leave the air force with only the air division in Europe and Air Defence Command. Both these roles are withering away.

In short, informants say, the old power struggle between the three services has been replaced by an even fiercer struggle between the field commands.

Under armed forces command integration, begun in 1964, the 11 service commands were abolished and six functional and field commands substituted.

Naval officers are said to feel that if Maritime Command loses the fleet replenishment ships to Mobile Command for's sealift purposes, the anti - submarine role will be badly damaged.

Original purpose of he Provider and similar ships was to refuel and resupply combat ships at sea so that they may remain on patrol longer without returning to port.

Sources said some senior officers are worried that Mobile Command will become so big and powerful that it will be able to dictate weapons policy for all the armed forces.

Another source said, however, that this is extremely unlikely, at least as long as Paul Hellyer is defence minister.

Snow Blankets Area; Freezing Rain Next

Highway Travel Difficult

A severe winter storm, threatening up to four inches of snow, dropped a dreary curtain across the Quinte district this morning.

The duty forecaster at Canadian Forces Base Trenton, said he was forecasting from two to four inches of snow with a possibility of rain later in the day.

Moving southwest across Lake Ontario from the United States, the storm spilled into the Quinte district before 7 a.m.

Provincial police detachments at Madoc and Picton reported driving conditions in surrounding rural areas were complicated by gusting winds.

The storm struck as hundreds of local residents set out for work and work crews went into action to reduce the driving hazard factor.

However, an hour after it began police patrols around the district reported no serious accidents.

On Highway 7 near Madoc a transport was reported off the road, but no one was believed injured.

Quebec expected two to five inches of snow today in the wake of a clear, cold spell and British Columbia reported mixed snow and rain in some areas today.

Storms left up to 10 inches of snow Friday on the Prairies and in the Maritimes. The Prairies today fared fairly temperatures but little or no precipitation.

Bonfire May Be Delayed

The gala event is due to get underway tonight with a giant Christmas-tree bonfire on the city's bayshore reclaimation area east of Zwick's Island.

With a 16-piece orchestra on tap to lead community singing, and a long-distance runner lined up to carry an emblematic burning torch to the site, the ceremony was to have the pertness of a firecracker starting the Centennial program with a bang.

The threat of a fizzle loomed early today as the storm swept the Quinte district carrying up to four inches of snow and the likelihood of later freezing rain.

However, the organizers refused to be daunted.

In the teeth of persistent flurries Mayor Ellis, Centennial committee chairman Les Shorey and city firemen inspected the bonfire pile this morning, lugging tarpaulins to the site.

The canvas was placed on the peak of the pile, to at least provide a dry touch-hole for the torch that will start more than 6,000 trees burning in the night.

"As far as we're concerned right now", said Mayor Ellis, "we're going ahead as scheduled at 8 p.m."

However, he added, if the weather blights the bonfire and the event is called off, announcements will be run over Radio Station CFRC starting at 5 p.m.

One group undaunted by the flurries were Belleville college students, readying today for their annual winter carnival.

As far as they were concerned the storm added a typical touch to the setting for a program that includes a snow-sculpture contest, soapbox derby, broomball contest and a bootbanny.

Not so happy however, were city downtown merchants.

The storm blew up during the first weekend of this traditional January sales. Business slowed noticeably earlier today with few customers struggling through the snow to seek out bargains.

Covering Up!

Mayor Ellis adjusts tarpaulin on Christmas-tree bonfire pile today as storm jeopardized city's Centennial opener near Zwick's Island. Officials will wait until 5 p.m. to decide fate of program.

Winter Sport!

Early-morning player on way to minor hockey game at city arena buffets through storm in downtown Belleville today. Other Bellevillians found little sport braving snow flurries.

Death Toll Likely to Pass 100 In World's Worst Road Tragedy

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine constabulary said today the death toll may pass 100 in what was probably the world's worst highway tragedy when two buses loaded with Roman Catholic pilgrims collided and plunged into a 200-foot ravine.

The buses, part of a 57-vehicle convoy taking villagers to a church festival to mark the end of Christmas, toppled off a winding mountain road Friday. Eighty-four people, including at least 21 children, were killed and another 50 have been taken to hospital in serious condition. Many of the injured were not expected to survive.

The scene of the accident was a narrow, twisting road 45 miles south of Manila. Officials said the ninth bus apparently lost its braking power, rammed the bus ahead and both careened off into the gorge.

The buses were smashed and the crushed bodies of the victims were hauled to the roadway in bamboo baskets.

In the same area a year ago, nine persons were killed and 16 injured in another two-bus collision. Inhabitants of the area have been demanding that the road be widened.

The worst previous highway accident on record is believed to be the 74 who drowned near Cairo, Nov. 1, 1965, when a crowded trolley bus plunged into the Nile River. The worst in the United States occurred May 25, 1950, when 34 persons were killed in the collision of a street car and a gasoline truck in Chicago.

The worst crash in Canada was near Louisville, Que., Aug. 14, 1936, when 23 students were killed. They had been riding on a farm truck that collided with a freight train.

Two Men Sought In Slaying

TORONTO (CP)—Police said Friday they are looking for two men in the killing of Salvatore (Sammy) Triumbari, 35-year-old Toronto businessman, gunned down outside his home early Friday. They called it "a well-planned execution."

More than 35 detectives are in the hunt for the assailants, who fired three bullets into Triumbari's face and one into his back as he was going to his car.

Police said Triumbari in recent years has been questioned in connection with extortion and arson investigations.

Triumbari, father of four, was shot as he left his bungalow in the suburban borough of North York. He was the owner of Cynar Dry Co., a soft drink company.

Police found a fedora hat bearing a New York city label near Triumbari's body. Footprints in the snow indicated two men ran from the scene.

Soo Feels Pinch as Giant Mills Remain Idle

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The shutdown of the giant Algoma Steel Corp. is starting to pinch the city's business community.

Algoma's operations, ground to a full halt New Year's Eve, 15 days after 80 clerks and went on strike for higher wages.

About 7,000 steel workers are affected, along with an estimated 1,000 persons laid off in other businesses dowed down because of the strike.

Negotiations to settle the strike, which began last Dec. 17, broke off this week with no indication when they will resume.

Hardest hit are automobile dealers who report sales reduced to a fraction of 1966 levels.

"Let's face it," said one dealer, "A car is the last thing anyone is going to buy under these circumstances."

Another car dealer said he would be forced to lay off a third of his staff is the strike is prolonged.

The plant shutdown is depriving the city of $6,000,000 a month in wages. Unemployed workers begin receiving unemployment benefits next week.

"It's Fred's Centennial present! He's going to work this year!"

All businesses, from bowling alleys to beauty parlors to department stores, claim sales slumps of up to 50 per cent. Many have laid off staff or are planning cuts if the strike continues another week. Cuts are employing staff on a part-time basis.

The manager of one large store says he can't reduce staff any more than he has. "Either we need this many people or we don't open the door."

Most businesses, even in such hard-hit areas as car, auto, real estate and insurance, are doing all they can to keep staff. "If I let my people go," said one executive, "I won't be able to get them back when all this is over."

Even small grocers, who some predicted would benefit by extending credit, are suffering. "If anyone says this strike isn't hurting his business, he's a liar," said one of the grocers.

Finance companies and banks are doing a different kind of business—from clients arranging to delay payments on loans.

By Friday, nearly 20 persons a day were filing through the city welfare office. Said a welfare spokesman: "We are running out of everything — forms, paper and money."

Campaign Starts

Nixon Says Liberals Ready

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Liberal party, armed with a new leader and bolstered by speeches from 10 federal cabinet ministers, plunged into workshops today to lay the groundwork for a provincial election campaign.

Robert Nixon, the member for Brant who was unanimously elected leader Friday night, said the party could win an election even if it was called this spring.

He told a news conference the party could field 70 candidates immediately and district organizations could select candidates for the balance of Ontario's 117 ridings in a short time.

Premier John Robarts has not said when he will call an election. His five-year mandate expires in the fall of 1968. But all of the speakers at the leadership convention appear to expect one this year.

Most of the federal ministers and the six legislature members who spoke painted a rosy picture of the party's chances.

(For a second story see page 16).

The last Liberal premier was Mr. Nixon's father, Harry, who filled the post briefly in 1943. The elder Nixon died in 1961 and his son quit teaching and won his father's seat in the 1962 by-election.

The Liberals have 22 seats in the 108-seat legislature, which will be expanded in 117 in the next election, the Conservatives 78 and the New Democratic Party eight.

U.S. Claims Vietnam Not Sincere in Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—After a week of peace probing, U.S. officials report serious doubts that North Vietnam is interested now in negotiations to end the Vietnamese war.

The primary aim of the North Vietnamese peace manoeuvres is judged here to build up public opinion against U.S. bombing of the North and thus try to force a permanent and unconditional halt to the air attacks.

Some officials said that the effort being made through diplomatic channels as well as public statements in this respect is almost unprecedented.

Soviet and Eastern European diplomats and officials have been telling U.S. authorities for several months, it is understood, that if the United States would stop the bombing they believe the way would open for an improvement in peace prospects.

But U.S. informants say these diplomats have provided no assurances that some scaling down of military activity on the Communist side would result.

The basic U.S. position is that the U.S. is to blow this month, North Vietnam must also de-escalate — presumably by ceasing to send men and supplies to the Communist forces in the South.

Worldwide interest in possible new peace developments was aroused earlier this week when North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong said in an interview with the New York Times that his government's terms, known as the four points, for winding up the conflict were not "conditions" for holding talks. He described them as a "basis of settlement."

Friday an English-language broadcast from Hanoi said the premier had told The Times that the four-point position of North Vietnam "constitutes the basis of a settlement." This was read by authorities in Washington as a possible hardening of Hanoi's position since it could be interpreted as meaning that the four points were the only basis of a settlement which the North Vietnamese government would consider.

Cobourg Council Enacts Meeting Of Body One Hundred Years Ago

COBOURG (Staff) — Reaching into the riches of the past, the council of this Lake Ontario town came up with a local promotion gem here yesterday.

It also served the twin function of launching the town's Centennial Year program — putting the council in focus as full-time participants.

The idea was simple. Next Monday, councillors take the oath of office at their 1967 inaugural meeting.

However, placing Canada first, they decided to restage the inaugural meeting of the 1867 council governing the town when Confederation became a reality.

Period costumes were rented, whiskers, beards and sideburns fixed in place and the result brought color TV cameras to the town's historic municipal building yesterday from CFTO, Toronto and puts the town in focus in Channel 9 viewers early next week.

More than that, the CBC Monday will arrive to restage the vignette for national living-room screens.

The actual scene lasts only a couple of minutes.

As cameras whirred yesterday town clerk Jack Swart read the minutes of that historic meeting. The councillors then once again approved the only measure presented that assembly 100 years ago — a motion for raising $600 to build a drill hall for the local militia.

There were one or two anachronisms — but too minor to matter.

To provide a grander setting for the cameras, council deserted its upstairs chambers and sat in the spacious courtroom of the building — itself a jewel of period architecture.

OPENED BY PRINCE

(Finished in 1835 it was opened by the Prince of Wales, later Edward VII. Housing offices, assembly rooms, even an opera house — all one of the town's prides — it cost the then enormous sum of $110,000. In fact, the town treasury was so broke when it was finished the contractor had to donate a chair for the mayor.)

Also the 1867 council had nine members and a mayor, elected under a ward system. Now there are only eight councillors.

And there was a woman in yesterday's assembly — deputy reeve Lenah Field-Fisher, whose grandfather was a member of the 1867 council.

In her grandfather's days Mrs. Field-Fisher wouldn't even have had the franchise!

Actually, as co-ordinator for Cobourg's centennial committee, the deputy-reeve originated the idea for recreating yesterday's scene which put her town in a prime publicity spot.

But there were other contributors on the sidelines like town printer Ed Haynes.

Ed has conceived the idea of printing replicas of the front pages of two papers published the first Confederation Day. The papers are being sold by 12-year-old Ralph Davies — also costumed for the period — and the money originally was scheduled for donation to the town's library board. However, the board has turned down the offer and Ed says he will donate the proceeds to a community project.

"Canadians," he said, "should bear their nationality proudly."

"As we forefathers looked to the future, we remember the past. But we eagerly look forward to the challenges and promises of the years ahead."

As the cameras whirred through the final frames he then called a motion for a prayer, rapped the mayoralty gavel — and town council stepped out of the limelight and into the present.

Paper! Paper!

Ralph Davies, 12, seeks customers for 1867 newspaper replicas outside Cobourg municipal buildings. Proceeds go to community projects.

Employment News

With the festive period over for another year, the Canada Manpower Centre officials with others concerned in the community's economy and well-being are now endeavoring to foresee the possible extent of the local winter unemployment.

In view of the fact, that the local labor market continues to show a decreased demand for additional workers it is both opportune and essential that the present Winter Employment Campaign be actively supported where possible by all of us. The slogan of this campaign at this time of the year is — "Don't Delay — Do It Now". This slogan is based on the logic that it pays to have work done during the winter months and keep the maximum number of the labor force employed.

The following job opportunities are now available at the Canada Manpower Centre.

In the female division there is an attractive position for a secretary who is proficient in both English and French. This position carries a good salary, with a paper mill located in the Lake St. John, Quebec area. Other out-of-town positions as yet unfilled are for contract clerks and telephone operator in the communications field. There is an excellent opening as a typist pool supervisor with a large steel corporation located in North Western Ontario.

In a neighboring city a dictaphone operator clerk is required for hospital work. The successful applicant must be an accurate typist and have a knowledge of medical terminology.

In the male division locally a qualified sheet metal worker is urgently required. The work entails heavier gauge sheet metal. A position is available for a garage driver man having three years of industrial experience. Another opening calls for a motivated man who possesses a grade XII technical education to be trained as a management trainee. A retail store is looking for a sales clerk and would prefer somebody who has furniture selling experience. In addition, two male hospital orderlies are being sought for regular hospital work. In a nearby town a fourth class stationary engineer is required by a veneer production firm.

If you are interested in any of these positions, seeking other employment or thinking of re-entering the labor market, you are invited to contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 324 Church Street, Belleville or telephone 962-8581.

Predictions Made In 1900 Realistic Vision of Future

By LENNY WILLIAMSON

Had readers of the December 1900 issue of Ladies' Home Journal realized it, the magazine presented them with a surprisingly realistic vision of the future.

The Journal, which still uses the slogan "never underestimate the power of a woman" didn't underestimate in 1900 the power of scientific research to revolutionize life during the 20th century.

It assigned John Elfreth Watkins jr. to interview "the wisest and learning" and report their "most earning" and report their forecasts for the next 100 years.

Thanks to a Belleville subscriber who donated the copy to Hastings County Museum, Watkins' predictions can be compared with centennial year reality.

"Fleets of air - ships will float over cities, fortifications, camps or fleets. They will surprise foes below by hurling upon them deadly thunderbolts. These aerial war - ships will necessitate bomb - proof turrets on which will be placed search - lights and guns to sweep and command the whole surface of the earth. All our restless waters, fresh and salt, will be harnessed to do the work which Niagara is doing today, making electricity for heat, light and fuel.

FAITH JUSTIFIED

On the domestic front, Watkins envisioned cooking done in "electric laboratories" instead of kitchens. These laboratories, he continued, "will be equipped with electric stoves, coffee grinders, egg-beaters, stirrers, shakers, parers, meat-choppers, meat-saws, potato mashers, lemon-squeezers, dish washers, dish dryers and the like. Liquid-air refrigerator will keep great quantities of food fresh for long intervals".

With premature optimism, the experts forecast the elimination of flies, mosquitoes, bedbugs, rats and mice in the 20th century and the availability of free universal education for both men and women.

However, their faith in medical science has been justified.

"North America will be tilled later by from one to two inches, due to vast reforms in medicine, sanitation, food and athletics," Watkins predicted.

He also forecast an increase in the average life expectancy during the 20th century from 30 years for a baby born in 1900 to 50 years for one born in 2000. The life span of a centennial baby is now calculated at 70 years, 20 years less than doctors dared hope for at the turn of the century.

Watkins saved for the end of his article the prediction he considered the most amazing of all:

"Not only will it be possible for a physician to actually see a living, throbbing heart inside the chest, but he will be able to magnify and photograph any part of it. This work will be done with rays of invisible light."

Cigarettes Up A Cent Local Firm Predicts

A one-cent hike in the retail price of a packet of cigarettes has been predicted by a Belleville wholesaler.

Al Black, of Blacks Wholesale Ltd., yesterday said the increase might come by the month's end.

The recent one per cent federal tax increase and rising costs of tobacco leaf were the main reasons for the coming hike foreseen by Mr. Black.

"Undoubtedly there will be an increase, but we don't know when," he added.

He said one tobacco traveller recently foresaw the price increase in effect by Easter.

"My opinion is that it will come within the next two or three weeks — but then I'm just guessing," said the wholesaler.

Besides the higher federal tax, the price of leaf to Canadian manufacturers was up 10 to 12 per cent in the past year.

The boost was caused by growing demand from British cigarette makers whose normal Rhodesia sources have now or freight traffic. They will be maintained as deadly war vessels by all military nations. Others will be used by scientists making observations at great heights above the earth."

DESCRIBED BEFORE INVENTED

But he described the hovercraft 50 years before it was invented: "Upon the under-sides (of ships) will be appertures expelling jets of air. In this way a film of air will be kept between them and the water's surface. This film will reduce friction against the waves to the smallest possible degree."

Although he couldn't put a name to them, Watkins reported the development of television, radio and long-distance telephone dialing.

"Man will see around the world. Persons and things of all kinds will be brought within focus of cameras connected electrically with screens at opposite ends of circuits, thousands of miles at a span. The lips of a remote actor or singer will be heard to utter words or music when seen to move. Photographs will be telegraphed from any distance and will reproduce all Nature's colors. Grand opera will be telephoned to private homes. Great bands and orchestras will give long-distance concerts. Wireless telephone will span the world with or without the intervention of a 'hello girl'."

The 1900 experts predicted the demise of the horse and buggy, the advent of the diesel locomotive, air conditioning and electric power.

"The horse will become practically extinct. Automobiles will be cheaper than horses today. Farmers will own automobile hay wagons, truck wagons, plows, harrows and hay racks. Railroad cars will, like houses, be artificially cooled. Coal will neither be carried nor burned, there will be no stops for water. All our restless waters, fresh and salt, will be harnessed to do the work which Niagara is doing today, making electricity for heat, light and fuel.

FAITH JUSTIFIED

On the domestic front, Watkins envisioned cooking done in "electric laboratories" instead of kitchens. These laboratories, he continued, "will be equipped with electric stoves, coffee grinders, egg-beaters, stirrers, shakers, parers, meat-choppers, meat-saws, potato mashers, lemon-squeezers, dish washers, dish dryers and the like. Liquid-air refrigerator will keep great quantities of food fresh for long intervals".

With premature optimism, the experts forecast the elimination of flies, mosquitoes, bedbugs, rats and mice in the 20th century and the availability of free universal education for both men and women.

However, their faith in medical science has been justified.

"North America will be tilled later by from one to two inches, due to vast reforms in medicine, sanitation, food and athletics," Watkins predicted.

He also forecast an increase in the average life expectancy during the 20th century from 30 years for a baby born in 1900 to 50 years for one born in 2000. The life span of a centennial baby is now calculated at 70 years, 20 years less than doctors dared hope for at the turn of the century.

Watkins saved for the end of his article the prediction he considered the most amazing of all:

"Not only will it be possible for a physician to actually see a living, throbbing heart inside the chest, but he will be able to magnify and photograph any part of it. This work will be done with rays of invisible light."

Hundreds Give Centennial Send Off at Ameliasburg

LOCAL ENTERTAINMENT: Three-year-old John Cairns couldn't get close enough to hear singing councilman Norman Post and his two young daughters.

FREE "SLEIGH" RIDES: Cindy Cairns, driving the snowmobile, gets set to take Judy Kerr and Susan Jamieson for a spin around the park while more riders pile on.

AMELIASBURG — If the send off given this township's undertakings for Centennial Year is an indication of things to come the whole country is in for a whale of a birthday party. Grown-ups and children alike ignored zero temperatures to vent their enthusiasm.

A mammoth pile of burning Christmas trees stoked up by fence rails township pioneers cut from first growth cedar a century ago, provided the illumination for the outside portion of the program. By the time Centennial chairman Russell Thompson was ready to officiate at the lighting up ceremony hundreds of people had gathered at the site for the giant bonfire. The youngsters present enjoyed the powered sled rides over the snow and made them the most popular event of the evening by their continuous participation. Many of them are members of families whose ancestors owned land in the township at the time of Confederation.

At 9.00 p.m. when the crowd retired to the township hall for the variety show presentations a number of people had to be satisfied with standing room at the rear of the auditorium. The township's Apple Blossom Princess, Lorraine Adams, in making the first of a number of scheduled public appearances during 1967 urged the people of Ameliasburg to continue their spirit of co-operation and they would enjoy the greatest year of a lifetime.

Retired Air Mechanic, Wife Happily Wed for 62 Years

Keeping busy at something which interests you is the way to be happy in retirement.

That is the advice of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Staveley, R. R. 2, Trenton, who yesterday quietly observed the 62nd anniversary of their marriage.

But keeping busy in retirement has been more or less easy for Mr. Staveley, a career soldier and airforce mechanic, who retired from the RCAF at Trenton in 1945.

One of the few remaining ground crew members of the Canadian Air Force during World War I, Mr. Staveley has a basement full of woodworking tools and until a heart attack cut activities a few years ago, kept busy at furniture making and other woodworking projects.

Native of England, the couple was married there on January 6th, back in 1905. They came to Canada in 1911 to settle in the North Battleford area of Saskatchewan, where Mr. Staveley was a house building contractor.

CHANGED TO AIR FORCE

But when Canada went to war with Germany, Mr. Staveley felt it his duty to enlist. He joined the 10th Field Ambulance and after training in England went to the front lines seeing action as a stretcher bearer at Arras Sommes, Ypres and Vimy Ridge.

Invalided back to England in 1917 he later volunteered for the then fledgling Canadian Air Force. He was among about 400 men personally chosen by the late Wing Commander "Billy" Bishop who won fame as a Canadian fighter pilot in the war.

As air frame mechanic he worked on such craft as Avro Avelands, Bristol Fighters, Sopwiths, Jennys, and Handley Paige.

Back in Canada after the war Mr. Staveley was stationed at Camp Borden and then went to Ottawa for 16 years in charge of the airforce workshop. In 1921 he supervised the construction of the first hangar at the Rockcliffe Air Station.

He was transferred to Trenton in 1936 when only the first of the original hangers was completed and has seen at first hand the then small station grow into the sprawling complex it is today.

REFLECTS ON CONTRASTS

In doing so he reflects on the contrast between today's big aircraft and the wooden, strut and canvas machines on which he worked during World War I days.

The couple's last trip "over home" was in 1935. Mr. Staveley has three sisters living in the old country. He is 82 and Mrs. Staveley 81.

They have two sons, James living in Prince Edward county south of Bedneresville, and Fred who operates a farm at Cardinal east of the Spanking Town on the St. Lawrence valley.

Bomb Blasts Vegas Motel

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A massive explosion that killed at least six persons in a downtown motel early today was caused by a bomb, county officials said. "It has to be a bomb, there's no question," said District Attorney George E. Franklin. "There's no gas in the building, but we don't know if it's suicide or what."

Bible's Story In New Style

LONDON (AP) — A newspaper specializing in age old news will make its appearance here this month with headlines like these:

"Sodom and Gomorrah wiped out in worst disaster since flood."

"Moses returns from Mt. Sinai, smashes tablets of the law."

Its sponsors say that taking Old Testament stories and rewriting them in the newspaper language and headlines of the space age is an ingenious method of teaching the Bible's message.

The newspaper is called The Jerusalem Chronicles and The News of the Past.

Even the Kids Fork Out to the Federal Tax-collector

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Like Finance Minister Sharp put it so pointedly in his Mini-Budget:

Nothing is for free — especially government services.

And particularly social security services.

You get a Federal Government cheque — and, astonishingly, about half the nation's adult population does — and what goes into one pocket must come out of another.

Your pocket, to a greater or lesser degree, depending on your income and tax circumstances, and out of everybody else's.

Even the kids, out of whose Coke 'n' candy spending money the Federal tax-man takes his bite.

There are some Federal services that may — although not often — break even, or conceivably by some wildly lucky chance, give the taxpayers a financial return on their collective investment, with a profit.

Like the Post Office, Air Canada, the Canadian National, Polymer and other Crown Corporations running the potentially self-supporting.

Most if not every other Federal service is all out-go and no in-come.

And to the astounding extent, as the Finance Minister has toted it up, that out of your every dollar, governments, Federal, Provincial and Municipal, are taking more than 30 cents for their open-ended spending.

Which, mister, shillier — for look at it this way . . .

Just about one out of every two Canadians out of working age (21) receives a regular Federal cheque.

The total runs some 5,500,000 out of the nearly 12,000,000 adults of the total population.

And the number will soar as the Federal Old Age Pension payment annually drops from the current 69 to 65 over the next four years and Canada Pension Plan comes into full operating force.

Then one roll call of Canadians whose mail brings a regular Federal cheque takes in a 11 social security recipients including old age pensioners, parents of children eligible for Family Allowance, civil servants working and retired, veterans and serving members of the Armed Forces, and those on unemployment insurance or unemployment assistance, among others.

There, some 34,000,000 — or less than a third of the adult population — draw Federal cheques.

The big difference, of course, is the universal payments to Canadians in the pension and family allowance age groups.

Family Allowances alone — with no parallel across the border — account for 2,800,000 regular monthly cheques.

And if you counted the more than 7,000,000 children whose parents draw these allowances, the cheque total on an individual count would fall just short of 10,000,000.

Does this make Canada a welfare state?

Do these Federal payments to half the taxpayers — a sort of refund, wholly or in part — provide a kind of built-in insurance against depression?

Depends on who has your ear, the friends or foes of the Government's increasing inclination to "share the wealth" through the tax-and-spend method.

While all levels of government are taxing and spending more, the collective national income, say the money managers at the Bank of Canada and the Finance Department, is keeping pace.

The collective cost of government currently drains off about one third of what the bureaucrats like to call the Gross National Product, to the "increased" the GNP — the total value of all goods and services produced by working Canadians.

It was just about that split five years ago.

The governmental split of one-for-them and two-for-you out of every three of your dollars is high, counsel the economists, including some of the Federal moneymen, but not yet "dangerously" so.

Everybody pays, but who collects?

Parents drawing family allowances: 2,800,000.

Old age pensioners: 1,100,000.

The unemployed: an average 250,000 drawing insurance and another 200,000 on federal-provincial shared assistance.

Federal civil servants and Crown Corporation employes: 350,000

The Armed Forces: an estimated 100,000.

Federal pensioners including government annuitants and retired servicemen: possibly 300,000.

The Political Grind

In politics the motto of many a candidate for this hard and exhausting career might well be: Age shall not weary me — even though the years may condemn, to borrow some familiar lines.

A politician, moreover, should always appear confident, and preferably have a smile on his face, even in the face of disfavor, disaster, and even defeat.

Take Walter Gordon, who resigned as finance minister in the Liberal government following the November 1965 federal election. Mr. Gordon, now back in the cabinet as a minister without portfolio had pursued fiscal policies which provoked businessmen at home and in the United States, against whom they were mainly directed, and were rebuffed by a majority of his own party.

Announcing his resignation at that time, and admitting that as a close friend of Mr. Pearson he had given the latter bad advice on the calling of an election, Mr. Gordon faced his television audience with a cheerful, almost bland, smile.

At an Ottawa news conference the other day Mr. Gordon was back in the picture again — wearing the same confident smile. As a minister without portfolio he will handle special projects for the prime minister. However, a more important post for him is anticipated in forthcoming cabinet changes.

Canada's Role

Canada uninterested in foreign affairs? It is hard to credit such a suggestion, but nevertheless it has been advanced by The Times in an article in which it predicts this country will face a crisis of leadership in the next few years.

The Times says this will result partly because Canada cannot become sure of itself as a nation until it can convince itself of its place in the world. The newspaper believes this involves not only a question of relating federal to provincial power, but also a matter of relating the country to other countries.

"Its concerns are provincial rather than national, and national rather than international. . ."

Well, it is true that as Centennial Year gets under way Canada is still a country concerned very much with provincial and federal relations. This may be illustrated no better than by the possibility of an election being held in Ontario this spring.

On the international scene Canada has never really hit the big time as it were, even though economically it is as strong as any. Canadians travelling overseas encounter a depressing lack of interest in their homeland other than as a standby for the immigrant. This may be a big land, but its people are relatively few in number, and set beside the sophistication, the history and the antiquities of Europe they are more competition than many of us would care to admit.

In this context, it may be said that Canadians need to travel more — not only to learn about other countries and peoples, but to come to appreciate their own country the greater, and to become better persons from the knowledge and experience gained of other societies.

At the same time people overseas should realize we are not as parochial as The Times suggests. Prime Minister Pearson for one, when he was in External Affairs, was a symbol of Canada's reaching out to the rest of the world.

It was Mr. Pearson who suggested the establishment of a United Nations police force to preserve peace between Arab and Jew at the time of the Suez crisis, and ever since Canada's interest in the world has been evidenced in many ways, from its support of the Commonwealth ideal to the provision of economic aid to underdeveloped nations.

By the very nature of our system of government, Canada must look to its own burgeoning affairs. But in doing so it has not neglected its role in the world at large.

Erstwhile Friends

China is making its presence felt in small but significant ways at this time of shifting political alignments in the Communist world.

For instance, Peking is believed to have refused the Soviet Union permission to continue commercial airline flights over Chinese territory en route to India. Hitherto, the route of the Soviet airline Aeroflot between Moscow and New Delhi had taken its planes over a part of western China closed to most foreigners. It passed along the fringes of a desert region in Sinkiang where China's nuclear weapons test area is located.

Now the airline's flights to India pass over Afghanistan and West Pakistan. Such are the vagaries of the political estrangement that has overcome Russia and its erstwhile ally China.

Meanwhile radioactive fallout in California is reported at its highest since 1962, and this is believed to be the result of the detonation of a nuclear device by the Chinese on December 28.

Industrial Commission

Should It Be More Representative?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like to put before the people of the city, through the medium of your paper, some of the views of an ordinary working person in this city, in regard to the matter of the Industrial Commission and its autonomous operations as it is now set up.

I have several questions which bother me with regard to this matter and I will try and put them in their proper order.

Question 1 — Why is it so necessary to have the Mayor (who is part of an industrial concern) or one alderman (who is the owner of a fairly large business) a bank manager (who is the person from the Chamber of Commerce) and four industrialists on the Industrial Commission in our city, when two very successful Commissions in cities comparable to Belleville, have as members, people from all walks of life.

For example, one city has industrialists, business men, a service station manager, a barber, a labourer and a clergyman. This would seem to me to be more representative of a city and they have had far more success than we have attained.

Question 2 — How can any one on a Commission such as this, justify the fact that there has, seemingly, never been in our city any advance by a company to move its business here, which has been in direct competition with an established company that is already classed as an industry of our city.

I find it hard to believe that we are not all thinking in terms of helping the city as a whole, yet there has never been any effort on the part of the Commission to communicate with the citizens to get their point of view every day conversations I find that this is one of the great suspicions in the ordinary citizen's mind.

It is I find, very hard to dispel some of these suspicions without a complete disclosure of why certain industries which are rumored to have a desire to locate here did not come and also discover where these industries did go.

Question 3—If the people who are desirous of locating an industry in the city are not interested in talking to members of the City Council, but only to the large industrialists who are on the Commission, then why are we paying a fairly good salary to an Industrial Commissioner? Who is he supposed to be responsible to?

I believe as the Alder man who raised this matter, that if the Council has to make grants to any Board or Commission, then they certainly should have some control over the way the money is spent.

Question 4— Has there been any proof put forth by any one that having an autonomous body such as this Commission has been of any greater benefits to the city than the old method, for one cannot see any visual signs of any more industry having come to the city, and although I realize that these things take time, I have seen several industries come to the Town of Trenton in this same period of time.

Commission's Showing 'Unimpressive'

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The effectiveness of the present Industrial Commission should be judged upon its accomplishments, rather than by whether its members are "professionals" or not, or even by the efforts that have been expended by its members. To date its accomplishments in establishing new industry in Belleville are to say the least unimpressive. Our taxpayers have provided it with considerable funds since its inception that have not been returned to them in the form of the benefits derived from increased industrial activity.

Alderman Keegan's arguments for the reconstitution of an industrial commission therefore are pertinent and require careful consideration. He should not be just a "voice crying in the wilderness" and I am sure he or some other mayor of us share his views that we need a change.

Members of an industrial commission found to have strong motivations for desiring expansion of new industry. Since the members of the present commission are largely executives of present large industries in the area, increased competition for the services of local labour with consequent raising of wage levels may well be in the interests of their companies.

Smaller businesses in the area, many of which are retail and commercial do have a vital interest in the expansion of new industry. I therefore feel that any industrial commission should have a large and possibly a majority representation from this group.

New industry will not establish in Belleville rather than elsewhere unless ultimate financial advantages are expected to be obtained by so doing.

There has been considerable discussion and attempts made to have this and adjacent areas declared "designated" by the federal government so that tax incentives may be obtained for new industry.

Perhaps a joint effort of various neighboring municipalities is required to effect this.

Any municipal, provincial, or federal government member who could help this to be brought about for the progress of the area should obtain great public support.

Problem Before Humane Societies

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

This letter is intended to alert members of humane societies in Ontario. There is a plan under consideration to obtain legislation that would release unwanted dogs and cats in municipally operated pounds for medical research. Local humane societies have been asked to endorse this proposal.

The problem of securing animals for medical research is not the problem of a humane society but is the problem of those who wish to use the animals. Humane societies exist for the purpose of protect animals.

It is claimed by proponents of the plan that many diseases would be outlawed. This is good — except that it defeats the aspirations of humane societies to be used only for non-survival experiments. Obviously pounds would be the sole source and greatly increased supply of animals would be available. Thus the pounds would be used solely for every type of experiment.

Make sure that your Society does not endorse the release of dogs and cats from public pounds for this purpose To do so would violate the fundamental principle for which a humane society are being qualified.

Scarborough, Ont.

Subtle Touch

The English have a fascinating way of telling a comedy from a tragedy. Don't hit him on the head with it. And they handle the sex thing with subtlety. — Gloria Swanson.

To Your Good Health

Family Has History Of Abnormal Births

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a healthy 2-year-old daughter and want another child very much. The problem is that I have four sisters. Each has had two healthy children but each also has had an abnormal child fone microcephalic, one mongoloid and two retarded.) I have a brother with two healthy children.

Would it be safe for us to have another child? How much of this could be due to heredity? — E. M.

As I wrote to another reader some time ago, not all retardation is heredity, but the greater proportion of it is.

Sometimes a child, born normal, becomes retarded later because of illness or injury, but these are in the minority.

When a child is born retarded without illness or accident to account for it, one must begin to take heed. When a parent or brother or sister has such a child, the risk of having an abnormal child becomes very much greater because the hereditary factor must be suspected.

It is also possible for a retarded child to be born into a family in which no indication of retardation can be discovered. Rarely is there any absolute way to predict that a child will or will not be retarded.

We can say only that the risk of it happening is vastly multiplied when retardation appears on the branches of the family tree.

Rather than try to tell you, E.M., that you should or should not take this risk, I'd prefer that you seek the advice of people skilled in genetic counseling. Such service is available in university or other major medical centers. They are better qualified to estimate the probabilities.

If they advised not having more children, but you did and the next youngster was normal, it would not prove the counselors to be wrong. It would either be a case of "beating the odds."

A further risk is this: Even assuming other children to be normal, that would not eliminate the risk of the trait still being passed on to future generations.

I cannot encourage you but I respect your courage in being willing to face the situation.

— E. M.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can diet pills be harmful if you take them only as prescribed by the doctor? I have taken one every morning for two years. If I miss a day I eat constantly. I just don't seem to have any will power. — Mrs. L. D. R.

The reason for insisting that diet pills be taken only under medical supervision is, first, to prescribe a reasonable dosage, and second to watch for side effects and when they appear, that indicate that it is time to stop using the drug. Thus any real harm can be averted.

An inherent weakness of using drugs to reduce is that sooner or later you have to stop them. It is important that you begin developing some will power, and some way of eating habits, so you will be able to control your weight when you stop using the drug.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any visible change in the veins due to high blood pressure? Does this condition reduce life expectancy?

Is there a possibility of the blood pressure ever returning to normal without medication? — Mrs. R. C.

1.— No.

2.— Usually. It depends on the severity.

3.— Very unlikely unless emotional or great tensional factors are involved and relieved.

A Lift for Living

Ordinary Man Plays Integral Role in Life

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

The individual counts – Among America's magnificent man-made structures are such mighty spans of cable and concrete as the Mackinac Bridge, which lifts traffic across the straits separating Michigan's lower and upper peninsulas; George Washington Bridge, connecting New York and New Jersey; and the San Francisco-Oakland trans-bay Bridge.

These and many other suspended highways bear countless humans and tons of freight over vast stretches of water every day of the year.

Amazingly, the burden of a suspension bridge is largely borne by small wires, each less than the thickness of a common lead pencil. These wires are woven together into mighty cables, to which each wire contributes its strength.

A family, a community, a nation, and the world are made much like a cable, small or great, in which individual wires serves as a single strand. And the stoutness of each strand determines the strength of the entire structure.

In the midst of world conflict we often wonder, What can the ordinary man do? How can one individual make his life count toward the world's welfare? One answer is so simple that we often overlook it. At the same time, this solution makes such demands upon us as individuals that we avoid considering it, if we can. That answer is acceptance of individual responsibility for the condition of society.

A person who seeks the right and loyally lives by the right, contributes a quiet power to all righteousness in the world. Sound character may make no noise, and be no more conspicuous than a wire in a bridge cable, yet without such strength the world can hardly hold together. Everyone must decide whether he will contribute to the world's weakness or its strength. The responsible individual determines the nature of his behavior by testing it with the question: "If everyone everywhere behaved as I pro- pose to behave, would the world be better or worse for it?"

For example, when the world was only a few years younger, nations chose between peaceful negotiation and war to "settle" international conflicts of interest. Now, with weapons so destructive that one bomb can kill millions, the choice is no longer between peace and war, but between peaceful settlement and near-annihilation.

What can a concerned individual do to help the cause of universal peace? Each one can begin with a central conviction of the Christian faith, that all people everywhere belong to a single family, with one Father and all of us brothers and sisters who are to care for each other and be responsible for one another's welfare.

This does not mean we will not differ with each other. But if we behave as good family members, we will seek each other's ultimate good, lament each other's woes and rejoice in one another's successes.

On an international level such a standard of family living would mean that each nation would contribute its distinctive gifts and strength in fulfillment of God's purposes. Each nation would honor its obligation to spare other nations from harm and to give all other nations brotherly support in time of need.

Dr. Thomas Guthrie loved to tell of an incident that illumines the meaning of family style love and care. One day he was walking along a street in Edinburgh when he saw a little lass carrying a very big baby in her arms. The infant was almost as large as the child who was carrying him. Dr. Guthrie stopped and exclaimed, "Surely, Lassie, that child is too heavy for you." The surprised girl answered, "Why no sir! He is not heavy. He's my brother!"

The child's remark reminds us of the world's need of the supreme element in fine family living. In the good family what counts most is not size, rank, financial power, position or prestige, but love and affectionate care. Members of the family are united in mutual support, which is not only economic, but psychological, moral, spiritual. And no one who is a brother is a burden.

Lines on Life

Love Now a Goal

By Dr. Stuart F. Rosenberg

To the lonely, love is a cure for the malady, a harbor for the drifting soul.

To the insecure, love is a reward, the merit-badge of success.

There is nothing "new" about love except the ways we now worship it. In earlier history, love was linked to the whole of life's values: it was integrated into the patterns of social and ethical goals. Nowadays, however, love itself is the goal, the ultimate value.

When love, however, is absolutized, deified and venerated, and things can happen. It is not enough to justify poor behavior by saying that "love is blind." Nor proper to engage in anti-social acts that harm and destroy – all in the name of one's private love fulfillments. Love needs more than its own heat. It needs a lot of light.

But this is precisely what love does not have, when it stands all by itself, absolutely enthroned, and is allowed to become the measuring rod of all other acts or ideals. How has it happened that our time has become the "Age of Love"?

In earlier days, people had a sense of intimate belonging to the groups of which they were part. The primitive man had regular contact with all the members of his tribe and village. He shared with his clan relatives a life of loyalty to clearly visible goals which all accepted and all understood.

Ancient man knew nothing of what David Riesman has so aptly called the "lonely crowd." The impersonality of modern city life has brought about a widespread feeling of physical isolation and a sense of rootlessness. We are lonely even when we are with people here a while most other people are lonely, too. We share so little with those whose lives we touch, that we barely touch any lives at all.

The loneliness of modern life is only part of the reason that love has assumed such a disproportionate significance to day. We should not overlook the fact that our society has been teaching us, from earliest childhood, to gauge our "success" by the "amount" of love we receive.

We are trained as children by carefully controlled dispensations of love: if we do well we receive love; if poorly, love is denied us. But this ever-present threat makes us chronically insecure about love and obsessed by the challenge to hold on to it. We measure our whole lives in similar scales; the more unsure we are of our own merit and status, the more love we need as a therapy for our neurotic self-doubting.

For all of their assorted mental ailments and emotional pains, some seek love as a remedy. But "love" that is taken to be a thing unto itself, embraced as a fleeting moment unrelated to ethical decisions and moral purposes soon degenerates into pleasure pills. Love then comes to mean having what we want when we want it. Which, of course, is not love, but gratification of our ego, senses, vanity, or glands.

Spiritually mature love knows better. It knows that it must depend upon more than love alone. It must always be ready to know the ways of suffering, sacrifice and self-denial. Out of such understanding, love is not the final dream of immediate desire, but the great means of reaching the larger possibilities that await us.

GYPSIES WANT RIGHTS

ST. PAUL'S CRAG, England (CAP)—Meeting in a village pub, officials of the International Gypsy Committee formed a labor union for Britain's 50,000 gypsies. Vanko Rouda, general secretary, said, "Here in Britain gypsies are treated worse than anywhere else in Europe," and added that the association will fight for camping sites and equal rights of work and education.

Woman Admits Freezer Luxury in Far North

WELLAND, Ont. (CP)—Why would a housewife want a freezer in the frozen Arctic?

Mrs. David Flynn, who has been living in Tuktoyaktuk on the Arctic Ocean, admits a freezer is a luxury because you can always buy your food to keep it from going bad.

But meat will keep longer when the temperature can be regulated and the constant cold of a deep - freeze will avoid freezer burn.

Pat and David Flynn and their young son Kevin were visiting relatives here during the year - end holidays. Mr. Flynn is on a two-year leave from his government job to take a course in community development at New York's Cornell University.

During their four years in the Arctic, where Mr. Flynn was an area administrator for the department of northern affairs, they lived in a prefabricated house that was erected on a gravel pad to reduce, but not eliminate, the continual shifting of doors and windows.

FRESH WATER SCARCE

Despite a shortage of water they had a flush toilet.

"We used to grin inwardly when visitors from down south would use the bathroom," Mrs. Flynn says. "When I heard the toilet flush I would think, 'Well, there goes tomorrow's laundry water.'"

The Flynns, whose son was born in the Far North, were a bit better off than some others in buying their food. They could order a full year's supply in advance and avoid paying the high local prices—$29 for 25 pounds of fresh potatoes, $1.54 a dozen for eggs, 30 cents a tin for baby food and $1 for a 48-ounce tin of tomato juice.

Mrs. Flynn, a native of Shaftesbury, Sask., and her husband, from Macklin, Sask., are both graduates of the University of Saskatchewan.

After graduation with an engineering degree, Mr. Flynn worked for a year with the department of mines. But his interests in the North and the Eskimos prompted him to apply for a job with northern affairs.

One thing he has learned is how to live on caribou meat in an igloo while out on the trail. And his wife has learned how to make her own bread.

Both have also learned to appreciate fresh vegetables—such a rarity that one of the big treats would be a huge salad served as part of Christmas dinner.

Women Only For Job in Department

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Research Council does not discriminate against men, it simply believes that women outshine men in some fields.

R. I. Wallace, NRC's employment officer, said the phrase "women only" in a recent advertisement for an editor was "the unfortunate choice of words."

He said male applicants for the $5,533 to $8,100-a-year job would be considered. Newspaper advertisements for the post read: "This competition is open to women only."

Dr. R. F. Legget, director of the building research division, where the editor will work said he could not give a reason for the female preference.

"It is a matter of purely internal policy."

Mr. Wallace said the division prefers women for editing manuscripts for scientific papers as they usually outshine men on this type of work.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES DE GENOVA

Mr., Mrs. J. De Genova Happily Wed 50 Years

A retired Belleville railroader who each summer spades a big garden and does snow shovelling in the winter is a firm believer that hard work never hurt anyone.

Mr. James De Genova, 27 Brassey Street, who with Mrs. De Genova will celebrate 50 years of married life on Sunday says he started doing a man's work when he was 12 years old and claims it never hurt him.

A native of Italy, he came to Canada in 1907 as a lad of 12 and almost immediately went to work with the Grand Trunk Railway in Northern Ontario.

"I as a big lad for my age," Mr. De Genova admitted.

The couple was married at St. Michael's Church on January 8th back in 1917. Rev. H. D. Hyland performed the marriage ceremony while the attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Michael De Lalla, brother and sister-in-law of the bride.

Mr. De Genova worked as a hard rock miner in the gold mines at South Porcupine before coming to Belleville and during his career as a railroader worked on many different jobs ranging all the way from assisting section gangs, to firemanship. When he retired six years ago he was with the car department.

While still little more than a lad he fired freight locomotives hauling wheat across Northern Ontario and through Cochrane.

Mrs. De Genova recently returned from the hospital where she was a patient for six weeks.

The couple raised nine children and have 40 grand children and one great grandchild.

The children are Patrick of Montreal, Tony, Mike and Don, all of Belleville, Mrs. Frank (Rosa) Liberty of Roxdale, Mrs. Ray (Kathleen) Racette, Ottawa, Mrs. Pat (Cecilia Tomson) and Mrs. Bert (Mary) Burgess, both of Belleville. A son John died in 1962.

Yellow Is Dominate Color In Shoes, Clothes This Year

NEW YORK (CP) — The kookie, zany look of some women's fashions will be accentuated this spring by accessories and a color explosion—with yellow predominating — that goes right down to the shoes.

Handbags are smaller. The short and mini-skirt, here for at least another season, give stockings and shoes the limelight.

Teen-agers will find something exciting about the fashions.

Jewelry is flamboyant and accessories will literally crash into spring.

Fashion writers from Canada and the United States got a look at spring this week at the previews of the New York Coutour Business Council.

This is what they saw:

Longer, bulkier and more colorful earrings; big buckles on little-girl, rounded toes and flat heels. Jungle prints flitting from costume, jewelry to umbrellas; stockings adding plain shocking color—such as vibrant citrus and fuchsia—in their patterned, textured and even crocheted list.

Glittering stockings by Hanes in taupe and silver are to be worn in the evening with the newest velvet bracket-pump.

The popular fold-over handbags are guessted to increase in capacity. Contrary to the trend of accessory blatancy, most are smaller. Short white gloves accompany everything from wedding gowns to suits.

A woman sticking to bejewelled or pearl-beaded colors in stockings and shoes is really remaining passive. The complete-costume look requires the dress or suit color to drift down the legs for day time there are smashing new colors of lime and orange. In the evening, the waffle-texture in the newest fishnet look comes in white, pink, beige, celery, lilac and black.

Teamed with crochet baby dressed these stockings should be the ultimate in teen-age excitement. For the over - teen sophisticates there is added leg allure under spring chiffons.

Yellow is the dominate color in shoes and clothes. In fact, a woman who can wear yellow, especially the daffodil pale shade, can centre her entire wardrobe around it. In shoes it may team with another color as in a suede ,with pale yellow front and tangerine back and popular cutout sides.

Buckles on almost any type of shoes are dramatic. One buckle on a blunt - toe, grape - leather shoe rises five inches in a shell shape. It is edged in burgundy. Brown patent is expected to take the classic place of black and will vie with yellow. For rainy days there are interesting shiny spats-boots. Color combinations always include fake side buttoning.

Jewelry ranges from dangling earrings with exuberant action from large two-tone plastic tri-hoops for street wear to exciting each exceading glitter for evening with triple strands for each ear. Three jungle motifs and racy checkerboard designs. Cotton is used in clear, bold colors.

Really crashing into spring are the new umbrellas by Pat Kahl. Black and white as racing checks, kinetic geometric diamonds and giant abstract florals come in cotton, nylon and vinyl. The new slick coated vinyls are especially newsy. For those with costume complex there are pastel posy printed-cotton umbrellas with their own matching stretch gloves.

Hairpieces and false eyelashes are considered essential accessories today. Olgy Cassini advocates lighter lashes for daytime, darker for evening. Most popular hairpiece is the versatile "fall" that may be worn as a cascade down the back or as a coiled topknot.

Women Start March Move On Ottawa

TORONTO (CP)—The Committee for Equality for Women may ask 2,000,000 Canadian women to march on Ottawa if the federal government fails to announce a royal commission on women's rights by the end of the month.

Mrs. Michael Solby of St. Catharines, head of the committee, said in an interview Wednesday the organization, representing 33 women's groups across Canada, has been given the government an ultimatum — a royal commission or else. The consequences.

At a meeting scheduled for the University of Toronto later this month, the committee will decide what procedure it will suggest to the women's groups.

"If we don't get a royal commission by the end of the month, we'll use every tactic we can," Mrs. Solba said.

"And, if we have to use violence, damn it, we will."

An 800-word letter to Justice Minister Lucien Cardin Nov. 10 asks for an inquiry into "discriminatory laws," outdated legislation, educational opportunities, taxation, automation and immigration."

Mrs. Nixon Plans to See Lot of Ont. With Hubby

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Robert Nixon, wife of Ontario's new Liberal leader, plans to see a lot of Ontario during the next few months.

"I am very proud of Bob and very happy he has achieved what he started out to achieve in 1964," she said in an interview following Friday's acclamation of her husband as provincial Liberal leader.

She added that she hopes to do a lot of travelling with her husband throughout Ontario. "That's probably the only time I'll get to see him," she said.

Her mother - in - law, Mrs. Harry Nixon, whose late husband was the last Liberal premier of Ontario, said there was no need for her to offer advice.

"I don't have to give Dorothy any advice. She's a great organizer and knows what to do."

Because of her husband's new role, Mrs. Nixon said she probably will have to drop some of her community activities.

She is president of the United Church Women in St. George and a vice president of the St. George Women's Institute. She also has been active in her local home and school association.

However, while her public life may be altered by Mr. Nixon's new position, she still is mother to their four children, John, 12, Jane, 11, Harry, nine, and Sara, 7.

Corner Chairs Were Highly Popular in Queen Anne's Day

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Corner chairs have been known since the 16th century. They were at the height of their popularity during the days of Queen Anne. The style almost disappeared at the beginning of the 19th century. Victorian designers revived the style and now even modern corner chairs are made.

The corner chair was first called a buffet chair. By the 18th century it was renamed the roundabout chair. The corner chair appeals to many who are not unusually fond of antiques. The chair is comfortable and practical. Its special shape fits compactly into the corner of a room. Other corner furniture such as cupboards, chest of drawers, tables and lavabos have been made.

Q. My grandmother always called it a "log cabin" bottle. It looks like a log cabin. There is the date 1860 on one side of the bottle and on the other words like "anation" bitters and the words "patented 1862." Is it a rare bottle?

A. You must own an S. T. Drake plantation bitters bottle. The cabin shaped bottle is also marked 1860, plantation X bitters. The bottle is common in amber color. The rarest form comes in yellow or dark green. There are at least six variations of the S. T. Drake bottle.

Q. Are old electric light bulbs worth keeping?

A. Any light bulb that was made before 1900, prefera bly still in working condition or in the original package, is of interest to specialized collectors. Even those of the 1900 to 1910 period plus a few later ones are being collected. The problem is the collector is having as much trouble finding old bulbs as the person with the old bulbs has in finding the collector.

Q. My square piano was made by Hallett and Cumston of Boston, number 12154. How old is it?

A. Hallett and Cumston worked in Boston, Mass. from 1850 to about 1853. The number of your piano shows it was made between 1865 and 1870.

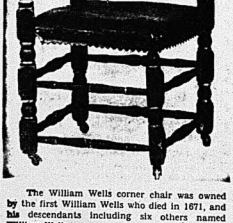
Q. "Popping the Question" is the title of an old picture. It is printed and signed "Sarony and Major, 99 Nassau St."

A. Sarony and Major were talented lithographers who worked in New York City from 1846 to 1857. Their lithographs are sought after by many collectors.

BOOK REVIEW

Bottles, the booming new interest in antiques, have spawned a new group of privately printed books for the collector. These books are filled with information but sadly lacking in proper indexing and research aids. "Bottles West" by Jundee Eastin (P.O. Box 703, Joshua Tree, California 92252 $3) "Bottles of Bygone Days" 1 or II by Donald Coleleaser ($2 each P.O. Box 2066, Napa, California) and "The Bottle Trail Volumes 14" by May Jones ($1.65 each, P. O. Box 23, Nara Visa New Mexico.)

Ralph and Terry Kovel regret that they cannot research and provide personal answers about ant ques you may own. They do appreciate your questions which can be answered in the column. Pictures and drawings cannot be returned.



The William Wells corner chair was owned by the first William Wells who died in 1671, and his descendants including six others named William Wells.

Early 19th. Century Housewife Cooked Over Open Fireplace

Pioneer Women Excelled at Crafts

TORONTO (CP) — The agenda of a day in the life of a Canadian farm woman in the 19th century provides some idea of how the settlers got their reputation for hard work.

It is also an indication of how much a housewife had to know or learn. If she needed a pair of socks or a candle she probably began with a sheep.

Dorothy Duncan, technical assistant at Black Creek Pioneer Village in Toronto, says some of the skills needed to survive were acquired the hard way. Most settlers came to Canada from more sophisticated surroundings where textiles, for instance, were easily available in stores and were not customarily made at home.

Even when goods had begun to be available in Canada, transportation difficulties were formidable, costs often high.

Women's days began with ashes and fires and enormous breakfasts.

"After breakfast you might get bread set to bake. You would do the first mixing and set it aside to rise.

"If you planned to do a washing, you would begin to heat kettles over the fireplace or on the stove, if you were lucky enough to have one.

"If the cream was on the turn—ready to turn sour—you would churn that day. You would begin by pouring boiling water into the churn. Heat speeds up churning.

"We've made butter at the village with 12 to 15 minutes churning. We've also churned for two hours and haven't got it. You have to know when the cream is just right. Normally 10 minutes to half an hour's churning would give you about two gallons of butter. This was a job children could do if you had children the right age."

Servants were scarce, but Mrs. Duncan says there were more family members to be pressed into service, including children, grandparents and unmarried sisters.

"About two hours before the final kneading if your bread, you would light the bake oven. You put in kindling and hardwood, lit it, let it burn and kept stoking it. When you were ready to put the bread in you cleaned out the ashes.

"There were several tests for heat. You could put your hand in and if you could hold it there to, say, the count of seven, the oven was the right temperature.

"You could put flour on the peel, (the board bread was baked on) or the oven shovel and see how quickly it browned. Some women used a feather to see how quickly it scorched.

"When the wash water was hot enough, you put it in a wooden wash tub and scrubbed the clothes on a scrub board that was often wooden. To dry them you hung them on the fence or spread them on the grass. In cold weather you hung them near the fire.

"While you were doing these things you also got two big meals for the men, probably using just food from your own farm and the area.

Salt pork was the commonest meat, but the forests yielded more than we think about now in the way of meat and fruit."

TALLOW FOR CANDLES

In the fall when the slaughtering was done, most of the year's supply of candles had to be made from tallow rendered down from animal fat. It was another chore children helped with.

"You might spend a day spinning and weaving. You can spin about three ounces of wool in a day. Remember in these homes you just couldn't sit down and spin. You were always getting wood or making meals."

It takes about four ounces of modern wool to make a pair of men's socks.

Last thing at night the fire was still on everyone's mind. Bed warmers filled with hot coals were applied to the sheets and fires were banked.

"In small houses it was quite common to have a child sleep on a settle bed near a fire to keep it going during the night."

Ann Landers

Girl Friend Shows Too Much Aggression

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son is a sophomore in a university 400 miles away. The girl he dated before he left flies to see him every few weeks.

When he comes home for holidays and special occasions Rita (fictitious name) meets him at the airport. This is a privilege his father and I would enjoy.

Evidently the girl never has to check with her parents concerning meals or curfew. She is at our house for lunch and dinner every day and then they go out for the evening. We get to see very little of him when he is home.

ANN LANDERS

We want our children's friends to feel welcome but don't you think it is in poor taste for this girl to hang around so much? We have talked to our son about her constant presence and he defends her — saying, "She is here at my invitation."

Are we old-fashioned, or as the kids say "square?" What, in your opinion, is the best way to handle this? — FOGIES IN OUR 40's.

* * *

DEAR FOGIES: Kill Rita with kindness. Give her so much hospitality that she chokes on it. If you knock the girl you will force your son to defend her. Praise her to the skies — find something to admire — and soon your son will be kneeking her.

Any gal who is as aggressive at this one stands a good chance of losing her boy friend — if his parents, especially his Mom, stays out o' it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter about the youngster who bought her mother a card of buttons at the dime store for her birthday reminded me of a bitter experience. This story has a good moral and I hope you will print it.

Several years ago my granddaughter, who was then five years old, picked a rose from the neighbor's garden. She wanted it for her mother. When the neighbor saw her she began to shout and curse. I immediately asked the man how much he thought the rose was worth. He said, "Five dollars." I gave him a $5 bill and he seemed satisfied. Then I looked up the street and saw my daughter-in-law hitting the little girl with a stick. The child had tried to give her mother the rose and her mother was beating her. I have never seen such a sad little face in my life.

That night I told my son about the incident and both he and his wife suggested that I mind my own business and terrible argument followed. That was seven years ago and I haven't been inside their home since.

Last week my son called and said they had taken the girl to a specialist because she is "disturbed." The specialist suggested that the girl should be placed elsewhere. My son asked me if I would take her. How can I undo all those early years of abuse and fear? Please tell me. — HEARTBROKEN GRANDMOTHER.

DEAR GRANDMOTHER: Children who are emotionally damaged because of extremely harsh treatment often carry the scars forever. Generous doses of love and understanding in a new environment could help your granddaughter find her place in the world. I hope you will give it a try. There is much to be gained and little to lose.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

How to Make Pop-up Toaster Tarts

By MARY MOORE

We were quietly busily slitting, opening and reading the day's mail when Shirley pushed one letter across the desk for me to see saying, "This will test your skill and knowledge." Dear Mary: Would you please give a recipe for ——— Tarts" (toaster pastries). Signed Mrs. L. C. I said, "Good grief, does she think I am a magician? Teams of researchers work on these commercial products for months before they go on the market and she thinks I can pull this rabbit out of a hat." Undaunted with a box of these 6 for 57 cents tarts before us I sat with my dietitian sister and between us we worked out a tentative pastry dough and filling formula. To our amazement and delight the result was better than either of us dared expect.

HOMEMADE FRUITPOPS
(Pop up toaster tarts)

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tbsp. cornstarch
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. single acting baking powder
2 tbsps. sugar
2 tbsps. skim milk powder
2 tbsps. shortening
2 tbsps. corn syrup
2 tbsps cold water

Into a large mixing bowl, sift together the sifted flour, cornstarch, salt, baking powder, sugar and skim milk powder. Cut in shortening with pastry blender until size of small peas. Stir in corn syrup and water. Press dough into ball between your palms. Turn out onto lightly floured board and knead gently about until it is smooth and pliable. Shape it into an oblong block about the size of a brick. Roll it out, retaining as straight sides as possible, to ⅛" thickness. This is very thin. Cut dough into strips 9" x 2½" with pastry wheel (or knife). Using thick Jam or marmalade (see below), spread bottom half of each strip thinly with it, to within ½" of edges. Fold top half of strip over jam and with your finger tips carefully seal edges. With a toothpick, puncture top at even ½" intervals to allow steam to escape. (I had 7 rows of 4 punctures each.) Brush tops all over thinly with evaporated milk. Lift pastries on pancake turner and transfer to buttered baking sheets. This amount makes 6 well - shaped pastries. You may have enough dough to make a 7th one but size may not be perfectly uniform. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. having pan on centre rack. Bake about 13 to 15 min. or until edges are gold and top is pale gold.

NOTES: 1) Obviously these do not contain the stabilizers that commercial products do and would not keep as well as they do at room temperature on your kitchen shelf. So store them well wrapped in refrigerator or freezer and use them up within a week. 2) In one of my flashes for the filling I used 1" cup sieved canned cherry pie filling.

Successful Living

Before Dealing With How to Relax One Must Get at the Root of Problem

Dear Doris: Could you please recommend books dealing with the subject of how to relax?

I am 43 years of age, have always been rather high strung and take most everything quite seriously. Consequently I suffer from tension pains. (My doctor is treating me for this.) I usually sit on the edge of my chair, fly off the handle easily (but not in public).

I would just love to be a calm relaxed person. Do you know of any really effective and worthwhile book I can read that would be of help? — Tensed Up.

Dear Tensed Up: What wound you up in the first place? A home full of rivalries? Challenges too great for you? A keyed-up mother?

Perhaps you demand perfection of yourself in running your home. Could be you sense a certain dissatisfaction in your husband and strive to satisfy him. Until you find the cause, the tensions won't leave.

I can supply the name of an excellent book on techniques of physical relaxation, once you are on the right track emotionally.

Dear Doris: When my son graduates from high school he would like to obtain work on board ship but does not wish to join the navy. Could you tell me where we might obtain information regarding such training if any is necessary? — Mrs. H. C.

Dear Mrs. H. C.: Most ocean-going vessels putting into Canadian ports have bases in England or some other country. This means the crews are hired in those countries and all the time between trips is spent there.

Doesn't leave much room for Canadians, except on the lake boats. I'll send you the address for them.

DORIS CLARK

But I'm wondering if you aren't putting the cart before the horse, after all! Jobs on a ship range from deck hand to engineer to captain, seullery maid to doctor, and many in between. What are your boy's talents, aside from a yen for the water?

Dear Reader: About "The Rocking Chair". A Western singer sings his song about his mother, who lived in Nova Scotia. This is the song "Nostalgia" wrote to you about. I'm sure she should be able to buy the records. — Reader in Regina

Dear Reader: It's nostalgic, all right. And many readers have sent it, in, knowing it as either song or poem.

This verse is particularly appealing:

"I know some kids in an orphan's home
Who'd think they owned heaven if she was their own,
They'd never be willing to let her sit there,
Rocking alone in an old rocking chair."

There are also four-line verses in all; anyone may have it for 10 cents and a stamped envelope.

Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster Universities, and has broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In Defence of Hong Kong

Many of the 557 Canadians who died in the vain defence of Hong Kong against the Japanese in 1941 are buried in this military cemetery overlooking the British outpost. Some graves stones bear only the legend: "A soldier of the 1939-45 war in a Canadian regiment: Known unto God." For those whose bodies were never found, names are inscribed in a stone memorial.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

Staff Sportswriter

The half-way point in the final 70-game National Hockey League schedule is upon us and that means the sports' stars are keeping an eye turned toward the first-half awards and the loot that goes with them.

And one player who is certain to grab a big share of the awards gold and glory is Chicago Black Hawk centre Stan Mikita.

It's nothing new for Mikita to be in line for an all-star spot and, while he has never won the award, Stan has also been in the running for the Hart Trophy as the NHL's most valuable player on previous occasions.

Mikita is a lead-pipe cinch to grab the first all-star centre spot and is also a strong bet for Hart honors right now. He could get opposition from New York Rangers' Rod Gilbert in the MVP voting but our money is on Mikita.

However, the big surprise as far as most people is concerned is that Stan should also lead in the Lady Byng voting, the trophy that goes annually to an outstanding player who combines sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct with his ability.

Mikita's penalty record after 32 Chicago games is four minutes. This from a player who broke into the NHL with 119 minutes in his rookie year and followed it up by serving 100, 97, 69, 146, 154 and 58 in the following years.

To watch Mikita play, it seems impossible that he would draw as few as two minors near the half-way point in the schedule. He eggs on the loop's hard-noses, argues decisions with officials and never backs away from trouble. Because of his play-making and scoring ability, he is a prime target for league tough guys.

Stan himself hasn't been able to explain his low penalty total this year, nor has coach Billy Reay. But as long as he continues to set such a blistering pointpace (17 goals, 24 assists, 51 points and a 16-point lead over runner-up and linemate Ken Wharram) neither are going to let his "new style" cost them any sleep.

Mikita, by the way, seems certain to surpass Bobby Hull's all-time single-season point total of 97, established last season, barring injuries.

Chicago and New York players are likely to grab off a number of the all-star spots.

Mikita has little opposition at centre, with his usual adversaries, Norm Ullman, Alex Delvecchio, Red Kelly, Dave Keon, Bob Pulford, Jean Beliveau and Henri Richard, laboring far behind him. Kelly is having another fine year for the Leafs but not enough to make Punch Imlach's Phil Goyette will likely battle Kelly for second-team honors and the Lady Byng Trophy. Gilbert is also a prime Byng candidate.

Flanking the Hawk are will likely be Bobby Hull on left wing and Gilbert on right. Hull, despite playing all season with leg miseries, is still the league's best while Gilbert is having a tremendous year and should get the nod over Wharram, Gordie Howe, Bobby Rousseau or Bernie Geoffrion. New York's Donnie Marshall or teammate Don Mahos are expected to give Hull the most point opposition. And brother Dennis will also draw some support.

Defence will again show Rangers-Hawk colors where Harry Howell should at last get first-club ratings along with Pierre Pilote. Howell, shoved out of contention by bad Ranger clubs in the past, is enjoying his best scoring year as well as playing strong defensively.

This pair should also battle it out for the James Norris Trophy, as the league's top defenceman. Right now we favor Howell.

On his play this season, New York goalie Ed Giacomin will probably outpoint Montreal's Charlie Hodge and the Hawks' Glenn Hall. We will still have to see Giacomin play that well all year to believe he is that good but Hall's and now you can't count him out.

Second-team defence berths are wide open and should see votes divided among J. C. Tremblay, Bobby Orr, Arnie Brown, Pat Stapleton, Allen Stanley and Jacques Laperriere, to mention a few.

Orr should get more votes than Toronto's Brian Conacher or Chicago's Ed Van Impe in the rookie Calder Trophy race, despite missing quite [illegible] games through injuries. Bobby has shown already that he will be one of the great ones — to no one's surprise.

Well, that's about the way it looks from here but the men who cast the official votes usually come up with some surprises. Don't bet it won't happen again.

Russians Downed 5-4 ★★★★★ ★★★★★ Czechs Finish 2nd

First Win For Canada In Five Years

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Soviet Union, which contends it can romp on equal terms against the best North American professional hockey teams, has learned a bitter lesson.

The Soviet national team discovered it couldn't contend with the needling tactics of one former National Hockey League defenceman and lost 5-4 to its Canadian counterpart in the Centennial world hockey tournament Friday night.

Coach Jackie McLeod explained after the game that defenceman Carl Brewer "really turned the tide in his team's favor by coaxing the Russians into "two or three penalties" in the second period.

"We saw the Czechs coax several Russian players into penalties Wednesday night so we decided to try the same thing," McLeod said. "... Carl did a good job of it."

Trailing 2-1 after the first period and 3-1 early in the second, Canada scored three power-play goals—two unassisted by Brewer, to take a 4-3 lead into the final 20 minutes.

Russia got one power-play goal in the third period but Canada matched it while both teams were at full strength to finish the four - team round-robin tournament undefeated. Czechoslovakia had one defeat, Russia two and the United States three.

Jean Cusson, Gary Dineen, Billy MacMillan and Fran Huck scored the other goals for Canada. Yuri Parfanovich scored two goals for the Russians, while Igor Romishevski and Alexander Strogano got the others.

The tournament victory marked the end of a five-year drought for Canada's international hockey ambassadors.

Trail Smoke Eaters last won the world hockey championship for Canada in 1961. Sweden won in 1962 and Russia has won every year since.

This year's world championship is scheduled for Vienna in March.

Roger Bourbonnais, the Canadian captain, accepted the Centennial tournament trophy from Prime Minister Pearson.

"The Canadian team deserves all the credit and we congratulate them," said Soviet coach Arkidy Chershinev.

Brewer and Cusson struck the key blows.

Brewer, who had some problems slipping the chains that bound him to Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL, ricocheted a slapshot off a Soviet leg to make it 3-2 and give Canada its first lead.

"That was the turning point," McLeod said. "From then on we held them off."

The Canadians, greeted the starting buzzer with determination.

But Danny O'Shea, replacing Ray Cadieux on Bourbonnais's right, took a penalty for spearing at 2:18.

The Soviet power play, which hit paydirt three times during nine Canadian minor penalties, went to work. Victor Yakushev sent a pass to Romishevski, who beat Canadian goaltender Wayne Stephenson cleanly from the right to make it 1-0.

Strignaov, making his initial tournament appearance in a Soviet personnel shuffle, broke away against Canadian defenceman Barry MacKenzie to make it 2-0 at 10:12.

The Canadian power play, which missed the first of 10 opportunities, got its second chance when the Russians took a penalty at 14:34.

Huck converted Brewer's pass two seconds after Blinov stepped back on the ice.

Huck was off for holding when Paramonkin's slider squeezed under Stephenson's pad to make it 3-1 at 3:31 of the second period.

Then came the three power-play goals by Brewer, Cusson and Dineen.

The Russians flexed their muscles in the early stages of the third period but Stephenson stood his ground for three outstanding saves.

Then, at 6:00, O'Shea took a penalty.

Paramonkin tied it at 6:37 but almost before the Russians realized it was 4-4, the Cusson crew roared into the Soviet end. In 14 seconds, MacMillan put Canada ahead for good.

Russia gets three return engagements against Canada—in Montreal Sunday, in Toronto Tuesday and in Kitchener Thursday—then it's the world championship in Vienna March 18-29.

Brewer, Dineen, Cusson On All Stars

CARL BREWER

WINNIPEG (CP) — Three members of Canada Nationals' centennial world tournament hockey champions, and three players from runner-up Czechoslovakia, were named Friday to the tournament all-star team.

Vaclav Nedomansky, all-star right winger and a six-goal performer, was named the most valuable and most-important-like player while Vladimir Nadrchal, also of Czechoslovakia, was named outstanding goalkeeper.

Carl Brewer, former National Hockey League defenceman who joined Canada's national team last month, was named right defenceman, beside Czechoslovakia's Jan Suchy.

On the forward line, Canada's centre Gary Dineen, who collected eight points on two goals and six assists, was flanked on the right by Nedomansky and on the left by Jean Cusson, the Canadian who scored six goals and picked up an assist to tie for top spot on the scoring race with Dineen.

It was the first time in five years that Russian players were not included in the all-star team of a major international tournament.

The team, selected by sports-writers and sportscasters during the six-game tournament, was announced following Canada's 5-4 victory over Russia.

Toe Blake Fined $200

MONTREAL (CP) — Toe Blake, coach of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, has been fined $200 by league president Clarence Campbell after a review of an incident in Detroit last Sunday night.

Late in the period of Montreal's 4-1 loss to the Red Wings Blake was ejected from the game by referee Vern Buffey.

In a Friday meeting in Campbell's office here, reports from Buffey and referee - in - chief Scotty Morrison was reviewed by league president before his decision was reached.

After his meeting with Blake, Campbell issued the following statement:

"The facts are that Buffey imposed a bench penalty against Canadiens when Blake used abusive language and a loud voice in criticizing Buffey as play progressed for not calling a penalty against Detroit.

"When play was about to resume following the imposition of the bench minor, Blake continued to criticize the referee in a loud voice and stood up on his players' bench with one foot on the boards.

"Referee Buffey then ordered Blake down from his position or he would put him out of the game.

"When Blake failed to respond, Buffey ejected the Montreal coach under rule 62E and F which require a coach to quit the bench and to desist from further attempts to direct his club.

"Blake left the bench but took up a position behind the glass partition a few feet away. The game was resumed and concluded without further incident.

"The bench minor which prompted the subsequent event was appropriate and it is clear Blake was responsible for his own dismissal from the game.

"In the circumstances a fine of $200 is appropriate," Campbell said.

Hillman Sent To Rochester

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs announced Friday they are sending defenceman Larry Hillman to Rochester Americans, their farm club in the American Hockey League.

John Anderson, secretary to manager - coach George (Punch) Imlach, said Hillman is being sent to Rochester to make room for veteran defencemen Allan Stanley and Bobby Baun, both of whom have recovered from injuries and are scheduled to play tonight when Toronto plays Boston Bruins in a National Hockey League game.

Baun and Stanley will join Murrel Pronovost, Tim Horton and Kent Douglas on the Toronto defence. Pronovost, struck in the right eye in Wednesday's 4-1 tie with New York Rangers, reported to practice Friday with the eye swollen shut because of infection. Club doctors, however, assured the swelling can be reduced with heat treatments in time for Pronovost to play Saturday.

Andersen said Rochester will send defenceman More Reasone back to Tulsa of the Central Professional Hockey League.

Centre Red Kelly, out two to four weeks with stretched knee ligaments, will be replaced by Peter Stemkowski who will be given a regular berth at centre. Stemkowski has been used sparingly this season.

Imlach said he will shake up his forward lines because of the injury to Kelly, using Stemkowski between Brian Conacher and Eddie Shack, Dave Keon as centre for Frank Mahovlich and Ron Ellis and Bob Pulford between Larry Jeffrey and George Armstrong.

Four Goals In Second Enable Mo-Hawks To Break Chinas

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

A blistering second-period attack produced one of the Mo-Hawks' most impressive scoring displays of the season and sent the club flying to a well-earned 7-4 victory over Collingwood Georgian Chinas here last night.

WAYNE McCONNELL

Collingwood's loss was only the league-leader's fifth of the year.

And the win proved a "must" for the Mo-Hawks, keeping them in a fifth-place tie with Guelph Regals who also upset Galt last night.

The Mo-Hawks hit the road for games in Toronto Sunday and Collingwood next Friday before returning home against Guelph on Jan. 17.

Wingers Wayne McConnell and Gary Gresdahl paced BeBeville's 19-point attack. Each scored two goals and assisted on another. Bob McAlpine and Eddie Marineau had a goal and assist each and Wayne "Wiener" Brown added the other goal.

Minnie Menard, centring the "M" line with McAlpine and McConnell, earned assists on four goals to boost his point total to 20. Gary Darling had two assists, John Baker and Lloyel Bolly one each.

Collingwood's marksmen were John Lumley, Bill Abbott, Pern St. Onge and Ted Henderson.

Steve Rose turned in another solid game in the Mo-Hawks' net as the visitors held a narrow 30-28 shooting edge. They outshot the winners 14-5 and led 2-1 in the first period. Belleville commanded play in the second and blasted 16 shots at Chuck Jewell while building a 5-3 lead.

The Mo-Hawks took advantage of six Georgian penalties to score three power-play goals. Collingwood scored one goal with a man advantage as the victors drew three minors.

Lumley got loose at the corner of the net to open the scoring with Crawford off at 4.15. Gresdahl got Darling back a minute later, fooling Jewell from well out after a good play by Baker. Both clubs were flying from the start in this one.

Abbott shoved Collingwood ahead for the last time at 9.33 ,shooting into an open net while Rose was tangled up in a goalmouth traffic jam.

Later the Mo-Hawks failed to threaten with a man advantage but it was different in the second brral, McAlpine tied it after just 42 seconds when a deflected pass found him in the clear on the left side.

Henderson went off at 2.52 and the Mo-Hawks hemmed the Chinas in their end until Brown gunned home Darling's short pass at 4.32. His 35-foot sizzler beat Jewell before he could move.

St. Onge tied it again at 9.47 but the Mo-Hawks failed to ease up. Darling was hurt when hit by Ray Grieger at 13.45 and McConnell put the Mo-Hawks in front to stay while Collingwood was short-handed. He finished a play with Menard and Bolly by spinning in front and nestling a low backhand inches inside the goalpost.

McConnell ripped another backhand home at 18.22, assisted by Menard and McAlpine, for the 5-3 count. Earlier in the period, Brown's fine point play inspired a steady Mo-Hawk attack with the clubs five aside.

The Mo-Hawks checked well and kept the Georgians off balance to protect their lead in the third. Gresdahl jammed in a loose puck at 10.40 after a two-on-one break with Menard.

Collingwood cut it to 6-4 when Henderson's blueline shot deflected off a Belleville player, giving Rose no chance.

Marineau recovered his re-bound off a defenceman and slapped it home to close the scoring seconds later.

Darling was slashed by Henderson and limped to the dressing room in the final minute. Bob Taylor was also hurt earlier after crashing into the end boards. Most of the Mo-Hawks looked bushed at the end after skating all out in the strong team effgt.

Sale Confused
Harvey Ready To Sue

BALTIMORE (AP) — Veteran defenceman Doug Harvey said Friday that unless the confusion over his sale to Providence by Baltimore Clippers is cleared up by Monday, he will ask his lawyer to start legal proceedings.

Harvey, 42, a veteran of the National Hockey League, refused to report to Providence after a deal was completed between the two American trade or sell him.

The former star of Toronto and New York NHL teams said at the time of the sale Reardon called Buster Clegg, Providence general manager, and told him that "if Doug said this is what I said I promised him, it must be true."

Reardon then gave me the telephone, so I could try to arrange my own deal with Clegg.

The Man Who Won With The Cards Then Lost With Yankees Dies At 55

HOUSTON (AP) — Johnny Keane, the gentlemanly little manager who suffered through one of baseball's most tragic success stories in reverse, is dead.

A massive heart attack at his home here Friday night claimed the mild, cigar-chomping perfectionist who won the world championship with St. Louis Cardinals in 1964, only to be fired 18 months later by the New York Yankees when the American League club plunged to the cellar.

He was 55. He had spent more than half his life—30 years—building a dream with the Cardinal chain.

When death came to him suddenly, he held the unenviable position of special scout with California Angels.

The baseball world was shocked—and saddened. Keane, renowned as a good organizer, an astute manager and a person of extremely high principles, was universally respected and liked.

SPEAKS FOR OTHERS

Bob Fishel, chief publicist for the Yankees, spoke for all impressed the sentiments of most baseball personalities when he said:

"He was one of the finest men it has been my pleasure to be associated with. He was a marvelous human being."

Bing Devine, now president and general manager of St. Louis, hired Keane as manager, and he was shocked and grieved.

"Johnny was like one of the family," Devine, now president of the New York Mets, added. Bob Fishel, a close friend of Keane complained of feeling ill shortly after dinner Friday. He collapsed and died before a physician, Dr. William C Sutton, called a massive coronary occlusion.

"It was pretty sudden," the doctor said.

The doctor said it was the first heart attack Keane had suffered, although the former manager had been under treatment for heart trouble and high blood pressure.

JOHNNY KEANE

Keane was the central figure in one of the game's most bizarre managerial shifts.

In 1963, Keane's Cardinals were barely seven out for the National League pennant to Los Angeles Dodgers after a streak of 19 victories in 20 game.

The next year experts persisted that both Keane and the St. Louis general manager, Devine, were headed for discord. In mid-season the Cards fired Devine and hired Bob Hawaiian Leo Durocher was slated to replace Keane.

However, Keane rallied his Cardinals and won top pennant on the final day of the season after the dramatic collapse of Philadelphia Phillies.

Then the Cardinals won the World Series from New York Yankees, four games to three.

Keane was in a position to be named manager of the combined to a contract renewal with the Cardinals. Instead, he quit—in a fighting humor—to took over as manager of the Yankees, replacing the ousted Yogi Berra.

With Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris sufferinjr injuries plagued to 10th place. It was and the team generally riddled then, apparently at the direction of with misfortune. Keane was the controllers Columbia able to get the Yankees only as Broadcasting System, that high as sixth in 1965.

Things went from bad to Keane was fired in May and worse in 1966, and the team replaced by general manager Ralph Houk.

Two Tight Games
Quinte Sweeps Picton

By ROBERT SNEYDELLA

For the second time in a row, Quinte Secondary's COSSA "A" basketball squads have swept triple victories from opposing schools ,Picton High School fell victim to visiting Quinte's onslaught yesterday, but not without a fight.

In the most exciting contest of the night, the Quinte juniors had to be in the final moment of play and held on to nab a 46-41 verdict. In senior play, Quinte moved into the lead throughout the game to defeat Picton 58-32, while the bantams had to left the outcome in doubt as they ripped through Picton 52-26.

Quinte led by a basket after the first quarter, and 24-18 at the half. Picton failed to tie it in the third quarter, but both teams matched basket for basket in the final eight minutes. Quinte's Bob Brewster broke in for a basket with less than a minute on the clock to put Quinte ahead for good, after Picton was unable to score.

Paul Goodfellow led the Quinte charge with a 13 point effort, including several clutch baskets in the fourth quarter. Glen Hawes chipped 16 and Brownlee had 12.

Dulmage and Coward scored 16 and 15 points respectively for the losers.

In senior, Quinte maintained their lead of one or two baskets right down to the closing whistle. Both teams were accurate from the field, but unlike Quinte, Picton was unable to get in close to the opposing basket and were forced to shoot from outside. Picton's zone defence had holes in it that were exploited by Quinte.

Mike Sedlock of Quinte was deadly with his jump shot in keeping 14 points. Centre Phil Bradley who carried much of the winner's rebounding chore, had 13 points, as did Terry Wellesley. Dave Middleton and Ted Clarke scored six each.

Fennell scored 18 points for the losers, while half-handler Ernie Sharpe had five.

Quinte's bantam team was impressive in their lop-sided win. Pete Middleton led all scorers with 20 points, while team-mate Tom Churchill was a close second with 19. Dave Ogden and Hugh Van Allen also played well for Quinte.

Oshawa, Petes Maintain Hot Junior Pace

Oshawa Crushmen and Peterborough Don Rees chalked up wins in a pair of OHA Eastern Junior "B" hockey league games last night.

Don Rees, the hottest club in the league of late, dumped Cobourg Cougars 8-3, in Port Hope, to take over undisputed possession of second place, two points ahead of Cobourg and three up on the Quinte.

The Maes are battling the Crushmen in an afternoon game in Oshawa, while Kingston travel to Cobourg for a hot one there Monday night. Oshawa hosts Trenton Sunday night.

If Red Wings Finally Ready To Fly
Playoff Race To Take On New Interest

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One big question around the National Hockey League is whether Detroit Red Wings are ready to play up to par again.

The Red Wings went through a problem slump a month ago, losing 10 of 11 games and appeared to be early also-runs in the race for playoff spots.

But the fifth-place Wings now seem ready to make a second-half bid for a playoff spot.

Detroit has posted six victories and a tie in its last 11 starts, a mark equalled only by New York Rangers, who share top spot in the league standings with Chicago Black Hawks.

The Wings have won their last three games and the club will be out to stretch that streak when they clash with Montreal Canadiens tonight in one of two scheduled NHL games.

The last-place Boston Bruins meet Toronto Maple Leafs, who hold down third place in the standings, in Toronto in the other game.

On Sunday, Montreal is at New York, Toronto is at Detroit and Boston visits Chicago.

The Red Wings appear to be rounding into the form that got them into the Stanley Cup final against Montreal last year.

The Wings have been plenty of scoring punch with 37 goals in 11 games. Gordie Howe and Norm Ullman have led the attack with six goals apiece and Alex Delvecchio has come into his own with four goals and six assists.

The return of winger Paul Henderson seems to have given Detroit a lift. Henderson returned to action last weekend after being out of action with a throat ailment for almost six weeks, and scored two key goals to move Detroit out of last place.

Detroit's problem is the club's inability to win road games. The Wings have only one point to show for their efforts in 10 road games so far this season.

Meanwhile, Montreal coach Toe Blake faces a cat-and-mouse struggle with injury problems.

The Canadiens have defencemen J. C. Tremblay and forward Gilles Tremblay as doubtful starters for the game.

J. C. Tremblay suffered a muscle spasm last Saturday but returned to action against Chicago Wednesday. However, he didn't practise Friday.

Gilles Tremblay suffered an ankle injury against Detroit last Sunday and Blake is not sure whether he will be ready for action, although he may be well enough to go against Detroit.

Right winger Leon Rochefort is still limping from a charley horse in his right thigh and Jeko Beliveau is still out of action following an eye injury he suffered Dec. 17.

The Leafs will be without veteran centre Red Kelly, when they face the Bruins tonight.

Kelly is expected to be out of the lineup from two to four weeks with stretched knee ligaments. He suffered the injury when checked by defencemen Harry Howell of New York last Wednesday.

Peter Stemkowski, used sparingly this season, will be given a regular berth at centre, replacing Kelly.

The Leafs announced Friday they are sending defenceman Larry Hillman to Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

Hillman is being sent to Rochester to make room for defencemen Allan Stanley and Bob Baun, both of whom have recovered from injuries and are expected to see action against the Bruins.

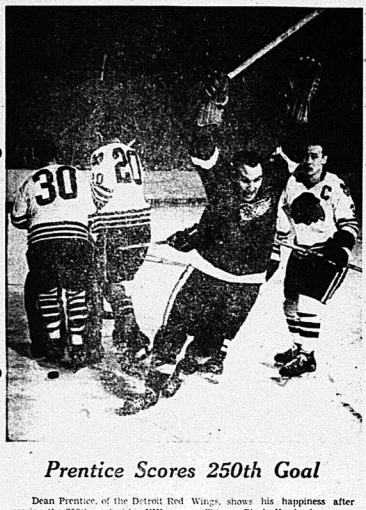
Defenceman Marcel Pronovost, struck in the eye in last Wednesday's game against the Rangers, is expected to see action tonight. Pronovost reported to practice Friday with the eye swollen shut because of infection.

However, club doctors said the swelling can be reduced with heat treatments in time for tonight's game.

Meanwhile, Chicago is expected to have Bill (Red) Hay playing against the Bruins Sunday night.

Hay retired during the off-season in favor of a career in oil engineering in Calgary.

However, general manager Tommy Ivan persuaded him to return to Chicago. Hay is expected to work out with the Black Hawks today and see action Sunday.



Prentice Scores 250th Goal

Parker Undecided About Job

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Parker, who says he knows he is being considered a candidate for the position of head hockey coach at Mississippi University, announced here Friday he still isn't sure if he wants to return to football.

"I haven't been offered the job," said Parker, who played football for Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League and Eastern Football Conference before entering amateur hockey. At 1966, "and if I get it I'm not sure if I'll take it."

"I miss football more now. I didn't recommend it that I thought I would, but I'm not sure if I want to take another season of it and then start again," said Parker, who now represents a Calgary company.

He is in Toronto, ostensibly on a three-day business visit.

Sweep Past Moira

BCIVS Rolling Along

By DAVE BRAMMER

BCIVS dealt Moira a tough defeat last night at Moira as they swept to a 69-32 victory. BCIVS led 30-22 at the half time BCI led 60-32. The fourth quarter saw Moira finally make a game out of it. The senior Trojans stayed with the BCI seniors every step of the way and matched them point for point.

In the junior game, Moira's basketball effort resulted in their first loss of the year. Trojans also played a part as three Moira first-stringers fouled out. Brian Shea and David Cass scored 17 and 12 points respectively to lead BCI to the victory. Bruce Lucas scored seven points for Moira, while Pete Bishop had six.

The bantam game was never in doubt as BCI completely outclassed Moira. John Wright scored 22 points to lead BCI while Paul Hayes had 17 points for Moira.

The scorers in the senior game were:

MOIRA — Basing 18, Hastings 16, Dobson 6, Bishop 6, Swain 2 and Finley 2.

BCI — Chalmers 28, Lornie 18, Thibeau 12, Macreary 9 and MacDougall 2.

Couldn't Hit

Packers' Tom Brown Baseball Reject

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Victory-flushed Tom Brown of Green Bay Packers didn't know what to say at first as reporters sought him out in the dressing room at Dallas.

His clutch interception in the final seconds Jan. 1 had preserved the Packers' 34-27 win over the Cowboys and given them the National Football League championship.

What was he thinking right after the play?

"I was thinking about York, Pennsylvania," he said finally.

"I was thinking that's a long way from York, Pennsylvania."

Tom Brown plays safety for the Packers. He once played first base for Washington Senators. He opened the season there in 1963 as a highly-touted rookie before being shipped to York because of high hitting. He returned to the majors briefly after that only to be sent back to the White Roses.

He quit baseball for good in 1964 to join the Packers, leaving behind his shattered dreams and a .210 batting average.

Baseball was his first love.

"You grow up with it," Brown said. "You use football as a means of getting a scholarship and an education."

Football got Brown into the University of Maryland. Baseball got him to the Senators, his favorite team as a child.

Opening day 1963 was a highlight of his life, ranking with two NFL titles and his steal against Dallas. "The President was there and everyone was there," Brown said.

"As a boy I used to go to the game on opening day. It was a big thing. The whole spotlight of the country is on Washington that day."

The ballyhooed Brown vanished quickly from the spotlight. A natural right-handed hitter, he had trouble to switch hitting. The result was he couldn't hit from either the left or right side.

"In the last three weeks at York, I decided to quit hitting left-handed and I picked up four or five home runs. It made the decision to quit baseball a little bit easier," he said.

But Brown was still down on himself when he reported to the Packers.

"I had lost a lot of confidence in myself in baseball. "I knew I wasn't that bad a hitter and even my fielding was going bad. When I came up to the Packers, I couldn't catch a thing on offence. I just looked, oh, so miserable. My hands were so bad and my legs were not in very good shape either. It was a very frustrating time."

But the Packers stayed with Brown, shifting him to the defensive backfield.

On Jan. 15, he will be playing for the world championship in the Super Bowl against the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League.

"I would guess you can't get any bigger in professional football than to play in the first Super Bowl game," said Brown. "It's a wonderful thing as far as something you can be proud of and something you can always live with and it makes a good story."

Smith Peewees Win Another

Smith Fuels, Belleville's unbeaten peewee hockey team added Richmond Hill to its list of victims Thursday night with a 4-1 win on the losers' home ice.

Richmond Hill pays a return visit in exhibition play here Sunday, at 2:15.

Belleville goals were scored by D. England, D. Lapeyrette, J. Richardson and D. Smith. Richardson had two assists, G. Smith, D. Coulson, Smith and Lapenette one each. D. Walker potted the losers' lone goal.

In another exhibition last night, Belleville Kinsmen bantams whipped Tweed bantams 9-1.

Doug. James and Terry Meagher scored two goals each. Phil Kirby, Mike Semack, Brian Cousins, Bill Buchanan and Rick Van Dusen one. It was Meagher had three assists, Cousins, Kirby, T. Meagher, Gary Thompson and Buchanan one each. M. Rashotte from G. Livesey was Tweed's scoring play.

Curling Cues By Hec Gervais

12

The situation: Your opponent has last rock, but one of his players gets careless and has a shot behind the tee line, giving him two counters. Should you take off shot rock, or play up to the rock behind the tee?

The strategy: At all times when you're doubtful if there is a chance, for it. If you are shooting your last stone, you should go for shot rock, hoping to hit and stay, or roll an front of his second shot.

Today's tip: If you should lose, don't blame the rest of your team. Think back and remember how many shots you missed in the game.

Gordie Howe's Hockey

In a recent game against the Toronto Maple Leafs at Olympia, Parker MacDonald almost scored for us. He was right out in front of the Leafs' goal and Floyd Smith put a hot pass on his stick and the puck just flew past the post on the outside.

A few seconds later Parker did score on an identical play and we were joking with him about missing the first one. He swung at the puck he had used. Smith's pass had ripped the tape off the blade.

Smitty had not passed it that hard, so it must have been the way the puck struck the stick that caused the tape to peel off.

All this leads up to the tape-ing of sticks and why we do it. There are two reasons. The friction of the tape gives a player more control of the puck. Secondly, the tape also helps to strengthen the stick. Sticks, or rather the blades of the sticks, are also bound with a fibre glass tape which you can hardly see with the naked eye. It looks like varnish, but if you look closely you can see the seams.

How a player tapes a stick is mostly a matter of personal taste. Some tape the heel, others put it from the heel to the tip of the blade while some players just put a little near the tip.

The same thing applies to the butt end of the shaft. Some wind tape around until they have a huge knob. This prevents the hand from slipping out of their hand.

On our club, Alex Delvecchio has a unique method. We don't tape a knob on the end of the stick, but wind the tape around to make a little bump just where it fits in the palm of the hand.

Along with a matter of personal taste. Alex says he finds it more comfortable and I go along with him.

Superstition enters into the taping of sticks, too. This sometimes causes our trainer Lefty Wilson extra work. Maybe he'll notice that a stick that needs a little tape and puts it on and if the player goes out and has a good night, well then Lefty has a job of taping the stick until the player has a bad night.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

BY BOB BLAIND

Last weekend the ice fishermen in the Quinte Isle and around Hastings County readed their fish huts and started fishing for pike and pickerel with a few perch thrown in.

West Lake, East Lake, Pleasant Bay and Consecon Lake have produced a few good pike and a few pickerel. These lakes do not have much ice and I would not suggest using a shelter on them unless you know where currents run. You could go for a swim.

The Bay of Quinte has a few shacks at Redneresville and the mouth of the Trent with few fish being caught here as yet. Again the ice is not too safe.

Moira Lake and Stoco Lake have again taken the lead in pickerel catches, some very nice fish coming out of both lakes. Beaver Lake is producing only too many but some good sized ones.

The perch fishing in the Belleville Harbor has been good with catches of up to 60 fish reported, caught mostly on a silver minnows.

Some of the perch fishermen have been catching rock fish and bull heads as well as perch and several have lost nice pike because of using too light a line.

Lake trout opened in Hastings Co. County January 1st. Quite a number of local fishermen had all intentions of heading back but weather reports and lack of enough ice in the lakes put a stop to all plans. Better safe than sorry.

We are having lots of trouble with the ice every winter here in this area, but this year; in fact there have practically cut off all our rabbit hunting in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties.

The day after Christmas is a busy day for a good sized group of 6 or 8 Jackrabbit hunters every year.

This year the boys went to Big Island to try their luck. Every other farmer said: "No, you don't hunt here, take off. I don't care if you are from Belleville, only the local boys can hunt here for a go back where you came from."

All this caused by out of towners who hunted and killed everything that moved whether they had permission from the land owners.

Every place you go and ask today the answer is almost the same; No Hunting. It's a shame but the only place you will be able to hunt in the very near future is on a game farm or on your own land. Better start looking around for a game farm.

The Prince Edward wolf hunters had another try at hunting these pests on the open deer season next fall, the date to be announced later in the summer. Also the bow hunters in a game farm, carp may be taken in a special season by bow and arrow. Again the dates are not as yet set but are forthcoming.

With all the snow we have, Jackrabbits can hunt just about anyplace in the bush; but be careful of creeks, rivers, lakes and sewer ponds. The ice is dangerous.

GM Recalls Cars With Steering Wheel Defects

DETROIT (AP) — Collapsible steering columns, much heralded as safety devices, are in the spotlight today because of faulty installation as General Motors Corp., recalled 269,200 new cars.

The largest of the four U.S. auto-makers said the steering shafts in the company's smaller-model 1967 cars will be replaced because they may snap.

Eight such failures have been reported so far—five in Pontiacs, two in Chevrolets and one in a Buick—all at low speed's while parking or turning, GM said.

In Oshawa, General Motors of Canada announced Friday night it has called back about 8,000 vehicles to replace steering shafts. Involved are El Camino pickup trucks, Chevelles, Beaumonts, Tempests, Oldsmobile F-85s and Buck Specials.

No accidents have been traced to the defects in the cars, GM said.

The steering shafts are the new, impact-absorbing columns designed to collapse under extreme pressure, such as that which occurs when a driver is thrown against the steering wheel.

The defect is in the way the shaft was installed, not in the design of it, the company said.

The faulty installation resulted in misalignment of the shaft, placing too much strain on it during certain manoeuvres of the car, GM said.

The stress, even though not noticeable to the driver, may cause the shaft to break, the firm said.

GM spokesmen were unavailable for comment on whether the problem might leave a car uncontrollable at high speeds.

The fault was first discovered in December and the firm began recalling Pontiac Tempests Dec. 19. A GM announcement at the time said the shaft could break "particularly when the vehicle is being parked or being turned at slow speeds."

The suspect shafts are in the smaller models produced by GM.

Owners of the suspect cars are being told by certified mail of the possibility of a steering failure. They are urged to get their car to a GM dealer promptly for replacement of the shaft, GM said.

Markets Start New Year With Impressive Gains

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's stock markets kicked off the first week of the new year with most major sectors scoring impressive gains.

The advance was paced by a surging New York market. The best gains in Toronto went to issues also listed in New York.

Brokers attributed the New York rally to rumors that President Johnson doesn't plan income tax increases in his next budget.

Other factors included a more receptive tone by the Ottawa government towards a possible Vietnam peace solution and an increase in the price of steel by Stelco, Canada's largest steelmaker.

The industrial index at Toronto climbed 2.66 to 350.49. But volume remained light. Only 10,064,000 changed hands at Toronto compared with 9,484,000 last week. At Montreal, 2,596,000 shares were traded against 2,649,000 last week.

Among interlisted issues, CPR climbed 2¼ to 57, Massey-Ferguson and Distillers 1¼ to 24¼ and 35¼, Bell Telephone to 42¼ and Walkers ¼ to 29¾.

Stelco moved up 1¼ to 21¾. Finance Minister Sharp said the government didn't plan to move against the increase.

Prices of other major steel producers strengthened. Algoma rose 2¼ to 24. Dofasco 1¼ to 20¾.

Ingo suffered the sharpest drop among industrials, falling 2¼ to 39.

Western oils jumped 2.83 to 133.28 on index despite profit taking Friday.

Increased activity in northwestern Alberta and anticipation of oil and natural gas leases triggered the interest.

Scurry-Rainbow was up 1¾ to 21¾, Union Oil 1¼ to 24¾, Canadian Superior 5s to 31 and Great Canadian Oil Sands ¼ to 10½.

GOLDS DIP

Golds tumbled 4.10 to 151.10 on index.

Dome slid 3¾ to 11¾. Giant Yellowknife added 55 cents at 8.40.

Among base metals, Pine Point was up 3.10 to 51½, Denison 2 to 58½, Noranda 1¼ to 51 and Cominco ½ to 47.

Joliet added 8 at 58 cents on 624,600 shares in speculative mines.

Base metals gained 1.86 on index to 87.53.

At Montreal, industrials were up 2.71 to 151.50, utilities 2.88 to 131.01, banks 1.50 to 110.40 and papers .70 to 104.93.

"Sound of Music" Puts Zanuck on Top of Heap

Following is the last of five articles on the revival of 20th Century-Fox.

NEW YORK (AP) — Six months after taking over as president of 20th Century-Fox and closing its Hollywood studio, Darryl F. Zanuck was ready to make film company back into action.

He had reorganized personnel and slashed expenses. Now he was reaching the bottom of the barrel of unreleased movies and needed a resume production. He started making deals.

Richard Zanuck, his father's production chief, began staffing the studio again, rehiring 75 per cent of the workers previously released. Production resumed with such films as Mose Over, Darling, What a Way to Go, Rio Conchos and Goodbye, Charlie. The television division was revitalized, and four series were sold, including Voyage: Bottom. He started making deals.

Money began pumping through the corporate veins, thanks in large part to the release of Darryl's The Longest Day, which brought $17,000,000 in its first year. Million-dollar advances from theaters for expected rentals of Cleopatra helped the financial picture. The epic opened to dismal reviews, but business was good, especially after 20 minutes was cut from the running time.

The big change came with The Sound of Music.

Rights to that musical had been bought for $1,250,000, but 20th-Fox couldn't make the film until the Broadway run was finished. That time was approaching, and the Zanucks assigned Ernest Lehman to write the script.

The movie was filmed for $8,290,000 with Julie Andrews as the joyful Maria.

It was at the New York premiere of The Sound of Music that Darryl F. Zanuck realized he had succeeded in restoring 20th Century-Fox to prosperity.

"I knew the reviews would not be great; in fact, Bosley Crowther and Judith Crist murdered the picture," said Zanuck, referring to the film critics of the New York Times and Herald Tribune.

"But the audience raved, and I knew that we had it made."

PREPARED

Even Zanuck was not prepared for the fantastic record of The Sound of Music.

Rights to the reeling off figures for the film.

After 91 weeks in U.S. release, the film had played 670 theaters that was sold in 282 of them. The latest weekly gross is $670,000, by far the highest for any movie, and the film has still play at least 1,500 more in the United States and in the U.S. alone. It has sold more tickets than the populations of 20 American cities where it has played.

Other films, notably Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines, Our Man Flint and Fantastic Voyage have helped keep the sound of money to 20th Century-Fox. The television division is so successful—by full network hours this season—that the entire Desilu Culver studio had to be rented for the production overflow.

Employment is at an all-time high: 4,000. So is the company's gross income: $211,851,000. — $15,000,000 higher than any other film company. Profits for the last fiscal year: $12,199,000.

Guelph Tops Grads 6-5, Flyers Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Martin Prettier, I'm Younger

TORONTO (CP)— Walter Gordon and his nine fellow federal cabinet ministers from Ontario all but stole the show Friday night at the Ontario Liberal leadership convention.

The loudest applause went to External Affairs Minister Paul Martin. Delegates gave him a standing ovation when he was introduced at the start of the meeting and later when he rose to speak.

Noting his popularity, Ontario secretary Judy LaMarsh said:

"One thing about Paul Martin is he may be prettier but I'm younger."

Also warmly received was Mr. Gordon who introduced the President Gordon Blair of Ontario Liberal party as "a new federal election. He said he had advised Prime Minister Pearson to call the election which did not improve the party's standing in Parliament.

He was named minister without portfolio earlier this week.

Robert Nixon, unanimously elected leader of the Ontario party, had reporters earlier he was delighted that Mr. Gordon had returned to the cabinet.

Finance Minister Mischell Sharp, who reportedly does not always see eye to eye with Mr. Gordon on finance policies, spoke of a rumor that the Ontario Liberal party is dead.

PARTY NOT DEAD

"The Liberal party of Ontario is no more dead than Walter Gordon. And you can see he is very much alive.

"I meant it when I said: Welcome Walter Gordon back to the cabinet."

Mr. Sharp said the party does not mind a little diversity."The Liberal creed is unity and diversity."

Walls Must Be Removed

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

In ancient times, a man made an unusual boast. "By my God," he wrote, "I can leap over a wall." (Psalm 18:29 RSV)

What wall he had in mind, we do not know. Perhaps he thought of scaling the walls of an enemy stronghold. Perhaps he had escaped this way from an enemy prison.

Whatever it was, we can be glad for his prowess. It gave him confidence of victory, and assurance of God's watchcare over him.

But there are some walls over which many people cannot leap. They are not walls of stone and mortar. They are social walls, walls of caste, walls of prejudice, walls of insecurity. For the few who can leap such walls, there are many who cannot. For them, such walls rem a in prison walls.

If they are to be helped, such walls must be removed. What Jesus did for people in His day, we must try to do today. To Gentiles who were now welcome to worship with their Jew i sh neighbors in Christian congregations, the Apostle Paul said of Jesus, "He . . . has broken down the middle wall of hostility." (Ephesians 2:14 RSV)

Jesus was determined that no man-made walls would prevent His ministry. He summed up His purpose by quoting from the prophet Isaiah. His purpose was "to preach good news to the poor . . . to proclaim release to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed . . ." (Luke 4:18 RSV)

The words were hardly out of His mouth when he ran into His first barrier, Chiding His hometown hearers for their lack of faith, He showed how God had by-passed their assertion to show mercy to some of their hated enemies. There were plenty of widows in Israel who needed help in Elisha's day, but God showed special mercy to a widow at Sidon. There were plenty of lepers then in Israel who needed healing, but God granted healing to a leader in Syria. (Luke 4:25 - 27)

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for January 8: "Jesus Begins His Ministry." Luke 4:16 through 6:11.

That Jesus put His finger on a sore point is shown by the violence of their reaction (Luke 4:29). Many of them thought of God as their special property. It hurt their nationalistic pride to be reminded of God's good-nature as a sore point is shown by the violence of their reaction (Luke 4:29). Many of them thought of God as their special property. It hurt their nationalistic pride to be reminded of God's good-nature minister after the last federal cabinet shuffle.

Your Car

Coddle Vehicle If Cold

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

During these frigid months, you've got to coddle your car. Take cold engine starts. A common fault is to overwork the battery if the engine balks at turning over, there may do more than run the battery down. It can heat up the starting motor and possibly damage it.

Next, there's that habit of vigorously pumping the gas pedal in "priming" the engine once it starts. Most drivers realize this wastes gas, but comparatively few are aware that it allows raw fuel to wash into the crankcase and dilute the oil. It also endangers vital parts while they're still cold and not yet protected by normal oil circulation.

Then, there's the urge to get underway fast. This can be damaging. Cold, stiff, brittle springs, shocks, axles and frame must be given a chance to warm up. Otherwise, breakage is invited and your car will feel like it's riding on square tires.

Forcing the car too quickly will also endanger such items as the transmission and wheel bearings, if strong demands are made before lubricants have had a chance to warm up.

Pleasure All Mine

Diefenbaker Welcomes Gordon

OTTAWA (CP)—"The pleasure is all mine," said Opposition Leader Diefenbaker when informed of former finance minister Walter Gordon's return to the federal cabinet this week.

There was no hiding the relish with which the Conservative leader was greeting the return to the firing line of one of his favorite targets. Mr. Gordon's resignation from the cabinet in November, 1963, took him from it.

There's an unwritten rule in the Commons—and one of the few unwritten rules that still is more often observed than broken — that the opposition's strongest criticisms are directed only at members of the government party actively involved in governing.

Former ministers rarely get drawn into verbal cross-fire in the Commons once they have resigned from the cabinet. But former ministers who go back to the ministry are fair game. One of the safest bets of the new year is that Mr. Diefenbaker is gathering notes about what others have said of Mr. Gordon's return. They promise to contribute to some lively sessions when Mr. Gordon and Mr. Diefenbaker join in debate.

Gil Molgat, Liberal leader in Manitoba, for instance, said he'd have to wait and see what Mr. Gordon's return to the cabinet means in economic policy.

As long as the former minister was removed from finance and trade, he could be a useful man to the government and the party.

But if it means a return to restrictive trade and investment policies, western Liberals will have to call another protest conference, Mr. Molgat said.

Ray Perrault, British columbia Liberal leader, noted that Mr. Gordon's economic nationalism was rejected at last year's national Liberal conference and added: "I hardly think any federal government would adopt policies contrary to the vast majority of its members."

Lawrence Jolivet, B.C. Liberal party president, saw Mr. Gordon's return to the cabinet a harmless gesture. "As a minister without portfolio he probably won't do any harm."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he never ceases to be amazed at the government's capacity for unashamedly swallowing itself whole.

One of Mr. Diefenbaker's western lieutenants, Eldon Woolliams (PC — Bow River) said Mr. Gordon is "the last nationalistic radical in the Liberal party," whose return to the cabinet could split both it and the party.

Mr. Gordon's return also prompted acid comment by newspaper columnists.

Charles Lynch of Southam News Service, commenting on Mr. Gordon's flair for politics, said:

"The greatest flair he displayed was one for falling on his face, usually in full view of the House of Commons.

"His return demonstrated once again the remarkable fact that in our politics failure can be used as a springboard to success. To rise, you first must sink—as shown by the careers of Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker, and above all, Mr. Gordon. One more pratfall and he could wind up prime minister."

John Meyer, writing in the financial pages of the Montreal Gazette and some other newspapers:

"Mr. Gordon has regained, in the eyes of the business community all his former influence and more. Any minister who has resigned, who then continues to command a rump within his party, and who is finally returned to cabinet is in an excellent position to demand more than he could demand before his resignation.

"Why bring back Mr. Gordon at all? . . . Was it fear Mr. Gordon might reappear as a member of the New Democratic Party? The NDP advocates the same brand of economic nationalism that Mr. Gordon does and he would be perfectly at home in their ranks."

Fraser Robinson, financial editor of the Toronto Globe and Mail, noted a spontaneous debt owed by Prime Minister Winters from his prepared text for a speech to the Empire Club of Toronto when he lauded the response of Canadian subsidiaries of foreign corporations to the government's guidelines for good corporate behavior.

"It was a direct and very forceful denial of Walter Gordon's thesis that Canada stands in need of domination by foreign business," Robertson wrote, "and an equally blunt assertion that foreign owned businesses operating in this country are good Canadian citizens.

"Thus, Mr. Winters celebrated the return of Mr. Gordon to the Liberal with who amounted to a declaration of warfare."

Two Rail Unions Still Hope Arbitration Will Be Avoided

MONTREAL (CP) — Compulsory arbitration came clanging into the Canadian labor scene for a second major union group Friday when negotiations with the railways chugged to a stop.

But two other railway union groups still expressed the hope their memberships would approve a tentative settlement worked out during three months of federal mediation ordered by Parliament.

Reaching the end of the line in voluntary negotiations Friday was the non-operating group, which announced that its 25,000 members have rejected the settlement terms by mediator H. Carl Goldenberg.

T. W. Read, president of the shopcraft group, said the membership voted more than two-thirds in favor of rejecting the settlement, which proposed a wage increases of 24 per cent for unskilled workers and 28 per cent for skilled men in a three-year contract.

First group to reject the offer was the 20,000-member Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, which withdrew from negotiations Nov. 25 and turned down the offer Dec. 15.

The rejection sends both the shopcraft group and the CBRT into compulsory arbitration, under terms of parliamentary legislation Sept. 1 ending the week-long strike against seven railways, including the CNR and the CPR.

In Ottawa, set aside is Labor Minister Nicholson said that within three weeks the minister will name a three-man board of arbitration which will make a binding settlement on the unions.

Two other union groups, however, Friday expressed satisfaction with the settlement and urged their memberships to accept the offer.

R. C. Smith, chairman of the bargaining committee for seven unions representing about 55,000 residual non-operating workers, said the committee voted overwhelmingly to submit the proposal to membership for acceptance.

"I think the membership will accept," he added, saying results of a ratification vote should be announced by Feb. 15.

J. R. Harris, general chairman of the eastern region for the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said Friday he expects the group's 20,000 members will accept the settlement. Results on its ratification vote are expected Jan. 25.

The tentative agreement, including an 18-percent increase, negotiated Sept. 1 by Parliament, would give unskilled workers an increase of 24 per cent and skilled persons an increase of 28 per cent.

It would push up the average wage of non-operating workers from $2.22 an hour paid under the last contract to $2.72 an hour by Jan. 1, 1968.

The CNR and CPR issued a joint statement saying "there can be no question of further negotiations" from the shopcraft group, which includes machinists, boilermakers, electricians and other tradesmen who service train equipment.

Members of the CBRT work as sleeping car porters, dining car employees, clerks, freight handlers and various office staffers.

They are among the railway workers known as non-operating employees, workers who are not involved in the actual running of the trains. The non-ops and the trainmen were locked out Aug. 26, demanding an increase in wages of 30 per cent.

Social Activity Not Real Answer

By THOMAS COLLINS

To be socially popular in retirement is not enough. You need more.

This is becoming apparent as more people retire with more money, and can afford to entertain.

Leonard M. Fraser, who has now switched from a social life to a half-interest in an electrical repair shop,explains how it is:

"All of us coming up to retirement are warned that loneliness will be a problem," he says, "and we are urged to cultivate friends. My wife and I did this as soon as I retired, partly because of the warning, partly because we found that social mingling is about all there is for retired people to do . . ."

The Frasers were somewhat more successful at it than most. They got into a bridge club, with weekly meetings. They also can swapping dinner invitations, mostly with older couples back at his company or with other retired people they came to know. There were more cocktail parties than anything else.

"It was enjoyable at first," Mr. Fraser says. "You meet new people, go to new homes, get dressed up. But social activity should be the sauce on the steak, not the steak. After we retire from our jobs we don't have any steak . . . and social activity is not sensational enough to stand alone. You reach a point where it's not very satisfying . . .

Among retired people, he says, social friends centre their interest on their children, not on each other. And they are a fluctuating group. They move. They grow ill. They just get tired and fade away. You must constantly be recruiting replacements.

"And the financial aspects begin to bother you," he continues. "Even if you are comfortable on money, it takes a nice sum to give dinner parties. And if you go in for entertaining cocktail invitations and buy liquors you can go broke fast.

"My wife and I gradually came to see that social functions were only that — a return invitation and some polite conversation. We had nowhere else to offer us, or we them. And Heaven knows the affairs were all the old people of our age-zone to all our lives. No imagination. Not much effort by the hostess.

"We decided that if we could get over the juvenile urge to be popular we could enjoy ourselves much more by sitting at night reading and watching television. Without all the trouble of getting dressed . . . and good for street numbers in the dark."

The Frasers slowly fapered off to a minimum of the social engagements a week. That and church, they figured, would give them what outside contacts they needed with people. They were careful to retain among their social friends a few couples who had some common interests with them and who were most likely to be around a while.

Then Mr. Fraser started looking for some other part-time service industry is a natural for a retired man. Everybody is crying for services, from dry-cleaning, to travel reservations, to appliance repairs, to TV and radio work, to plumbing, tailoring — the list is endless. Yet such services come from small business shops with no more than a repair shop for $2,500. It was a one-man operation, and the one man, who was a good mechanic, couldn't tend the store, cover the phone and collect bills while he was out repairing a light fixure. Mr. Fraser took over as office manager for $50 a month, and he figured was a 25 percent return on his investment. He asked no salary, expecting to get that when he made the business grow. Which he intends to do.

DOWN PAYMENTS ON "ROLLINS HOMES"

. . . ARE NO GREATER IN MANY CASES CONSIDERABLY LESS, THAN THEY WERE 5 YEARS AGO. DESPITE THE FACT THAT PRICES HAVE INCREASED A GREAT DEAL OVER THAT PERIOD, ROLLINS HAVE BEEN ABLE TO HOLD THE LINE. Teachers Concerned About Pay; Trustees About Experience

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's 60,000 teachers, spearheaded by Toronto high school teachers, are expected to seek pay increases ranging from 10 to 25 per cent this year.

But educationists, department of education officials, parents and school trustees are asking if a pay increase is the key to quality teaching.

The need for quality has worried some officials.

There are 35,000 elementary and 25,000 secondary teachers in the province now. This fall, 37,000 elementary and 26,000 secondary teachers will be required.

"I just know they can't fill all the vacancies with qualified people," says J. D. McNabb, Peterborough principal and immediate past-president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

The average teaching experience of provincial high school teachers now is 3.8 years. In Toronto the average has dropped since 1950 to between two and three years from 21 years.

"If you have a couple of green teachers in a high school, the experienced staff members can help them over that difficult first year," says Robert Brooks, second vice - president of the 1,900-member Toronto district of the federation.

"But if almost all your staff is green, the quality of the whole school goes down. The experienced teachers get discouraged and quit, and that's what's happening."

J. R. McCarthy, Ontario deputy minister of education, says: "We're victims of our own success in retaining kids in high school. It won't be until 1970, according to our projections, that we'll have a big pool of university graduates from which to draw teachers."

High school teachers need a bachelor's degree and can teach after a six-week summer course.

"It (the summer course) might have been good enough 10 years ago but it's not good enough today," says Dr. Gerald Maher, principal of suburban Don Mills Collegiate Institute. "They get no class training. Their training is in the abstract and not in the practical.

A Bonfire Burns...But the Band Played On!

Hailing the start of city's Centennial program, hundreds of Bellevillians braved bad weather Saturday night at a giant bonfire on Zwick's Island. Band led by Doug Asseltine, blared brazenly in steady rain which also failed to damp down blaze of 6,000 Christmas trees burning in background. (For story, see Page 3.)

Tanks Battle Near Galilee

TEL AVIV (AP)—A tank battle broke out on the border today southeast of the Sea of Galilee and Israel claimed two Syrian tanks were destroyed.

A Syrian communique said fighting broke out in three sectors of the hilly 70-mile border and one Israeli tank was destroyed. It claimed there were no Syrian losses. The communique said fighting raged on "with all kinds of land weapons" into the afternoon.

An Israeli army spokesman said in addition to the two tanks destroyed, another was damaged and crew members were seen running from two more tanks, indicating they also had been hit.

The spokesman said the brisk armored engagement was preceded by two exchanges of small-arms fire to the east of the lake and in the Hulch area farther north where the Syrians Sunday fired 20 shells and directed machine-gun fire into Israeli territory.

Israeli sources said the flare-up of attacks from Syria appears to be a stepped effort to stir up tension, with the Damascus government keen, closely informed.

There has been firing almost daily since Dec. 28 along the 45-mile border. Two Israelis were wounded near the Sea of Galilee Sunday.

Premier Levi Eshkol warned: "We will not tolerate developments likely to impair our sovereignty or the security of our citizens."

Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the Israeli delegation to the United Nations has been instructed to provide the UN Security Council with details of the latest incidents and to inform foreign governments of the tense border situation and the serious view taken by Israel.

The Israeli cabinet was meeting to consider another shooting incident Friday when it was informed of Sunday's exchange. Israel claimed Syrian forces fired 37 tank shells across the border Friday.

Gas Bombs Kill 27

QARA, Yemen (AP) — More than 125 persons were killed and another 120 critically injured Saturday when Russian-made Ilyushin bombers attacked Royalist positions with gas bombs at Kataf in North Yemen, Royalist sources have charged.

The planes were assumed to be Egyptian.

It was the third time in recent months the Royalist forces have charged the Republicans or their supporters with a gas attack.

Kingston 'Pen' Sitdown Ends

KINGSTON (CP)—A 27-hour sit-down demonstration by 415 inmates at Kingston penitentiary ended early today when the last prisoners were locked in their cells.

Edgar Babcock, assistant deputy warden, said the prisoners, protesting food and medical service in the penitentiary, began to disperse shortly after midnight after all prison guards had been called to duty.

They started filing back around midnight and at 2 a.m. the last of them were locked up," Mr. Babcock said.

He said no force was used in returning the men to their cells. However, he did not say what action the 107 guards would would have taken if the men had not returned.

"When they saw the full staff arriving they went on their own. There were no further demands by the prisoners and no promises given to them."

Mr. Babcock said that Warden Hazen Smith, who spent most of Sunday inside the prison, did not appeal to the rebel prisoners.

The rebel prisoners, almost half of the prison's total population, refused to return to their cells after watching a National Hockey League game on television Saturday night. They were locked in the room and were served no food during the demonstration.

Mao's Foes Hold Nanking, Rioting Paralyzes Shanghai

TOKYO (AP) — Opposition to Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung's purge is producing widespread chaos in China, with Shanghai reported paralyzed by strikes and street fighting, and Nanking apparently still held by anti-Mao forces.

Reports of killing, torture and uprisings involving more than 1,000,000 persons in the last few days suggest China may be close to civil war.

Japanese correspondents said anti-Mao followers of Tao Chu, vice-premier and party propaganda chief, were converging on Nanking.

Wall bulletins posted in Peking by Red Guards supporting Mao indicated that the discord had split Mao's cultural revolution committee, organized to direct the purge. They accused Tao Chu and Gen. Liu Chih-chien, vice-chairman of the committee and deputy director of the army's general political department, of forming a dissident group including Wang Jen-chung, another committee vice-chairman and first secretary of the Communist south central bureau, and Chang Ping-hua.

Tao Chu rose to power only four months ago as an apparent follower of Mao.

The pro-Mao group was led by Committee Chairman Chen Po-ta, Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, and Kang Sheng.

The posters accused Gen. Liu of destroying the purge in the armed forces and of issuing false orders that continued "white terror" in military schools after Mao had ordered the suppression of students ended.

The mounting turmoil was reported to have followed efforts by Mao and Defence Minister Lin Piao to extend the purge aimed at groups led by President Liu Shao-chi and Teng Hsiao-ping, Communist general secretary, into industries, the 21,000,000 - member All-China Federation of Trade Unions and various party committees. President Liu has strong support in the labor federation and the party apparatus.

In the northern port of Shanghai, China's largest city with more than 8,000,000 persons, strikes by thousands of anti-Red Guard workers known as the Red Workers Corps were reported to have paralyzed commerce including Wang Jen-chung, another committee vice-chairman and first secretary of the Communist south central bureau, and Chang Ping-hua.

The Peking People's Daily appealed to loyal workers to take emergency action against "reactionary elements" that "plotted to cut off water, and electricity and paralyze transportation."

It said "revolutionary rebel workers" were attempting to maintain factory production under difficult conditions.

A Peking broadcast heard in London referred to "a very grave, bloody incident" in Shanghai, but did not indicate further the extent of the violence.

Mao and Lin Piao were reported to have come from Peking to Shanghai late last month but reports of the strife suggested that the city no longer was a stronghold for Mao.

Winters Not Consulted About Gordon's Return

TORONTO (CP)—Trade Minister Winters says he was not consulted on Walter Gordon's appointment to the cabinet last week.

In an interview Sunday night on the CBC-TV program Sunday, Mr. Winters said the public announcement was the first he knew of the former finance minister's return to the cabinet.

Asked where he stood on Mr. Gordon's policies for greater Canadian control of the economy, the trade minister said:

"I'd like to see Canadians control as much of our industry as we can. But I'm a strong believer in maintaining a good climate for foreign investment in this country."

Mr. Winters said he thought some of Mr. Gordon's policies were misunderstood.

"He gave the impression, or people thought he did, that he didn't want foreign investors. No one knows better than Mr. Gordon how much we need foreign investment.

"What he did say was that he would like to see Canadians own as much as we can. And he did take steps to penalize foreign ownership. This gave the impression."

Asked why Mr. Gordon was taken back into the cabinet, Mr. Winters said: "There must have been a meeting of minds between Mr. Gordon and the prime minister. I'm anxious to find out what they are."

Anglicans and Catholics Start Unification Talks

ROME (Reuters) — The first formal talks since the reformation aimed at reuniting the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics and 45,000,000 Anglicans begin today at an Italian religious retreat house.

Ten Roman Catholic and 11 Anglican theologians will talk and live for five days at Gazzada in Lombardy. They will draw up a list of what divides them and which gaps should first be bridged.

The talks, scheduled to end Friday, will produce a confidential report for Pope Paul and Dr. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury. The two groups then will decide how the dialogue should proceed.

The ice was broken for contact between the two prelates when Geoffrey Fisher, the Archbishop of Canterbury visited Archbishop of Canterbury, Visvenden, 1961.

The coming meeting springs directly from Archbishop Ramsey's visit to Pope Paul last March.

Viet Cong Frogmen Sink Huge Dredge

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong frogmen sank an American dredge, the fourth largest in the world, in the Mekong Delta today, while closer to Saigon Communist guns shelled a British tanker and two South Vietnamese Navy minesweepers.

Two U.S. civilians were reported killed and one was reported missing aboard the 170-foot dredge, the Jamaica Bay. She sank in 20 feet of water near My Tho, about 35 miles southwest of Saigon.

The British ship hit by Viet Cong fire was identified as the 12,900-ton Shell tanker Hausiram from London. A U.S. military spokesman said she was hit in the superstructure, fantail and bow. The captain was wounded in the arm and leg and a crew member was killed.

The captain was taken from his ship but insisted on recuperating and took the tanker under her own power to Nha Be, the oil depot near Saigon.

Less than a mile from the attack on the tanker in the Long Tau river, two South Vietnamese minesweepers also came under fire from Viet Cong recoilless rifles.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said one minesweeper took heavy damage but had only light casualties while the other minesweeper escaped serious damage.

Only small-scale ground action was reported in the war and the U.S. air offensive against North Vietnam was hampered by bad flying weather.

But from the Mekong Delta 40 miles south of Saigon came word of the slaying of 10 South Vietnamese civilians and the wounding of 16 more when they were used as human shields by Viet Cong advancing against a unit of South Vietnamese Rangers.

A U.S. spokesman said the Communists herded the children and some adult civilians in front of them. Despite warnings from the Rangers, they kept moving forward and fired on the government troops.

The spokesman said the Rangers had no choice but to return the fire, in addition to the 26 children killed or wounded, nine adults were wounded.

ANAF News

With the hustle and hustle of the holidays over, the comrades have time to turn their thoughts to other things. On Saturday afternoon, as soon as the sport's chairman came in, he was met with requests about starting house tournaments for Saturdays. Within minutes, he had a dart competition going. Admittedly there was no time for choosing teams so he decided on having a doubles tournament. There was plenty of excitement and hard fought games with seventy players competing. The eventual winners for the afternoon were Cdes Russ Bland and Roly Winstanley. Bob Brooks and Bob Turcotte and John, Semark and Frank Donovan.

For an impromptu affair it went off very good and was a pleasant way of spending a rather, weatherwise, unpleasant afternoon. The sports chairman, Cde Russ Bland states that providing enough members are interested, he is willing to draw up schedules for darts, shuffleboard and cribbage for the rest of the winter. All he asks is for the co-operation of the comrades by either handing in their names or writing them down on sheets of paper that will be placed on the notice board and indicating what sport they would like to engage in. Should be a lot of fun.

Cde. R. Cunningham stated that, although his father, Jack Cunningham was supposed to be train-ferried to Kingston General Hospital these days-ago he actually was transferred to Victory Ward there last Friday. Still in the Belleville General are Cdes. Bert Herrington, George Locke and W. Ingham Resting at their own homes are Cdes. A. K. Morris, A. C. Tuck and H. Thibault. A speedy recovery for these comrades is the wish of all members.

The President requests that the following information be passed on again to refresh the members' memories. The meeting will start sharp at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan 12 1967 with the following comrades running for office: President: George Christopher, Stan Melbourne- 2nd Vice-Pres.: Bill Ford, H. Herrington, Gerry Percy: Executive: Ron Barker, Russ Bland, Rec. Featherstone, Hank Ford, Art Hobbs, Jack Fitzgerald, Peter McTazzart and Don Bushloe. He sincerely hopes that a majority representation of the members will endeavor to attend the meeting. For those who will be out of town on election night, an advance poll will be open on Wednesday Jan. 11th.

If at all possible the publicity chairman will hand in the election results to The Intelligencer editor in time for Friday's paper, for the benefit of those who, through sickness or some other reason cannot be at the meeting and are interested in knowing the results.

Employment Picture Better Than Year Ago

The number of unemployed in the Belleville and Bay of Quinte area has been building up rapidly since January 1st, but the year-end employment picture was slightly better than a year ago.

Mr. Cecil Hiuser, manager of the Belleville unemployment insurance office reports that on December 31st, 1966 there were a total of 1678 people on claim as compared with 1756 on the same date in 1965. The figures include Belleville, all of Hastings with the exception of part of Sidney township served by the Trenton office, and also Picton.

Mr. Hiuser said that as of late last week from 60 to 75 claims for unemployment benefits were being received daily.

The demand for pre-Christmas sales personnel during December is believed to have been at least partly responsible for the somewhat brighter employment picture at the year end. At the end of November the claims load was considerably higher than on December 31st, Mr. Hiuser said.

Carnival Fun While It Lasted

The weather gave a welcome, if wet, start to Belleville Collegiate students Saturday.

It provided just the typical finishing touch to a gala festival of the school year — its Winter Carnival.

The day-long presentation couldn't have had a better backdrop as more than four inches of snow pelted down on the campus while the carnival went through its peak paces.

Undeterred, the collegians romped through a program of snow-sculpturing, nail - driving and broomball contests, pausing only to brush the storm from their faces.

Early in the afternoon a thaw set in, and the painstakingly-produced snow sculptures began fraying at their frozen edges. Not that it mattered.

By that time the festival atmosphere had moved indoors to the collegiate auditorium where Belleville's vocal groups, joined by the Moira Secondary School Jet Singers, staged a hootenanny to round off the carnival for another year.

Holy Rosary Priest Dies Of Heart Attack

Requiem Mass for a city priest, who died suddenly Sunday less than four months after his return to Belleville, was held today prior to burial in his New York State home town.

Rev. Cletus Fitzpatrick, OFMC, was stricken late Saturday night at Holy Rosary rectory on Donald Street and died several hours later. Sunday was his 50th birthday.

As a member of the Franciscan Order's Mission Band, he had travelled widely, his ecclesiastical duties taking him across America and to Britain.

Born in Albany, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzpatrick he entered the Order in 1936 at Staten Island, N.Y., and, after completing his philosophic and theological studies, was ordained in 1944.

As a Franciscan missionary he preached extensively across the United States and spent five years in Lethbridge, Alberta.

He came to Belleville in 1953, shortly after the founding of Holy Rosary parish under Rev. Reginald Sweeney.

Father Fitzpatrick is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ann Gimondo and Mrs. Josephine Forgea, both of Albany.

Rev. Fr. Fitzpatrick is resting at the Bush Funeral Home, 87 Jane St., where he will be held on Wednesday, at 1.30. Interment will be in Stirling cemetery.

Birthday Bonfire Lights Sky, Hundreds Enjoy Unique Event

Hand Belleville an "A" for enthusiasm as far as Canada's Centennial goes.

The Big Birthday idea blazed a trail to the hearts of hundreds Saturday night — fueled by 6,000 fiery fir trees burning on the bayshore reclamation area near Zwick's Island.

The big bonfire marked the official opening of the city's Centennial program.

But the brightest prospect of all — which warmed the hearts of program organizers — was the way the citizenry marked the event, marred by some of the most mixed-up weather of the year.

Neither rain, nor snow nor darkest night could keep more than 1,000 Bellevillians from the site to hail the Centennial's start.

In fact, such was the turnout, it backed up traffic both sides of the slender Bay Bridge traffic causeway before the event was over.

"Quite a success," was the way city Centennial committee co-ordinator Les Shore dubbed spectator response — after an anxious day trying to define temperamental weather moods.

Earlier, as heavy snow squalls spilled over the Quinte district Mayor Jack Ellis and other organizers debated calling off the opener — but spread tarpaulins on the 15-foot high tree pile just in case.

Eventually the snow did quit — only to give way to rain as night — and committeemen's hearts — fell.

TORCH CARRIED TO PARK

They were discussing postponing it a week, when the weather once more showed signs of easing and the decision was taken to go ahead.

Moments before 8 p.m. Mayor Ellis lit a symbolic torch outside city hall and handed it to high school long-distance champion runner, John Hayman.

With a police cruiser clearing a path, Hayman ran toward the southern city limits and reached the bonfire site in seven minutes.

While fire chief Ted Poste spilled fuel oil across the trees, the mayor — who had driven behind Hayman — retrieved the torch and applied it to the heap, dampened by day-long foul weather.

"Let's hope she goes," murmured the mayor as he thrust the torch forward.

It did — and the bonfire blossomed into a crackling pilot light for the city's Centennial celebrations.

Any chance of a cheer was muted when the band, coat collars turned up against the night chill, struck up "O Canada" and the crowd stood stoically to attention as the rain came on stronger than ever.

CROWD ENTHUSIASTIC

The fire got off to an early start to be dampened — as did the enthusiasm of the crowd.

When tired of watching the big blaze they gathered about the musicians, led by music teacher Doug Assetsine, and sheltered by a makeshift canvas lean-to.

As the flames died to a glow and the crowds began slowly melting, traffic police had their hands full sorting out traffic tie-ups.

However, the fire was freed and the road opened by 9 p.m. when most spectators decided to call it a night.

For organizers it also had been quite a day.

"It was very trying all day waiting for the weather to make up its mind," admitted Les Shore.

"Fortunately, it turned out alright — and we're all pleased with the way it came over."

It's Light-Up Time!

W. Matacheskie, Cloyne Killed in Road Mishap

Saturday's severe snowstorm claimed one life and critically injured a second as it swept across the Quinte district.

Instantly killed in a grinding two-car crash on Highway 41 outside Cloyne was 30-year-old Wilfred Matacheskie, R. R. 1, Cloyne.

Police said Matacheskie lost control of his vehicle on the snow-covered highway and it ploughed into an oncoming southbound car.

The impact demolished his car.

Patrick Fraser Lett, in his early 20s, and a teenage passenger, Cynthia Dupew, both of Tweed, escaped with minor injuries in the second automobile.

Members of the nearby Cloyne Emergency Organization headed the injured until a doctor arrived from Tweed, 25 miles away. The first - aid group was recently formed because there is no ambulance service in the vicinity. The nearest ambulance is at Napanee, about 35 miles south of Cloyne.

Mr. Matacheskie was the father of two children, a boy, 4, and a three-year-old daughter.

It was the worst accident in the area despite intermittent bad weather throughout Saturday.

On Elmwood Drive, just east of Belleville, Stephen Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hopkins, late Saturday suffered cuts and bruises when he was hit by a car driven by Mrs. Pearl Salisbury, Murney Street.

County Council To Convene On January 17

The inaugural session for the 1967 Hastings county council has been called for Tuesday, January 17th at the county court house.

The first order of business for the session will be the election of a county warden to succeed 1966 Warden Clayton Hall of Thurlow township.

The appointment of standing committees for 1967 will also take place at the inaugural session.

Women Curlers In Playdowns At Country Club

TRENTON — Today, five teams of women curlers from District 3 "B" moved into the Trenton Curling Club for playdowns for the Ladies' Provincial Championship.

Teams are from Trenton, CFAF Trenton, Belleville, Brighton and Cobourg.

Games here will finish on Wednesday.

MILLION MARK

Trenton's building values last year passed the million dollar mark . . . but only just. During the year, 161 permits were issued from the office of building inspector William Anderson; total value: $1,055,600.

In 1965, values stood at $1,414,507.

WEEK OF PRAYER

Week of Prayer services start tonight at 8 p.m. at King Street United Church at 8 p.m. and will be held each night up to and including Thursday, Jan. 12.

Guest speaker for the series is Dr. Harry Faught of Toronto.

Tonight, the Salvation Army Band will be taking part in the service and later in the week, choirs of St. George's Anglican Church and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will participate.

NO ACCIDENTS, PIRES

In spite of hazardous driving conditions, Trenton police report only two small accidents over the weekend. OPP at Brighton also report two minor occurrences. The Trenton fire department spent a quiet weekend.

Behind the "Glass"

The Carling trophy, main prize of the spiel held at the Quinte Curling Club on Saturday was won by Joe Sjoberg and his rink from Peterboro' ough but only by half a point from a local rink skipped by Hal Emerson and which included Bruce Parsons, William McPherson and Doug Sim.

A rink skipped by Jack Dingle of Brighton won the two-game high while Wes Andrews a former member of the local club and now of Kingston was in second place. Ernie Wilkinson and his members from the local club won the one-game high.

A representative of the Carling Company presented the trophy and accompanying prizes. The spiel was under the direction of Art Bannon and Ernie Sutton with "Goldie" Livingston as general chairman of bonspiels. The boys enjoyed excellent ice, fine hospitality and delicious food in abundance.

The nights of fun and frolic are fast approaching. The doors of the Quinte Curling Club will be closed to distaff side of the family and the boys will enjoy the Sports Man's Spiel, an annual event for the Steve Flintoft trophy. This is the brain child of the curling program for the local Club but will have to share honors this year with the Centennial Week that will follow. The spiel will be held on Friday and Saturday night of this week.

This spiel was started by the late Steve Flintoft, who donated the trophy. A committee was formed, that has not changed much during the years and now the spiel is a smooth-working event with loads of fun, good fellowship and plenty of delicious food. This event is patronized by every member of the club and it has become so big it is necessary to run three draws on the Friday night and finishing on Saturday with the distribution of prizes.

In the meantime a full course dinner will be served by the members of the committee in full chef's attire and there are few places where the food is so good and so plentiful. Turkey, roast beef and ham in abundance and desserts of all kinds and shapes. While some are playing out on the ice the remainder are indeed enjoying a game of bridge, five and ten, cats or hearts. It is a spiel of real friendship, good fellowship and it is probably the only time of the year that the full membership of the club is together at one time.

The Canadian Forces Base at Trenton will represent this district in the playoffs for the Tankard and Governor-General trophies at Kingston a week from tomorrow. The RCAF rinks of Dale Lewis, Guy Lewis, Bob MacIndes with Bill Lewis as skip and George Peters, Vince Galligeau, Wayne Oaks with Mel Sjostrom defeated the Quinte Curling pair of Ron Benn and Murray Johnson by four shots and then took Napanee by three shots in the final game. These games were played at Trenton on Saturday while on Sunday five pairs of rinks from Napanee, Trenton, RCAF, Cobourg and Belleville met at Cobourg in the Governor-General competition.

The Belleville rinks of "Goldie" Livingston, Bruce Parker, Dan Crawley and Jack Robson with Rae Swansburg, Wayne Wilkinson, Joe Basch and Ernie Wilkinson won over Nananee and then beat Trenton only to be defeated by seven shots by a pair of skips from RCAF of Bud Palmer, Ken Lothian, Jim Hope and Hommy Sullivan and Jim Provost, Bill Vine, Ron Merrian and Art King.

23 Meet Death On Highways

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 23 persons died in accidents across Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday, local times, showed 23 killed in traffic mishaps, five in fires, two in hunting accidents and three in miscellaneous mishaps.

In Quebec, six persons were killed in traffic accidents, two in fires, one in a hunting accident, one in a fall and a boy was killed when struck by a train.

Ontario reported eight road deaths, one hunting fatality and a man who bled to death after he cut his arm on window glass.

Most of Trees For Bonfire Are Saved

TWEED (Special) — Somehow was carrying a torch for this village's upcoming winter carnival during the weekend — but it was no love affair.

Still being sought today is the identity of the prankster who tried to burn a pile of Christmas trees for use in a giant bonfire at the carnival Feb. 5.

The blaze was discovered about 4.30 a.m. and the village volunteer fire department lurched out in time to save most of the trees — stored on the shore of Lake Stoco.

Thugs Set Fire To Their Victim

NEW YORK (AP)—Four men turned a Brooklyn coffee shop owner into a human torch Sunday after robbing him of $100, police reported.

Joseph Procbilo, 33, rolled on the ground to put out the flames that seared his body and then stumbled several blocks to Coney Island Hospital where he collapsed.

Physicians listed him in critical condition today but said he is expected to live.

RELAXED AND REFLECTING over years in Belleville Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Trill recall evening's event in Belleville Club Saturday when Victoria and Grey Trust manager was presented with easy chair by friends and business colleagues.

Friends Bid Reluctant Au Revoir To Local Community Leader

A veteran member of the Belleville financial community, G. H. (Bud) Trill this week assumes a new appointment for his company in Kingston

Mr. Trill opened the Belleville branch of Victoria and Grey Trust Company 17 years ago with three employees.

Under his management, the branch grew steadily, finally moving into its quarters in the biggest downtown office building.

Mr. Trill, who now takes over management of the company's Kingston offices, is succeeded by John G. Tinsley, manager of Victoria and Grey's Peterborough offices for the past three years.

He was chairman for six years of the city's harbor commission and served 15 years on the Belleville Board of Education.

A director of the Bay of Quinte Country Club for 11 years, he served two years in its presidency. A former member of the Ys' Men's Club, he was district governor two years and also a director for 11 years of the Belleville YMCA.

A historian, Mr. Trill belonged to the Quinte Curling Club and was elder and Clerk of Session with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Trill have two children — Diane, serving with the Red Cross in Toronto, and Peter, a member of the engineering department of Electrohome Controls Ltd.

Saturday night, friends and business colleagues of Mr. Trill bade him a formal farewell at a reception in the Belleville Club, presenting him with an easy chair.

Mr. Mosley has been with Victoria and Grey for 14 years, serving in all departments of its head office in Lindsay—his hometown.

He and his wife, Beth, have two children, Barbara, 7, and Lynn, 4.

He was a member of Peterborough Rotary Club, Peterborough Golf and Country Club, and the Peterborough Plan Committee — a community group instrumental in much downtown redevelopment in that city.

Bumper Harvest

It would be a lamentable situation for Canada and a hungry world if crop failure, or blight of one kind or another, should ever hit the prairie provinces.

That recent bumper harvests have been occurring is all to the good, but it is no guarantee that this will always be the case. Still our debt to the wheat farmer is a continuing one, for food received and for the great contribution the golden fields make to the economy of the country.

Last year's wheat crop was a record one, and it led to the second largest export movement of wheat and flour in history, and to the negotiation of huge long-term sales agreements with the Soviet Union and China.

The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in its current review, places the country's 1966 wheat crop at 844.4 million bushels, or 30 per cent above the 1965 figure and 17 per cent over the previous high of 723.4 million bushels established in 1963.

A record 30.3 million acres of wheat were harvested during the year. The yield of 27.9 bushels per acre, moreover, set a new high, and was made possible by favorable weather conditions during the growing and harvesting season.

In the sphere of international sales, exports of wheat and wheat flour amounted to 582.8 million bushels, 46 per cent above that of the previous crop year, and only two per cent lower than in the record 1963-64 crop year. Exports of bulk wheat totalled 546 million bushels, a record figure surpassing the previous high of 536.7 million bushels in 1963-64.

It has been a bountiful harvest in every sense, for which Canadians should be glad. Let us hope for continued success from the soil of this far-flung land, not only in the form of wheat but also the many other products of the agricultural community.

Summer Course

Attainment of higher teaching standards is one of the goals Canada must aim at as it enters its second century as a nation.

One step in this direction is the suggestion of a special University of Toronto committee that the Ontario College of Education discontinue its summer course for teachers.

Dean D. F. Dadson of the Ontario College explains what at first sight seems a retrograde, rather than a progressive, step. He says the summer courses, which permit university graduates to enter teaching without spending a full year at OCE, were introduced 10 years ago as a "temporary measure" to cope with a teacher shortage.

"Now three times as many are entering secondary school teaching through the summer course as through the winter course."

In other words, the summer course is being used as a quick and relatively easy vehicle for entry into the teaching profession, without achieving the standards afforded by at least a year at OCE.

As Dean Dadson puts it, the longer course generally produces a more stable, qualified staff. Those who take the summer course get insufficient experience in practising teaching.

Talkative Canadians!

Perhaps it is because we have one of the most efficient and economical telephone systems to be found anywhere that Canadians once again have proved themselves the world's foremost telephone users.

Strange, is it not, for a people often referred to as quiet, unassuming — even dully! Indeed the telephone must act as a safety valve for many who ordinarily are less communicative.

For the record, statistics released by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company show that Canadians placed an average of 635.6 telephone calls during 1965, an increase of more than 12 calls per person over the previous year. This is the 14th consecutive year that Canada has headed the field. Yet the extraordinary fact is that Canada has only fifth in the total number of telephones per 100 population — behind the United States, Sweden, New Zealand and Switzerland.

Could it be that isolation, particularly in winter time, has something to do with our liking for telephone conversations? Because two other northern peoples, the Icelanders and Swedes, come fourth and fifth in line as the most frequent users.

Telephone usage is increasing all the time. On January 1, 1966, the total number of telephones in the world reached no fewer than 195.3 million, a record increase of 12.8 million in a year. But even this figure was soon surpassed — the world's 200-millionth telephone went into service sometime during the mid-summer of 1966.

Bursitis Can Be Relieved By Ultrasonic Treatment

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is your opinion of X-ray treatment to remove calcium deposits in the shoulder? What happens to the dissolved calcium? What do you think of ultrasonic treatment? — Mrs. S.

This obviously refers to bursitis in the shoulder — inflammation of a bursa or one of the small fluid-filled sacs which exist to provide a smooth pad over which the tendons of a joint ride, and to protect the joint.

Bursitis, a common ailment, is not necessarily an easy one to treat. In many cases, resting the afflicted joint permits the inflammation to subside, and healing is pretty much automatic. (Some medication to relieve pain in the interim is often necessary.)

In other instances prolonged or repeated inflammation brings on a much more stubborn situation which cannot clear up merely by resting the joint — shoulder, knee, elbow are joints often exposed to severe or continued pressure and thus subject to bursitis, but obviously it can occur elsewhere.

When the inflammation is severe and extensive, the healing process involves an accumulation of calcium, just as calcium may gather in scar tissue after a wound, or inflammation of other tissues.

X-ray and ultrasound, or ultrasonic treatment, both have proved to be effective measures in such cases of bursitis, but readers must keep in mind that this is not up that they are always certain cures. They help but, sometimes the condition is too far-gone to provide total relief. If excessive calcium has accumulated, the only means of removal may be surgery. It depends on the case.

X-ray (and the same is true for ultrasound) does not "dissolve" the calcium. The purpose is to alter and relieve the inflammatory state in the joint. Suppressing the inflammation is, after all, the essential purpose.

Sometimes if the calcium has not solidified but is still in a sort of "chalky" form, it can be aspirated or irrigated out with a needle and syringe. This is often the best recourse when the inflamed bursa is distended.

Cortisone injections are also frequently used, the purpose being to relieve pain and suppress the inflammation temporarily while the joint is rested and allowed to heal.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to massage away small airline veins which seem to appear on upper thighs and around the knees after the 40's? They are not swollen or painful, but are unsightly. — Mrs. M. M.

No, you can't massage them away. In fact you might rupture one and have a more unsightly black and blue mark.

These little veins, or venules, are common. Contrary to popular belief, studies show that they come and go. Avoid anything constricting about the upper thigh, (garters, tight girdles or panty girdle). There is little else you can do.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is pyelitis? Is it curable? What are the symptoms and what effect does it have in advanced stages? — M. S. D.

It is infection of the collecting chamber of the kidney, and also called pyelonephritis. It often becomes chronic, being subdued but then flaring up again.

Identify the precise type of germ involved and then making sensitivity tests to determine which drugs to use usually suppress it offer the best prospects for permanent cures.

Symptoms are chills, fever, frequency and burning on irritation, possibly pain in the side of the abdomen.

The danger in advances cases is that the infection can spread through the kidneys and cripple them.

Ottawa as Federal District?

Montreal Gazette

The debate about whether or not Ottawa should become a Federal District is growing in intensity and there is every reason to believe the question will be resolved in the year ahead. It should be.

Public Works Minister George Mcilraith has announced that a Parliamentary Committee will be formed next year to study the problem.

The committee will likely have some expert opinion to help it—in a very short time, for the first substantial report of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism will be out. This report may contain the Commission's views on the subject.

Then, the Ontario government has commissioned and obtained a report on the pros and cons of the Federal District idea. And Prime Minister Pearson announced last April that consultations were to be held between the Quebec and Ontario governments on the subject.

At the same time, many reports have accumulated over the years. The two best known are the Gordon Survey study of 1938 and the Jones report of 1965.

Washington, of course, is the closest example of a Federal District. There are inherent disadvantages in the Federal District idea the way it is applied in Washington. The most obvious are the low level of local government — the capital is administered by a committee of Congress.

The result is that Washington, although it is physically in many ways one of the most beautiful of capital cities, has suffered in other ways — notably in schools.

But one of the proposals being put forward here is to make the Ottawa-Hull area into a Federal District, while retaining local government.

A compromise of this sort may be acceptable. However, before a compromise can be considered, a full debate has to be held.

The momentum generated in the last week should be maintained. The question must be resolved, one way or another.

Mortgages Burden Many

Toronto Star

It is simply scandalous that in this so-called affluent metropolis the average price for a new house is now beyond the reach of 80 per cent of the people.

It is equally scandalous that the federal government shows so little concern for the housing problem. The only step tossed by Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp in his mini-budget was to exempt building materials from the proposed increase of one per cent in the 11 per cent sales tax.

Until Ottawa shows some genuine concern for this basic human need, the provincial government should do what it can to ease the housing crisis in Metro Toronto.

One of the hindrances to the purchase of new houses is the exorbitant interest rate on second mortgages, which is currently running as high as 14 per cent.

This financial load, on top of the National Housing Act first mortgage rate of 7¼ per cent, is too staggering for potential homeowners.

A possible way to lighten this burden has been suggested by Ontario Liberal house leader Robert Nixon. He proposes that the province do what it did in 1944 when another housing crisis developed and go into the second mortgage business itself.

The government of that day established the Housing Corporation Ltd., which granted loans of up to $1,250 at an interest rate of 3½ per cent over a 20-year term.

Combined with the NHA first mortgage rate of four per cent, the provincial loan made it possible for 14,000 persons to become homeowners. Almost all of the $16 million in loans have since been paid off.

There is at least as urgent a need for such a scheme today. Obviously, the maximum loan and interest rate of 18 years ago is inadequate to realize in this age of inflated prices. The cost of today's home would justify a second mortgage of perhaps $5,000 and interest rates of five or six per cent.

Such a measure would not solve Toronto's housing problem, but it would be one of any other relief it could be of some help. It worked once. Let's try it again.

A winner says, "Let's find out"; a loser says, "Nobody knows."

When a winner makes a mistake, he says, "I take full blame"; when a loser makes a mistake, he says, "It wasn't my fault."

A winner credits his "good luck" for winning—even though it isn't good luck; a loser blames his "bad luck" for losing — even though it isn't bad luck.

A winner knows how and when to say "Yes" and "No"; a loser says, "Yes, but" and "Perhaps not" to both.

A winner works harder than a loser, and has more time; a loser is always "too busy" to do what is necessary.

A winner goes through a problem; a loser goes around it, and never gets past it.

A winner shows he's sorry by making up for it; a loser says "I'm sorry," but does the same thing the next time.

A winner knows what to fight for, and what to compromise on; a loser compromises on what he shouldn't, and fights for what isn't worthwhile fighting about.

A winner says, "I'm good, but not as good as I ought to be"; a loser says, "I'm not as bad as a lot of other people."

A winner listens; a loser just waits until it's his turn to talk.

A winner would rather be admired than liked, although he would prefer both; a loser would rather be liked than admired, and is even willing to pay the price of mild contempt for it.

A winner feels strong enough to be gentle; a loser is never gentle — he is either weak or pettily tyrannous by turns.

A winner respects those who are superior to him, and tries to learn something from them; a loser resents those who are superior to him, and tries to find chinks in their armor.

A winner explains; a loser explains away.

A winner says, "There ought to be a better way to do it"; a loser says, "That's the way it's always been done here."

A winner paces himself; a loser has only two speeds: hysterical and lethargic.

Guidelines For Youth

Peterborough Examiner

The Ontario Youth Conference on Alcohol Problems is meeting in Niagara Falls this week. As is usual with such conferences, the delegates examine the faults of society with reform ears and lay much of the blame on alcoholic drink for the declining morals of our age. The star of the 1966 meeting was clearly Thomas A. Knott who, in the course of a big address, ranged over the weaknesses of the churches, parents, newspapers, theologians, magazines, and Richard Needham of the Toronto Globe and Mail. "Where can youth secure clearly defined guidelines so necessary today," he asked. Clearly not, he implied, from the sources mentioned above.

Mr. Knott is the director of youth work for the Ontario Temperance Federation and it is easy to see why he has such a jaundiced view of contemporary society. Indeed, there is good argument for supposing that conventional, like-minded people, discussing mutually depressing problems may well do more harm than good, since every pessimistic view is liable to reinforce every other similar outlook.

Would it serve the purpose, we wonder, for people like Mr. Knott to be sent to other places — the youth parliament, the annual convention of editorial writers, to a National Youth Orchestra rehearsal, to the Stratford Festival, and other such events — to get a balanced idea of where youth does, in fact, get its guidelines in today's world?

A Travesty Of Justice

Hamilton Spectator

Toronto Magistrate Lucien Kurata is under heavy fire for sending three disgusting young men to jail for four days after finding them guilty of almost kicking an unoffending man to death.

The man was given what the criminal element calls "the boots". He spent three weeks in hospital as a result of his grievous injuries. As Magistrate Kurata himself said: "They carried out a sentence on a man of his life. That can't be given back."

Yet Mr. Kurata gave the youths a sentence of four days in jail. Why? Because Christmas was just a few days away and he didn't want to deprive the boys and their families of spending the joyful day together.

Society will continue to be plagued by punks of the worst sort if the law doesn't treat them as harshly as possible. Young men who beat people insensible "for kicks" should be sent to jail for months or even years. Either that, or they should be confined to a mental hospital until they are considered fit to associate with normal, law-abiding people.

Magistrate Kurata's sentence was an absolute failure of justice.

Colorful Character

News of the North

An uncompleted page was wrenched suddenly from the Yellowknife Outpost Story. Young died on Sunday evening. Today's body was found in her running car at home here late on Sunday evening and thus ended a life full of interest and vitality and color.

She had been in her later days the central figure of the cocktail bar in the Yellowknife Hotel and there she met and entertained countless visitors and there they started scores of tales about her prowess as a card player, a drinker, a storyteller unbuttoned devotion to the North.

She was selected to represent the NWT when Air Canada some time ago put on an inaugural flight between New York and on that occasion she appeared on American radio and television and at that time she had been the subject of many articles in newspapers magazines and columns.

Ruby first came to Yellowknife much more than 20 years ago — she was waitress, cook, bar-driver and poker player. She was Ruby Simpson then.

Subscription to Ruby Fund in her memory are being accepted at Sutherland's Drugs.

They Are A Landmark!

London Letter

Mary Stirling, six feet, two and one-half inches in her bare feet, talking in a BBC broadcast about the disadvantages of being tall, said: "I find any sort of social gathering where you have to stand around talking is a trial, at the buzz of conversation which rises above the six foot level, is deafeningly inaudible, and having to stoop down to hear what's being said looks patronizing and condescending."

However, my husband is taller than me — six foot four inches, and we do provide a landmark; people arrange to meet by the Stirlings at such and such a time."

"But," she admitted, "I suppose it has its funny side, and when I'm fortified by my husband's added six foot four, we get a lot of laughs from people's reactions, especially abroad. An admiring shopkeeper in Trinidad made a comment which might well be our epitaph — 'My, what a splendid pair of heights'."

Algoma Tries Written Appeal to Workers to Resume Job

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The giant Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd., crippled by a strike of 80 bricklayers, has initiated a new plan in an attempt to resume normal operations.

The bricklayers, members of the International Association of Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers, went on strike Dec. 17. The plant was closed 15 days later after members of two railway unions refused to cross picket lines.

The company, stymied in salary negotiations with the bricklayers, has written individual members of Local 606, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and Local 611, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, asking if they intend to report for work.

The letters, dated Jan. 5, also ask the trainmen if they would cross picket lines if they were set up again by the bricklayers. Pickets were withdrawn Christmas Eve and have not been re-established.

The letters were described as a last resort by a company official. Algoma attempted to discuss the refusal to cross picket lines with the trainmen's grievance committees, but was told individual members must make their own decision.

Company officials were optimistic Sunday about the letters. One spokesman said the company hopes to resume operations within about a week.

Answers to the letters have not been compiled, but Algoma officials said the railway workers were asked to reply to the company before today.

The company blames the railway locals for the shutdown, but Donald Watkinson, lawyer for the two brotherhoods, says the men have reported for every shift.

"They were threatened by the pickets with having their cars overturned, having their noses broken or having some harm come to their families," he said.

The two railway brotherhoods say they advised Algoma of the situation but did not receive promised escorts into the steel plant.

Although 3,800 steelworkers have been laid off as a result of the shutdown, 2,000 are still working, including 1,000 engaged in essential maintenance and more than 1,200 supervisory personnel.

When the picket lines were withdrawn by Local 29 of the bricklayers' union, the company said it could not resume full operations "without the assurance of some degree of permanence."

Meanwhile Sunday, Sam Sasso, Canadian vice-president of the bricklayers' union, said he is aware of reports that Algoma plans to resume operations.

He added in an interview that the bricklayers will not resume picketing unless someone else attempts to do the work normally handled by his union.

When the strike began, the bricklayers were seeking a 50-cents-an-hour wage increase and double time for weekend work in a one-year contract.

The company originally offered 40 cents over the base hourly rate of $3.28 in a three-year contract without the weekend differential.

When renewed negotiations broke off again last week, Mr. Sasso said the two parties were within 7½ cents of an agreement on a three-year contract, but added that the double time for weekends is still unresolved.

Consumer Price Index Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index rose fourtenths of a point to 145.9 in December as the result of higher costs of shelter and housework operations, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The important food component of the index remained unchanged from November at 144.7. Health and personal care items also remained unchanged, at 184.5.

The bureau said the over all index, based on 1949 consumer prices equalling 100, rose because of higher rents and property taxes, and increased costs of repairs, fuel, some furniture items, textiles, and most utensils and equipment.

The transportation index also rose, to 152.6 from 151.1 in November, because of increased cost of automobile operations. Prices were higher for gasoline, motor oil, and chassis lubrication. Prices for new model cars also were higher than the year-end prices of 1965 models.

The advance to 145.9 from 145.5 for all items index represented an increase of three-tenths of one per cent in prices during the month. Prices in December were 3.6 per cent higher than in December, 1965, when the index was 140.8. Ideally, economists say, prices should not rise more than two per cent a year.

DBS has no measure of family incomes to match its index of consumer prices. But the latest available DBS index of average weekly wages and salaries, based on 1961 equalling 100, rose to 126.3 in September from 120.8 in August. This unusual jump reflected the resumption of railway services after a strike that affected the August index. The index was 117.8 in September, 1965.

Average weekly wages and salaries thus rose 7.2 per cent between September, 1965, and September, 1966. In that period the consumer price index rose to 13.1 from 123.1, an increase of 4.3 per cent.

High Price for Export Goods Helped Boost Home Cost

OTTAWA (CP)—Many of the goods that cost Canadians more in 1966 were also being sold by exporters at impressive prices in world markets.

In many instances the boost in prices could be blamed on the change in the world price.

But federal economists say that in other cases it was economically good for Canada, it was better for the consumer to pay a little more if it would guarantee those extra trade dollars remained in the country.

This kind of price rise usually had little or nothing to do with the inflationary pressures — the pushes and pulls blamed for the rising cost of living.

But it is one of the factors allowed to influence the calculation of price changes in the gross national product, the value of all goods and services turned out in Canada.

During the third quarter the GNP's over-all price index went up 3.9 per cent. But the effect of export price changes, the GNP index would have gone up only eight-tenths of one per cent.

One government economist says this is a distortion that "makes the price performance in Canada look worse than it is."

Wheat is a good example of a commodity that earned millions of dollars for Canada during 1966 at better prices alone. Most buyers were paying 10 per cent more for Canadian wheat in September than they had paid on the average in 1965. The price of wheat to Canadians also was up but from an economic point of view it was worth it.

International conditions dictated several other markups during 1966 of great benefit to Canada, trade statistics reveal.

Disruptions in Zambia, The Congo and Chile, main suppliers of copper besides Canada, made that commodity scarce. The price during the third quarter of 1966 was 32 per cent higher than at the same time a year earlier. In this case Canadian producers were not only able to enjoy higher sales and revenue but they were able to keep prices steady to their customers at home.

LUMBER MORE EXPENSIVE

Canadian lumber was more expensive around the world in the second quarter and newsprint in the third quarter; in these instances pressure existed in Canada but conditions in world markets left room for the increases.

From a statistical point of view, export prices were 3.4 per cent higher in the third quarter of 1966 than at the end of 1965. The price component of the GNP for the same period was 4.4 per cent.

A price index of personal expenditures, representing costs facing Canadians on retail purchases from day to day, was up 3.3 per cent.

For this longer period, export price changes actually proved to be a stabilizing factor in the GNP price component of about half of the 4.4 per cent if you accept the thesis that export prices really work an important influence on domestic prices.

This may be supported in analyses of profits by industry for the year, which show that trade-oriented companies have found it toughest to raise prices, while service industries, producing for the Canadian market under varying degrees of tariff protection, were not as badly hit by a profit squeeze during the year, indicating that competition is less rigorous at home than abroad. They had a better chance of succeeding when they tried to charge more in 1966.

Unmarried Teeners Using Control Pill

LONDON (AP)—British doctors are worried by the growing number of unmarried teenage girls using birth control pills.

More than 30,000 teen-age girls are known to be taking the pill in Britain. Thousands more are obtaining supplies unofficially, mainly through older women.

Doctors fear the high incidence of venereal disease, already at a disturbing level, will increase further as more unmarried girls embark on promiscuous relationships while taking the pill.

A doctor who is secretary of the British Federation Against Venereal Disease, said: "This matter is causing us great concern. Wider use of the pill will increase the incidence of VD.

"Teen-age girls in the clinics inform us that they are obtaining the pill from all sorts of unofficial sources. They make it clear that it is fear of pregnancy and not VD that deters them back from promiscuous relations and the pill removes that fear.

"The pill is taken so simply that it encourages girls at all-night parties to be promiscuous. They do not have to pause to consider precautions."

Canadian Girls Welcomed As New Source of Staff

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—For years Australian girls have practically kept the New Zealand hotel industry going. New hoteliers are looking hopefully to Canada as a new source of staff.

The labor shortage in New Zealand means that such attractive jobs are open to girls that few find much appeal in working as waitresses and housemaids. New Zealand hotels can't recruit enough local girls for the work at any price.

Australian girls on working holidays have proved a godsend. Usually they are secretaries or office workers at home. But they want to see the country and move about from job to job and they find they have more mobility as waitresses than as office workers.

Hotel proprietors generally report that the girls learn quickly and do a fine job. Guests find them a cut above the average.

The Tourist Hotel Corporation, a chain of state-owned high quality hotels at tourist resorts throughout the country, now has welcomed with open arms a few Canadian girls on the same working holiday routine. It hopes they may be the forerunners of many more.

Now working at the Waitangi hotel of the chain, in the beautiful Bay of Islands in far northern New Zealand, are Christine Carlton, architectural draftsman at home, and Marcia Ernst, legal secretary, both of Edmonton.

Hotel manager Colin McKenzie commented: "Although they have never worked as waitresses before, they are perfect at it."

The response of New Zealand guests to what one called the girls' "maple syrup voices" has been rapturous.

Women Could Antagonize Male Cabinet Says Judy

OAKVILLE (CP) — Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh, the only woman in the federal cabinet, told a women's organization Saturday to stop repeating demands for a royal commission on women's rights or risk antagonizing the male cabinet.

Speaking at a news conference, Miss LaMarsh said she was disappointed in the way the Committee for the Equality of Women was threatening to take action if the government didn't launch a royal commion before the end of this month.

"I am very much afraid that if the kind of strident tone that has been used in the last couple days continues, it will constitute pushing too hard on an open door and will undo all the good that has been done," she said.

"The prime minister and the cabinet are men as other men, and if you have harpies harping at them, you will just get their backs up and they won't do anything."

Mrs. Michael Sabia of St. Catharines, president of the Committee for the Equality of Women, said last week that her organization, representing 2,000,000 women across Canada, has given the government the ultimatum of either setting up a royal commission by Jan. 31, or facing the consequences.

The women asked for a royal commission last August and on Nov. 10 they repeated the demand in a brief to Justice Minister Cardin.

"I think the women have made their point and they should wait a few weeks and see what happens," Miss LaMarsh said.

Miss LaMarsh was in Oakville to turn the sod of Oakville's $2,000,000 centennial civic cultural centre.

Constancy, True Friendship And Fidelity Attributes of Garnet, January Birthstone

Written for The Canadian Press
By MARGARET NESS

As Canada enters her Centennial Year, she might well take as her motto for the next 100 years the virtues attributed to the garnet as the birthstone for January: constancy, true friendship and fidelity.

Garnets are usually regarded as deep red and these are the most expensive. But because there is an entire family of garnets in every color except blue. Unlike most gemstones, garnets are found in almost every part of the world.

Garnets were used in ancient firearms as bullets. The Aztec people in Central America gave garnets as offerings to their gods. At one time they were reserved for the nobility only. They have appeared as adornments in strings of uncut stones by savage races and as a decoration by Victorian ladies on their harpsins.

The Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto has several pieces of ancient jewelry featuring garnets. One bracelet with three small garnet beads held together with gold spacers comes from Egypt from around the 16th century B.C.

Another from the same period is a string of graduated garnet beads with a central gold pendant in the form of a lion-headed goddess. From the Greek period of about the 3rd century B.C. comes a necklace of silver with garnet centres to the rosette effect.

DUCHESS WORE THEM

Garnets came into more recent popularity in the 18th century when Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, and a friend of Queen Anne's had a pair of garnet ear-rings and a necklace designed for herself. This was the period of flower and ribbon designs in necklaces with cluster or peardrop ear-rings.

Towards the end of the century the Russian crown jewels included garnets among other semi - precious stones, designated as suitable for daytime wear. Garnets continued to be popular in the 19th century when a prosperous middle class was emerging which could afford to buy them.

Bohemia, now part of Czechoslovakia, was then the greatest source of garnet jewelry in the form of brooches and bracelets. The beautiful red variety was found in alluvial deposits near the capital city of Prague.

By the end of the 19th century, garnets suffered a decline. Reasons included the fact that dark-colored stones were not so popular. Also garnets were relegated to a secondary place in the jewelry world.

GREEN HAS OWN QUALITY

Among women who can claim the garnet as their birthstone are Canadians Ellen Fairclough and Gisele MacKenzie, as well as comedienne Carol Channing, throaty-voiced Tallulah Bankhead and puppeteer Shari Lewis, creator of Lamb Chop and Charley Horse.

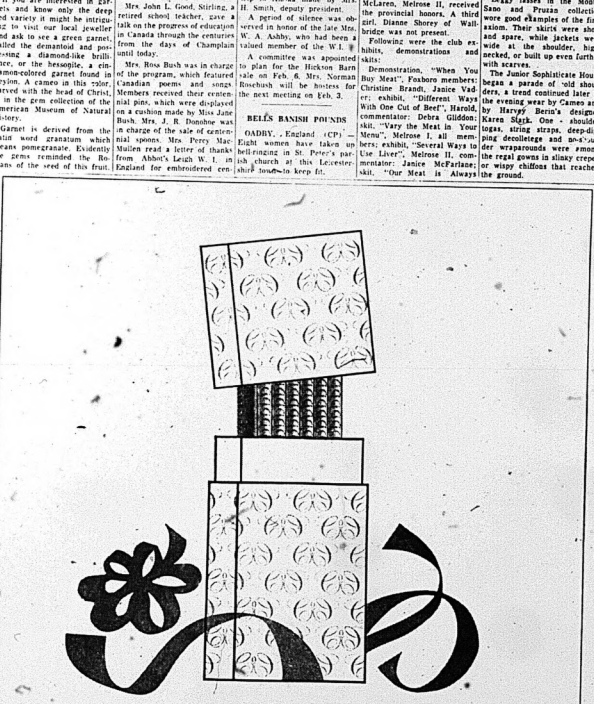
Skirts Short And Spare This Season

NEW YORK (AP)—The new math for women's fashions goes like this: For daytime wear subtract as much as the law allows from the bottom. For evening subtract that much from the top.

There also is a lot of multiplication of pleats in the new suits and division - long and short-of skirts into party pajamas, culottes and even boxer shorts.

Leggy lasses in the Monte-Sano and Pruzan collection wore good examples of the first axiom. Their skirts were short and spare, while jackets were wide at the shoulder, high-necked, or built up even further with scarves.

The Junior Sophisticate House began a parade of old shoulders. A trend continued later in the evening wear by Cameo and by Harvey Berin's designer Karen Slack. One - shoulder togas, string straps, deep-dipping decolletage and no-s'-uder wraparounds were among the regal gowns in slinky crepes or wispy chiffons that reached the ground.



The wraps are off something special.

The wraps are off Le Château Champlain, Canadian Pacific's newest hotel. Located on Place du Canada in the heart of Montreal, surrounded by the excitement of EXPO '67, Le Château Champlain's distinctive architecture makes a notable contribution to the city's skyline.

Destined to be one of the world's great hotels, Le Château Champlain captures the cosmopolitan spirit of Montreal. The hotel's unique exterior design and elegant interior appointments offer a new standard of international service and accommodation.

Le Château Champlain is the latest addition to a chain of hotels that has won the acclaim of travellers from all over the world.

Of course, we offer travellers more than fine hotels. During Centennial year, with Canadians travelling more —and getting to know each other better—our trains, planes, and ships will be at your service.

Meddling Neighbor Can Be Life-saver For Severely Depressed Woman

DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: Alice is a woman in her 30's, who lives entirely alone. She was brought up by aunts and married some time during the war. Her husband was her life. Then he was killed.

Since that time she has lived in the same house they shared, cherishing his memory. She worked for a while, then she began to slip. S h e drank too much, antagonized nearly all her friends and neighbors, let her house and garden deteriorate.

Alice has a good mind and a warm heart, and g r e a t pride. But she is now in debt and not working.

Can you tell me, please, how we can help her? Must she reach the very bottom before anything can be done? We find it impossible to finance her any further. — Should We Meddle?

Dear Should We: Alice has taken the escape route. In the block next to her there might well be a widow whose loneliness has brought out a saving sympathy for others— by fa[illegible]-the healthier reaction. I'm guessing that the menopause, plus her loss, has piled up her depression to something abnormal.

At this point, she even needs help about wanting to be helped! If she could be made to look in the mirror at the creature she is becoming, this might jar her into action.

She needs a whole new philosophy. Go yourself to your family agency or alcoholism resource and talk her over with the worker.

(Of course you should meddle. You may be her life saver!)

Dear Doris: Are apples fattening? — Plumpish

Dear Plumpish: Yes — to the extent that anything with any food value at all is fattening.

But apples are a great stand - by for a dieter. Their sweetness is not nearly as full of calories as that in refined sugar, and we need what apples can give us: vitamins, minerals, cellulose.

Reach for an apple instead of a sweet.

Dear Doris: All my friends are minors, yet they get beer and drink. I'm scared to touch the stuff but they don't know it.

Maybe t h a t's why i'm s c a r e d to go anywhere they ask me. I am 14. — Bobbie X.

Dear Bobbie X: The fear of the bottle is the beginning of maturity — to paraphrase a well known Bible verse. Big, strong men have shown high courage and begun adult living when they undertook to avoid it like the plague.

Most people do learn how to handle alcohol. But a minor who drinks or an adult who gives him a drink is breaking the law.

No need to accept an alcoholic beverage because some high schoolers think it is smart. Call for straight pop, and don't let them laugh you down. The best ones will honor you for it; and the girls will count on you to keep your head "when all about you are losing theirs."

Don't just muddle along. Do something about what's troubling you. A letter to Doris can put you on the way to more Successful Living.

Salmon for Casserole Addicts

By MARY MOORE

It was snowing, the baby was asleep and dinnertime and John were rapidly approaching.

Shirley could not go out to the store so she rummaged around in the refrigerator and examined the cupboard shelves. Result: she found some heldover peas and mushrooms from the refrigerator and a can of salmon from the shelf.

From there on she improvised and made a casserole. When John looked up from his plate after his first bite he said, "Golly this is good."

So Shirley thought o t h e r young mothers might often be in the same plight and carefully wrote down what she had done and sent me over a sample to taste. (We live only three blocks apart.)

So casserole addicts here is another one for you.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Ham Custard Pie (Make sufficient pastry for Thursday's Orange Chiffon Pie); Hot Chili Sauce; Combination Salad; Cottage Pudding with Raspberry Sauce); Tea.

SHIRLEY'S SALMON CASSEROLE (serves 4)

4 tbsps. margarine (or butter)
4 tbsps. flour
½ tsp. pepper
2 cups liquid — milk made up to 2 cups with salmon liquid and mushroom liquid
¾ cup crushed potato chips (or cracker crumbs)
One 8-oz. can salmon (or tuna - see below), flaked
¾ cup mushroom stems and pieces
½ cup cooked (or fresh frozen) green peas

In heavy saucepan (or double boiler) melt margarine (or butter) and stir in flour and pepper to blend. (No salt is needed in this casserole as sauce and potato chips and mushrooms are salty.) Stir in milk-liquid until thick. Butter a medium casserole. Cover bottom with half of the crushed potato chips (or crumbs). Arrange flaked salmon, peas and mushrooms in layers over crumbs. Pour sauce over and with a fork coax to flow down through the salmon and vegetables Sprinkle with remaining crushed potato chips or crumbs. Bake at 350 deg. F. for 30 min.

NOTE 1) As you know canned tuna may be used instead of salmon but drain off oil and discard.

2) Shirley says she served her casserole with creamed Brussels sprouts.

Complains of Husband Who Is Never Home

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it better to have a husband who is never home or no husband at all?

Last night it happened again. Bob telephoned at noon and said he'd be home for dinner at 6:30. At 7:30 I fed the kids. At 8:30 I ate alone. It was midnight before I heard Bob's key in the lock. He said he got involved in a game of billiards at the club, and I happen to know he was telling the truth.

I work in an office although we don't need the money. I'm stuck at home almost every night with the kids and if I had to stay home all day too I'd be out of my mind.

My husband is a well-known professional man. He holds offices in several organizations and says he must for the sake of his business. He's a member of the Lions Club. His life might be full, but mine is empty. The kids don't have a father and I don't have a husband. Even the maid would be happier if he left. She'd have less laundry. What is your advice? — FED UP TO HERE.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR FED: If your husband died of a heart attack tomorrow you'd cry your head off and berate yourself for not having made home a place where he wanted to spend more time.

Marriage is not a 50-50 proposition. It's more like 80-20 — with the wife doing 80% of the giving, and yes, 80% of the forgiving. She sets the emotional thermostat that warms the house or chills it.

I know of very few husbands who have held a marriage together, but I've known many wives who have done so — in spite of absent, thoughtless husbands. These women are the real champions in my books.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please answer a simple question. And don't call any psychiatrists. Is it all right for a 15-year-old boy to do his homework in the living room, wearing only underdrawers with his mother present? Thank you. — ONLY AN OBSERVER.

DEAR ONLY: I don't have to call up anybody to answer this one. A 15-year-old boy should put on a robe or a shirt and trousers when he does his homework in the living room with his mother present.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You printed a letter from a storekeeper who complained about customers banging on the doors before and after store hours demanding that they be let in. I have another complaint.

I'm a checker in a supermarket. Five minutes before closing time Mrs. Scraggler comes in. She's a regular customer. Nobody has ever seen her before. She pokes around, reading labels — can't decide whether to take the corn flakes or the raisin bran. And when the butcher has finished cleaning the meat grinder, she decides she wants a pound of ground beef. Then she says the lettuce looks wilted and she'd like a head from the cooler. Her favorite cake mixes are empty so she asks the boy to run downstairs and get two bottles of quench-a-cola.

Mrs. Scraggler has kept the cashier 20 minutes overtime. And then she pays her $4.20 bill in pennies. "I save these things, she says. "You'd be surprised how they mount up."

Please print this letter, Ann, and I'll bet it will be pasted up on thousands of cash-registers all over the country. — BEN THRU IT.

DEAR BEN: Here's your letter, but don't expect it to perform miracles. The clods never think you mean them.

Keep Fresh Cut Flowers Perky

Dear Girls: The lads from the Department of Agriculture are at it again, supplying us with the benefits of their expert advice. Now, their latest on keeping f r e s h flowers fresh:

Most of us are up enough on things to realize that fresh cut flowers from the florist should have the stems shortened and the water changed daily, but do we know how to do it?

When the flowers arrive place them in the sink and cut the ends of the stems off under the water before placing in a vase. This will prevent entry of air into the stems and subsequent blockage to the water uptake.

As for home remedies such as aspirins, pennies, sugar or salt added to the water, they tell us we can forget 'em! They are quite ineffective.

On the other hand, the commercial flower food packets that come with the bouquet should be used, as they do prevent bacterial growth in flowers fading.

Keep flowers away from excessive warmth such as direct sunlight, rads, hot air registers or on top of the TV set.

During the night, give them a new lease on life (they will last days longer) by placing them on the floor in a cool room or down in the basement.

Don't worry—they won't be lonely — they have each other! — SUSANNA

If you have any hints for running a successful household, write to Susanna in care of this newspaper.

Female Authors Protest

LONDON (CP)—Britain's formidable female authors are rising in protest against the alleged slighting of Muriel Spark —one of their most illustrious colleagues—in the Queen's New Year's honors list.

Miss Spark, whose latest novel is a series of critical successes in the Manchester Guardian, received a modest Order of the British Empire—along with several hundred public servants and other relatively obscure citizens.

By contrast, actress Dorothy Tutin and Oxford French scholar Enid Starkie were made Companions of the Distinguished Order of the British Empire, while actress Margaret Rutherford became a dame of the order.

In the honors peeking order, an OBE ranks just above a member of the British Empire —awarded the Beatles in 1965 —and beneath a CBE and a dame or knight of the British Empire.

Novelist Pamela Hansford Johnson, wife of nuclear-scientist C. P. (Lord) Snow, opened the protest publicly in a letter to The Times Tuesday, complaining that the Spark OBE is "a singularly slender award."

Writers Graham Greene and Vera Brittain chimed in Thursday and were joined by newspaper columnist Bernard Levin, who described the award to Miss Spark variously as embarrassing, absurd and silly.

The women writers and newspaper columnists said such awards downgrade the literary art in relation to the theatre and female writers in comparison to man.

Miss Spark, 47, has moved more prominently into the public eye in the last year with the sell-out success in London's West End of a stage adaptation of one of her novels.

The critics have noted that actors and actresses tend to be made knights or dames, at least CBE.

Moscow Expects Peking Struggle To Lead to Border Incidents

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Moscow, with a great deal riding on the outcome, evidently expects China's power struggle to end soon in a result blasting any chance for a Soviet-Chinese reconciliation in the foreseeable future.

Communist-bloc observers do not rule out thereafter the possibility of grave Russian-Chinese incidents, perhaps taking the form of deliberate Chinese provocations on Soviet borders.

An indication of official Moscow thinking was provided in a long article carried by Red Star, the Soviet defence ministry newspaper.

Soviet soldiers, it said—all preparing them for the outcome in Peking—"cannot fail to be shocked" at the dominant Chinese group's attitude toward the Soviet Union, which "raises questions in the minds of Soviet servicemen."

For a long time, Moscow has carefully watched the struggle.

Should the side headed by men like President Liu Shao-chi and the party general secretary, Teng Hsiao-ping, come out on top, there would be a chance of healing some of the scars inflicted by the long Peking-Moscow feud.

If the side headed by Defence Minister Lin Piao wins, the chances for Moscow-Peking co-operation would virtually evaporate. Too many bridges have been burned, too much has been said and done.

It appears now that Communist observers see Lin Piao as the winner. They say it is not a question of who will win but when the issue will be finally decided. Some observers of the Peking scene say the decision is likely to come before the winter is out.

The way the European and Soviet Communist observers see the China struggle, Lin Piao, claiming the support of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and the right to interpret his "thinking", in reality heads a minority, but an extremely powerful one which soon, in effect, is likely to become the majority.

This faction is striking heavily at its opposition's strongbold—the ranks of the factory workers. President Liu and Secretary Teng have been strong in the All-China Federation of Trade Unions which they created.

But the Lin faction apparently has won control of the People's Liberation Army after a struggle which began as long ago as 1958. They have purged from its command structure the professional army officers who, in the interests of a modern armed force, wanted to retain good relations with the Soviet Union, its primary source of the wherewithal of war. The professionals have been replaced by or made subordinate to political officers. This is the way the Red Star article sees it.

Sir John A's Birthday Not National Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The federal cabinet's decision last Thursday to recognize Jan. 11 as Sir John A. Macdonald Day came too late for most Canadians to be given the day off.

A cross - Canada survey by The Canadian Press showed that Nova Scotia is the only province in which schools are to be closed for the full day. Students in Ontario and Prince Edward Island will be given half-holidays.

The federal order - in - council left short of making the day a bank holiday, and thus far no province or municipality has proclaimed the day a provincial or civic holiday.

Quebec, Manitoba and New Brunswick schools will stay open and the same will likely be true in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland.

TREND MAY SPREAD

However, some of the provincial cabinets haven't met since the federal government acted and the trend toward making the day a school holiday may spread.

Until a few years ago, the birth date of Confederation's chief architect and Canada's first prime minister was an almost-forgotten fact.

The federal government has been under pressure, since the 150th anniversary of Sir John's birth two years ago, to make Jan. 11 a full statutory holiday. But one objection has been the nearness to Christmas and New Year's days. Ontario's Education Minister William Davis has expressed sympathy with a suggestion for a statutory holiday honoring all the fathers of Confederation on Feb. 15—the date on which Canada's maple leaf flag was unfurled.

Focal point of Sir John A. Macdonald celebrations this year will be Kingston, where he first entered politics as an alderman and which he continued to represent in Parliament.

The festivities, including special lectures, speeches by politicians and centennial officials, a reception and a private dinner will be topped off by a giant centennial ball.

Prime Minister Pearson will be on hand for the speech making in Kingston's city hall, which at one point was considered as a site for the Canadian Parliament.

THE CHIEF ATTENDS

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker, a strong admirer of Sir John, will address a party being sponsored in Ottawa by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Earlier Jan. 11, he will speak to students at the new Sir John A. Macdonald high school in Ottawa. A wreath will be laid on his behalf during the Kingston ceremonies.

Brantford, Ont., where Sir John embarked on his first political speaking tour in 1850, will throw a Fathers of Confederation costume dinner.

Special lectures are planned for the National Museum in Ottawa and the Confederation Centre in Charlottetown, and the date has been selected for the premiere of a centennial play by the Ottawa Little Theatre.

Ottawa's Centennial Centre will be the scene of a giant birthday party.

Guests at a banquet in Winnipeg Wednesday night will include Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Alexander Gainsford and their daughter. Mr. Gainsford, a 45-year - old inspector with the Manitoba Liquor Control Commission, is Sir John's great-grandson.

No special celebrations are planned in B.C., New Brunswick or Quebec.

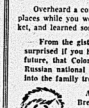
MUSHMOUTH REPORTS

Dear Boss:

Overheard a conversation in one of the local watering places while you were away on that week's vacation junket, and learned some strange things.

From the gist and jest of what I heard, don't be surprised if you hear or read somewhere in the near future, that Colonel Anatolij Tarasov, coach of the Russian national hockey club is conducting research into the family tree of one Carl Brewer.



According to the gab it seems that Brewer suddenly developed an ability to put the whammy on the foemen and is possessed of an evil eye. The puck-chasing tovariches suspect that the controversial Brewer has a voodoo or witchcraft background somewhere in the limbs of the family tree.

Brewer, you remember, staged an off-beat performance against the Soviets which while not exactly hypnosis had the Reds in a state of blurry-eyed confusion that helped our side no end, and actually paved the way to the Canucks first tournament win since 1961.

According to my "informants" Brewer began the game by wandering in, among, and about the Red players staring them in the eye with the look of a clammy eel as if he were ready to hypnotize them.

Later when a Red drew a penalty Carl skated over and tapped him gently on the helmet with his glove. After Brewer scored Canada's second goal he moved over to a Russian defenceman and playfully tapped him with his stick.

The strategy had its effect, boss. The Reds first got confused at the strange antics — then got mad and the madder they got the more penalties they piled up.

And boss, we cashed in on four goals while as many Reds were cooling off in the hoosegow.

And you might hear or read, boss, that a new Russian charge of collusion between the Czech team and Canada's Nationals might spout from the Russian manageriat headquarters.

For it seems the Czecks took the initiative of the so-called "intimidation" tactics. The Canadians merely improved on them. In fact Canada's coach Jackie McLeod admitted such a procedure.

"I realized in the Czech-Russian game," he said, "how easily the Russians could be intimidated. They used Hatlik for the job. We thought Brewer would be our best."

And he intimated that if the Reds don't threaten to push the panic button, the same tactics, on a moderated scale, would be used at the world tournament in Vienna.

The boys at the rest table were not so sure it would work over there. They opine that European referees would be red and there guys might class down heavily on tactics not available in the overseas rulebooks. Besides a gentleman by the name of "Bun-ny" Ahearne may have some ideas on the matter.

So ole Witch-Doc Brewer may hold the secret weapon that could bring our 100-year-country its first world title, amateur that is, since the Trail Smoke Eaters, I think it was, nailed the last world flag to the mast some six years ago.

Well, boss we're going to a good start hockey wise in 1967 and if we can cop that Vienna caper all will be hunkey-dory again in Our Lady of the Snows.

And the icing on the year of confederation cake would be, as is rumored, that long-looked for tussle between the Russians, current world amateur champions, and a club from the National Hockey League. It has been yakked back and forth for some time now with the Russians putting up a front of boldness in their predictions of the outcome of such a hassle.

So let's prove once and for all that this li'l ole country is still the cradle of hockey and has bred and raised the best in the world.

Bruins Boost Blues To Top Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins, a last-place team who have trouble helping themselves, provided the surprise of the National Hockey League weekend by giving New York Rangers a boost to sole possession of first place.

The Bruins upset Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 Sunday night while the Rangers were edging Montreal Canadiens 2-1 in New York. The Rangers and Hawks had gone into Sunday's action in a first-place tie and the results gave the New Yorkers a two-point lead.

The win was the 18th for the Rangers, the same number they won in the whole 70-game schedule last season.

In Sunday's other game, the fifth-place Detroit Red Wings defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1.

The Canadiens defeated Detroit 4-2 Saturday while Toronto trounced the Bruins 5-2.

The Rangers now are five points ahead of third-place Toronto and nine up on the fourth-place Canadiens.

JOHNSTON SHINES

The Bruins, who had labored through a stretch of eight winless games, beginning Dec. 21, knocked off the Hawks behind Ed Johnston's brilliant goaltending and goals by Bob Dillabough, Johnny McKenzie and Bob Woytowich.

Johnston stopped 29 shots, including a diving save on Bobby Hull in the first period after Ken Wharram's power-play goal had sent the Hawks ahead 1-0. The Bruins had 29 shots.

Dillabough tied it while the Bruins were short-handed later in the first session and McKenzie drove a rebound past Chicago goalie Dennis Dejordy-less than a minute later. Woytowich provided the insurance with an unassisted goal in the third period.

Stan Mikita of Chicago got his 35th assist to bring his point total to 52.

The Rangers trimmed Montreal 2-1 on Bob Nevin's goal with less than five minutes remaining in the game. Orland Kurtenbach scored the other New York goal while Gilles Tremblay scored for Montreal.

WE'RE NO. 1

Chants of "We're No. 1" went up in Madison Square Garden following Nevin's ice-breaking goal at 15:12 of the third period. The crowd of 15,925 also let out an ear-splitting roar when the Boston - Chicago score was posted at the Garden, showing Boston ahead of the Black Hawks.

Montreal goalie Charlie Hodge was at his best in the second period when the Rangers fired 16 shots at him. The Rangers had 25 shots during the game. Montreal managed the same number at Ed Giacomin who lowered his average to 2.18.

In Sunday's other game, the Red Wings beat Toronto on goals by Andy Bathgate, Parker MacDonald and Paul Henderson. Bob Pulford scored Toronto's goal late in the game.

In Saturday's action, Dick Duff scored two goals and John Ferguson and Yvan Cournoyer netted one each as Montreal edged past Detroit 4-3. Gordie Howe scored twice for Detroit and Dean Prentice had the other goal.

Toronto trounced the Bruins 5-2 in Saturday's other game. Frank Mahovlich, Pulford, Ron Ellis, Eddie Shack and Peter Stemkowski scored for the Leafs, Pit Martin and Rob Schock replied for Boston.

The Leafs had 40 shots at Gerry Cheevers, shuffling their forward lines and coming up with a well-balanced attack to defeat the Bruins.

NO. 270 FOR BIG M

Mahovlich's goal was the 270th of his career and left him tied for 12th place in the all-time list of NHL scorers with Aurel Joliat of Montreal and Howie Morenz of Montreal, Chicago and New York.

The Bruins had 22 shots at Bruce Gamble but he made several spectacular saves to hold them off.

Gamble was spectacular for the first two periods of Sunday's game but the Wings came to life in the third period with three goals.

Roger Crozier, in the Detroit nets, played a tight game in goal and lost his shutout bid when Pulford scored at 15:40 of the third.

The Wings peppered 36 shots at Gamble and Toronto had 29 at Crozier.

GOALIES BATTLE

Duff's two goals and Cournoyer's one all in the third period, broke up a goaltender's battle between Hodge and Crozier in Saturday night's Detroit-Montreal game.

Both goaltenders were spectacular throughout the game but the Detroit defence fell down in the third period and the Canadiens wound out a 2-1 deficit with the three goals.

Hodge stopped breakaways by Alex Delvecchio and Norm Ullman of Detroit while Crozier shone on two breakaways by Cournoyer.

Detroit had 40 shots at Hodge, six more than Montreal had at Crozier.

On Wednesday, the third-place Maple Leafs will meet the fourth-place Canadiens in Montreal and Detroit will travel to Chicago for a game with the Blackhawks.

S. Warner, Pepsi's Turn In Wins

Pepsi's and Stewart Warner registered victories in the Commercial "B" Hockey League Sunday.

League - leading Stewart Warner edged Belvedere Hotel 4-2 while Pepsi's whipped American Optical in a 7-2 affair.

Lewis scored the first and pivot for Stewart Warner, sandwiched around singletons by Bryant and McIntosh. Keller had two assists and Waite had one.

Smith and Moreau were Belvedere marksmen with St. Denis assisting on both tallies.

Muirhead and Dickey scored two goals and added, an assist each while pacing Pepsi's attack. Doran, Smith and Rutton also scored. Ruttan and Ford had helpers.

Stewart potted the Optical goals with Reid assisting on both.

Come From Behind Twice

Nationals Rally; Tie Russians 3-3

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's national hockey team came from behind twice Sunday to gain a 3-3 tie with Russia, and a couple of the Canadians think they know why.

Winger Wayne Johnston thinks the Nationals are more potent against the Russians this season because the Canadians aren't giving the puck away as much.

Goalie Ken Broderick noted that his team-mates, who rarely get more than 15 shots on the Russian goal, had 42 Sunday.

And that's why Canadian coach Jackie McLeod thinks his team should have won.

"It's nice to do well against Russia," he said after the game, "but with that many shots we should have scored more."

The national teams played before 15,324 fans in the Montreal Forum.

The Canadians were down 2-0 after the first period and trailed 3-1 at the end of the second. They finally achieved a tie with right winger Ray Cadieux's goal 15:31 of the third.

The Russians had taken full advantage of penalties to Canada's Barry MacKenzie and Danny O'Shea in the opening period and Alexander Almetov and Vitale Davidov scored.

The Canadians, who couldn't do anything right in the first period, came to life in the second.

Jean Cusson, Canada's top goal getter in the recent Centennial tournament at Winnipeg which Canada won, scored his team's first goal on a rebound.

Edward Joyner gave the Russians a 3-1 lead when he ripped a shot from inside the blueline which defenseman Barry MacKenzie accidentally deflected behind Broderick.

HARGREAVES SCORES

Ted Hargreaves brought Canada to within one goal at 2:53 of the third period when he took a rink - wide pass from Roger Bourbonnais and scored from the face-off circle to the left of the Russian goal.

Cadieux scored his power-play goal from the right corner of the crease to salvage the tie. Broderick said that getting 42 shots on Russian's Victor Zinger must be a first.

"I don't think we've ever had that many shots 25."

Johnston's post mortem was: "I don't know whether we've forgotten how to score them, or if they Sunday's game the Forum have changed their style. We've rafters reboed to the chant of learned to stick with a player "We want Brewer, we want when he makes a pass because Brewer."

you know he's going to get it back. That's why we're interesting more passes."

TOURISTS FLOOD IN

An unaccustomed hero in Montreal was Carl Brewer, former star defenceman for the Toronto Maple Leafs, who used to draw heckling from the ice in the National Hockey League.

wins over Quinte McFarlands and Trenton Apple Kings.

Oshawa defeated the Macs 6-2 in Oshawa Saturday afternoon to leave the Quinte squad in fourth place. The Crushmen topped Trenton last night 5-2. For their fourth win in a row.

The Macs, one point back of Cobourg Cougars, have a chance to improve their position when they visit Cobourg for an 8.00 o'clock game tonight. Peterborough Don Byes visit Belleville for another key tilt this coming Friday.

Quinte stayed close to the Crushmen Saturday until a last-minute marker in the second period opened up a 4-2 lead. They put the decision in wraps with a pair of third-period quickies. It was a 1-0 game, in favor of Oshawa, after one period.

Shots on goal were fairly even, although no official figures were available, as goalies Dave Gavel and Bob Forrester turned in steady performances.

Doug Potts continued to play well since being moved from defence to a centre slot. He scored one Quinte goal and assisted on another by left-winger Pete Fleming.

Peter Laframboise enjoyed a productive afternoon for the Crushmen. He scored two goals and drew assists on two others. Jerry Welsh had a goal and two assists. Phil Solomon and Roger Knowles one of each. Gary Bradley was the other marksman.

Oshawa picked up five of the six minor penalties assessed by referee Sandy Proctor.

Solomon potted the only goal of the first period, at 14:21, shortly after Calver returned from serving Quinte's only penalty. Solomon is the league's leading point-getter.

Bradley made it 2-0 at 5:01 of the second but Potts put the Macs back in contention quickly with his unassisted goal at 5:42.

Laframboise's first goal came at 10:20 but again the Macs bounced back on Fleming's marker at 15:36. But that was it. Knowles made it 4-2 at 19:07 while Laframboise at 6:53 and Welsh at 7:09 clinched the decision in the third period.

Quinte used Mike Healey for the second consecutive game and also A. Jones, on Saturday. Both are up from Belleville's OMHA midget team. Defenceman John Todd was unable to make the trip.

Grads Nip Mo-Hawks In 3rd Period

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

TORONTO — A pair of third-period goals, the final one scored into an empty net, enabled Varsity Grads to defeat Belleville Mo-Hawks 3-1 here last night in an OHA Senior "A" game.

* * *

The Grads had taken a 1-0 first-period lead before Belleville carried play in the second but could manage only a tying goal.

Varsity scored in the first and last minutes of the third to register the victory.

The Mo-Hawks' only other start this week will be in Collingwood Friday night.

It was a game of inches at both ends and close calls were the order of the night despite rather low shots-on-goal totals of 23-22, in favor of the Mo-Hawks.

Thirteen of those shots came in the second period. The Mo-Hawks opened strongly in a bid for the equalizer.

Jerry MacNamara robbed "Shaker" Baker from point-blank range when Gary Greasdahl fed him at 1.10 and seconds later he pulled off another key save on Minnie Menard's rebound.

Bob McAlpine finally hit paydirt at 2.35 on a ganging play with linemates Menard and Wayne McConnell. McAlpine batted McConnell's bouncing shot past MacNamara while stationed off the corner of the net.

The Mo-Hawks continued to have the edge in play with Hoffman and Marchen off together at 7.48. Bob Taylor set Eddie Marchen up perfectly but the latter's stick broke as he attempted to shoot. McAlpine suffered the same fate later in the game.

Taylor pulled a strong two-way game for the losers after being moved back to defence at the start of the second period. Rick Bradford was benched after getting caught out of position several times in the opening heat. MacNamara pulled off another big save by smothering Wayne Brown's hard drive as Ralph Plaxe roared in unchecked for the rebound late in the period.

Moe Galand fired the winning goal after 53 seconds of the third period. Larry Babcock threw the disc out from the left side and Galand uncovered in front, was quick to drive it home.

The Grads checked strongly going both ways from there out and wouldn't allow the Mo-Hawks a sustained attack. They controlled play and dumped it out to keep the visitors off balance. Gary Darling broke in on a two-on-one play but was forced to move right into the goalie's pads at 14:00.

Varsity just missed an open net when Steve Rexe was first attempting to get off for an extra attacker in the final minute. Then, from a faceoff in the Toronto end, Grant Moore slid the puck the length of the ice to clinch it. Seconds before, Greg Marchen was jammed up play at the Varsity cage when he and Brown almost put both the puck and MacNamara into the net.

Gary Greasdahl, whose first-period shot hit the crossbar dead on and stayed out, tangled with Roger Gallipeau in the game's dying seconds. It almost started a brawl.

In the first Billy Crawford broke between the defencemen and deposited Galand's head-man pass on a pretty play at 15:32. Rexe robbed Carl Hymers later when he broke past Bradford. The Mo-Hawk drew a slashing penalty on the play and never did get back on the ice.

Greasdahl's hard shot that the Mo-Hawks claim went in, and Marineau's corner miss on a breakaway, were the Mo-Hawks' best chances.

Lineups And Summary

Mariucci Leaves US Team

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—John Mariucci, former National hockey League star, was replaced Sunday as coach of the U.S. national hockey team. General manager Murray Williamson named himself coach in succession to the one-time Chicago Black Hawks defenceman.

Mariucci will continue scouting for the U.S. Nationals. He resigned last season as University of Minnesota hockey coach.

"Mariucci found the combination of coaching, scouting and selling too much," said Williamson. A former wing at the University of Minnesota, "John and the Nationals have parted company on very friendly terms."

The U.S. team was a badly beaten fourth and last in the Centennial hockey tournament in Winnipeg last week. The Americans appeared to be out of their class in competition with Canada, which won the tournament, Czechoslovakia and Russia.

Finland Drubs Drumheller

TAMPERE, Finland (CP)—Finland's national hockey team defeated Drumheller Miners 8-2 here Sunday.

It was believed to be its first victory over a Canadian senior team.

The score was tied 1-1 at the end of the first period. The finns went ahead 4-2 in the second, however, and rapped in four unanswered goals in the third.

Finland's young team was in command throughout the match except at the beginning of the second period, when Drumheller Miners, Allan Cup champions last year, pressed strongly.

Canadian scorers in the game were John Kosiancic and Bill Fleming. The Finnish scorers were Matti Keinonen and Matti Brunakki with two each, Kari Torkkel, Reijo Hakanen, Esa Pellonenen and Lasse Oksanen.

Defenceman Henry (Buck) Peterson, a veteran of minor pro hockey, was outstanding for the Canadians.

Murray Dodd played the first two periods in goal for Drumheller, but Ron Mathers was used in the third period.

Ivanhoe Wins, Fail to Gain On the Rebels

Ivanhoe Knights scored two late goals for a key 5-3 Centre Hastings Hockey League win over Foxboro Lumber Kings yesterday.

But they still failed to gain on leading Glen Ross Rebels who defeated Wallbridge Warriors 6-4.

Glen Ross leads with 25 points and Ivanhoe is second with 20, both well in front of the remaining five clubs.

Wallbridge's loss was number seven in succession but the Warriors still hold third place by two points. Jack Wright scored his third consecutive winning goal for Glen Ross while Andy Faulkner paced the club with two goals and two assists. Ross Anderson, Doug McCrory and Ken McConnell also scored.

Bill Dudgeon banged home three Wallbridge tallies and Larry Dupuert had one. Tom Bennett drew three assists.

Ivanhoe's last two goals snapped a 3-2 tie in the game's final seven minutes against Foxboro. Goals were scored by Don McCrory, Marve Reid, Dale Benson, Bob Chapman and Jack Francis.

Foxboro scorers were Barry Dafoe, Dennis Ray and Larry Marshall.

N. Electric Hockey League

Comets tripped the Crayleys 5-3 and Crawf's Terrors skinned the Bearcats 9-2 in yesterday's Northern Electric Interdepartmental Hockey League matches.

Court Brailey sparked the Comets with two goals and two assists. Gary Brunetta had one and one; Milt Pukanetk and Chuck Reynolds a goal each; Ted Seale two helpers and Jim Chumbley one.

Phil Cornell had a goal and assist in defeat. Ted Ewing and Claude Carr also scored, with two assists for Gerry Masterson and one for Stu Craig.

Doug Bolte, with two goals and four assists, Ron Hutchinson and Harry Wandbaugh, each with three goals and two assists, had scoring field days for Crawf's. Glen Ketchenon also scored with Brian Allen helping on three and Glen Crawford on one.

Larry Hull potted two Bearcat goals. Terry Casselman and Don Semark got one each one and one Allen Daley also scored.

Centennial Team Said Shaping Up

Dennis Newman, spokesman for the Belleville Centennial Hockey Club, said this morning that the team is shaping up nicely.

"We had 26 players out to practice in Stirling on the weekend and we are working out in Belleville Sunday night at 10:30," he said.

"We hope to trim the club down to workable size this week and will be trying to line up games after next weekend's practice in Stirling," he added.

Newman said that Dave Charles used to turn out as one of the club's goalies this week and that former Belleville "B" goalie, Bill Moxon, worked out with the team yesterday.

NANCY GREEN

Nancy Wins Slalom

OBERSTAUFEN, West Germany (CP) — Canada's Nancy Greene put on a dynamic display of skiing during the weekend to win the Stauden Cup in the first of a series of international competitions in Europe.

Topping an elite field, the 23-year-old student from Rossland, B.C., captured the giant slalom Sunday after winning the special slalom Saturday.

The twin victories by Miss Greene put her at the top of the parade in the current world alpine competition. She received 30 points for her work here. Runner-up is Fernande Bochatay of Switzerland with 35 points and Burgi Farbinger of West Germany in third with 22.

Miss Greene, in the form of her life, was clocked Sunday in one minute, 18.58 seconds in the 2,300-metre slalom on Mount Huendle here. The 47 gates for the event had been staked out by west Germany's Sepp Behr, with a drop of 383 metres.

CONDITIONS EXCELLENT

The Ottawa-born girl finished more than a second ahead of Miss Farbinger in the giant slalom in excellent racing conditions. The temperature was well below freezing and the powder snow was fast.

Miss Farbinger's time was 1:19.83 and Miss Bochatay was third in 1:20.29.

Bus Safety Patrol Begins At Area Rural School

NAPANEE A school bus safety patrol was begun last week in a North Fredericksburgh school. The H. H. Langford rural school, about two miles south of Napanee, at the same time saw the introduction of the Elmer the Safety Elephant program. This is the first rural school to see the introduction of the bus safety patrol in the four counties of Prentenac, Lennox and Addington, Hastings and Prince Edward, all within No. 9 division of the Ontario Provincial Police, the Belleville division.

On hand for the ceremony at the school were Murray K. Rowe, safety officer for the Ontario Department of Highways, Sergeant G. E. Langton, Belleville OPP detachment head, and Constable J. E. Elliott, safety officer of the area detachment. The Elmer the Safety Elephant program is sponsored by the Napanee and district Jaycees and the flag was presented on their behalf to principal Dale W. Clarke and Miss Beryl Asselstine, teacher of grades 3 and 4, by Jaycee Bill Bilton, president of the unit. It will be flown from the flagpole erected by the pupils as their special project.

Daley Baldwin, school bus operator, sponsored the school bus patrol armet straps for the patrol leaders. Two grade 8 pupils are aboard each of the five buses transporting the 229 pupils. One rides at the back of the bus and the other beside the driver. Their duties are twofold: to assist the driver and to assist the pupils. They keep order among the pupils, seeing that they remain in their own seats, and do not distract the driver. When the bus stops, either to take on children or let them off, the patrol leader at the front assists in seeing they cross the road in safety. Patrol leaders, half of whom are girls, are trained to act in either position.

They are trained, also, to act in an emergency: to stop the bus if the driver is taken ill, to use the fire extinguisher and fire emergency door.

Principal Clarke explained that there has been a modified form of bus safety patrolling ever since the H. H. Langford school opened last Easter. Each pupil is assigned a seat on the bus and must keep it. He is enthusiastic about the program and added praise for Constable Elliott, who has given safety talks to his pupils.

Constable Elliott, in his turn, hopes that all other rural schools of the county will eventually adopt the bus safety patrol. Each school must have a sponsor to purchase the Elmer the Safety Elephant flag, he explained. At least 95 per cent of the pupils of rural schools are transported by bus. "If no one life is saved, the program will be worth all the effort," he said.

Pupils Enjoy Learning At School for Retarded

NAPANEE — "Happy Days" has already proved to be an appropriate name for the school for mentally retarded which opened in the old Slash Road School Jan. 2. There are 10 pupils, ranging in age from six to 15, the largest number one teacher is allowed to teach in this type of school.

Two of the pupils come from Napanee and four are from the vicinity. There is one pupil each from Wilton, Switzerville, Newburgh and Enterprise.

Mrs. Ruth Gerber has had experience in other schools, but the rest, including a girl of 12 and a boy of 15, are coming to school for the first time. Mrs. Norman Martin is amazed at the progress some of the children have already made, especially those who had had no previous schooling. Until now they had been the slow ones. Now they are more advanced and they are blossoming under the new experience.

Discipline is normally a problem with such children, but Mrs. Martin has had little occasion to be stern. Already they have learned not to leave their seats without permission. The chief problem that they have is to leave each other, and this problem increases as the day progresses, she said.

To play together, to work together, manners, etiquette and safety — these are the 3 Rs of things taught these children. Their room is the area for them to educate them to their potential. The five with previous experience are a different group from the new pupils, are grouped together.

The lunch hour is a prolonged affair, lasting from 11:30 a.m. and lasting tag hours. Pupils set up the table, are taught table manners as they eat, and each has a certain duty in the cleaning up.

Work periods are not long, and are interspersed with play periods and games. There is physical training each day.

Assisting Mrs. Gerber and Mrs. Martin will have one volunteer to assist her, a different one each week. After that she hopes to be able to carry on alone.

Many other children in the area would be attending, but there is no more room. Plans are already being considered to add another room and another teacher in September.

Parks Farm Placed Fourth In Contest

NAPANEE — Rockwell Parks and son received word recently that their farm there had placed fourth in the Centennial 4-acre improvement competition for Ontario. There were 4,000 entries. Announcement was made by the Hon. Jack Scott, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. The prize money is $200. When judged first in Hastings county, Parks haven won $75 for its owners plus $10 from the township of Frederickburgh.

"The money is secondary," Mr. Parks said, "although it will help pay for the paint. The fact that we were judged better than 3,996 other farms is a matter of satisfaction."

Mr. Parks and his son Wayne had made extensive improvements, the building of a new steel barn modern in every way the most outstanding. The old barn had been covered with steel to match the new one, and had been modernized. Old buildings were torn down, and other buildings remaining were painted. Many improvements were made.

Mr. Parks feels that the chief defect in their improvement program was that they wish they had little control. The county road is to be widened, and when this is done, modern fences will be built. At present the old barbed wire fence is still there.

A banquet for the winners is to be given in the King Edward Hotel January 25, and Mr. Parks and Wayne plan to attend.

The fourth annual Christmas party of Bowerman Sunday School Group Committee was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Howell on Dec. 28.

Allen Howell, Rev. Virgil Earle and Sergeant W. Newman were named to the nominating committee.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Geen.

Breaks World Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Oregon's Neal Steinhiver shattered the world indoor shotput record with his second throw Saturday night, a 66-foot, 6-inch toss in the All-American Games at the Cow Palace.

After a 59-10 effort on his first put, the Oregonian heaved the 16-pound ball well past the 64-foot-11¼ mark set in 1962 by Gary Gubner of New York.

Steinhauer fouled on his third try and then had a 66-4½ effort, second best of the series.

Ralph Boston won the 60-yard high hurdles, with each time at 7.2 seconds, which equalled the meet record.

Charlie Greene of Nebraska tied his meet record in the 60-a yard dash when he won in six seconds flat, one-tenth above the indoor record.

Red Roses To Be Sent Rome Lady

LONDON (AP) — Italian movie star Sophia Loren won £50 ($150) in a London gambling club while confined to her bed in Rome.

It happened Friday, following a party to celebrate the premiere of Al Cousteau's from Hong Kong, the film written and directed by Charlie Chaplin in which Miss Loren stars with Marlon Brando.

After the party the stars and guests moved on to the Pair of Shoes club in Mayfair, where Brando put through a telephone call to Miss Loren's home in Rome. Miss Loren is expecting a baby in May.

While talking with Sydney Chaplin, Miss Loren said: "I just wish I could put £50 on red at roulette."

Said Sydney: "Just hold everything."

While Miss Lorea held the line, Sydney raced to a roulette table, spun the wheel and tossed in the ball. It came up red.

Eric Steiner, proprietor of the club, said: "I'll send Miss Loren her £50 winnings—and some red roses."

Movie Column
Roy Disney Outlines Plans To Carry Out Walt's Projects

For more than 40 years, Roy Disney made the financial decisions for the multiple enterprises of his younger brother, Walt Disney, in an exclusive interview, the first since Walt's death, Roy Disney outlines the plans for carrying out his brother's many projects.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Even as death approached, the creative energies of Walt Disney continued to flow.

Says his brother Roy: "On the day before he died, Walt lay on the hospital bed strictal at the ceiling. It was squares of perforated acoustical tile, and Walt pictured them as a grid map for Disney World, which he planned to build in Florida.

"Every four tiles represented a square mile, and he said, 'now there is where the highway will run . . . there is the route for the monorail . . .'

"He drew himself right up to the end. Sometimes I think he drove himself too hard; you never know about some fellows, but maybe all the work helped bring on his death.

"But what he was driving against that day when he wouldn't be here to spark the ideas. He knew he felt if he got the projects started, we would be able to carry on."

SUCCESSFUL ENTERPRISE

If that was Walt's purpose, he succeeded. Roy says his brother left enough plans for movies, television and Disneyland to occupy the company's energies for many years. And a decade may be required to transform Disney World from shadows on the hospital ceiling into a immense amusement park, and a City of Tomorrow.

Roy Disney, 73 and eight years older than his brother, now has full res-onibility for carrying on the entertainment empire. In his first interview since Walt's death Dec. 15, Roy commented:

"My chief thought is that I should not disturb the organization that Walt built up. He established the broad policies, and now our job is to carry on . . ."

Roy Disney has firm command of company financial matters, as he did in the 40 years he and Walt operated in Hollywood.

Roy Disney was asked to comment on a variety of matters that have arisen in the wake of Walt's death.

How does he account for the sharp rise of Disney stock?

"That began before Walt died. I think it was part of a growing realism that motion picture stocks were underpriced. Our stock was selling at six times our earnings, which was ridiculously low. I thought it should be up to 12 or 15 times our earnings, and it has been rising accordingly."

WHAT'S STATUS

What is the status of Disney World?

"Our next move is to go before the Florida legislature in April and ask for some new legislation so we can proceed in an orderly fashion. The plans are well along. The entertainment portion of the Disney World will cost about a hundred million, and we will supervise that ourselves. The City of Tomorrow could cost as much as half a billion, and we will seek help from outside industry."

What if the Florida legislature does not provide the requested legislation?

"Then we will have to draw back for a reappraisal."

Roy paused to reflect on the days when Walt Disney "first was a very practical guy. He would dream, dream, dream, but then he would come back to reality. The main thing was to get the job done. He would try for the utmost, and then he would retreat to a position he could handle . . .

"Success changes everyone, especially in Hollywood, where success is exaggerated. With Walt, I think success made him drive harder. He was always saying, in effect, 'You ain't seen nothing' yet.' If he had a big success, he was eager to go on to the next one."

Gardener Sues Ringo

LONDON (AP) — Beatles drummer Ringo Starr and a youthful landscape gardener squared off today for what could lead to a corct fight.

But there's no hard feelings on either side.

Peter Gregory, 25, is suing for £5,500 ($15,500) over a gardening job he claims that is the balance on a £8,000 bill for work he did.

Ringo contends the amount is excessive and told a reporter:

"If Mr. Gregory wants to fight me in court let him go ahead."

He called him to impress my gardenn and he did a good job. I was pleased with his work, but not with his bill."

Gregory said: "I have nothing against him myself but I am nearly broke. He can't have any idea of what labor and materials cost these days."

The landscaping was done last summer at Ringo's $103,000 home, Sunny Heights, in Weybridge, an exclusive town south of London.

Beats West Ham 2-0
Liverpool Back On Top Rung

LONDON (CP) — Defending champion Liverpool went to the top of the English Soccer League's First Division Saturday, turning back West Ham United 2-0 at home.

Manchester United, the previous leader, had its game at Newcastle postponed because of frost.

Liverpool has a better goal average than the Manchester club. Both teams have played 24 matches.

Two goals five minutes apart by forward Peter Thompson, both in the first half, were enough to give Liverpool victory.

Nottingham Forest stayed in third place with a 2-2 tie at West Bromwich. Still fourth was Stoke City, 2-1 home winner against Everton. The referee made three inspections of the icy field before he decided play could start.

Behind Stoke was farmer leader Chelsea which, after eight matches without a win, beat Southampton 4-1.

Next came Leeds, whose South African winger Albert Johanneson scored twice in the second half to help his team beat Burnley 3-1.

STRETCHES LEAD

In Scotland, where the weather created the postponement of two cup and six league matches, league-leading Celtic won its first game of the new year, 3-1. On a tricky field, Celtic was much too good for Dundee.

Celtic is five points shead of the league.

Rangers, whose scheduled game against Aberdeen was postponed.

Hibernian moved into fourth place with a 4-1 win over Partick Thistle. Dundee United registered its fourth successive victory by beating Ayr United 4-0.

Five clubs—Cowdenbeath, Alloa, Berwick, Brechin and Dumbarton—reached the first round proper of the Scottish Cup by winning their preliminary matches.

In the English second division, Coventry City, which had a well-earned days at Huddersfield, edged Wolves off the top of the standings.

Wolves, beaten 1-0 by Bristol City, were joined by Millwall, promoted from the Third Division last season. Both are a point behind Coventry.

Frost and snow caused the abandonment of six matches in the league.

NBC Special Said Confused

NEW YORK (AP)—How I Spent My Summer Vacation, NBC's third feature film made for initial television broadcast, was the first attempt in the series to aim higher than Grade B entertainment. Unfortunately, the effort seen Saturday night never came close to its goal.

It tried to demonstrate a confusion between reality and illusion, where a slight twist of a mental screw turns an ordinary situation into melodrama. But the story was as confused as the hero, and neither recovered for the entire two hours.

The plot was built around a young ne'er-do-well, bummed around Europe, who was taken on as a companion of a rich sportsman and his family. The young man's over-active imagination converted the situation into a sinister international plot.

SCENES UNREAL

There was ad unreal quality to many of the scenes and characters, who seemed to have been pulled from trashy novels The story was told in flashbacks as if narrated by the hero, but we were never told that the story was fantasy. Thus the young man, played by Robert Wagner, was pursued and attacked, his films were destroyed in corny secret-agent style. An employer was strangely cold and vicious, and even his girl, the boss's daughter, seemed to operate in slow motion.

But, alas, the viewer was introduced finally to the paranoid world without knowing its purpose. We did not know it was a world of the hero's own imagination. The result was a meaningless, disjointed sequence of events which I never could follow without pattern or purpose.

At the end there was a scene straight from James Bond—explosives concealed in a shoe heel, a bodyshrapped role of film and finally total destruction. Then our hero stepped jauntily away from the flaming building and into a waiting helicopter, leaving behind him a large in her of television viewers who wondered what the last two hours had been about.

Movie Moviemaker Planning To Tell Story of Dieppe

NEW YORK (CP)—A British moviemaker plans to make a picture of what he calls the "terrible, shocking story of the Second World War raid on Dieppe in which 3,000 Canadian soldiers were killed or captured.

Ronald Neame, a cinematographer and director who has been involved in other pictures about the Second World War, said in an interview here he has acquired the rights to Dieppe — The Shame and the Glory," by Terrence Robertson."

He said the Canadian government has promised him support in the form of ships, vehicles, arms and "as many troops as might need to make the film."

The raid was in 1942 when 5,000 Canadians crossed the English Channel to attack the French port of Dieppe. The Germans were forewarned and the raid turned into a tragedy. One thousand troops did not even land.

Neame worked on the war pictures In Which We Serve, Next of Kin and Tunnel Escape and The Man Who Never Was."

"Like many others, I have always felt Dieppe was a terrible, shocking Dieppe story," Neame said. "So I acquired rights to the book some time ago and since then I've already received about 30 scripts for the production.

"During several visits to Toronto, I've talked with survivors of the raid, as well as Prime Minister Lester Pearson, who all felt it was high time Dieppe and the shame and courage of the Canadians involved be brought into dramatic focus in a film."

He said as in the case of

Nixon States Goals

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Nixon Saturday outlined goals of the Ontario Liberal party for delegates at the convention that named him leader Friday night.

Briefly, the goals are these:

1. Eliminate university tuition fees.

2. Eliminate pockets of poverty.

3. Preserve choice farm lands.

4. An anti-pollution program.

5. Revised expropriation legislation to make the procedure "fair and uniform."

6. Appointment of an ombudsman to a safeguard personal rights.

7. Transfer more welfare, education and justice costs to the provincial treasurer.

8. A program to share "our advantages" with the needy elsewhere in the world.

9. A program of economics starting with "far-reaching" reform of the cabinet and the legislature.

10. Full participation in the federal medical care program and integration of it with the provincial hospital insurance scheme.

Mr. Nixon said there are "too many ministers for efficiency in government—the form of government has changed little except in numbers over 100 years."

"The legislature will have an opportunity to serve the province better with a real committee system that works, and adequate facilities and staff to make that work effective."

Get In To Win with BOB NIXON

He Is Their Boy

Spring Vote Is Forecast By New Liberal Leader

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Nixon says his Liberals will be battling the Conservatives for power, not fighting for second place with the New Democrats, in the next Ontario election.

Nixon, the member for Brant who was unanimously elected Liberal leader at a convention Friday night, predicted that Conservative Premier John Robarts will call an election this spring.

He said that although the Conservatives hold 78 of the 108 seats in the legislature, the Liberals, now with only 22 seats, will upset the government. The New Democrats, considered by many observers as the party to gain ground, hold eight seats.

"The issues are not corruption or lack of morals, or even the fact that the Tories have been in for 25 years," Mr. Nixon told convention delegates. "The real issue is that they don't understand the society in which we live today.

"They are baffled, or no longer care, about the problems of individuals."

He said the government ignores poverty in rural areas because it doesn't believe it important.

Most delegates to the convention expect an election this spring, although Mr. Robarts' mandate expires in the fall of 1968.

Mr. Nixon, a 35 - year - old farmer, was third at the 1961 leadership convention that elected Andrew Thompson, MP, member for Dovercourt who resigned last Nov. 16 because of ill health.

Mr. Thompson, still to undergo an operation for a heart defect, attended the convention briefly. He was given two standing ovations.

He said the only way he would have wished to resign would be as premier of Ontario. However, he still hopes to be a member of the legislature and will give Mr. Nixon his full support.

Prime Minister Pearson lauded Mr. Nixon's leadership ability and said he looked forward to the day when a Liberal government in Ontario could deal with a Liberal government in Ottawa.

Mr. Nixon, elected to the house in a by-election five years ago, was elected Liberal house leader the day following Mr. Thompson's resignation.

Transportation Bill May Stir Long Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Debate on the government's bulky transportation bill may spell an end to hopes for an early conclusion of the present session of Parliament.

Government spokesmen have suggested an ideal Centennial Year arrangement would be a quick end to the present session followed by a short 1967 Parliament that would leave MPs free to devote time to Canada's 100th birthday celebrations.

The transportation bill which will replace the present Board of Transport Commissioners and the Air Transport Board with a single transportation commission has already been the subject of lengthy debate both in the House and in committee. Many Opposition members have signified their intentions of continuing the battle when Parliament resumes today.

Major targets of the Prairie and Maritimes MPs are the bill's provisions for abandonment of uneconomic rail lines and the new freedom the railways will be given to adjust freight rates.

In addition to the transportation bill the government will have to face the debate on Finance Minister Sharp's mini-budget and a full scale attack on Defence Minister Hellyer's bill to unify the armed forces.

Still in committee are the Bank Act revisions and three bills which will revise civil service legislation to permit collective bargaining. The government can also expect some lively ribbing over the reappointment as former Finance minister Walter Gordon to the cabinet and a blast at Labor Minister Nicholson for his decision to extend the trusteeship over the maritime unions.

Wilson Cabinet Shuffle Tame

LONDON (CP)—Harold Wilson wields the knife with a certain artistry but he has not yet become a good prime ministerial butcher.

That sums up weekend reaction to the Labor leader's cabinet reshuffle Friday. Eight ministers, including one cabinet minister, left the government, and five backbenchers were given office for the first time.

This was tame stuff compared with the Tory Night of the Long Knives July 13, 1962, when Prime Minister Harold Macmillan chopped not one but seven cabinet ministers, including the chancellor of the exchequer.

Ever since that bloody night, talk of cabinet re-shuffle has caused political tails to wag in anticipation. But from the first, Harold Wilson has shown a gentleness astonishing to his critics. He also has shown loyalty to friends.

Wilson reduced the cabinet to 21 from 23 members and its average age to 53 2-3 from 54½. He noted that his administration now includes 23 members under 50, compared with only four in the former Tory regime of Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Critics replied that most of the movement was crabwise, rather than in a straight line. Douglas Houghton, 70, resigned his cabinet post as minister without portfolio. But two other much-criticized ministers, Colonial Secretary Fred Lee, 60, and Overseas Aid Minister Arthur Bottomley, 59, retain cabinet salaries although resigning from the cabinet.

The appointment of Patrick Gordon Walker, 53, to Houghton's slot reflects a degree of sympathy in that Gordon Walker was defeated two years ago largely on a racist issue, thus losing the foreign secretaryship.

"But quite a few of his colleagues are inclined to attribute his promotion to the belief that the prime minister could no longer bear that dog-faced look of reproach from the man he had known so long as well," writes one political correspondent.

Defence Secretary Denis Healey's department is carried one stage along on integration by the changes. The posts of ministers of defence for the three services were abolished and instead a defence minister (administration) and a defence minister (equipment) were appointed with duties covering all three services.

While in Canada, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer is accused of moving too quickly on integration, the opposite criticism seems general here. Healey is accused of pushing through integration at the top, while failing to bring together the three services themselves.

The Tory Daily Telegraph says in an editorial:

"To the extent that the integration of the three services has not yet got far enough almost general consent should be earned further and accelerated, this is a move in the right direction.

"It may be asked, however, whether the moment is yet ripe for such integration at the ministerial level when it has made so little progress at the various levels beneath them."

Although the ministers vanish, Healey will still have three parliamentary secretaries for the navy, army and air force.

The rising star of Mrs. Shirley Williams, 36-year-old daughter of former progressor George Catlin of McGill University, Montreal, received a new boost in the reshuffle.

She became minister of state in education and science. One veteran observer says this means "she will be Labor's most influential woman minister a decade from now."

Peking Boils With Unrest

PEKING (Reuters)—A thousand-strong crowd chanting slogans gathered outside the official residence of Head of State Liu Shao-chi as the city seethed today with demonstrations against opponents of Mao Tse-tung. Communist party chairman.

Demonstrators throughout the morning streamed into a 100,000-seat stadium in Peking's northeastern suburbs for a mass rally which Red Guards posters said was called to "struggle against" Tao Chu, party propaganda chief.

Thousands of people thronged through the capital's main shopping street, Wang Fu Ching, and into the vast Tienanmen Square where posters denounced Liu, Tao Chu and Teng Hsiao-ping, party secretary-general.

Dozens of Red Guard loud speaker trucks coursed through the streets pouring out invectives against the alleged anti-Maoists.

The crowd outside Liu Shao-chi's residence shouted slogans about "extensive democracy" for about an hour before security guards drove them off.

Premier Chou En-lai again was attacked in another detailed accusations in posters put up today on the northern side of Tienanmen Square by a "revolutionary rebel detachment in the field of finance and trade."

The posters accused Chou of having "deliberately wanted to lessen the struggle against Liu Shao-chi and Teng Hsiao-ping."

The posters also said the premier tried to shield from criticism Li Hsien-nien, finance minister and a vice-premier, whom they described as a "responsible person for the bourgeois reactionary line."

Posters Attacking Mao Seen on Canton Walls

HONG KONG (CP)—Chinese from Canton reported today that wall posters attacking Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung had gone up throughout south China city and that Canton radio had broadcast alerts to his supporters to be ready to come to his defence. Some arrivals said they had seen dozens of anti-Mao posters Monday and early today before taking the afternoon train to the border and crossing into Hong Kong. Others claimed there were hundreds of such posters.

They said radio appeals directed Mao's followers to stand ready to "crush the enemies of our great leader."

There was no way to verify the reports, but most of the travellers told essentially the same stories.

They said the posters and counter appeals followed a week-end of bloody fighting between pro-Mao Red Guards and anti-Mao factory workers in which they said several persons were killed, scores hurt, a Canton hospital lobby smashed and doctors and nurses beaten up.

Thousands of workers stayed away from their jobs in factories and municipal gas, water and electric plants Monday. Radio broadcasts repeated appeals for workers to return to their jobs.

A middle-aged Chinese said he saw several bodies lying on the streets.

"I think they were all dead. They had been badly beaten about the head and there was blood all around.

We Can Give Direction Says Kai-Shek Backer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Chinese Nationalist diplomat said today President Chiang Kai-shek is ready to return to the mainland if present disorders lead to general chaos in Communist China.

Ambassador Chou Shu-kai told in an interview that the time is drawing near in Communist China for outside direction and organization. "That we can provide," he said.

Chou foresees three possible outcomes of the present situation:

—Success of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his defence minister, Marshal Lin Piao, in suppressing opposition to their rule.

—An overthrow of the present hierarchy by the Communist party wing led by President Liu Shao-chi.

—General chaos resulting from the intensity of the current power struggle as rival leaders purge each other. This would leave the 700,000,000 Chinese people virtually leaderless, he predicted.

"That is where we come in," said Chou. "We have been preparing for such a day and we cannot shed our responsibility to the Chinese people."

Chou would not say what support could be expected from the United States in a "political operation carried out militarily."

No Censorship On Chinese News

There apparently has been little or no censorship of reports sent from China.

Shanghai Reported in Turmoil

Shanghai Foes of Mao Resort To Economic Warfare Measures

TOKYO (CP)—Opponents of Mao Tse-tung in the big port city of Shanghai were accused today of resorting to economic warfare in an effort to disrupt China's production and finances.

Shanghai revolutionary workers made the charge in a message to Mao reported by the China news agency.

Pro - Mao workers reported earlier that last Wednesday thousands of anti-Mao workers in Shanghai walked off their jobs and paralysed communications, transportation and utilities.

The message to Mao today said a handful of reactionary Communist leaders in Shanghai "not reconciled to their defeat" are "playing now tricks." Using material benefits as bait to corrupt some workers ideologically, they have attempted to lead the masses onto the evil road of economism, so as to shift the general orientation of the struggle, disrupt production and the state finances, and sabotage the great proletarian cultural revolution.

It said the "staunch revolutionary left have seen through these schemes, have stood out against these economic lures, and rebuffed what it called "sugar-coated bullets."

It said the pro-Maoists would "seize complete victory and firmly oppose "putting bank notes in command."

Meanwhile, China's Premier Chou En-Lai was reported today to have called for a letup in attacks on five of his ministers by the militant Maoist forces who have created chaos and violence on the mainland.

The Peking correspondent of the Japanese daily Nihon Kaizai said posters in the capital quoted Chou as urging the Red Guards to criticize only Heads of State Shao-chi and Communist Party General-Secretary Teng Hsiao-ping—and leave the other leaders alone.

Chou, whose moderate role may prove to be a decisive factor in the power struggle, denounced Liu and Teng Hsiao-ping at a rally attended by Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, and other supporters of the Communist party chief.

He said leaders who should not be attacked included Foreign Minister Chen Yi, deputy premiers and economic experts Li Fu-chun, Li Hsien-nien and Tan Chen-lin, Public Security Minister Hsieh Fu-chih and Oil Minister Yu Chiu-li.

Yanks' Pincers Closing

BEN CAT, South Viet Nam (AP) — American troops have launched the biggest U.S. military operation of the Vietnam war and surrounded a key Viet Cong area from which terror and guerrilla attacks on Saigon are mounted.

At least 92 Viet Cong were reported killed.

The huge U.S. force surrounded an area north of Saigon known as the Iron Triangle in an attempt to capture the major enemy command directing operations against the South Vietnamese capital.

The multi-division operation began at dawn Sunday with a helicopter assault against the Viet Cong town of Ben Suc on the Saigon River.

By today, U.S. troops had surrounded 60 square miles of abandoned rubber plantations, villages and jungle which have not been under government control for years.

The headquarters sought in the operation is known as M.R. 4, the nerve centre for Communist planning for action in the Saigon, Cholon and Gindinh areas. American commanders hoped to upset Viet Cong plans to increase terror and guerrilla activity in the South Vietnamese capital and the area immediately surrounding it.

An important side-effect of the huge operation is the relocation of up to 10,000 persons who live around the Iron Triangle. They are being moved to refugee camps inside government territory.

The operational area lies 20 miles north of Saigon and is bounded by the Saigon River that winds into Communist War Zone C to the northwest, Route 13 which runs north from Saigon to the Cambodian border, and the Thanh Dien forest.

The tangled Iron Triangle, an area of twisted jungled pitted by B-52 strikes and crumbling enemy installations, is in the southern part of the operational area.

Quebec Viewpoint

We Hope to Stay in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand of Quebec Monday night assured a group of 200 Ontario businessmen that he will do everything within his power to see that Quebec remains a province of Canada, as long as it can be achieved with dignity.

"I am here to tell you that we are still in Canada and we hope we will remain in Canada," said Mr. Johnson, who was host to the group at a dinner.

Mr. Johnson blamed "angry articles in newspapers, the fears about Quebec separating from the rest of Canada . . .

"They (the press) are reading my mind before I have even made up my mind, Mr. Johnson said.

He made it clear that Quebec intends to continue its efforts to get out of federal programs, such as old age pensions, which are assigned to the provinces under the constitution.

'Draw Faith From Past' -- LaMarsh

VICTORIA (CP)—With a call for Canadians to draw faith from the past to meet the challenges of the future, State Secretary Judy LaMarsh Monday officially declared open the 15-car Confederation train.

Following the opening ceremony, the public was admitted for the first time to tour he six exhibit - laden railway coaches which present, in a series of time - tunnel impressions, the pre-history of Canada up to nations tomorrow.

In her speech to more than 1,000 persons, Miss LaMarsh predicted Canadians would get more than just enjoyment from the $1,500,000 Confederation train.

"Within the imaginatively designed confines of this Confederation train, Canadians from sea to sea will find a graphic summary not only of the first hundred years of Confederation but indeed of the years, yes centuries, which came before our union.

'Teacher Training Ill Prepares Anyone for Anything'

TORONTO (CP) — William Ross, chairman of the Toronto board of education, said Monday a revision in Ontario teacher training programs is necessary to improve the quality of education.

He said in an interview that teaching a child how to phrase a sentence is not nearly as important as teaching him the dignity and respect of individuals and to be aware of society around him.

"We need a complete and absolute revision of teacher training, which ill prepares anyone for anything, let alone one of the most important jobs in society, he said.

He disagrees with a premise held by some education authorities that the basic job of schools is the transmission of facts.

"Very few of the facts taught in school stay with the child anyway. It is attitudes—especially attitudes toward learning, Mr. Ross said.

He believes teachers should be relieved of all non-academic duties in schools, including study hall and yard supervision.

"Teachers should be rid of every one of these and every department head should have a clerical assistant.

He said there should be a one-year course to train persons interested in becoming teachers aides. "I would like to see the Toronto board do this and award certificates, he said, adding that he believes a number of these graduates would continue on to teacher training.

Mr. Ross proposed a major conference on quality education for Toronto this fall.

"I would like to see an open forum with scientists, teachers and trustees from anywhere in the world formulate exactly what quality education is.

Teachers generally agree with Mr. Ross, Robert Brooks, vice-president of Toronto district of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation said.

However, Mr. Brooks said, teachers feel that salaries have to be improved to attract suitable candidates.

Education Minister William Davis said the province is stepping up its recruitment campaign to get young people to become teachers.

Probe Dorion Mishap

Barrier Raised Before Crash, Woman Says Youth Lifted It

DORION, Que. (CP) — Four witnesses agreed Monday that an automatic barrier at a CNR level crossing rose Oct. 7, allowing a packed school bus to move into the path of an oncoming freight train.

They were testifying at the opening of a coroner's inquest into the crash, which claimed the lives of 19 students in the bus driver in this community of 25 miles west of Montreal.

Mrs. Frances Hardy, 34, a Toronto housewife driving a car immediately behind the bus, said she saw three boys tampering with the barrier seconds before it went up.

Mrs. Beverly Finlay, 35, of Toronto, a passenger in Mrs. Hardy's car, testified she did not see anyone tampering with the signals.

Constable Gilbert Fontaine, 28, of Dorion police, walking along a sidewalk 60 feet behind the bus, said he saw the barrier rise, but saw no one fooling with it.

John C. Murgatroyd, a army officer from Camp Borden, Ont., driver of the third car behind the bus, said the barrier rose, the bus moved ahead and the barrier came down behind it.

Eighteen of 44 students in the bus en route to a dance died in the crash along with Marcel Fleury, 20, the bus driver. Another teen-age student died of injuries eight days later.

The four eyewitnesses were among the first of 54 persons scheduled to testify at the inquest, expected to last a week.

Mrs. Hardy first testified that she saw a young man lifting the barrier. She later modified this to say only that the barrier had been raised and at least one youth had his hands on it.

"I was conscious of the barrier going up," she said. "I was conscious of arms holding up the barrier."

She said she could not describe the boys although she had seen the face of one of them.

Mrs. Finlay said the barriers were down for an eastbound train which passed through at about 7:35 p.m. The barrier facing them went up and the bus moved forward to cross the tracks.

Just as Mrs. Hardy's car started to move forward, Mrs. Finlay saw a flicker of light to her right. Realizing it was a train headlight she screamed at her companion to stop.

The bus kept going.

Constable Fontaine said the barrier lifted a few seconds after the eastbound train passed. The bus started forward.

Mr. Murgatroyd told the inquest his attention was distracted by a couple who ran across the tracks and ducked under a barrier an instant before the first train passed.

But he saw the barrier go up in front of the bus. Then he heard a warning bell. The barrier went down behind the bus. There was a collision and some parts of the bus were dragged 2,000 feet by the line.

The inquest continues.

NDP Candidate

Ian Reilly, last night named NDP candidate for Quinte riding in next provincial election, gets off to a good start as wife Beverly signifies her support.

Regional Planning Economic Key
MacDonald Tells NDP Convention

Public planning on a regional basis is the key to economic rehabilitation of Eastern Ontario — including the Quinte district — Ontario NDP leader Donald C. MacDonald said last night.

Mr. MacDonald included the Quinte area in the big territorial pocket which, he said, was being impoverished by centralization of industry in Southwestern Ontario.

Speaking to a Quinte riding party convention at the Belleville Kiwanis Centre — which elected Bellefilian Ian Reilly as candidate in the next provincial election — Mr. MacDonald charged the Ontario government with paying only "lip service" to industrial expansion through its regional development associations.

Failure of such expansion, which should be encouraged by government, was the root problem of economic stagnation in Eastern Ontario, he charged.

He noted Quinte area municipalities had applied for federal approval as designated areas, entitled to government aid in granting tax exemptions to new industry.

However, this was a "cautious partial and less-effective" kind of planning.

He said he was skeptical of its benefits "because all experience in Eastern Ontario east of Oshawa is clear enough to indicate that industry has not been moving in the whole of postwar period."

If private enterprise fails to expand into such areas it should be encouraged by public enterprise "through some form of regional development."

"Why should you not have the same kind of industrial a e and manufacturing development in this part of the province as we have in Southwestern Ontario?" demanded Mr. MacDonald.

One reason, he claimed, was the fact that industrial expansion was "branch-plant" development by parent U.S. companies, who saw Ontario outside of the metropolitan market complex "as out in the wilderness."

Regional development councils must root out the reasons for economic stagnation in their areas and discover what should be done.

Mr. MacDonald said there is "an obligation on the government" to do something more so that all areas of Ontario can share equitably in economic development.

He criticized a recent government announcement to pump an extra $1 million into the province's 10 regional development councils.

"If you were really trying to do a job and correct the stagnation in economic development that's to be found in parts of Ontario, one million dollars is really only a drop in the bucket and you're not going to do that much," said the NDP leader.

He warned it was a mistake to assume any area could progress regional planning.

"Many years of experience have shown us that the growth of a giant province like ours is lopsided . . . and some regions grow at the expense of others."

"My concern, and the concern of the New Democratic Party, is to see that government makes use of all the modern tools at its disposal to make the life of our people better and richer. This is what regional planning can do."

PLANNING NEEDED — Pointing at a map of Eastern Ontario, NDP leader Donald MacDonald tells NDP workers regional planning is key to growth in the Quinte area.

Ian Reilly Is NDP Candidate

The New Democratic Party launched itself into the next provincial election in Quinte riding last night with a young, full-time labor representative as its campaign candidate.

However, Ian Reilly of Belleville is no newcomer to political platforms, as he reminded delegates to a riding convention which proclaimed him at Kiwanis Centre in Belleville last night.

At 27, he already has fought two general elections — in the provincial 1963 campaign for Hastings West and in the last federal election in Northumberland, against Conservative visitor George Hees and Pauline Jewett, Liberal.

By career, he is international representative of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union and a member of the farm-labor committee of the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Born in Toronto, his back ground is more closely linked with rural living than that of the big city, he told last night's meeting.

When he was four, his family quit Toronto and his father worked as a farmhand in the Quinte district centres of Wellington, Frankford, Hilton and Brighton.

For several years he has been a central figure in the growth of the NDP organization in the Quinte area — traditionally an arena of Tory force under siege by Liberalism at election time.

Politically, he told last night's meeting, the long years of work for the NDP now appeared to be paying dividends, with the party gaining strength as the "real challenger to Conservative power" in the riding.

Personally, he added: "I'm not strictly a trade unionist. I'm a trade unionist at heart because I believe everyone should get a fair shake."

A member of the city's Jewish community, Mr. Schwab said the theme of Brotherhood Week will be proclaimed from the pulpits of churches throughout the city on February 19. This week will be followed by "Open House" in the churches on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, and many congregations will participate. There will be no service, but the ministers of each congregation will give a brief address and answer questions.

On the Sunday night there will be a concert at Centennial High School, with the band of the Salvation Army, a compo-

Brotherhood Outlined

Brotherhood Week in Belleville next month will take on new significance, in the manner intended when it came into being.

The celebrations will witness an extension of the activities of the seven-member inter-denominational group organized some years ago by members of Eastminster United Church.

Members of this group — Protestant, Catholic and Jewish — are all from East Hill congregations and the hope is that others may be organized emphasizing the whole city.

Belleville merchant Ted Schwab, outlined plans for the February 19-26 week in an address to the Rotary Club yesterday.

site choral group of male voices from local churches, a visiting choir from a Toronto synagogue, and dedication of Gideon Bibles for use in the extension to Belleville Hospital.

On the Wednesday night there will be a banquet for some 1,000 invited guests. The seven groups of ten congregations will carry out the catering.

A highlight of the program for the week is an essay and poster competition for school and adult groups. This is being held in advance and prizes will be presented at the banquet, which is being organized entirely by the laymen's groups of the congregations.

The executive secretary of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, the Rev. Richard Jones, will be the speaker.

Wage Scales in Riding Given at NDP Meeting

Low wage scales in the Quinte district — and Eastern Ontario generally — came under scrutiny at the NDP Quinte riding association convention in Belleville last night.

Indirectly, the scales of comment were tipped by a passing remark by Ontario NDP leader Donald C. MacDonald in the keynote address to the convention at Kiwanis centre.

Among the advantages of the area which should attract new industry, said Mr. MacDonald, were a stable economy and good labor conditions.

But, he added, "that usually translates into low wages and rather docile workers who cannot go on strike because they wouldn't dare."

"Because they can't afford to," interrupted one party member.

Roy Frost, of Marmora, officer of the United Steelworkers of America and NDP candidate in the 1965 federal election, later presented some statistics to the convention.

A recent union council meeting, he said, revealed there are hourly basic wage rates gained by union members.

Pembroke, $1.31; Port Hope, $1.67; Belleville $1.83; Deseronto $1.64.

By comparison, said Mr. Frost, steelworkers in Oshawa were earning $2.91.

"I don't know just how the working man in these areas . . . he began — then left the rest of the comment unfinished.

George Dainard, officer of the Belleville Labor Council, quoted the statistics could only apply to steelworkers' union members.

Other workers in the Belleville area were not earning an hourly rate of $1.83 "by any means," he added.

"I'm a unionist," he told the meeting. "I'm concerned with working people, (but) many people in this area are not unionized. Unfortunately they don't realize the harm they're doing to themselves."

CANBERRA (AP) — The Queen has approved an Australian white ensign to replace the Royal Navy ensign flown on Australian warships for 55 years. Prime Minister Holt said, "We now feel it is appropriate to adopt a flag which is distinctively the flag of the Royal Australian Navy."

Ratepayers Ask Questions

BLOOMFIELD (Special) — Controversy hinging on a projected $860,000 central school in Hallowell township has stimulated formation of a ratepayers' association.

The local group met to a head Saturday when more than 200 ratepayers packed the township hall and councillors were charged with holding back information on the school project.

Spokesman for the ratepayers Jack Hartwick said the public had "a right to know what's going on" but "everything was under wraps" in the school issue.

Retaliation came from councillor Douglas Caley, who said a full report was given the last nomination meeting in November and sketch plans for the school were made public at the time.

He said it was not council's fault if ratepayers residents didn't avail themselves of the facts.

The proposed central school would replace three other buildings at Warrings Corners, Bloomfield and the West Lake road.

Annual debenture payments totalling $18,000 are said being made on township schools still in use.

The clash between challenging ratepayers and council was supervised by Picton lawyer William Lane.

A nominating committee later was named to bring in a slate of officers and directors for the new ratepayers association.

North Hastings Concert Band To Visit Expo

The North Hastings High School Concert Band has been invited to perform at Expo 67 in Montreal on May 5 and 6. The band, under the direction of William Hennig, is now busy with daily rehearsals.

It is estimated to send the entire band of some 65 performers, their conductor and chaperones, will cost in the vicinity of $3,000. Donations towards this expense have already been received and includes $400 from the Bancroft Lions, $60 from the Madoc High School, where the band recently gave a concert, and the proceeds and donations received from the annual Christmas concert here.

Further financial assistance is expected from the Bancroft village council, from township councils in North Hastings, and from the High School Board. Plans are afoot to reorganize the Music Parents Association to aid the students in their fund-raising, and it is hoped that all service clubs and other interested organizations and individuals will assist.

Labor Council Officers Named

George Dainard Again Heads Labor Council

George Dainard of Belleville was acclaimed as president of the Belleville and District Labor Council last night for the second consecutive term.

In accepting the position, Mr. Dainard called for the support of his executive during centennial year in order to help the Council make a significant contribution to Belleville.

Of the other executive positions on the Council, none were contested, and Ray Bradshaw as first vice-president is the only newcomer.

Other executive members are Mrs. Alice Loucks, second vice-president, Frank Daniels, treasurer, and Daisy LaRue, secretary.

Art Gilroy was chosen as one of the five executive officers — the others to be elected at the Council's March meeting — and Mrs. R. Muliton was named sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. Dainard called for all affiliated union representatives in the district to give their full support to the labor council.

"We want active, active delegates," he said. "We are planning to introduce a motion to ask if a delegate doesn't attend at least three meetings, then we will inform the local so it can get a delegate who will attend.

"I know some of them have reasons for not attending, and if the local informs us of these reasons we will accept them. Otherwise, we'll get active delegates.

"There are several affiliated locals who last year sent delegates spasmodically to the meetings and then stopped."

Mr. Dainard said the Council, plagued by small attendance the past few meetings, (only 15 attended last night) would make an all-out effort to get more delegates to the meetings.

"Some people are delegates in name only," he said, "and never come to the meetings."

He said the Council represents the interests of all affiliated locals in the district and therefore all locals should make it a point to be represented.

Colorful Meeting

Councillors, Wives in Costumes

PICTON (STAFF) — A large crowd of interested citizens, school children and local dignitaries Monday night attended the colorful village council meeting in Bloomfield. Council members and their wives appeared attired in authentic costumes of early day councillors and made an impressive ceremony to open the village's Centennial events for the year.

The costumes, rented from a Toronto costume house, were worn with great dash by the men and the women too seemed to enjoy the spirit of the occasion. The meeting opened with Reeve Henry Leavens, who thanked the people of Bloomfield for the opportunity they had given council to represent them in the Centennial year.

"Following" old records of early council meetings were described and minutes from meetings in the early 1800's were read. The minutes of the first meeting of Bloomfield Council proved to be quite amusing to the audience. This is also the 50th anniversary of Hydro in the village of Bloomfield.

Presentations were made to the oldest business still operating, Cooper's Lumber and Sawmill. A presentation was also made to the oldest farm on century farm, this went to Homer Talsott who still lives and operates the farm of his forefathers.

Donald Baxter of Baxter Canning Ltd. said he was proud the first part of the village Centennial program went off so well. He spoke to many school children present saying that this Centennial program now beginning in Canada is an important milestone in the nation's history. "We should not fail to remember" he said "that much blood, sweat and tears went into the building of this great nation. We should pause to remember Sir John A. Macdonald and those who forged out this country." He paid tribute, in closing, to the oldest citizen who was born in Bloomfield and spent her whole life there, Mrs. Nellie Hicks age 77. Bloomfield school children have been given a half holiday Wednesday January 11 for the observance of the birthday of Sir John A. Macdonald. Other presentations were made, roses to Mrs. Phillina DeGroff, and Mrs. Jack Stenning.

Following the old tyme meeting, regular 1967 business was dealt with by council in the hall which was authentically decorated with a bust of Sir John A. Macdonald, old photographs and early maps of the county and the area.

The council table itself was proudly boasting its share of antiques with old seal press, candle holders, quill pens and old record books and ink wells.

Also serving second terms as chairmen of committees will be Louis Aziz, chairman of buildings and grounds; Jack Hadley as chairman of education; Douglas Whitley as finance chairman and Ralph Weaver as management chairman.

Mrs. Harry Hutchison heads a special centennial board committee; George Greer is recreation committee liaison and Jack Hadley air cadet liaison.

Wilkinson, separate school appointee to the board; on the management committee, Mr. Whitley, Mrs. Hutchison and Mr. Ketcheson; on the centennial committee, Mr. Greer and Mr. Hadley.

Since there has been a drop of around 200 in high school enrolment since 1965, the board has now abandoned plans to erect a second high school in east Trenton in 1968. Population in 1965 was 1,400; in 1967, 1,198.

However, additional space for science, technological and trades classes may have to be provided at the present high school as the trend seems to be in this direction.

E. T. Morris, public school inspector, reported that L. D. Maidens of the special education branch of the Ontario department of education had visited the town's five opportunity classes recently and had commented favorably on the board's foresight in providing this special kind of education for some students.

The board members voted to insist on students who play school hockey wearing helmets, and will make their decision known to the separate school board.

Public school and high school students will enjoy a half holiday tomorrow to mark the birthday of Canada's first prime minister, Sir John A. Macdonald.

GENERAL BUSINESS

Under general business the board received a letter from District Superintendent of Indian Affairs, W. R. Wilson, expressing appreciation for receiving representatives from the Tyendinaga Indian Band council for discussions regarding the possibility of children from the Reserve attending senior public schools in Belleville.

Nothing definite has been decided with the idea still being in the discussion stage. High school pupils from the Reserve already attend classes in Belleville.

Memberships were taken out in three school trustee associations, The Ontario School Trustees and Municipal Councillors Association; the Public School Trustees Association and the Urban and Rural School Trustees Association.

The board re-affirmed its stand on out-of-area students.

Two additions to the schools custodial staff J. C. Hughes and Alvoha Hernum, were approved.

'Mac' Smith Re-elected Chairman

Veteran figure in Belleville educational circles, MacDonald Smith was re-elected chairman of the Belleville Public School board at the organization meeting held Monday evening.

Mr. Smith has been a familiar figure on the Belleville boards since 1953 and last year returned to the public school board after serving for one term on the Bay of Quinte District High Schools Board.

Also at last night's inaugural meeting W. A. VanTassel was named finance committee chairman, Morley J. Lovelace, chairman of the management committee and W. A. Townson, chairman of the school board property committee.

Mr. Smith served as board chairman in 1954, and all three of the foregoing committee chairman are also ex-chairmen of the board.

This year's membership on the school board is the same as in 1966 with all members having been elected for a two-year term.

Other members on the board are Gerald J. Brennan, Mrs. Miriam E. Graham, Gerald W. Joyce and Robert Laughlen.

APPOINTMENTS MADE

Other committee appointments included:

Staff relations committee: instructional -- Morley Lovelace and Mrs. M. Graham; administration -- Wiliam VanTassel, Jerry Brennan, Morley Lovelace and Robert Laughlen, custodial -- William Townson and Mrs. Graham.

Board Members and Teachers Must Be Re-educated to Changes Says New Chairman

School board members and teachers must be re-educated to the changes, which are taking place in the educative process.

This, according to Mr. Max Donald Smith, re-elected as chairman of the 1967 Belleville Public School Board, will be one of the first requirements toward any major improvements in the school system.

"The days of rote learning, graded materials, formal examinations, absolute rules and artificial question and answer sessions is now passing away," Mr. Smith said in his inaugural address. "Awareness of the child as an individual with individual differences is being increasingly emphasized in our schools."

Mr. Smith said schools must improve their special services and that teachers must be found to instruct the handicapped. In-service training for teachers must be stepped up with particular attention being given to increasing the number of consultants.

Improvement was also needed in the library program and thought should be given to providing a qualified librarian in city schools.

"The classroom is becoming more of a work-shop where children learn, experiment, create and discuss," according to Mr. Smith. "The teacher's role is to assist, encourage, evaluate, diagnose and provide special resource material where needed."

He said the ungraded, or continuous progress plan in schools is not far off.

Mr. Smith said that important steps had been taken in education but the big concern now was not with what had been done but what there was yet to do.

"We are facing an exciting series of challenges and as chairman for 1967 I assure the electors that the Belleville Public School Board eagerly accepts those challenges."

Mr. Smith emphasized that with the world changing at a rapidly, education cannot afford to remain static and yet many attitudes and practices are out of date."

He said the Belleville Board had always demonstrated its willingness to search out all available information and much time had been spent in observation and in study of new methods and new ideas. The board had not hesitated to accept the challenges dictated by sound judgment and the criterion "will our children benefit or suffer?"

At the inaugural meeting a year ago the board had passed a resolution to appoint a special committee to work with councils and other boards in the unification and promote a method of unification between elementary and secondary education in the Community.

This committee had been active in the study of developments in organization and in administration in education and had worked with other school boards and municipal councils in promoting co-operative action toward the principle of larger integrated administrative areas.

Many of the major improvements in the school system must await the amalgamation of the school district, but there was much that can and must be done.

Mr. Smith said the top of this list was the "re-education of ourselves and our teachers to the changes in the attitude towards the educative process."

Bridge Date Set Back

TRENTON — The completion date for Trenton's new D. James MacDonald Bridge has been set back from July 1 this year, to September or October, owing to a delay caused by miscalculation of the Trent River bedrock where the second pier from the west bank of the river was installed some months ago.

The second pier was partially installed when engineers from the dept. of highways found that bedrock was at a depth of 11 feet lower than at first thought. The pier was then chiseled down to the levels established, and the pier re-assembled.

Concrete pouring on the new pier was delayed; hence, installation of steel structural parts

Who Is in Charge?

The way things are developing in the internal administration of Canada's fighting forces, it may take some kind of major eruption on the world scene, say in Asia or the Middle East, to bring this country to its senses and end the squabbling that is undermining the morale of the armed services.

The arguments over integration continue and there have been more resignations among high-ranking navy officers. Now a new situation is disturbing the already troubled waters on the defence scene, and it is haying a chain reaction. It concerns Mobile Command, established last year at St. Hubert, Quebec. Some members of the defence staff are said to be worried that the Command may become an army within an army and, in effect, take over the whole defence system.

The Command comprises three infantry brigades in Canada and later will include four squadrons of CF-5's jet attack planes as well as Buffalo transport aircraft and heavy and light helicopters. It has administrative control over the infantry brigade in Europe.

As outlined in a recent news report, Mobile Command is believed to have plans to take control of a number of vessels now under the control of Maritime Command, which is primarily naval. The latter entity is said to be disturbed by this possibility, at the same time the RCAF component of Maritime Command — four squadrons of patrol planes — is reported unhappy about being swallowed by the navy. To compound this situation, many airmen are said to fear that Mobile Command will try to get its hands on Air Transport Command.

In brief, the fear is that Mobile Command ultimately will control the whole defence system, even to the point of dictating weapons policy for all the armed services. Others argue that this is unlikely, at least as long as Paul Hellyer is defence minister.

And if Mr. Hellyer is not in charge, who is? But even Mr. Hellyer cannot claim to be all-powerful. Otherwise, why is there all this concern over the activities of what is virtually an upstart wing of the defence system? Are we witnessing a power struggle between the different service commands?

If this is the case the sooner it is over the better for the morale and security of the nation. Someone has to be in charge and it is obvious that no one is certain just who is running the services. Is it Mr. Hellyer? Or is it Mobile Command?

The irony of this situation is that if there were to be a serious flare-up in the world situation the bickering would have to stop immediately. Someone would have to take charge ,assume overall authority, and he would require loyal subordinates to ensure the efficient functioning of the defence command. Do we have to have such an eruption on the world scene to bring this about?

Grits Get A Leader

The Liberal Party in Ontario has a lot of leeway to make up if it expects to create an upset in any election that may be held this year.

Still, it is facing the possibility of a vote with confidence — and most important, with leadership.

Robert Nixon has yet to prove himself as the head of the provincial Grits, but he does have some intrinsic advantages which serve to increase his stature and authority even at this early stage.

For one thing, his nomination to take over the position of Party leader (vacated by Andrew Thompson) was a unanimous choice, after a number of other possible candidates had withdrawn.

Moreover, Mr. Nixon is carrying on a family tradition as son of the last Liberal premier in Ontario, Harry Nixon, who filled the post briefly in 1943. The elder Nixon died in 1961 and his son quit teaching and won his father's seat in the 1962 election.

Still in his thirties, Mr. Nixon has youth on his side. Nevertheless, it is going to take more than this asset to revitalize the Party to the point that it may pose a serious threat to the ruling Conservatives.

The Liberals have 22 seats in the 108-seat legislature, which will be expanded to 117 in the next election, the Conservatives 78 and the New Democratic Party eight.

There is no guarantee an election will be held this year, but it is a possibility on the grounds that a vote every fourth year has been the tradition, and in view of hints thrown out by Premier Robarts that Centennial Year would not necessarily be a barrier to calling an election.

A Strike—By Any Other Name, But Who Speaks for Taxpayer?

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — With the Liberal Government preparing later this year to give its nearly 200,000 employes the right to strike . . .

. . . with the Conservative Opposition each time pleading the case for striking Federal employes, when, illegally, they have walked off the job, paralyzing essential public services . . .

. . . with the New Democrats trying to rationalize the illegality of these strikes of government workers by calling them inoffensively the "withholding of services" . . .

. . . and finally, with parliament playing along in these charades by legitimizing, or at least condoning these clearly illegal strikes . . .

. . . who, then, if anybody, speaks for the taxpayers, the public at large?

Oddly, perhaps, the public defender is turning out to be Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson.

He alone in all the House of Commons has been speaking up.

And in tough, blunt tones with hard, sharp words, brand ing the practice within the Federal Government as, frankly, "blackmail."

DIEF: PAY UP

The "impossible" — an illegal strike by Federal employes — happened for the first time some 18 months ago when postal workers, in defiance of the government and the law — walked out.

Under the Civil Service Act and the terms of their employment, Federal Governm ent workers have not the right to strike.

And in the special sphere of essential public services — transport and communications — it has been taken for granted by all concerned except, as it turned out, the postmen, that they were, in fact, enjoined from strike action.

Under the Act, the Government possessed a weapon of its own: the power to discharge and impose pension penalties on strikers. Or, less radically, to threaten.

But instead, in the case of the postal workers, it negotiated. Again this year it negotiated. And now says, in the face of a third strike threat in the Post Office, it will negotiate again.

Short of that, the Government possessed a weapon of its own: the power to discharge and impose pension penalties on strikers. Or, less radically, to threaten.

But instead, in the case of the postal workers, it negotiated. Again this year it negotiated. And now says, in the face of a third strike threat in the Post Office, it will negotiate again.

Short of that, the Government has done nothing.

And this was the way it had gone along for these last 18 Federal labor-troubled months.

Then up spoke Robert Thompson — and while, unless the completely unexpected happens, nothing will come of it — he did sound a refreshingly new and different note.

He spoke for the taxpaying public, in blunt words during negotiations and the settlement-that-wasn't - really - after - all. In a settlement of the threatened postal strike:

"I should like to say," he told The House, "that strikes in the past were accepted as a part of the legitimate process of labor-management relations."

And while this still held true today, another factor demanded urgent consideration.

It was this:

"Strikes," he said, "can also be used as a pretty formidable club.

"In fact, when they involve a national transportation service, their threat can amount to public blackmail.

"It is my opinion that the time has passed when the Government should have taken the initiative to provide legislation to cover certain essential services in this country, because the national economy can't function satisfactorily if it is to be continually disrupted by strikes."

People Get Fat By Eating More Food Than Needed

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I received a letter on a weight reducing diet that says there are three types of calories and if you eliminate only the right one you can lose weight.

Please send me a list of foods which contain that one kind.

Or is this just a gimmick to get the public to buy their book for $6.? — Mrs. S.

A calorie is a unit of heat energy, and whatever you don't use up is stored as fat. A calorie is a calorie.

If losing weight were simple as your letter makes out, nobody would be fat. The truth is that people get fat from eating more calories than they need, regardless of the type of food from which the calories come. Fatty foods contain twice as many calories as the starchy ones.

True, some people eat more than others do. The amount you can eat and stay slim depends on your disposition and habits. The tense person, constantly on the go, uses more calories than the one who doesn't get excited and is never in a hurry.

Your metabolism — the rate at which you burn up food — is another factor. But the first arithmetic is immutable: If you eat more than you use, you take on weight.

People who like to eat resent this. Wishful thinking is part of human nature and people never stop hoping that some fairy godmother will come along so they can lose weight without changing the amount they eat.

That's why there is such a fantastic market for books by anyone who can dream up some a fairy tale.

There are useful tricks to help you change your eating habits, but changing them you must. Or stay fat.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is coronary insufficiency? My father is suffering from it. He is 67. Does it mean a full heart attack will follow? He has sharp pains in his chest while walking. What causes these, and what medication prevent them? — Mrs. W.

Coronary insufficiency means that the heart muscle lacks sufficient energy to supply the body's needs for circulation. The pain (angina pectoris) comes when the muscle goes into spasm, rebelling at demands that it work harder than it is able to do.

For a much more detailed answer, read my booklet "How To Take Care of Your Heart." You can obtain a copy by sending 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

A heart attack does not necessarily follow this condition but obviously such a heart needs to be pampered. Medication can help and sometimes avert the chest pain, but it is urgent that the patient do his share too. He must learn how much (or how little) exertion brings on pain, and must take care to keep his physical activity at a level less than that which causes pain. Again I refer you to the booklet for more discussion of that.

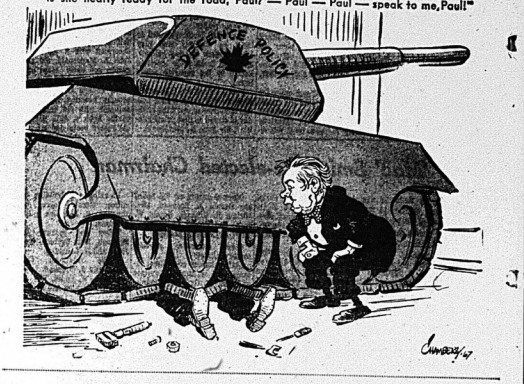
Dear Dr. Molner: Are flu shots effective? A friend tells me they help her, as she never has a cold. I don't believe it. — Mrs. E. R.

Flu vaccine has been thoroughly proved to be effective in preventing influenza but it has only limited value in preventing the colds, as there are many kinds of colds, and the majority will not be suppressed by the flu vaccine.

Some "colds" are actually mild flu attacks, and the vaccine prevents these.

Note to D.M.: It wouldn't be amiss to have a doctor look at that skin discoloration, but I'm sure the fears you mentioned are groundless.

Count your calories the easy way. To receive a copy of my pamphlet "The Calorie Chart," write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.



Sweepstake Judgment

Boston Globe

The 7-to-2 decision of the U.S. Supreme Court in the New Hampshire Sweepstakes gives voters in the Granite State much to think about. The court ruled that knowingly taking acknowledgements of ticket purchasers across the state line violates the Federal law.

It poses a problem, too, for New York State, whose voters recently favored a sweepstakes in a referendum. The New York proposal, supported by Gov. Rockefeller, requires final action by the 1967 legislative session.

When New Hampshire's case was argued five weeks ago it was claimed that the acknowledgements merely indicate a purchase and are not required to collect one's winnings. This cut no ice with the high court. Now, presumably, Congress will be asked to make it all legal again.

Since its inception, in 1964, the New Hampshire Sweepstakes has earned only some $7 million.an net revenue for public education. Total ticket sales are said to have dropped below those of last year. Somehow it all seems to be a shoddy way to pay for the costs of public education.

Hockey in The Outdoors

North Bay Nugget

Is the day of the outdoor rink over? Some minor hockey officials think it is, even in this northern city of ours. These officials feel that all kids' hockey should now be played in covered arenas. No more frigid ordeals when the thermometer is below the zero mark.

One official has told this newspaper that although it would cost parents more an ice rental so to have their youngsters play all their hockey indoors, they feel parents would take greater interest by virtue of having to pay a bit more. They could also go more comfortable in the confines of a closed rink.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jan. 10, 1967 . . .

The League of Nations held its first meeting at Geneva 47 years ago today—in 1920—after its planning by the Treaty of Versailles. The treaty had not been ratified by the United States and was passively accepted by the defeated powers of the First World War so these countries were not represented. Some of its subcommittees, such as the International Labor Organization, are still flourishing, but it failed in its main task, to prevent another big European war.

1776 — Tom Paine published his manifesto, Common Sense.

1910 — Le Devoir, the French - language newspaper, first appeared at Montreal.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1917—Greece bowed to the terms of the Allied ultimatum to give up her neutrality in the war; British units advanced near Beaumont Hamel in France and encircled Kut - el - Amara, Mesopotamia.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1942—the Japanese approached Kuala Lumpur, the main city of northern Malaya; Japanese troops made their first landing on Dutch territory at Tarakan; Churchill received Field Marshal Cooper, his special emissary in the Far East, to London.

In Wilderness For 23 Years

Oshawa Times

The Liberals have not been in power in Ontario for 23 years. With the exception of perhaps Alberta the reign of one party such as the Conservatives have had in Ontario would stir a strong "time for a change" cry in the hearts of the electorate. However the inability of the Liberals and for that matter the Conservatives, to present an acceptable alternative has negated such a move.

In 1943, Liberals led by Harry Nixon dropped from 63 seats to 16. In 1945, with Mitchell Hepburn drafted as leader, their number elected fell to 11. In 1948 veteran Farquhar Oliver could deliver only 14 seats as leader. A Barnum and Bailey campaign staged by Walter Thomson in 1951 brought the province to its lowest ebb to date — eight seats. In 1955 Mr. Oliver tried again, winning only 11 seats.

Liberal hopes rose with the selection of John Wintermeyer as leader in 1959 at what has been considered the best convention to date of the party. In the next provincial vote he boosted Liberal representation to 22 seats. Next time at the polls he managed only to hold the gain, not increase it. And now Thompson succeeded him to the leadership in 1964. He undertook a major rebuilding job and endeavored to instill fight and enthusiasm in a party until ill health forced him to retire late last fall.

Antibiotics and Their Uses

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A physician in St. Paul, Minnesota, writes in to ask why I am so sour on antibiotics," when it is perfectly clear that antibiotics have saved many lives and prevented even many more secondary infections.

That may be clear, but what is not clear yet is the long-term debilitating effect that antibiotics may have on the human organism. I take antibiotics when I have a bad cold or flu, and give them to the children, so I am far from a fanatic on the subject; but I am equally far from looking upon them as medicines that can cure disease.

As we know, there are millions of micro-organisms that inhabit our digestive and respiratory tracts; these tiny bacteria are always within us, and they perform many functions of warding off some invaders from the outside.

But these "friendly" microorganisms are easily capable of treason, of turning on us and becoming dangerous, under stress. Changes of environment, or living habits, or diet — or medication — may turn these bodily protectors into dangerous, and sometimes fatal, agents of infection. There is no clear line between "good" and "bad" bacteria.

My own feeling, based on considerable clinical reading in the field, is that we still don't know enough about the behavior of these micro-organisms under different conditions to permit us to use antibiotics on a regular and routine basis.

It is interesting to note that the root of the word "antibiotic" means "against life." Antibiotics are useful against viruses, which are an intermediate form of substance somewhere between living and non-living thing; but they are effective against bacteria, which are living things.

And these living things play an important role in the intestine and the stomach; indeed, much of the food we eat is produced by the activity of bacteria, and the billions of bacteria present in our own bodies help manufacture vitamins and other factors essential to our health.

A fascinating example of the importance of bacteria is the fact that breast-fed infants' intestines contain almost exclusively certain bacteria quite different from the more common kind when the infants' diet consists of cow's milk. This is why breast-fed babies show greater resistance to some forms of disease than bottle-fed babies. But who can say what mothers' milk will be like after a whole generation of girls has been raised on antibiotics?

Sharp Says Ottawa Planning Bill to Insure Deposits

TORONTO (CP) — There should be provision for greater public scrutiny of the affairs of finance companies in Canada, Finance Minister Sharp said Monday.

He made the statement in an interview following an address to the Canadian Club in Toronto.

"We consider the matter much more urgent than we did a year ago," he said.

Mr. Sharp said that a resolution on the Commons order paper provided for the establishment of an institution to insure deposits in banks, trust and loan companies, a measure which has been hinted at for some time. The deposit assurance would be compulsory for federally-licensed institutions, and voluntary for those operating under a provincial charter. Mr. Sharp said later.

He said the federal government will review all its legislation governing financial institutions which do not come under the Bank Act, and may have special legislation for finance companies drafted in time for the next session.

Mr. Sharp said he will call a meeting with the provinces within the next few weeks aimed at developing complementary legislation for federal and provincially - chartered finance companies.

"Their operations deserve greater scrutiny in the interests not only of the investing public but also of the general stability and reputation of Canada's financial structure," he said. "We can't pass the buck on this."

Since the collapse of Prudential Finance, which held a provincial charter, last month both federal and provincial officials have blamed the other for not having tighter legislation.

"If Prudential had owned a federally - supervised insurance company we would have watched it closely," Mr. Sharp said.

"When North American General Insurance was bought from its German owners by Prudential, we ruled against any intercompany transactions. But it was hard to protect against that."

North American General went into liquidation after assets of nearly $500,000 in securities disappeared from its vaults.

At present, there is no federal legislation for finance companies, said Mr. Sharp, but many come under the Small Loans Act or are supervised by the federal superintendent of insurance.

He said that constitutionally the federal government could not regulate provincially-chartered companies, and would not try.

Mr. Sharp said Canada's general economic health is good, and he is confident it is going to be still healthier. But he hinted he would move again, as he did last year, to bring in "restraining measures" — presumably in the form of higher taxes—if signs of inflation appear.

Conversely, if a general economic weakness appears, policies to ease credit would be appropriate. Meanwhile, Canada's continuing need for "substantial imports" of capital means Canadian interest rates must stay higher than those of capital-exporting countries.

However, he said a recent trend to slightly lower interest rates in Canada was "a most welcome development."

Immediate Passage Not Suggested

Rand Probe Told Injunctions In Strikes Misuse of Courts

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is ready with legislation to insure the deposits of banks and qualifying trust and loan companies.

The deposit insurance scheme has been promised by Finance Minister Sharp—both to protect savings and to bring provincially - incorporated near, banks under a measure of federal supervision.

A government resolution published Monday shows that a regulating body, Canada Deposit Insurance Corp., would start out with an authorized capital of $10,000,000.

It would have access to $500,000,000 in federal loans to absorb any members institution's financial trouble.

It is expected that the government will proceed only to introduction of the legislation this session so that details will be available for public discussion. It will not try to seek immediate passage.

All banks and federally - licensed trust and loan companies will be required to take out the insurance.

It will be available to provincially-chartered trust and loan companies if they want it and if their provincial governments agree.

These latter institutions will have to meet certain standards of operation and report on their activities.

Deposit insurance will be new to Canada, but it operates successfully in the United States. There, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. charges an official premium of one-twelfth of one per cent on gross deposits. Annual rebates take the effective premium charge down to one-thirty-second of one per cent of deposits.

The maximum insurable deposit in the U.S. is $15,000.

The bill will empower go to the Commons finance committee, which now is considering revisions of the Bank Act.

Several witnesses have told the committee that the insurance is likely to end up covering only banks and long-established trust and loan companies, which don't need insurance on their deposits in any case.

The so-called near-banks most in need of the insurance are said to be the least likely to ask for it.

The Quebec government is said to be cool to the plan, if Quebec did not consent, a number of major trust companies would find deposit insurance unavailable to them.

Speculation has them shifting bases to another province.

Exports Edge Imports

Canada's exports totalled $8,374,600,000 in the first 10 months of 1966, compared with imports worth $8,071,300,000 in the same period. Bulk of the trade was with the United States and the balance was unfavorable — exports totalled $5,949,800,000 and imports $5,833,000,000. Exports to the United Kingdom were worth $942,600,000 while imports totalled $539,700,000.

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor said today that industrial relations in Canada are in a crisis because of "outdated labor legislating and the indiscriminate use of injunctions in labor disputes."

"No other section of Canadian society is subjected to the kind of treatment unions are getting with regard to injunctions," the federation said in a brief to the Rand royal commission on labor disputes.

"What we have is 19th-century law applied to 20th-century industrial conditions."

The federation brief said the current use of court injunctions limiting picketing by strikers "is a distortion of the law, a misuse of the courts and a violation of justice."

Curtailment of injunctions was one of five major recommendations in the brief.

The federation also urged:

—A complete overhaul of present conciliation machinery to provide voluntary conciliation and mediation and a mandatory start of contract talks 60 days before an agreement expires.

—Drastic changes in legal provisions regarding "management rights" so that grievances not mentioned in a collective agreement would be settled while the agreement is in force.

—Insertion of a clear interpretation within the Labor Relations Act of the phrase "bargaining in good faith" and strict enforcement of provisions ensuring the good faith.

—Continuation of the tradition against incorporating or licensing unions to make them liable for damages.

OPPOSES COMPULSION

The federation also restated its opposition to any form of compulsory arbitration of labor disputes.

The brief was among the first submitted as hearings opened today before Ivas. G. Rand 82-year-old former justice of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Commissioner Rand's farreaching inquiry will cover most aspects of Ontario labor law. The royal commission was appointed last spring after the Ontario labor movement launched a campaign against the use of court injunctions.

Dofasco Price Hike Announced

HAMILTON (CP) — Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. Monday announced increases in prices of various types of cold rolled steel.

Effective Wednesday, the new price on cold rolled, certain sheet and coils will be $6.80 per hundredweight, a rise of 20 cents. This is equivalent to an increase of 2½ per cent of the average selling price or $4 a ton.

This is the product used by appliance and automobile manufacturers and represents a "pretty substantial" percentage of Dofasco's total production, said Ross Craig, executive vice - president in charge of marketing.

The price of tin plate, galvanized sheets and silicon steel is not affected by the increase, Mr. Craig said.

"This 2½-per-cent increase recovers only a portion of the increase in costs which we have had to absorb in recent months," Mr. Craig said. "Compared with the increases in materials and labor which we have had to meet, this increase is not substantial."

Enough for 2 Days

Canada Buys Butter Abroad

OTTAWA (CP)— Canada has bought butter abroad for the first time since 1952 to compensate for dwindling domestic stocks.

The newly-established Canadian dairy commission has placed an order for 2,240,000 pounds of New Zealand butter worth about $500,000.

The price was not disclosed but it was thought to be in the neighborhood of 40 cents a pound that New Zealand gets from Britain.

Canadians consume butter at the rate of about 1,000,000 pounds a day, so the imports amount to little more than two days' supply.

Officials said the dairy commission, which controls butter prices and consumption through its buying and selling, may not need the foreign butter, but wants to be on the safe side.

Stocks are lower now than at any time since the 1951-52 dairy year when 18,000,000 pounds were imported. None has been brought in since then.

CONSUMPTION DROPPED

Rising prices reduced consumption towards the end of the last decade. A huge surplus was built up and much of it was finally unloaded abroad.

The inventory was further reduced in the last three years by prices that helped keep consumption ahead of production. The result is a deficiency in Western Canada, which in recent years has not produced enough for its own needs.

The New Zealand butter will be delivered in Vancouver in February.

National stocks as of Dec. 1 totalled 12,900,000 pounds, most of it in the hands of the butter trade including wholesale houses. The government holds only 1,000,000 a year ago totalled 90,200,000 pounds.

There's no indication Canada will go into the butter import business in a big way. The aim is to keep consumption and production in balance to avoid building up huge surpluses of a perishable commodity that cannot be kept indefinitely.

Officials hope that balance will be achieved in 1967 with a production increase in the offing.

Crossbow Champ

BC Woman Shoots Straight

VANCOUVER (CP)—The new crossbow champion of Vancouver is a petite 33 - year - old mother of four who can hit a target the size of a quarter from 100 feet.

Elsy Wyssen, who came here from her native Switzerland in 1950, has been a member of the Vancouver Swiss Crossbow Association since it was formed two years ago.

Her home contains a number of crossbow shooting trophies as well as a painting of William Tell, the legendary Swiss hero who shot an apple off his son's head.

"The crossbow is a very accurate weapon," Mrs. Wyssen says. "But I just don't think I'd like to do the apple trick. It was all right for William Tell but it's just a bit too dangerous for me."

The crossbow, which employs a trigger mechanism for firing, is a traditional weapon in Switzerland, which has about 120 crossbow organizations, Mrs. Wyssen says.

She shoots with a crossbow that weighs 20 pounds and is made of polished walnut and steel. Because of the weight, women usually engage in target practice with the aid of a support. Men normally bear the full weight of the weapon when shooting.

A year ago, Mrs. Wyssen decided to shoot in the same fashion as men. That's when she won the championship.

Chiang Ching Rallies Support for Husband

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sensational rise in China of Chiang Ching is startlingly parallel to the case of another woman, continents away, credited with repeatedly saving the political power of her husband, former Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron.

Eva Duarte Peron rallied the little people in Argentina—the shirtless ones, she called them—to save Peron on various occasions when he was in deep political trouble. Many Argentines felt it was not Juan Peron but his wife who held the real power in their country.

Now Chiang Ching is taking a leading role in saving support for her husband, Mao Tse-tung, Communist party chairman, in one of the greatest power struggles China has known in recent times.

Like her Argentine counterpart, Chiang Ching is gradually moving into the power structure. Last Dec. 4 it was announced she had been named cultural adviser to the Chinese People's Liberation Army.

Previously, she had been first deputy leader of the cultural revolution purge campaign now sweeping China. The first appointment gives her unprecedented power in the country's military; the second makes her a major organizer and director of the Red Guard, young people China who roam the country in mobs to punish those they consider defectors or deviationists from the doctrines of Mao Tse-tung.

BOTH WERE ACTRESSES

Eva Duarte and Chiang Ching both were actresses, and not the ablest nor most famous in their countries. Both married politicial potentates older than themselves.

Not too much is known about Chiang Ching. She, too, is reported a beautiful woman. Eva Duarte was a beauty.

Both have been described as vindictive against anyone getting in the path of their husbands.

Eva Duarte married Peron in 1945, two years after he came to power. From the time of her death from cancer in 1952, Peron's power waned steadily until he was deposed in 1955.

So powerful was Eva in Argentina there was danger after Peron's fall that she might once again become a focus of power. Even, in death, to avoid this, the Argentine government disposed of her body amid secrecy which still is unpenetrated.

Only history will tell whether there may be a great diversion from the parallels of Eva Peron and Chiang Ching.

There has been speculation that Chiang Ching may succeed her aging husband as ruler of China.

Floor-length Evening Gown Still Dream of Fashion-conscious Woman

NEW YORK (CP)—The floor-length evening gown is still the elegant dream of every fashion-conscious woman.

It's glamorous, provocative and makes you feel more feminine and pampered.

A short formal is a compromise.

This winter the long column is the important silhouette, often with skinny long sleeves, in many cases strapless.

"For evening the look tends more to elegant simplicity," says the House of Christian Dior-New York. "Rich fabrics are used in either the traditional manner of the strapless evening dress or they complement the important dress silhouette of long fluid lines. In some cases there is a rather cover-up look for evening with long sleeves."

Fabrics in the slim silhouette include a fluid grey silk crepe with shoestring straps, also a pink silk twill with jewel embroidered bodice, a black crepe with one side slit high above the knee, and a pistachio green crepe with inverted wrap skirt.

MANY ARE BEADED

Many of the evening gowns are heavily beaded or utilize beading or jewelled accents at the neckline, hem or on the sleeves. One handsome floor-length skimmer is Malcolm Starr's all-over beaded green silk organza with jewelled banding at the high, round neckline and around the miniature sleeves.

Fringes of persimmon and gold beads accent the neckline and cuffs of Jane Derby's net gown, completely spangled in persimmon and gold.

Pat Sandler's ankle - length tank-top silhouette dazzles with aurora sequins over nude chiffon, with added glitter in the rhinestone rounded neckline, empire high waistband and hem.

But jewelled effects aren't the only look for winter. Several designers still like feathers. Pauline Trigere created a group of completely feathered gowns. The base is "chiffon pierced with trembling ostrich fronds for contrasting or matching colors."

Coty fashion award winner Geoffry Beene introduces a tubular pink wool dress with a pink ostrich hemline and cuffs on the long sleeves.

CHIFFON COLLAR

Last year chiffon blanketed the market. It's still popular but not dominant. Chiffon can be extremely feminine in slim or cascading silhouettes.

Here color is all important. Three layers of chiffon—black over brown over beige—in formal in a high-waisted gown with a cross-back of jewel bands. Blue over green chiffon covers a blue silk column. Maggy designer Jean Louis accents an ocelot printed chiffon with mink collar and cuffs. And Brancell's canary yellow chiffon flows from a bodice of purple beading and yellow silk thread.

Not all formals are slim beaded columns or fluttering chiffons. The tent, or its more conservative A-line equivalent, has many versions. Sarmi created a full-blown strapless gown composed of sequinned silver ribbon and lace over pink silk chiffon. Orange puffed organdie lasse has flowing back panels and long sleeves. A winter navy silk faille skirt teams with a long-sleeved white satin bodice. And a white satin tennis top and flaring skirted gown sports tiers of black skirt flounces.

Much of the news for winter is in floor-length evening coats. They're considered more fashionable than fur coats.

"They have great chic," says Pauline Trigere, who says every woman should own a long wool evening coat.

This winter she cuts them in redingote shapes, falling open in a tall, slender, pyramid as the front; as in a dark green wool coat over an organza crepe dress.

WEDDING

Non-conformity Fashion Flare

HORD — BOOTH

The wedding took place in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora recently when Miss Lorabelle Nectie Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Booth of Marmora, became the bride of David Ross Hord, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hord of Toronto. Rev. J. M. D. McLeod of Redmerstville performed the ceremony assisted by Rev. D. Mitchell of St. Andrew's.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a floor length white rose-pattern red brocade satin dress, featuring scoop neckline and bib panel flowers. Her waist length silk illusion veil floated from a crown of rhinestones and pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Glenda Gilbert as maid of honour wore a floor length gown of French crepe in cerise and matching wedding ring headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink and white sprayed mums.

The bridesmaids was attended by James Hord. At the reception held in Marmora Town Hall, the bride's mother wore a blue lace dress matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother a green knit dress. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Western Ontario the bride chose a blue velvet dress with gold accessories.

The young couple will reside at 50 East Moira St., Belleville. Previous to her marriage a miscellaneous shower was held for the bride to be, Miss Ralph Booth.

NEW YORK (AP) — North American women may be nonconformists this year, wearing non-costumes, non-spring colors, non - constricting shapes along with some nonsensical fashion accessories.

The nunisol is a bit of purely nonsense. Designer Bill Blass for Maurice Rentner Inc. has his models trailing petite parasols Monday to match their bustling, pointed ewe-kin tail dresses and pants pajamas.

A nunisol accompanied a smart white jacket suit with a blazer blouse with a bias made for one of the new members of the international best - dressed set, Mrs. Lyndon Johnson.

Blass was one of three designers, all of whom have contributed to Mrs. Johnson's wardrobe, who previewed spring collections Monday.

Blass created a non-spirit collection, studiously avoiding the usual spring sweets, posies or prints. Floral or geometric prints were large and dazzling and non-seasonal.

NON-COSTUME

The non-costume is a jacket and dress combination which the wearer puts together herself.

"I like to see the casual dress of an independent woman who doesn't count on the designer to match up everything for her," Blass told his audience.

But Mollie Parnis believes in the co-ordinated costume, be it a jacket and dress or coat and dress.

She also believes in the non-constricting shift and the pared-down tent dress.

Although some designers are returning to body - hugging, waist - clinching garments, Miss Parnis says: "It will be a long time before we can pry women away from their loose fashions and corset them again."

PROVIDES FREEDOM

Another of Mrs. Johnson's designers, Adel Simpson, also wants to give the emancipated woman the freedom to move as fast as she can, anywhere she wants.

Pleats flipped; colors flashed; stoles, scarves and ruffles flattered as her manikins presented a collection with lots of movable parts.

Last season many designers were insisting that brief skirts were for the very young. But Blass declared: "I, doesn't matter how old you are, you should wear your skirt above your knees today."

PLAINFIELD WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The January meeting of the Plainfield Women's Institute was held at Gilead Community Hall with Mrs. Violet Elliott as hostess.

Mrs. Art Wright, president, opened the meeting in the usual manner and welcomed a number of guests from Carmel, Chatterton and Bethel-Zion Women's Institutes.

Reports were received and special thank you will be sent to Simpson-Sears in Belleville for the Christmas presents donated for the parcel prepared for delivery to a needy family in the area.

Plans were made for a dance to be held on February 10 to aid in renovating the school which has been purchased for use as an Institute Hall. Also a banquet is to be held for the same purpose.

The topic for the meeting was agriculture and the film "Horn of Plenty" was shown by Mr. Owen Ketcheson of Moira. This is a most interesting film showing the picking, grading and canning of fruit done in the Niagara district.

The roll call was a fully local verse pertaining to agriculture. Mrs. K. Swain gave the motto "When Tillage Begins

Iranian Women Seeking Complete Equality With Men

TEHRAN (Reuters) — Princess Ashraf, twin sister of the Shah of Iran, has started a drive to give Iranian women complete equality with men.

At the same time, she wants to mobilize them to promote the welfare of the Iranian people generally.

To strengthen her drive, she has united the various women's groups into the National Iranian Women's Organization, to organize and direct activities from a simple centralized command.

This step is aimed at giving Persian women the chance to become a real force in the country, using their combined strength to assert their own rights and promote humanitarian aims.

Princess Ashraf herself is president of the new organization.

An enthusiastic fighter for women's rights, the 46-year-old princess, it is recalled here, was one of the first Persian women to appear in public unveiled after her father, the late Reza Shah, ordered the emancipation of women in 1936 and said they must shed their veils.

WON FRANCHISE

Up to that time, Persian women wore the all-enveloping "chader," a long, black, tent-like robe that covered them from head to toe, whenever they were seen in public.

Women then began to enter more and more into the life of the country. Schools, universities, hospitals, government and private offices were opened to them and in 1963 the present Shah gave them the right to vote and run as candidates in parliamentary elections.

A new civil service code, recently introduced by the government, guarantees for the first time full equality of the sexes in the service.

The new women's organization will recommend to the government any steps needed to uphold women's interests.

Special attention will be paid to women's education, especially in rural areas, where the illiteracy rate is much higher than in cities.

Boy's Bullying of Brother May Be Caused by Unrest

DORIS CLARK

DORIS CLARK Indent en

Dear Doris: My father died four years ago. My brother George, who is 12, is constantly teasing and bullying my brother Billy, who is seven. He always makes him cry and it is wrecking both their personalities. No matter what my mother says, or how often she says it, George continues.

She is getting now so she just says, "I don't know what I am going to do with you!" Is George taking advantage of Mom because there is no man around? Should Mom use the stick instead of talking?

Mom and I try to talk to George and tell him he is to be a big brother to Billy, but after a talk that would set me thinking, he just turns around and does what he was doing before. — Worried Sister.

Dear Sister: George has no conscious plan to take advantage of anybody, but he does miss his father. And he is doing what comes nautrally — taking out his unrest on the one person who can't f i g h t back: his little brother.

I'd suggest that he sees Billy as the favored, loved one. I'd prescribe generous doses of friendship, consultation (so that he feels his ideas are worth something), and an interest in his pet hobbies. The very opposite to using a stick!

Getting a man into his life would change things. Isn't there an uncle or family friend who would take him to hockey games or fishing?

Dear Doris: In a letter written by a wife for both husband and wife, is it proper to use their names in the letter concerning each one? e. g. "John went to the s t o r e; Grace went to the concert" or should Grace call herself "I"? Then how would it be signed? — Grace.

Dear Grace: I grant you it is awkward. Some frankly write, "I did this, John d i d that", and sign both names at the end. Most parents and in-laws get the message that the lady in the case is wielding the pen for both. To speak of each in the third person seems highly artificial.

Perhaps the best way to clarify things is to say, near the start, "It was I, Grace (and I am writing for both of us), who actually talked to Junior's teacher." — Or what have you.

Confidential to Unhappy Home: Getting married for the wrong reason is like taking an express train to Perdition Here are some of them: (1) financial security; (2) escape from life behind a typewriter; (3) a craving to put a "Mrs." in front of maiden name, like one's schoolmates are doing; or (4) desperate flight from a home with a too-bossy mother, an alcoholic father, or an unfriendly stepfather.

Trouble is, a year l a t e r some young bride is highly likely to be running back home minus disappointing husband but plus one baby; especially if bride is between 16 and 19 years of age.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Lemon Fruit Bread for Freezer

By MARY MOORE

Lemon Bread has raised its pretty head again.

My sister came home from Ottawa with the recipe from Wyn Moyle saying: "Mary will want this." So she made it up, served it for tea to some guests and brought me over nearly half a loaf.

Lo and behold it was t h e same recipe as Willie's Lemon Bread I gave here in January, 1965, and which I had tasted in Scots. Any f r u i t breads are popular with this audience and any fruit bread as popular as this one h a s proven deserves a second booking in this column. It freezes well.

WILLIE'S AND WYN'S LEMON BREAD

½ cup butter

1 cup white sugar
2 eggs
Grated rind 2 med. lemons
¼ cup milk
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ cup chopped nuts (optional — see below)

Cream butter well, a d d sugar gradually, then eggs, one at a time, and grated rind. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Blend into butter mixture alternately with milk, mixing only until ingredients are blended. Turn into buttered standard loaf pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 min.

TOPPING:

¼ cup white sugar
Juice of 1 lemon

Mix well and drizzle over the loaf as soon as it comes from the oven. Leave in pan for 10 min. before turning out onto cake rack so that juice will absorb into loaf. Quickly turn loaf right side up as top is sticky.

Ready says preferably serve hot but this loaf is excellent cold too. Serve with or without butter.

NOTES: 1) If nuts are added blend them into butter mixture when you add the flour mixture.

2) I sliced some less than ¼" thick and made dainty finger sandwiches with cream cheese between and they were pretty and delicious.

Ann Landers

Has Drastic Results From Dyeing Hair

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a teen-ager who has learned a lot from reading your column. Now I want to repay you by telling of my experience in the hope that somebody will learn from me.

ANN LANDERS

The night before Hallowe'en I decided to shock everybody by showing up at a party with black hair. (I am a natural blonde.) I bought a bottle of blank rinse at the drug store and followed the instructions to the letter. My hair turned blue.

I called a girl friend who had had a lot of experience with tints and she came right over with a bottle of peroxide lightener. She used a double application. My hair turned green.

The next day I went to the beauty shop spent three weeks' allowance and now I look like a rabbit. My hair is pink and my ears are blistered. My scalp is a mess.

It will be a year before my head will be back to normal and I am disgusted with myself. Please tell all teen-agers everywhere to leave their hair alone. — DUMB BUNNY.

DEAR BUN: You told them and I hope they listen.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have written to you at least once a month for the past two years, but you will not recognize my name or my handwriting.

I've asked for help with problems concerning my sisters, my brother, my teachers and my friends. I wrote to you when my father died. I thought I would never get over the heartache. I have asked you questions about sex, money, love and even my diet.

But you can't possibly know about any of my letters because I never mailed them. Yet, you have helped me tremendously.

Just writing to you quieted my fears and relieved my frustrations. You can't imagine what it means to know there is someone to lean on — somebody to talk to.

I started to write to you when I was 11 years old. I am 21 now and I think it's time I said thank you, Ann Landers. — S.C.

DEAR S.C.: Your letter makes me wonder how many others are writing to me and tearing up the letters.

No matter what the technique, if I can help I'm happy. Thanks very much for mailing this one, honey. It brightened my day.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a married woman and have a home of my own, but it is my mother's home I am writing about — for my father's sake.

Mother has gone crazy chasing dirt and fighting odors. Every day she disinfects, fumigates, sterilizes the silverware, scrubs, wastes and polishes.

On Sunday when we go there for dinner my father is a wreck. Mother sprays the house with a sickening sweet "air purifier" because she can't stand the odor of cooking. Dad says he likes the smell of tu key and ham and sweet potatoes and coffee and baked bread better than the smell of disinfectant.

Mom's cat and dog are always sick and I'm sure the strong stuff she puts on the floors and the took she sprays all over has something to do with it. What do you suggest?—HOORAY FOR FOOD.

DEAR HOORAY: Mom has a geranium in her cranium. And I don't want anybody to write and tell me I have a nerve defending dirty housekeepers and implying clean women are nuts.

Anyone who disinfects, sterilizes, fumigates, waxes, scrubs and polishes every day is sick. Your mother's campaign against cooking odors is part of her illness.

Susanna's Family Fare

Takes Steam Off Mirror

Dear Susanna: A little turpentine on a cloth wiped over the bathroom mirror after it has wiped off with a dry cloth prevents the glass from steaming up.

Since this substance is a trifle oily, you will have to keep wiping until the mirror is shiny.

The smell of turps lingers only a little while (just pretend you're a pop artist or a turps in your work) but the effect lasts till it's time to clean the mirror again. — L.

Hi Su: For a refreshing winter centrepiece, cut about 2 inches each from the tops of the carrots (leaving the greenery on) and set these tops in a pretty, shallow dishes with a little water in the bottom. Replenish the water every day.

Soon, you will have a lovely green fern, which grows beautifully bending gracefully over the table. Beet tops can be used instead, or a combination of the two is most attractive. — Home Grown

Both authorities have reported to their governments. Trans- port Minister Pickersgill said officials are discussing the problem and any comment would be premature.

The report of the Canadian authority is six months old, and came before the Commons only because the U.S. body published its recommendations last week.

For "legal, financial and economic" reasons, said the report, tolls must go up. Seaway finances must be put on a pay-as-you-go basis, the original concept of the international agreement that brought the waterway into operation in 1959.

NOTES OPPOSITION

The report noted strong pressures against increases. It said they exist mostly among users Montreal-Lake Ontario section lost $47,600,000 on operations from 1956 to 1966. Canada pick- ed up $36,300,000 of the tab.

Canada has paid the entire $35,290,000 operating cost of the toll - free Welland section be- tween Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

Canada gets only half the trade benefits of the seaway, but is paying for 87 per cent of its losses, the report says.

It recommends a new 72-28 basis for division of toll reven- ues between Canada and the U.S. rather than the existing 71- 29 basis.

The Welland lockage fee would be imposed gradually over five years and would en- courage arrangements of mul- tiple lockages for small ships, said the report.

Another proposal would revise the formula for calculating gross registered tonnage.

Midwest Opposes Boost

NEW YORK (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway, a symbol of international co - operation, which Canada and the United States use their water boundary to make ocean ports of inland cities, is the source of a caus- tic domestic dispute.

At issue is this: Whether or not to raise tolls 10 per cent in order to put the seaway on a paying basis. It has fallen far behind in paying its debts. East and Gulf Coast interests want an increase. The Midwest does not.

Recent developments make it appear the East and the Gulf states are winning out over the Midwest. U.S. Commerce Sec- retary John Connor has on his desk now a recommendation from seaway officials to in- crease tolls.

The St. Lawrence Seaway Au- thority, not Canadian authority for the seaway, is standing fast on its 1966 proposals for a 10- per-cent increase in seaway tolls. Transport Minister Pick- ersgill tabled in the House of Commons in Ottawa Monday a seaway report dated June 30, 1966, which rejected opposition to the toll increase.

Plaque Brings Charge

QUEBEC (CP) — Provincial police said Monday they have served a summons on a Quebec motorist who attached a separ- atist plaque below the rear li- cence plate of his car.

The action taken against mo- torist Louis-Marie Crepeault of Quebec may serve as a test case on the legality of the plaques, police said. No date was given for his appearance in court.

The summons was issued under Article 28 of the Highway Code which says it is illegal to alter or modify the figures on licence plates, or to add any figures to them.

Quebec's rear licence plates for the current year bear the inscription "1867 Confederation 1967" and the separatist plaque in question adds the comment: "100 ans d'injustice"—100 years of injustice.

The plaques are being sold at 50 cents each by the separatist party le Rassemblement pour l'independance nationale, and have been seen mounted on the rear licence plates of cars in the Montreal and Quebec City areas.

"I Told Grandad That Drink Was a Dan

Looking For a Cat "Nip"

A Dog's Life Just Fine If You 'Live' at Foxboro

Twenty-three is an odd number. But then, Twenty-three is an odd cat. Odd in the sense of singular, since he's the only cat in the household in which he's ever lived. Odd in that he's a Persian-Siamese cross. Odd in that he's a member of a small number of boys who have been given the run of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] near Foxboro, where in the past 10 years some 50 St. Bernards and [illegible] have been born.

Cawker's involvement with St. Bernards came quite suddenly by accident. Some 12 or 13 years ago he purchased Saint who was a sable and [illegible] as a pet for his son Ian [illegible] Junior Farmer.

Saint was never to be seen, [illegible] to obtain two dogs from the [illegible] St. Bernard monastery in the Swiss Alps to replace his lost pet.

The original pair, [illegible] to settle in the mountain [illegible] but more than four years [illegible] were removed for their [illegible] friendliness. It [illegible] to examine an [illegible] history of rescue work. Today both, a [illegible] member of the dam [illegible] ed at the monastery to honor the tradition.

One of the dogs Mr. Cawker received from Switzerland is believed to be [illegible] of the most [illegible] of the St. Bernard [illegible] and Barry, who was credited with saving more than 40 lives in the treacherous mountain passes before his death in 1814.

[illegible] Cawker's kids [illegible] Barry for short] is a big [illegible] and [illegible] Cawker, himself. Now [illegible] says [illegible] the equivalent of human years, he is one of the most famous canine personalities on the continent. In addition to earning the Cawkers innumerable ribbons and trophies [illegible] many of his 189 puppies sired by Barry have also gone on to win major championships.

Barry is the father of a number of competitive records, including one month [illegible] he sired the litter of St. Bernard litter (156 pound yet known.

At a [illegible] 185 pounds, down some 20 pounds from his former prize-winning form, he leads one of the most comfortable dog's lives that ever befell any canine. Barry spends most days lounging about the house looking, if a trifle weary, as regal and affectionate as ever.

His proud nature would not be [illegible] by slavishness, however. Barry, like most kennels in dog shows as recently as September, despite the fact he is officially retired.

His first mate, the other original dog purchased from the Swiss monastery, died at the age of eight.

For the Cawkers, Barry has been the hub of an expensive, but satisfying, hobby. His proud owners are in the process of renaming their breeding concern "Kobo's Kennels" in honor of their amiable mastiff. For Barry, more material rewards than showy prizes come in the form of an occasional bacon and egg breakfast, along with an extensive amount of pampering.

"It's an old wives' tale that Saints eat their odours off of house and home," says Charles Cawker. "They actually don't eat as much as a German Shepherd or a Boyer, and are only fed once daily." On the other hand, one commonly accepted fact, that Saints are good companions for children, is usually understated.

Says Mr. Cawker: "It would be difficult to estimate the number of times I have seen children run up to Barry at dog shows and throw their arms around his neck. Children make many dogs nervous, but apparently not St. Bernards. They're such marvelous pets and so good with children that they should have been lap dogs."

A firm believer in the "seventh sense" of St. Bernards, Mr. Cawker recalls instances of seeing his dogs pick up scents of small animals five feet under the snow. This ability no doubt accounts for their exploits including an innate talent to find persons lost in blizzards and avalanches."

His experiences at dog shows have convinced Mr. Cawker of the affection of Saints for their masters.

Once, while himself showing one of his dogs, he recounts: "The big mutt just looked up at me with those big eyes and seemed to say 'what's this discipline bit?', and proceeded to literally lay down on the job."

Needless to say, Mr. Cawker's dogs have been shown by handlers ever since.

On another occasion, while one of his dogs was parading around a show ring, he picked up his master's familiar scent, abandoned his prize-winning demeanor, and came bounding over to his owner, much to the latter's embarrassment and dismay.

The day was saved by the dog's quick-thinking handler who quipped to the show's judge "I'm sorry, but the dog has just come over from Switzerland and doesn't understand English very well."

Margaret Cawker notes that she has just one regret about the likeable pooches — "Just like children, they grow up too fast."

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Eight of the ten starting nags in the senior OHA race will go to the barrier in the playoffs stakes.

The set-up as laid down at a league meeting held recently calls for the league-leading team to hook up with the squad finishing in fifth place; the second-placers to tangle with team number six; third-placers play team finishing seventh and the fourth-place finishers meeting the last-spot squad.

The rounds will go the limit. All will be best-of-seven and all will be played to a finish. In case of a tie there will be a ten-minutes overtime session and if the stalemate still exists, it will be sudden-death from there in. The first goal decides the winner.

If teams are tied for any position at schedule end the club with the most wins gets the nod. If these are equal the position will be decided by goals for and against.

But if there is a tie for the last playoffs spot, a sudden-death game will be played with home ice decided by the head-or-tail procedure. The net proceeds will go to the losing club.

The league playoffs are expected to start March 1st and must be finished by April 15th. The winner will go against the winners of the Ottawa and District Hockey Association champions.

The only other item of importance at the meeting, we are informed, was the selection of the locale of the annual All-Stars game. This, after some discussion, was allotted to Barrie.

The all-star hassle will see the best of the clubs from last year (Kingston, Woodstock, Galt, Guelph and Oakville) pitted against those of the 1966 entries from Collingwood, Barrie, Belleville, Orillia and Toronto.

I understand the proceeds of the game will go to the OHA Emergency Fund.

Selection of the players will be made by the manager and coach of the top club in each category as of December 25th. Ted Power and Grover McArthy of Woodstock for the old clubs and Jack Grier and Dave Gardner for the newcomers.

Incidentally the game is scheduled for Wednesday, February 1st starting eight o'clock.

According to a Kingston story of the meeting Uncle Johnny Kelly and his Limestone lads/bucks made a spirited play for the all-stars hassle to be held in their city.

But the arrows of appeal cloaked in sentiment failed to have any effect on the rest of the board of directorate.

Kingston pointed out that since this is Centennial year; Kingston is the birthplace of hockey (italics please note); the Aces are playing the Canada Nationals and the Russians; that the Limestone City was the logical place for the game.

But as was noted, it fell on deaf ears .The boys up thataway decided that Kingston was "out" from a geographical standpoint — and that was that.

I do not know if the Belleville representatives, if any, made any comments on the location of the game, but since the box-office is the most important factor in these all-stars hassles, it seems to me that they should have made some sort of bid if only for the fact that Belleville is the best drawing club in the league. I would hazard a wager that we would pack some 2,500 in the Market street housetow and I doubt if Barrie will have much over half that figure.

Mikita, Giacomin Eye Midway Bonus

MONTREAL (CP) — It's nearly bonus time in the National Hockey League.

And centre Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks and goaltender Ed Giacomin of New York Rangers appear certain to collect the mid-way money for their performances during the season's first half.

The NHL awards bonuses of $500 to the scoring leader, $250 to the runner-up and $250 to the top goaltender after all clubs have played 35 games in the circuit's 70-game schedule.

With the Hawks still two games away from their halfway point, Mikita holds a 16-point lead in the individual scoring race with 17 goals and a league-leading 35 assists for 52 points.

And the league says .hat unless Montreal Canadiens post two successive shutouts in their next two starts, Giacomin will pocket the $250 bonus for goaltenders.

GIACOMIN'S AVERAGE BEST

The Ranger goalie has a personal average of 2.15 goals against in New York's 36 games, best in the league. Canadiens' Charlie Hodge is close behind at 2.16.

Ken Wharram of Chicago, one of Mikita's linemates, is second in scoring and stands to collect the $250 bonus as the runner-up in the scoring race.

He has 19 goals and 17 assists for 36 points, a three - point leader over Canadiens' Bobby Rousseau, the only man with a chance to catch him as Canadiens are also two games away from the half-way mark.

New York Rangers climbed back into first place in the standings during the weekend when they defeated Montreal 2-1 as Chicago lost 3-1 to Boston Bruins.

New York has 43 points in 36 games while Chicago is in second spot with 41 points in 33 games. Toronto Maple Leafs are third with 38 points, followed by Montreal with 34, Detroit Red Wings with 27 and Boston 23.

In the scoring derby, Rousseau is tied in third place with Phil Goyette of New York. Each has 33 points.

HOWE SCORES 700TH

Gordie Howe of Detroit scored his 700th NHL goal last week, helping him into fifth place where he is tied with teammate Norm Ullman at 32 points.

Rod Gilbert of New York is seventh with 31 points, including a league-leading 20 goals.

No. 8 is Bobby Hull of Chicago, who banged in four goals last week to increase his goal total to 18 and his points to 28. This is far behind his record-setting pace of last season, when he collected 54 goals, but still ahead of the 1961-62 season when he got 50 goals.

Bernie Geoffrion of New York, making a sparkling comeback this season, is ninth in scoring with 11 goals and 16 assists for 27 points.

THE FOUR 10TH

Tied in 10th with 26 points apiece are Don Marshall of New York, Pit Martin of Boston and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit.

In the nets, Giacomin and Cesare Maniago of New York are the league's best combination with a goals-against average of 2.28. Montreal's Hodge and Gump Worsley are in second spot with a combined average of 2.42.

Giacomin and Detroit's Roger Crozier lead in shutouts with four each.

Montreal Canadiens have collected more penalties than any other club with 205 minutes while New York's tough guy Reg Fleming leads the personal penalty parade with 97 minutes.

Junior Macs Mow Down Cougars

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

COBOURG — Sound positional hockey and another big scoring effort from the club's top line produced an important 7-4 triumph for Quinte McParalands over the slumping Cobourg Cougars here last night.

The victory hoisted the Macs into third place in the tight OHA Eastern Junior "B" League scene and put up on the Cougars and one behind Peterborough Don Mos.

Peterborough visits Belleville Friday but in the meantime plays Oshawa and Kingston. Game time is 9:00 p.m.

The Macs made the most of their scoring chances while being outshot in every period. They led 3-1 after one heat and 5-2 going into the final chapter.

Goalie Bob Forrester tuffed in a fine game for the Quinte pipes. He faced 41 Cobourg shots, some of them scorchers and might also take come up with a one-goal-against night except for weak clearing efforts by his mates on three occasions.

Cobourg goalie Rick Austin was weak but he was not alone. Quinte's Hopkins-Riley-Sharp line picked holes in the Cougar defence with ease. The Macs took 28 shots in all, scored five times on four first ten and had a two-for-two mark in the second period at the 13-minute mark.

Right-winger Ernie Sharpe led his line to a 12-point evening. He scored two goals, his first since early in December, and assisted on three others. Centre Billy Hopkins scored twice and helped on one while left-winger Ron Riley had a goal and three helpers. Doug Potts and Bruce Neil added unassisted goals and Harold Townsend, while pointless, played a strong game on defence.

Cobourg goals went to Steve Harold, Paul Gutteridge, Brydon Elinesky and John Gray.

Hopkins tipped in Riley's backhand to open the scoring and Sharpe plucked in a Riley rebound for the second goal. Potts scored from well out to make it 3-0 by 7:18.

Harold finished off a good pass - and - shoot powerplay with Kelly and Gutteridge for Cobourg's first goal late in the period.

Not Taking Chiefs Lightly

'Not Impressed With Odds'--Lombardi

LOS ANGELES (CP)—They took the veil off the Super Bowl Trophy Monday, while Green Bay Packers threw up a shroud of secrecy and Kansas City Chiefs did some screening of their own.

The National Football League Packers meet the American Football League champions here in the first Super Bowl game, with the winner getting a 20-inch sterling silver trophy as well as $15,000 each.

The trophy will be presented by NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle after the game to the winning team for its permanent possession.

The game will be played in Memorial Coliseum.

Meanghile, in Santa Barbara where the Packers are holding daily workouts, coach Vince Lombardi said a tarpaulin will be put up at the open end of the practice field.

PRACTICE TWO HOURS

The Packers held a two-hour practice session Monday and Lombardi told reporters afterwards that he's not taking the Chiefs lightly.

"I'm not impressed with the odds on the game," he said.

"I do not think the $15,000 will be a major factor in the players doing well. I think they will be playing for their league and for themselves.

"Kansas City has good speed, and they certainly have good athletes, and that's the only thing I can go by. All their defensive backs impress me."

The Packers will arrive here Friday.

At Long Beach, where the Chiefs are holding pre-game workouts, coach Hank Stram gave his players the day off to relax.

Stram said his squad performed well in last week's drills and normally have Monday off.

Reported in improved condition are end Fred Arbanas, who suffered a shoulder separation in the Chiefs' game against Buffalo Bills for the AFL title, and reserve guard Denny Brodowski, who has been suffering with gout.

Stram said his squad will watch films of the Packers' last two games Dallas Cowboys for the NFL title.

Stram also announced that Chiefs will leave Wednesday for Minneseta Vikings earlier this season and Green Bay's victory

The Fastest Lion Hangs 'Em Up!

VANCOUVER (CP) — Willie Fleming, the B.C. Lions spectacular halfback, said Monday night he has retired from professional football.

Fleming, who gained Canadian Football League fame for his dazzling running, said his decision came amid a deal with the Minnesota Vikings.

"I made my decision over the weekend," the 27-year-old Fleming said in an interview.

"I've told both coach (Dave) Skrien in Vancouver and Jim Finks in Minneapolis.

"I'm definitely through with football."

Fleming, an eight-year veteran with the Lions, had been offered a $32,000 contract to go with the National Football League Vikings in exchange for their halfback Jim Young.

Asked why he was retiring, Fleming said:

"I just felt tired. After all, I've been playing pro ball for eight years, ever since I was 19.

"I just felt that I wanted to get out now and devote my time to my clothing store business and my family."

Willie left Iowa University after his sophomore year to join the Lions under coach Wayne Robinson in 1958 and became an instant CFL star.

In subsequent years, his explosive running bursts broke CFL records and made him a Canadian all-star in 1963 and a Western Conference all-star in 1961 and 1962.

His 9.7-yard rushing average in 1963, when he gained 1,231 yards and scored 12 touchdowns, was a record.

A 109-yard touchdown burst from scrimmage against Edmonton in 1964 was also a record.

He scored the clinching touchdown for B.C. in the 1964 Grey Cup win over Hamilton.

Fleming's last two years were plagued by minor injuries and he was switched to flanker from his halfback position.

At season end, the Lions sent defensive player Dick Fouts and Bill Symons to Toronto in the first move of the pending Minnesota deal.

Toronto gave up its rights to Jim Young, who was to come to the Lions in a trade for Fleming.

Unofficial results put four other French girls among the first 10.

Fernande Bochatay of Switzerland was second in 38.39 and Traudle Gable of Austria third in 38.45.

Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., appeared slightly off form, finishing nearly two seconds behind Florence, but narrowly ahead of France's Marielle Goitschel. Miss Greene, in 29.20, was sixth and Miss Goitschel was seventh with a 29.41 clocking.

Excellent weather and snow conditions favored the 68 competitors from 11 nations

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's national hockey team had the upper hand on the Russian nationals in two games during the last five days, but what will happen when the clubs are down at the world championships in Vienna?

"Things won't be so easy in Vienna," said Canadian coach Jackie McLeod at a press conference Monday. "It's nice to know that we can come from behind to beat and tie the Russians in Canada, but they're bound to be much tougher in the world championships in Vienna."

The Russians, who meet the Canadians in an exhibition game at Maple Leaf Gardens tonight, have tied the Canadians 3-3 and lost 4-3 in their meetings this season. They finish their Canadian tour in Kitchener against the Canadians Thursday night.

"We must have improved the Russian players if they beat the Montreal Sunday night," said Leaf star Dave Keon. "We've learned to forecheck and play

Town Council Holds 1967 Inaugural Meeting

NAPANEE—Napanee's Town Council for 1967 held its inaugural meeting Monday morning. Members were sworn in by clerk-treasurer Carson Graham and the Rev. W. L. Simmons conducted a brief religious service.

Mayor Lorne A. Smart is the only member returned by acclamation. Reeve Clayton Woodcock has served several terms as councillor, and Deputy-Reeve Glenn Harrington is an experienced councillor and has served two years as mayor.

Donald Holmes, Donald Reid and Bert Asselstine were returned as councillors after having acted for two years. Councillors Thomas McCrea, who headed the list in 1966, Harold Charkon and William McAllister, are the other members.

The inaugural dinner the Mayor Smart drew attention to the plans for Centennial year already made by R. W. Macpherson, chairman of the committee, and his co-chairmen. He encouraged everyone to work with the committee.

Although the town was faced with some $20,000 more than it had budgeted for last year for the Napanee and District Collegiate, there had been additional sources of revenue, such as grants, which had helped balance the budget. The town is in a good financial position, he affirmed. He pointed out that cuts must be taken by each committee in drawing up its estimates, and in not exceeding that obtained during the year in its expenditures.

Looking backward and, forward, His Worship noted that the sanitation committee had done much in the past two years, and pointed with pride to the new garbage disposal plant. He commended the chairman and one of the best in the province. Sewers had been installed, but the work required completion; especially in the Rollins subdivision, and in Barkisville. Councillor Marshall and his committee had built up the water works equipment, and he hoped that their work of paving would be continued.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Mayor Smart spoke of the improvements that had been made in the police department since some of the recommendations had been carried out following the survey. Other recommendations must be carried out, such as the provision of new quarters for the department.

The former Fire, Water and Light committee had solved many problems, he said, but there were always more to solve. He drew attention to the fact that the loss in Napanee is low, and that is a credit benefit from this. The mayor also referred to the day when the town will have its own precreation director. All are looking forward to the opening of the new Federal Building and of the Regional Jail, as well as the proposed Ontario Hydro station to the Collegiate. He felt that the town should purchase the Hydro property of land now available, in order to have facilities to offer to industry investigating the possibility of locating here.

Other matters on which the mayor touched were the Planning Board with the old car lot; the substandard housing bylaw which he presented to council; the completion of the zoning bylaw and the question of annexation. He commended the council for the work done during the year.

Committees were appointed. In each case the first name given is that of the chairman. Finance: Herrington, Woodcock, Holmes; fire, water and light: Holmes, Woodcock, Herrington; market and police: Reid, Asselstine, Herrington; public works: Marshall, Herrington, Reid. Holmes; sanitation and waste: McCrea, Woodcock, Charlton. Asselstine; parks and recreation: McAlister, Charlton; town property: McAlister, McCrea, Asselstine; parks and community services: Charlton, Reid, Holmes; court of revision: Woodcock, McCrea, Charlton, McAlister, Herrington.

During the afternoon the members of the welfare committee toured the nursing homes.

The first regular meeting was held that evening.

TRAFFIC MISHAPS

NAPANEE — Saturday's bad weather brought on a rash of accidents, which the Napanee detachment of the OPP investigated. The most serious was a collision between two dump trucks, resulting in an estimated total damage of $1,500 and minor injuries to one driver. In another incident a truck rolled over, and received damage estimated at $600. Three cars were involved in an accident on the Palace Road and the total damage was not more than $75. All the accidents were caused by hazardous driving conditions, a representative of the OPP stated, and it is fortunate that only one person received but minor injuries. There have been no accidents in the town itself since January 1.

Fountains of Creativity Said to Be Drying Up

NEW YORK (AP) — There have been strong indications that the Hollywood fountains of creativity have been drying up. But Monday night there is evidence of a drought of alarming proportions.

CBS and NBC broadcast the first episodes of new comedy series. Each one was a spoof of Superman or Batman and their similarity, right down to the jokes, was chilling. Neither was amusing.

First came Mr. Terrific on CBS. Stephen Strimpell, who bears a remarkable resemblance to Red Buttons, plays Stanley Beamish, a mild-mannered, weak-muscled filling station proprietor and an agent for the government's secret projects. Given a special power pill, Stanley becomes a super-hero with muscles of steel and the ability to fly.

With the aid of the pills and a loud laugh track, Stanley defeats the bad guys and retrieves the secret power paralyser which had got into the wrong hands, all in half an hour.

SAME THING AGAIN

This was followed by NBC's Captain Nice. William Daniels plays Carter Nash, a meek, weak - muscled, bespectacled and girl-shy chemist who compounds a special power liquid. When he drinks it, he becomes briefly a super - hero with muscles of steel and the power to fly.

With the aid of the liquid and a loud laugh track, he too defeats the bad guys and at the end of the half hour his old mum was sewing him a proper Superman outfit.

About a year ago when Batman was launched on ABC, a number of viewers wondered how long it would take the joke to get thin. It took a few months, but in this pair of sad little comedy efforts, they are trying to build broad humor on a trembling subject.

Recommended tonight: The Beatles at Shea Stadium, ABC, 7:30-8:30 EST, a tape of last summer's concert; The Invaders, ABC, 8:30-9:30, for premiere of a new series about an invasion from another planet.

Chaplin Movie Called A Bore

LONDON (AP) — Charlie on his travels. The movie stars newspapers were brought in to Chaplin's first movie in nine Sophia Loren, as the countess, parts—but Chaplin didn't Mg. A Countess from Hong Kong was hit hard by British critics today.

They called it slow, stupid and tasteless. Chaplin, 77, was unfazed. In the drabbing he had got his really critical reviews of the picture, and at least one prominent critic said that the movie showed Chaplin had not lost his Thursday night, he discussed with changes in his style and the reviews as "very good." that it suggested he should

"I'm not worried. I still think it's a good film and I look for audiences will agree with me rather than the critics."

After the premiere, he was on to a supper party at the home Hotel, given in his honor by Jules Stein, head of Music Corp., and Pickers, which is distributing the movie. Among guests including Princess Alexandra, who danced with Brando, the white-haired Chaplin on the most popular U.S. actor posed himself amid the exciting buzz. Paul Newman Favors T-Shirts and Beer think does Newman view New- man?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Re- usually $150,000 and a cut of the ports have been inclined to profits.

"Anti-stars"" he mused. "I don't know what that means. Define your terms."

An "anti-star" is an actor who achieves success but scorns the usual trappings. Lavish living, flamboyant personality, exhibitionism.

Snapping the top from a can of lager, he expounded on his views of stardom.

"I've always rebelled against the idea that I occupied some kind of elevated position. I know a great many doctors and statesmen and scientists whose achievements are much more impressive than mine.

"These are men who have gone six, seven, eight years to college and have received at least degrees in their fields. They are doing work that is important to mankind. Compare that with the work of an actor.

"I'm not ashamed of my work. But I've never felt that I should receive any exalted status because of it. If that's being an anti-star, make the most of it."

Lower Canadian Content Asked by Broadcasters

OTTAWA (CP) — Private broadcasters made a pitch to MPs Monday for lower Canadian content on television and a way for stations to contest disadvantageous licences before an impartial bench.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, representing some 95 per cent of private stations, presented a brief to the Commons committee on broadcasting, films and assistance to the arts.

Then its representatives spent about 90 minutes fielding questions from MPs.

The CAB brief was on the government white paper brought down last summer which outlined in general terms changes to be made in broadcasting regulations.

The white paper forecast a Board of Broadcast Governors with stronger watchdog powers over the industry.

The CAB agreed the BBG should get regular broadcasting and supported the white paper suggestion to increase full-time BBG membership to five from three.

QUESTIONS PROPOSALS

But it questioned the wisdom of putting one body in charge of writing regulations, enforcing them, deciding when they are broken and levying fines or other punitive action. The only appeal to the court in such cases is on questions of law, fact, the association added.

It suggested a procedure whereby both parties could present their case to a neutral body.

Jean Pouliot of Quebec, CAB president, said in reply to questions from Don Jamieson (L—Burin-Burgeo), a broadcaster and former CAB president, that the present system has worked "reasonably well."

Lewis Brand (PC—Saskatoon) asked whether the CAB feels the regulation that TV stations have a minimum of 55 per cent Canadian content in programming is unrealistic.

"I would have to agree," Mr. Pouliot replied.

There had been no similar requirement for Canadian radio, but its Canadian content remained high, probably an average of 75-80 per cent, and fewer Canadians listened to American radio stations than in the past.

Would the quality of Canadian programs on TV improve with out the 55-per-cent stipulation, Dr. Brand asked.

"We'd certainly like to give it a try," Mr. Pouliot replied.

ASK ABOUT TALENT

Robert Prittie (NDP—Burnaby-Richmond) and David Mac Donald (PC — Prince) noted complaints that private stations do little to encourage Canadian performing talent.

Mr. Pouliot said government figures show private stations in 1965 paid out $5,200,000 for such talent plus another $2,000,000 in forming rights. The private stations also felt the announcers, directors and writers on the station payroll should be counted as "talent," not just freelance performers hired outside the broadcaster.

He admitted some applicants for broadcasting licences in the past had been overly optimistic in outlining programs they intended to put on.

Proposed licence conditions that would set minimum programming standards in line with expected revenues for a station should help to eliminate this.

Mr. Pouliot said the question of foreign ownership is adequately covered by current regulations. None of multiple ownership in broadcasting or ownership of more than one form of communications media would be handled by the BBG through assessment of each station's performance record at licence renewal time.

Mr. MacDonald noted the CAB would like to eliminate the ban on political broadcasts for the 48 hours before a voting day. He wondered about one party flooding the air waves with results of a public opinion poll which might tout it as the election winner.

Mr. Pouliot said nothing stops a newspaper from publishi such a poll. There didn't seem to be much sense in a ban against only one medium.

OPPOSING VIEWS AIRED?

Milton Klein (L — Montreal Cartier) asked whether stations planning to air controversial statements take steps to make sure that opposed views are given on the same program.

Mr. Pouliot said "there has to be a right to answer" but often a reply would have to be broadcast on a subsequent program. The situation was similar to the press.

The CAB brief also asked that the government recognize that broadcasting's role in providing news, comment, opinion and information makes it "an integral part of the press and the information services of Canada and the regulatory agency must stay attempts to regimen opinion or to abuse freedom of speech."

The hearing continues today.

Philatelic Society Buys Out Mexican Forger's 'Business'

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — most unbelievable story of how Officials of American Philatelic they licked a stamp forgery Society have made public an ali- operation, which they described as the largest ever to flourish in the Western Hemisphere."

The society, an organization representing more than 200,000 American stamp collectors, said Thursday it cancelled the international operations of a 76-year-old self-confessed Mexican forger by buying his original drawings, engraving plates, correspondence and sales records.

Edward Willard of State College, Pa., society president, identified the Mexican as Raul Charles de Thuin of Merida, Yucatan.

The society, Willard said, had named a five-man committee, known as the Seven Five, to negotiate the sale with de Thuin.

Willard said de Thuin accepted an undisclosed amount of cash to sell out his entire holdings. He also signed a statement admitting he engaged in counterfeiting philatelic material, then inked an agreement to bind himself to quit the "business" forever.

Willard said de Thuin turned over engraving plates for stamps from Latin American, Asian and European countries.

Willard said the Mexican government could not take action against de Thuin because the laws of that country make it a crime only to forge current Mexican stamps, not stamps that are no longer legal for postage.

Opposition Wins One Quick Concession But Seeks Others in Transport Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs, after obtaining one quick concession on the government's mammoth transportation bill, return to the debate today with demands for more changes.

Transport Minister Pickersgill met demands for changes in the wording of the bill's first clause—which sets out its principle—by amending the phrase "economic and efficient transportation system" to read "economic, adequate and efficient. . . ."

The Commons gave unanimous approval to the amendment, then deferred further study of the clause so MPs may move deeper into the bill today. The new wording reads in part:

"It is hereby declared that an economic, efficient and adequate transportation system making the best use of all available modes of transportation at the lowest total cost is essential to promote the interests of the users of transportation and to maintain the economic well-being and growth of Canada.

"And that these objectives are most likely to be achieved when all modes of transport are able to compete . . ."

MPs, fresh from their Christmas recess, peppered Mr. Pickersgill with questions, complaints and demands relating to specific transportation difficulties in their ridings.

The transport bill received second reading last year and committee study in the House began just before the Christmas recess.

The bill emphasizes creation of greater competition in the transportation field across Canada. The proposed 17-member transport agency would implement regulations affecting all modes of transport.

Harold Danforth (PC—Kent) was among those seeking assurances that his area—southern Ontario — wouldn't bear the brunt of higher freight rates after the bill's implementation.

The government proposed eliminating more than $70,000,000 in railway subsidies. This likely meant the railways would have to increase rates to recover the loss.

Mr. Danforth was concerned that the government also had promised to maintain the decades-old Crowsnest Pass rates in the West and guaranteed no major changes in Maritime rates for some time. It appeared the other provinces would have to pay higher rates.

Gordon Ranks Above Sharp

Mr. Pearson tabled the list of cabinet rankings in the Commons today as Parliament resumed sittings after a Christmas adjournment.

The prime minister also announced reappointment without change of the 16 parliamentary secretaries, MPs who act as special aides to the prime minister and cabinet ministers. The job gives them an extra $4,000 a year above their $18,000-a-year pay as MPs.

Mr. Gordon, 61, resigned as finance minister in the fall of 1965 because, he said, he gave Mr. Pearson bad advice about calling the 1965 general election which failed to produce a government majority in the Commons.

He was appointed a minister without portfolio by Mr. Pearson last Thursday. Mr. Pearson said at the time that Mr. Gordon would be taking on senior responsibilities in the government.

The Opposition acknowledged Mr. Gordon's return to the cabinet with a couple of digs centring on the fact that his new duties have not been spelled out.

STARTED EXCHANGE

Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) started the exchange by saying that Trade Minister Winters, in a television interview, had been unable to say what Mr. Gordon would be doing.

He asked whether Mr. Pearson had yet told Mr. Gordon "the score." Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled that question out of order but Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) kept the exchange alive.

He also wanted to know Mr. Gordon's duties so that MPs would know what questions to direct to him.

Mr. Pearson retorted with a smile, without mentioning any duties, that the appointment of Mr. Gordon simply "underlines the unity of the government and the Liberal party."

Mr. Gordon was listed as sixth-ranking minister behind Mr. Pearson, External Affairs Minister Martin, Trade Minister Winters, Transport Minister Pickersgill and Defence Minister Hellyer. All five had been cabinet ministers in earlier Liberal administrations.

Mr. Sharp, who succeeded Mr. Gordon as finance minister in 1965, ranks seventh behind his predecessor. When both men were cabinet ministers before, Mr. Sharp also had ranked immediately behind Mr. Gordon.

The table of precedence is based on the order in which cabinet ministers were sworn into the cabinet.

The exception is Mr. Pearson who outranks them all as prime minister. He has been a cabinet minister for a shorter period than Mr. Martin who first became a minister in 1945. Mr. Pearson first became a minister in 1948.

LBJ Wants to Boost Taxes But Congress May Cut Costs

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Johnson has asked Congress to increase taxes by six cents on each tax dollar to help pay for the Vietnam war in which he says the United States faces "more cost, more loss, and more agony."

Congressional reaction to a tax boost is cool. Republicans and many majority Democrats told a domestic budget cut, not a tax boost, is the way to finance the costly Vietnam war.

The president also proposed the tax increase in his State of the Union address Tuesday night, a 70-minute speech to the Congress in which he outlined his legislative program for the forthcoming year. It was his fourth State of the Union address and his most sombre.

The president also proposed higher social security benefits, which will mean higher costs to both the employer and employee, but he didn't say how much the costs would be.

He called for reorganization of some of the machinery to run his Great Society program, renewed his appeal for peace, bridge-building to the Communist nations of Europe and asked once more that "we will and firm in Vietnam."

Johnson proposed a six-per-cent surcharge on corporate and most personal income taxes to last two years or longer unless war costs drop.

Married couples with two children and incomes up to $5,000 yearly would be exempt, as would single persons with incomes up to $1,900 and childless couples earning up to $2,000.

The president indicated he wants the increase effective next July 1. He said the plan will raise about $4,500,000,000 in its first year.

His proposal would cost an extra six cents for each dollar paid in income taxes. As an example, a person who now pays $1,000 a year would pay $60 more.

The president told the Congress in his speech, televised live in the U.S. and Canada:

"We shall continue on a sensible course of fiscal and budgetary policy that will keep our economy growing without new inflationary strains; finance the needs of our men in Vietnam and the progress of our people at home; support a significant improvement in our export surplus, and press forward toward easier credit and lower interest rates."

He said he plans to send a detailed report to Congress on the situation in Southeast Asia, particularly in Vietnam.

"I wish I could report to you that the conflict is almost over. This I cannot do. We face more cost, more loss, and more agony. For the end is not yet. I cannot promise you that it will come this year—or next year."

The president said he has no intention of scuttling his domestic programs. But he conceded there have been "setbacks and mistakes" that must be corrected. Not once did he use his usual label of Great Society.

He won his greatest applause with a proposal to raise social security payments by 20 per cent, $6,100,000,000 in the year beginning July 1, 1968. This would come three months before the presidential election in which he is expected to be a candidate.

Johnson proposed that minimum benefits be raised to $70 from $44 a month and that anyone with 25 years of coverage get at least $100 monthly. He suggested raising the limit on income retired workers can earn without losing social security benefits.

The increase would not affect the $125,000,000,000 spending budget he said he will submit for the year beginning next July 1. With receipts estimated at $126,900,000,000, this would leave a deficit of $8,100,000,000.

On foreign affairs, the president said: "We are in the midst of a great transition from narrow nationalism to international partnership; from the harsh spirit of the cold war to the hopeful spirit of common humanity on a troubled and threatened planet."

Despite evidence that the more conservative new Congress may prove recalcitrant, he renewed requests for passage of an East-West trade bill and other steps and forecast fresh efforts to avoid another round in the nuclear arms race with the Soviet Union.

This hinges on establishment of an anti-missile defence system—rockets capable of downing attacking nuclear - tipped rockets — which the president said has begun around Moscow.

Gerald R. Ford, House Republican leader, said Johnson had "dropped into the lap of both Congress the fiscal mess he made in 1966."

Chairman Russell B. Long (Dem., La.) of the tax-handling Senate finance committee said that if there is to be a tax increase "I'd be more disposed to a corporate increase than one on individuals."

Senator Clinton P. Anderson (Dem. N.M.), a veteran member of Long's committee, thought that trying to get Congress to approve any tax increase would be a "very difficult task."

LEONARD VIGODDA

Vigodda Fined $251,000

TORONTO — The Ontario Appeal Court today imposed a fine of $251,000 or an additional five years in jail for Leonard Vigodda, Belleville scrap-dealer convicted in the looting of a government cobalt stockpile at Deloro.

The 28-year-old Vigodda already is serving a 2½-year sentence in Kingston penitentiary for possession of the strategic mineral.

The additional, stiffer penalties were handed down at noon today after a three-man panel of appeal judges, headed by Chief Justice Dana Porter, upheld a Crown appeal against Vigodda's original sentence.

The appeal was launched by Hastings Crown Attorney John Pringle immediately after Vigodda was first sentenced in October.

Today's appeal was presented by D. A. McKenzie, counsel for the criminal appeals branch of the Attorney-General's Department.

The Appeal Court verdict ruled that Vigodda's initial sentence was an error in principle and imposed the hefty fine to complete the penalty.

PLEADED GUILTY

Vigodda was sentenced October 20 after he pleaded guilty to possession of about $330,000 in cobalt before Judge Wilfred S. Lane in Belleville.

Handing down the penalty the Judge said at that time it was the minimum he could impose.

Crown Attorney John Pringle had called for a stiff sentence, dubbing Vigodda's action a "planned and deliberate crime."

Mr. Pringle warned at that time if a heavy sentence was not given it would be "a hollow mockery and bring the administration of justice into disrepute."

Shortly after Vigodda began his sentence at Kingston penitentiary, the term imposed by

Camp Seeks Control

TORONTO (CP) — Dalton Camp, president of the National Progressive Conservative Association, says he will ask the party's national executive to remove control of party funds from the authority of the party leader.

Mr. Camp will ask the 140-member national executive in the spring to approve changes in the party constitution to accomplish the change of authority.

"We don't agree with the priorities in the budget," Mr. Camp said, adding that the party youth movement is endangered.

Party funds at present are controlled by the party's national director, James Johnson, who was appointed last spring by party leader John Diefenbaker and is directly accountable to him.

U.S. Tax Changes Could Benefit Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — American plans to increase income and corporate taxes could indirectly aid Canada in its aim of maintaining economic growth without heavy inflationary pressures.

There was no immediate public reaction here to the U.S. move, but first evaluations were favorable.

One government spokesman said Washington seemed to be following the same approach the Canadian government has taken in its economic and budgetary policies in two ways.

Firstly, the six-per-cent increases on most businesses and individuals proposed in President Johnson's state of the union message Tuesday night were tied partly to increases in social security benefits.

Finance Minister Sharp took a similar tack in his Dec. 19 mini - budget, proposing tax increases to cover the cost of supplementary old age pensions for the needy.

Secondly, the official said, the "increase in fiscal restraint" meant putting a little more weight on the fiscal side of policy, with an accompanying easing in monetary policy.

If the taxes bring about a better balance in the U.S. economy, they could lead to more sustained economic expansion without the kind of inflationary pressures that have been apparent in the last year.

In view of the close relationship between the American and Canadian economies, some of the benefits might flow to the Canadian side of the border.

Liquor With Sunday Meals Authorized

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario joined Quebec and the Maritimes Tuesday by announcing an amendment in the Liquor Licence Act to permit the sale of alcoholic beverages with meals on Sundays.

But the Sunday-liquor line ends at the western Ontario border. Neither the Prairie provinces nor British Columbia allow the sale of liquor on Sundays and liquor boards declined comment on the possibility of any change.

Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the Liquor Licence Board of Ontario, said government regulations will be amended to permit sale of spirits, wine and beer with Sunday meals from noon to 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. starting Feb. 5.

The amendment means that premises which now have licences to serve alcoholic beverages with meals will be able to apply to the board for permission to open on Sundays.

The extension will not apply to bars or any other outlet which does not serve meals.

Church and temperance leaders greeted the announcement with both anger and acceptance.

Rev. H. C. Slade, minister of Toronto's Jarvis Street Baptist Church, termed the action an increase in the floodtide of iniquity.

Rt. Rev. H. R. Hunt, Anglican suffragan bishop of Toronto, said a person who wants liquor with his meals during the week should be able to have it on Sunday, but added that alcoholic beverages are a form of self-indulgence.

Rev. J. C. Torrance, superintendent of the United Church Toronto Home Mission Council, said he was "not friendly to any widening of facilities."

Mrs. Lilliam Lang, a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Toronto, said she believed the change was to cater to the tourist trade.

She thought liquor manufacturers had pressed the government into the change. "They'll do anything to increase sales."

In the Maritimes, licenced outlets in Nova Scotia are permitted to serve drinks with meals between 11 a.m. and 12:30 a.m. on Sunday. Lounges and taverns are closed.

Licenced dining rooms in Prince Edward Island serve liquor with Sunday meals from 11 a.m. to midnight. Beer, wine and spirits are also available to Sunday diners in Newfoundland.

The New Brunswick Liquor Control commission permits dining rooms to sell liquor between noon and 10 p.m. Sundays.

Quebec outlets in cities or more than 50,000 may sell liquor without food until midnight Sunday. In smaller centres, food must be served with alcoholic beverages.

Nuclear Control Pact Is Drafted

LONDON (AP)—U.S. and Soviet negotiators have agreed on a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons, but their governments must still approve it, qualified diplomats said Tuesday night.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed, but informants said the Russians made at least one important change in their position by accepting the idea of West German participation in nuclear planning arrangements set up by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last month.

Little Girls May Be Made of Sugar and Spice But This One Ate Turmeric and Dyed

DARLINGTON, England (AP)—Miss X is 19, pretty, an efficient secretary, and everything she touched turned pink.

She touched her white blouse and left pink patches. There was pink on her desk, pink on her writing pad and pink on the letters she typed for the boss.

Her fiance's collar turned pink, too.

For two days Miss X put up with her pink problem at the Chrysler-Cummings works in this north England town. Then she went to see Dr. Valentine Crowley, the factory physician.

After laboratory tests, Dr. Crowley came up with the answer Tuesday. It was all caused by a curry dinner.

"No wonder the poor girl was so upset," the doctor said. "A spice called turmeric in the curry was the trouble. Her system reacted against it and sent something like a pink dye through her pores.

"I have never known a case like it. The girl didn't look pink, quite normal in fact, but everything she touched went that color."

Turmeric is used extensively as a dye in Asia, where it is cultivated.

Miss X's trouble is clearing up, and on Dr. Crowley's advice she is going to skip curry in future.

"We don't want to give the girl's name because she is so embarrassed," a factory spokesman said. "She can't help blushing."

Chou Tries to Halt Struggle

TOKYO (CP)—Premier Chou En-lai was reported today engaged in a crucial three-pronged effort to mediate the struggle between Mao Tse - tung and President Liu Shao-chi and end the crisis wracking China.

Reports from Peking made clear that Chou's first objective was to remove the bloodshed and violence from Mao's nation-wide purge of his enemies and confine the struggle to writing wall newspapers and posters.

His second task was to reverse the creeping paralysis descending on the country's production, transportation and communications as a result of bitter labor resistance to Mao's program.

And finally, he was reported negotiating a settlement of the bloody incidents in Nanking reported to have left 54 persons dead and 900 injured early this month.

There were some signs Chou's initiatives may have begun too late. The Czechoslovak news agency reported from Peking that Mao's enemies had begun a general mobilization and pre-stire bloodshed was in prospect.

The plight of China's dislocated midwinter economy was confirmed by the official New China news agency, which disclosed today that strikes, sabotage and resistance have cropped up not only in Nanking and Shanghai but also Shenyang (Mukden), in Manchuria; in Canton, in the south; in the lake city of Hangchow and in the capital itself.

Japanese correspondents in Peking reported that Chou met railway workers there Tuesday and called on them to restore the rail network to normal. Rail newspapers reported that thousands of industrial workers have poured by rail into Peking to protest Mao's effort to seize the leadership of the labor movement, for years controlled by President Liu.

Chou called the labor invasion of the capital a form of "economic warfare."

Earlier reports said the transportation system is in great confusion, with trains slowed or halted, freight schedules disrupted and shipping paralysed by dock strikes. A critical coal shortage was reported in Shanghai and production halted in many factories.

One Peking poster said all transport between north and south China has been interrupted. The Communist China Travel Service in Hong Kong stopped the sale of rail tickets to Shanghai, Canton, Nanking, Wuhan, Peking and Foochow, it continued, however, to make available plane tickets between Canton and Peking and other points, indicating that air service was not affected.

Pro-Mao workers in Shanghai claimed they were scoring victories against rival workers and bringing some of them back to the fold. The agency blamed the disturbances in the port on the Shanghai municipal Communist party committee.

Trenton House Building Drops Considerably From '65 Figures

TRENTON — House building values were down by $212,820 last year from 1965 value, building inspector William Anderson said today.

In 1966, 19 permits for single family dwellings were issued; values: $256,640. In 1965, 37 permits were issued; values: $469,460.

Building last year was off to a good start in January, with three permits being issued for new homes; values, $42,000. No permits were issued in February; the building slump continued in March and April, picked up in May and June, was down again in July, up again in August and September, down to one permit in October, none in November and two in December.

The average value of each unit was up last year ($12,507) from 1965, ($12,688).

Modified figures released today reveal that 163 permits were issued in 1966: values, $1,-033,163. Figures for 1965 were: 189 permits issues; values, $1,-414,307. Hence, on the over a 11 picture, Trenton is down six permits and $379,344 in 1966 from 1965.

TRENTON — The new telephone directories, which are now being delivered, contain new listings for each department at the municipal office. These are listed in a "lump" listing, under Town of Trenton.

TRENTON — Trenton property owners may now buy prepayment tax certificates at percentage decreases of from 1% per cent (from Jan. 3 to Jan. 17) to one percent (from Feb. 16 to Feb. 28) at the town office.

These tax certificates are based on actual 1966 taxes, according to whether the roll rate goes up or down this year, those buying them might be required to pay a little extra or receive a rebate.

TRENTON — Chief Marching Mother for the March of Dimes locally, is Mrs. Doris Webb . . . and for the third year in a row. The door-to-door campaign to aid the handicapped, will be conducted on Jan. 30-31.

Thirty four captains have been enlisted. Volunteer canvassers may phone Mrs. Alex Webb, Manor Crescent.

TRENTON — Gordon Wynne, 30, of Toronto, escaped injury Thursday afternoon when his west-bound tractor trailer spun out of control on snowcovered pavement on Highway 401, just west of the town, struck a highway fence and took out six guide posts. Damage to the cab of the vehicle was estimated at $400.

TRENTON — Friday night has been set for the annual Christmas tree burning ceremonies in the Community Gardens' area. Activity should start shortly after 8 p.m.

This year, the ceremony has a centennial theme. The Trenton Citizens' Band will play — weather permitting — and it is hoped the Trenton Sing-Out group will take part.

Lyle Langabeer New Chairman Of Commission

Lyle A. Langabeer, local CN engineer now in his second year as member of the Belleville Utilities Commission, has been named chairman for 1967.

Mr. Langabeer succeeds Mayor J. R. Ellis as chairman of the commission. Mayor Ellis took over the chairmanship late last winter after the then chairman Gerald R. Hyde resigned to accept the position of purchasing agents and personnel officer at city hall.

At the same time former city alderman Benjamin Safe was named by city council to the commission to fill out Mr. Hyde's term of office.

Commission members at their inaugural meeting approved the installation of street lighting on Palmer Road and Harder Drive in the vicinity of the new Centennial Secondary School and the new Sir John A. Macdonald public school now under construction on Harder Drive.

Commission officials hope the street lighting can be installed in time for the Centennial Secondary school official opening scheduled for February 24th.

No Serious Crimes in County Court

Recent absence of serious crime in Hastings County drew commendation from Ontario Supreme Court Mr. Justice J. M. King yesterday.

His Lordship's comments came at the opening of Supreme Court Assizes yesterday at which Crown Attorney John Pringle presented him with white gloves — traditional emblem of a court-docket free of crime cases.

"It's always a happy state of affairs to find there are no criminal cases," said the judge. "That to my mind indicates one of two things — perhaps that One being that there is general confidence in the courts administration of law and order in the community.

"And the second being that there is no really serious crime."

"Of course," added His Lordship wryly, "it could be that they have not caught them.

"I take the view that it indicates there is an absence of serious crime in the community, and any community these days that enjoys that state of affairs is to be commended.

He also instructed the grand jury to visit the county jail and view conditions both for the inmates' safety and public security and report on same.

His Lordship particularly noted fire-safety measures and asked the jurors to re-inspect any other public building they desired.

"It may be that there are local conditions that I would know nothing of and that would be on the minds of you as a grand jury . . ." he said.

There were 25 cases listed for hearing before His Lordship at the two-week Assizes, including seven divorce cases and 16 claims arising from car accidents.

In a reference to recent British jail episodes he reminded the jury that "in a certain country prisoners are leaving almost at will."

He told the jury he would arrange for them to inspect any other public building they desired.

"It may be that there are local conditions that I would know nothing of and that would be on the minds of you as a grand jury . . ." he said.

Street Light Spotters Save City Money

Up until last August it had been the custom of the local utilities commission to have a weekly patrol of all city streets done to check for burned out street lights. The patrol was done at night to overtime wage rates and the program ran into considerable cost.

The weekly Thursday night patrol was discontinued in the last summer and since then the commission had been depending on residents to phone police to notify them of burned out street lights.

Utilities Commission manager E. H. Burnham reported at the inaugural commission meeting that the change in policy had saved appreximately $2,700 in the first four months.

Mr. Burnham said the policy was working out very well and that when street lights were reported they were usually replaced the same day.

"We appreciate people calling in when they notice street lights burned out," he said.

Morlin Tyler Limited, Trenton silverware manufacturers, are suing Union Carbide Canada Limited, of Belleville, for negligence in the sale of a non - tarnish solution.

Lawyers for the Trenton company claim the solution failed to perform satisfactorily after it was sold by Union Carbide about four years ago to Morton-Parker for coating silver products.

Home of Methodist Church Mother Will Be Restored

The real Barbara Heck, mother of the Methodist Church in North America, emerged from the myths and legends of history at the January meeting of Hastings County Historical Society.

Rev. J. W. Lamb of Holloway Street United Church gave members meeting at Corbo Lake carry the results of his research into Barbara and The Heck homestead in Augusta County on the shores of the St. Lawrence River. Mr. Lamb is one of the directors of the Barbara Heck Foundation and chairman of the committee now restoring the Heck house.

"It is easier to do historical research today among the vast amounts of material collected in archives than it was 100 years ago when the first accounts of Barbara's life were written," Mr. Lamb said. "As a result, we have debunked some of the most cherished legends surrounding her and turned up much fascinating new information."

To prove his point, the speaker displayed copies of documents pertaining to the group of German - Palatinate people who emigrated from Ireland to New York in the 18th century. Among them were Barbara Heck and her husband, Lutheran, who had been exposed to the teachings of John Wesley in Ireland. Roused by the early days of the generally low moral standards of New York, she persuaded her cousin, Philip Embury, to establish the first Methodist class meetings in North America. Her encouragement of the church earned for her the title, mother of Methodism.

PLANNED EXODUS

Following the American Revolution, the Hecks joined the loyalist exodus from the United States to Canada. They settled in Augusta township and built a Georgian farmhouse, which survived to become one of the finest examples of Georgian domestic architecture in Ontario today.

When DuPont of Canada bought the Heck farm the company disassembled the house so it could be re-built on another site at a later date. At one time the Historical Society has hoped to acquire the Heck house for Belleville, a stronghold of the early Methodist church. Instead the house is being restored at Landon Bay Vacation Centre, an ecumenical Christian conference centre halfway between Gananoque and the Ivy Lea Bridge.

"The ground floor of the house will be a tourist attraction, furnished in authentic antiques of the early 1800s," Mr. Lamb said. The second floor will be used for Christian study conferences and retreats. In this way we are trying to bridge the redemptive manner as a link with the future."

GUNS DISPLAYED

Ross Irwin, society director and coin collector, used examples from his collection to illustrate historical anecdotes.

"I used to think what this country needed was a good five cent piece," he said, "now I think it's a nickel that is worth par."

Mr. Irwin predicted the government would soon cease to use silver in coin and substitute nickel instead. He displayed sets of Canadian coins and story tokens. Story tokens used by stores as change in pioneer days when small coinage was scarce and most trade was done by barter.

Historical society president, R. C. Greig, announced that although the museum has discontinued regular hours until May, group tours could be arranged by calling the curator, Mrs. J Sargent, at 962-3731.

Area PCs Welcome Prospect of George Hees as Candidate

Leading Progressive Conservatives in the Quinte District expressed delight today at the prospects of having the Hon. George Hees contest the federal riding of Prince Edward-Hastings in the next election.

GEORGE HEES

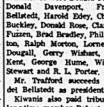
Mr. Hees, former Conservative minister, announced yesterday he hasn't decided in which of two ridings — Northumberland - Durham or Prince Edward-Hastings — he will stand as a candidate.

Ted Parker, president of the Quinte Riding PC Association (provincial), said: "My personal hope is that he will run in this riding (Prince-Edward-Hastings).

"In George we have one of the truly great Canadians", he said. "A man who could lead the Conservative Party to victory, not only here but federally.

"I sincerely hope he'll be the next national leader of the Conservative Party and I would support him at the convention to that end and hope I could do the same in this riding."

Gerald Joyce, president of the Belleville PC Association, and information officer for both Hastings South federally and the provincial riding of Quinte, said: "Any riding would do well to be represented by a member as capable as George Hees.



GERALD JOYCE

"He is a hard - working member and has the interest of the area at heart and would undoubtedly represent either riding well.

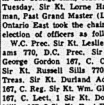
"Since the Conservative practice has been to choose by a democratic vote taken for the qualified delegates from within the riding association, the constituents will have the opportunity of choosing whom they want to be their standard - bearer.

"He would certainly be an asset to either one."

Jack Ireland, president of Hastings South PC Association, said: "I admire George and think he has a lot of push and is certainly a great asset to the party and to the riding he represents.

"He is an excellent member and a marvellous campaigner and vote - getter.

"I've campaigned with him many times and wish him well," he said, "and I'd like to see him as close to us as possible."



JACK IRELAND

Dorothy Howell, president of the Belleville PC Women's Assn. also said: "I'm hoping it will be Prince Edward-Hastings. I think he'd make a wonderful contestant.

"He's an effective member and would be a great neighbor."

Mr. Hees' statement followed an announcement earlier this week by party officials that he will be an open candidate to replace John Diefenbaker as leader of the national Conservative party.

A party official said: "Mr. Hees' every action is aimed at becoming the next leader of the party. There is no secret about this among those of us who know George well and have known him for a long time."

The new Prince Edward-Hastings riding takes in all of Prince Edward county, Middleton Park, Brighton and Campbellford.

The new Hastings riding takes in all the county with the exception of Stirling and Rawdon in the south and the six most northerly townships. All off Belleville is in the new Hastings riding.

Welfare Submissions Solicited

Written submissions or complaints regarding the operation of the city welfare department has been received at city clerk mayor's committee appointed to investigate welfare in Belleville but so far none have been received at city hall.

City Clerk Adam Stalker said today that letters to all city doctors, dentists and welfare organizations went out from city hall about the middle of last week inviting written submissions but to date no replies have been received.

Replies were asked to be in by Jan. 21.

Alderman Donald Williams, chairman of the special mayor's committee looking into welfare, said that interviews with welfare recipients, officials of welfare organizations and others, would commence after this date. He expected his committee would have its report ready for council by early March.

Vigodda

Judge Lane drew protests in the House of Commons and the conduct of the investigation and Attorney - General intended appealing the sentence.

The case of Vigodda was served with notice of the appeal action in his cell.

Today's appeal probably was the last act in a drama first spotlighted in May 1966 when almost an entire freight-load of spoilage of Deloro was discovered looted.

Vigodda was one of seven men arrested simultaneously on conspiracy charges after investigation that had spread across North America and to Britain. The others either were acquitted or had the charges against them dropped.

Vigodda, the last to stand trial, was found guilty after the count against him was reduced to possession — carrying a maximum of ten years imprisonment.

Snowmobile Club Formed

Snowmobile buffs in the Belleville district have formed a snowmobile club at a meeting to further their enjoyment from this fast growing sport.

Criminal activities rose sharply over the past week with six thefts reported, one report of breaking and entering, three family disturbances, four reports of hunters on private property, one assault, one accidental shooting and one powder explosion.

Carl "Billy" Hill, 18, of Shannonville was examined at the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday, January 7, 1967 for what appeared to be shot gun pellets lodged in his left cheek. Carl stated that he heard what he thought was a shot and he fell and turned around, at which time he was struck on the left cheek.

There were a total of 12 accidents investigated last week; 10 property damage, one personal injury in which one person was injured and one fatal accident in which one person was killed.

At 8:30 p.m. January 2nd, 1967 a pedestrian, Sharon Yvonne Woodcox, age 20 years, Belleville, was struck by a car driven by Harold Kitchener Morton of Thomasburg, while walking on Hwy. 14 south of Belleville. The pedestrian was killed instantly and Mr. Morton was charged with dangerous driving.

Members of the Belleville Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police laid 28 charges during the past week and had 15 convictions in court. Officers attended court a total of six hours.

Deseronto Names Four School Board Trustees

DESERONTO — Because of the resignation at the end of the year of Chairman J. W. Spence of the Public School Board, it will be necessary to elect four trustees instead of the regular three. Donald Reid, for m e r vice-chairman, was re-elected, along with George Lyons, Harry Saunders and Maurice Lee. Chairman, Mrs. Giselle Saunders and James McVicker have one more year to serve on the board.

Donald Reid was appointed chairman, and George Lyons, vice-chairman. Two committees were set up. In each case, the first name given is the chairman. The Finance committees are as follows: management, Saunders, McVicker, Reid; property, Lee, Reid, McVicker, Sergeant; finance, Sergeant, Lyons, Saunders.

The question of the two-room addition to the school, turned down by the board last year, was much to the fore. A letter from Inspector Paul Anderson outlined steps that had been taken last year, and the choice that could be made in utilizing the additional rooms. He urged speedy action in coming to a decision, as the amount of money needed must be included in the budget for the next town council. This would be approximately $14,000.

The question was discussed at length, and arrangements were made for a meeting January 17 between the two finance committees, that of the town and that of the school board.

The only dissenting voice was that of James McVicker, who felt that, in view of the fact that the sewage system will in all likelihood get under way this year, the school addition should be postponed to save burdening the town financially.

It was reported that transportation has been arranged for the pupils with specialized defects which prevented his attending school for more than a half a day, and then only if transported.

Mrs. Charles Cole, the March-of Mother for the March of Dimes, requested the permission of the Board to enlist the help of teachers and pupils in this project and approval was given.

It was decided that all school supplies except pens be furnished by the Board, an 80 per cent grant is made for these by the Ontario Government.

Attention was drawn to the Education Show Place to be held in the Exhibition Grounds in Toronto later this month, and several of the trustees signified their intention of going.

The recreational facilities are limited at the school, Principal Tess asked permission to use the public arena for skating, the question of insurance regarding their transportation came up, and the matter will be discussed at a later date.

Powell Loses Seat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell, controversial Negro politician at least temporarily deprived of his seat in Congress, has urged 13 million Negroes to break their long allegiance with the Democratic party.

Powell, sharp-tongued member of the House of Representatives for New York City's Harlem district for many years, was deprived of his seat Tuesday, at least until a committee examines his qualifications.

Only the day before he had lost his influential position as chairman of the House's education and labor committee after investigators looked into a private life that some said amounted to high living at government expense.

Dr. G.S. Cronk Retires As Coroner, Held Post In County for 36 Years

After nearly two score years service, a veteran Belleville doctor has retired from the office of coroner.

Dr. George Sampson (Sam) Cronk, was once the only practising coroner in the city following his appointment in 1931.

Yesterday, when he confirmed he had retired, he was one of four physicians holding coroners' wills in Belleville.

"There were as many inquests then as there are now — but I was the only one to do it then," he recalls.

The demand complicated a practice that included city public health officer — a post he held 30 years from 1921 — surgeon and family physician.

"I used to be pretty busy," he admits.

Born in Herchimbroke township, in Frontenac County, Dr. Cronk came to Belleville in 1919 after World War I service that took him as far east as China as a ship transport surgeon.

In 36 years as coroner he has conducted countless inquests — just how many he can't recall.

But the inquiry always has and always will be a crucial community consideration.

"An inquest is important," says Dr. Cronk, "particularly if there's a death that is under suspicion of negligence or foul play — especially negligence — for then it's whisper about it.

"The inquiry makes it public and I think that is most important."

NOT MUCH CHANGE

Coroners' juries have n't changed much, he reflects, except that they are "more conscious" of the need for recommendations to correct causal conditions.

"I think now they're bringing in more recommendations, and that's all to the good."

An active community figure, Dr. Cronk is a charter member of Belleville Kiwanis, Eureka Lodge AF and AM, and Moira Chapter, Royal Arch Masons.

Less than two years ago, his professional colleagues paid tribute to his 50 years in medicine, following his 1915 graduation from Queen's University.

Citizens Attend First Town Council Meeting

NAPANEE — A number of citizens attended the first meeting for 1967 of the Napanee Town Council Monday evening, some with requests, at least one with a generous offer, and one to extend his gratitude. Mrs. Phyllis Gerow appeared once more regarding closing a street which leads to her strip of property along the river, a matter which is now in the hands of the town solicitor.

Mayor Lorne A. Smart assured her that letters written to him would be answered in due course, and that meanwhile the council was powerless to act. However, Councillor William McAlister, president of the Ratepayers' Association, Incorporated, suggested that solicitor James Maden be directed to look into the problem.

Thomas Cox, manager of the Inland Manpower Services, appeared the council for the speed with which the inhalator had been delivered to the home by Fire Chief Patton when he was acutely ill. He also requested that council issue a proclamation proclamation requesting everyone to observe "Do It Now" Week, dated January 22.

REPORT READ

A report was read giving $41,000 as the cost of installing crossing gates and flashing lights at the dangerous level railway crossing on Thomas St. The report was referred to the committee.

Council decided to give advice in perpetuity to the Federal Government for the land at Centennial Park on which the government had built a dock last summer. The advice and advertisement to mark Centennial Year. This should contain pictures of all members of both councils, be advised, plus the list of events already planned to mark the year. Council met its suggestion with approval, and the matter was referred to the finance committee with power to act should the County Council agree to co-operate. It meets January 15.

Tweed Students Get Full Day For Celebration

TWEED — School students in this area can thank more than the Department of Education for free time allowed to mark Sir John A. Macdonald's birthday today.

The Department originally decreed a half-holiday for schools across the province.

Reeve Barbara Allen last night announced both Tweed and Hungerford local authorities had decided to double the allotment and give students a full-day's holiday to celebrate Sir John's birthday.

Attempted Murder Suspect Arrested by Town Police

TRENTON — A former Trenton-area man was arrested on an attempted murder charge here yesterday after a police constable walking his beat spotted a suspect he believed answered the description of a province-wide alert.

Gary Leo Genereaux, 22, formerly of Consecon, was returned to face the charge at Richmond Hill, near Toronto, arising from a stabbing in a restaurant Monday.

Genereaux was stopped as he walked along Dundas Street East there by Const. Bailey Holden yesterday by Constable Mark Holden.

The officer believed Genereaux resembled a description sent by police teletype across Ontario after the Richmond Hill incident in which a waitress was reported stabbed in the neck.

Holden took Genereaux to the town police station where he was later handed over to Richmond Hill officers.

Frankford and the Press

The village of Frankford is an attractive and spirited community. It has its problems like any other and it is in the general good if such problems are aired properly.

But some people in Frankford, including members of Council, want to be treated with kid gloves as far as the right of the community and of the public at large to know what is going on — what is being enacted by Council, and equally important what is being said.

At the inaugural meeting of Council last week members complained about newspaper reports of the proceedings. And in a poll taken among villagers one was quoted as saying that in the past year "a lot of friction was caused by newspapers." This is an old excuse which the public should realize is the familiar one of finding a scapegoat, of transferring its own uneasiness to some convenient target.

The duty of a newspaper is to reflect the good and the bad in the life of a community, region or nation. This applies to the coverage of a village Council meeting as much as it does to the proceedings of Parliament, which we would remind readers, are reported verbatim in Hansard.

Councillor Leonard Reid suggests the public is interested only in bylaws.

Says Mr. Reid: "I don't think that little arguments should ever see the light of day in the paper. Friendly arguments aren't what people want to read about. Bylaws are. When the newspaper prints conversations from Council it's pretty low."

Well, if these arguments are so friendly, why the objection to them being recorded? The disturbing aspect of the Council's attitude in this matter is that it should be the final arbiter of what appears in Press reports. Failure to reflect adequately the life of a community can result in mistrust and misunderstanding far in excess of what would occur when a project or dialogue is reported fully.

At the same time, contrary to what may be thought, newsmen at large are more discreet than Councillors will ever know. But apply the same reasoning to the latter, and to their own words. Just how much discretion are they displaying as public figures Councillors must expect to give public account of their views and actions, and to take the rough with the smooth.

Toward Good Health

To read the medical columns of this and other newspapers is to be aware that the unconsuming interest people have in their health — very often to the point of hypochondria.

And it is ironic, and not a little comical, to note one reader seeking enlightenment on this very subject. "What is hypochondria?" the reader asks, as if it were another disease.

Well it is in a way. The dictionary defines hypochondria as "abnormal anxiety over one's health, often accompanied by imaginary illnesses and melancholy symptoms."

This sort of thing can be very bothersome — as much if not more so than ailments of a more definite character. True, there are signs and portents with regard to one's physical wellbeing or otherwise that should not be ignored, and diagnosed if they are causing trouble. As medical men will tell you, for those who are hypochondriacs there are as many who will avoid seeing the doctor as those who have no alternative, and then it could be too late.

But by and large, anxiety over one's health should be avoided. There is no one more tiresome than the person who is continually complaining about his health. On the other hand, the person whose thoughts are directed outward, toward the multi-interests this world affords, is closer to the ideal of "a healthy mind in a healthy body."

While we are on this subject there is one other aspect of it which does require wider knowledge on the part of the general public. It concerns drugs; this is a field in which care must be exercised, all the way from the manufacturer to the druggist to the user.

Canadians, who are a drug-consuming people, need to know more about the uses of drugs, according to one authority. Mary Curry, of the Consumer Division of the Food and Drug Directorate in Ottawa, told a Toronto audience last week that some 50 million prescriptions were filled in Canada in 1965. Properly used they save lives, improperly used they may be dangerous.

Mrs. Curry said that in 1964, 23,000 cases of poisoning were reported to her department, with 38 of them resulting in death. She warned there is "a cardiovascular problem in the use of drugs," due in turn to thoughtlessness.

Drugs should be used only for their medicinal purpose, according to the prescription, and not relied upon to excess, as in the case of the so-called tranquillizers. A change in one's outlook, of scene, a book, a walk in the country or even around the block — judiciously mixed — are often the best medicines. The pity is that more people do not recognize the fact.

Cultural Centre? Need More Emphasis on the Arts

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The material needs of this community which our forefathers fought so hard to establish are now for us, more or less a fact. Belleville is gradually developing, and people are beginning to take pride in her, as a City of opportunities. But the more I hear our Council s of citizens debating hockey arenas, sewers and extravaganza parades, the more I wonder whether we will ever begin to realize the need for promotion of beauty in this community! This letter is an attempt to articulate such a need.

Generally speaking, the environment in the world today is changing more quickly than man can imagine. We are rapidly moving into the era of the secular metropolis - an environment which has not been possible before the advances of modern technology. Marshall McLuhan indicates that technology gradually creates a totally new human environment, and it is important to realize that environments are not passive wrappings, but active processes]

A quick look at modern man shows us a necessarily mobile man, in a world of high - rise buildings, cloverleafs, airports, elevators, escalators, and subways. He is a sophisticated, advanced scientifically-orientated man, in a world brought to his home by modern communications.

The secular city is reflected by us at every turn. The theatre of the absurd, electronic and mod music, and kinetic communications show inspiration brought through environment. The artists: Kora Pound says, are the "antennae of the race." The arts are not merely self-expression, they are prophetic. It is the artist's duty to reflect truths projected by creative insights in an attempt to discover new trends of thought in man.

It is also an age of nuclear warfare, and this, just at a time when communications systems are de - personalizing relationships between people. The interaction between man and man is also reflected in the breakdown between man and his God, man and self, and man and the other. In vain — because we have never dared, (or known how) to give ourselves.'

It is only openness to life which grants lightning - swift insight into the life situation of others. It is creativity which fosters openness!

In Belleville there is a singular lack of interest in creativity, with the exception of a handful of people who are striving valiantly (but in vain?) to bring up the level of cultural sensitivity here.

I have worked with the local Theatre Guild and am well aware of the problems the play selection committee. Anything which would be intellectually enlightening would get "go over". Lack of funds and latest means middle-brow productions! The ballet loses $2,000 every time it plays here. No local theatre is adequate! A film society is almost unable to show good films.

There are talented artists and musicians in this community who are forced to sacrifice their principles and integrity to produce "popular" works - it is sad for these artists — even sadder for their art!

Most important, is the realization of the need for the cultural development of our children, whose future will be very different from the life we have known. When an adult decides to become conscious in music (for example) it is a discipline for him to acquire a sensitivity long left out of his existence — sometimes an impossibility. But a child's eyes and ears are open to wonder and a child will listen to a Brahms Rhapsody will be able to hear unspoken words — a child will appreciate Picasso's "Child with a Dove" will always know joy and wonder in the beauty of creation.

Parents and teachers with imagination; "with understanding and love, can develop creative expression in children. Art is not a subject to be learned, but a creative way of doing things, — an imaginative way of thinking! As children are encouraged to "discover" for themselves, to have confidence in the expression of their own views, they will also learn to ask "why" and "what" of others — they will become sensitive to the needs of humanity — they will begin to live for others, and their efforts will be creative.

As a centennial project would it not be possible for the various organizations in this community to set aside a few dollars for the establishment and propagation of a council for all the arts, and for the promotion of a cultural centre for the edification of our citizens.

It is time for us to realize that what we are looking for can be found in a single rose,-but the eyes are blind — one must learn to look with the heart!

BNA Act and the Centennial

Windsor Star

Right from its start a century ago, Canada's constitution reflected the compromise between not two, but three, separate forces. The forces still exist, they need for balancing still exists, and it is time for the constitution to be updated.

The British North America Act, which spelled out the details of Confederation, was an example of the surprisingly good attempt, to join together a number of colonies with differing ethnic, religious, historical, and geographical backgrounds. It succeeded so well that the colonies prospered and slowly grew until now, a century later, we have a stable nation.

This has been accomplished without the addition of many elements of the "unwritten constitution" — the web of high court rulings, unwritten understandings, and written agreements between the different governments of the federation. Each of these elements has helped the British precedent of informal progress.

But the three forces which moulded the British North America Act still exist. They are the federal state, the provinces, and the particular case of one province, Quebec. Each of the three wants, and needs, power, tax resources, and freedom to conduct its own affairs. Quebec particularly wants protection for the language and the legal system which she has enjoyed under constitutional guarantees.

Any proposed change in the constitution run head-on into these differing forces. What we have has stood the test of time, and there is fear that changes will subtly realign powers and responsibilities so that individual rights may be endangered. Any attempts at constitutional reform have foundered on this position, for this reason, from one or another of the three forces.

The most noticeable result, as a matter of national pride if not of practical importance, is the fact that many changes in the British North America Constitution must still go to the British Parliament for approval. Such approval, again in accordance with the British talent for informality, is automatic. But it remains a fact that we have to explain to citizens of any other country, and indeed to young Canadians.

Patriation of the constitution — cannot properly be called independence, for that constitution has never really been Canadian—would be a fitting achievement for Canada's centennial year. It cannot be accomplished easily, since it involves the federal - provincial power ratio now a century old. But it should be attempted, particularly in the more favorable climate of good-will which should be one of the benefits of the Centennial.

To Your Good Health
Paget's Disease May Yield to Vitamin C

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is now 72 and several years ago was told that he has Paget's disease in the back of the pelvis. It showed up in X-rays.

His doctor said there was no medication for it then, but I recently read that Vitamin C and some drugs along with it could be beneficial in retarding the disease. — Mrs. C. A.

There are two ailments called Paget's disease, and they are similar. Your description makes clear that this is Paget's disease of the bone.

This is a peculiar disorder, and usually found in older people. There are areas of softening and destruction of bone, but there is also a natural tendency of the body to attempt to repair it, so the affected areas may be either very soft or very hard.

The cause is not known, and in many instances the condition is discovered only through X-rays for some other purpose. The course of the disease varies considerably. It may remain quiescent; it may progress slowly; or invalidism may result from fractures of softened bone, or from bone pain.

Consequently how a patient should be has to be judged in view of his particular case. He should be kept as active as circumstances dictate, since physical activity stimulates thickening of bones. But he should be careful not to fall because of risk of fractures. This is important. In some cases, physical therapy may be necessary to combat muscle weakness if the patient is not able to exercise more or less normally.

There still is no specific treatment since we don't know the cause. However, Vitamins C and D plus a diet high in calcium are said to encourage new bone formation. In some cases pain - suppressing medications may be necessary.

Hearing aids are frequently related because of the high incidence of deafness in these patients.

Dear Dr. Molner: "Mrs. Feel Silly" wrote to you about the sore in her nose. I had the same trouble years ago. A specialist found I was allergic to perfume, and in those days, it was perfume on a handkerchief, which made it very bad. One of the girls I worked with had a very annoying cough, and it stopped when she stopped using perfume. — Mrs. L. L.

The above letter is printed, not to pick on anyone at perfume, but to remind readers that unsuspected materials may cause allergic reactions.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the purpose of the synovial membrane of the knee? — C. J. B.

The synovial membrane lines all joints, including the knees. It secretes a fluid which serves as a lubricant. When irritated, the membrane may become excessive fluid and the swelling results.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can I do to stop pyorrhea? Would a mouthwash help? — A. B.

Pyorrhea is too dangerous to trust to, try to hyme treat. Consult your dentist without delay.

Note to Mrs. S. H.: You most certainly should not have been criticized for having your boy treated for gonorrhea — or for any other kidney disorder. Damage may not show at once in X-ray. But unless the infection is thoroughly cleared up, there is great danger of permanent and serious damage later on in life.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a son who is 18 and is encouraging me to have a bone formation. In some cases pain - suppressing medications

New Canal For Panama?

Christian Science Monitor

When it comes to creating a better Panama Canal, good comparisons all favor a unclear-dug ditch. It definitely has the no-bottom prize. The Atomic Energy Commission has been studying the alternatives. It has just announced its estimates:

To convert the existing Panama Canal to sea-level route by using conventional digging techniques would take 10 years and cost $3,300,000,000.

To open up a new canal across the eastern end of Panama using nuclear excavation would take six years and cost $800 million.

There are other advantages. The Panama Canal, except for the Sasardi - Morti route would be four times as deep and twothirds again as wide as the converted canal.

Power Vacuum

Vancouver Province

Despite the camaraderie of the Kosygin visit to Ottawa, there are no signs that the Europe foreseen by de Gaulle from the Russians are prepared to accept. For one thing, they fear that the vacuum left by the departing Americans would more likely be filled by Germans than by French.

Germany is back at the heart of the problem. And she has yet to declare her hand more fully before NATO can regard itself as redundant.

The Soviet Union, after all, has 20 divisions in East Germany. They are not there as tourists.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Queen Mary Home and School Association held its meeting in the school auditorium with the president Mrs. Croll in charge. After a short business period, an enjoyable program was presented with Mr. Cooper conducting a band of 50 boys from the four public schools of the city.

Member of the board for the past two years and previously acting forfiour years as a member of the advisory vocational committee, George Wishart was named chairman of the Belleville Board of Education at their inaugural meeting.

At a joint meeting of representatives of Branch 99, Canadian Legion (Belleville Branch) and The Veterans Land Act, held in the office of the Veterans' Officer, various committees were selected as eligible. These veterans were taken over the properties and given their choice, and it is understood that they will occupy these houses immediately.

Two robins were seen this morning upon the branch of a tree on Ann St. south of Bridge Street.

Miss Jocelyn Jones, John St., is visiting friends in Kitchener.

The Rev. C. T. Lewis, who is living retired in this city, delivered the sermon at the morning service in Christ Church on Sunday.

Ben Burley was home from Copper Cliff to spend the week-end.

Parliament was opened at Ottawa this afternoon with the speech from the throne was read in the Senate Chamber, by the Governor General Lord Tweedmuir.

Three and a half inches of snow fell during yesterday afternoon and last night. As a result householders were busy early this morning with shovels removing the snow from side walks before the police knocked at their door, with a summons which would probably result in a fine imposed for their neglect.

The fine residence of J. F. Chisholm on the south side of Dundas St. E. just east of the hospital, was destroyed by fire.

The Rev. A. H. Sanderson of Campbellford, formerly of this city, was a visitor in town today.

The attraction at Griffin's Theatre this evening will be the moving picture play "Hulda from Holland" with Mary Pickford as Hulda.

Last year Belleville citizens donated the sum of $20,000 to the Canadian Patriotic Association. It is expected that a greater sum will be given this year.

Strictly Personal
Liberty, Law and Order

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is a historical fact that, throughout the history of the world, the liberties of people have much more often been threatened by the forces of "law and order" than by criminals.

We easily forget this fact when we worry and complain about crime running rampant, and demand that more power be put into the hands of the various law-enforcement agencies.

And it is richly ironic that the very same people who are concerned about the growing influence of government over individual lives are the ones who are clamoring most loudly for increased police powers against criminal activity.

Yet the quickest way to get a police state is to give the police all the power they ask for. It would be much more worried about a police force that had too much power than about a criminal element that was perhaps hampered too greatly in its productivity, or earn the living standards which they imply. Canadians are plainly going to have to devote a growing share of their income to education. And develop attitudes at home and at work that actively encourage the acquisition of skills. If we fail to do these things, we shall become — or remain — a nation of second raters.

Fowler Raps U.S. Tax Plan

New York Times

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler has made it plain in recent days that he is unsympathetic to a head tax on Americans travelling abroad and to other attempts to discourage foreign travel. His position is the sound and decisive support.

It is true that if all Americans stayed at home the balance of payments deficit would disappear. But measures to discourage the movement of persons are as isolationist and backward as are tariffs on the movement of goods. A slow but positive approach is to encourage more Europeans to travel in this country, which the Government and the travel industry are now doing.

England's first state lottery was held 336 years ago today—in 1569—to raise money for the construction of harbors. Some 40,000 tickets were sold at 10 shillings each, then a large sum. Private lotteries were gradually suppressed over the years and the public lotteries lost favor, the last being held in 1826.

1883 — An earthquake killed 60,000 people in Cashmere.

1947 — Price controls on most goods and services in Canada except rents and food, were withdrawn.
